I counted what was left in my purse, approached a pirate and asked the rate to Toledo. I was advised that the regular rate for the 63-mile schedule was 27 berries. Oh, Boy—Anyhow I was at their mercy, I had to get home, and feeling that I must make one desperate effort before surrendering I stepped outside and asked another fellow on a different line, picking out one who was half asleep in his cab, believing maybe that he would quote me a lower figure before he realized what he was talking about and that I could snap up the bargain before he was fully awake. As I spoke to this sleeping beauty he awoke immediately and advised me that the rate was $27.00 to Toledo but that he would take me down for twenty. I immediately snapped him up and let it go at that, and it was an interesting trip, for the driver knew a lot that I didn't know and pointed out to me the various points of national interest in the way down, the principal one of which was Ecorse, that point down the river where the imports from Canada come in. As we passed by this point I noted a very large display of automobiles, mostly big, luxurious cars of divers makes, all indicating the evident prosperity of their owners. I suppose that these must belong to the wealthy class who cater to the wealthy class.

Anyhow, I have decided, that I had better not go to Los Angeles next year for if I should miss my train and have to take a Taxi home, I just know it would bust me flat.

PURELY PERSONAL.

Delf Norona, Charleston, West Virginia, again was the official stenographer, and his lambent eye lighted the path of the straggler who wrestled with his words as well as that of the veteran who spilled out his thoughts with machine-gun fire.

L. A. Davenport, Toronto, Canada, the well-known cosmopolitan whom we saw last in Bermuda, was present, looking for new worlds to conquer. His skilled eye can discern a double transfer Canada Beaver at a distance of four feet, and as for marketing, he always brings back a full basket.

Dr. T. Henry Tubman, Cleveland, Ohio, added to the joy of the occasion by bringing with him a lot of old letters with various postal markings that afforded his friends an excellent opportunity for browsing around. Dr. Tubman is still one of Cleveland's stalwarts and his interest in stamps stands him in good stead when the routine of the day jangles the bells a bit discordantly.

H. F. Rech, Chicago, and his confrere, C. S. Schliekert, of the same city, billed the auction sale as it progressed with practised pencils and little confusion. Mr. Rech could well have been chosen as auctioneer if the auction laws of "Dynamic Detroit" were not so explosive.

B. L. Drew, Boston, was an interested participant in the business of the day, and his presentation of Boston's attractions as a convention seat was about complete, although he might have said: "Come and browse around—the Boston Common is fine."

Edgar Nelton, Battle Creek, Michigan, was impressed by the manner in which covers were in demand, and we have no doubt but that his mind harked back for thirty years to the time when he was almost alone as a consistent collector of stamps on covers. Mr. Nelton, at times in the past, has led so active a philatelic life that we suppose that he deserves to take things calmly nowadays; yet we should not be surprised if his interest would flare up suddenly again.

Mr. W. C. Henry, Los Angeles, California, as spokesman for the Pacific Coast, had a few words to say and warmed up to his subject on any and all occasions. His flag was always in the breeze, and in the end it waved triumphantly. He says that Los Angeles will back up the promises of this year with performance next year.

Gustave de Lachasse, Avignon, France, came many miles to Detroit and made not a few new acquaintances while there. Mr. Lachasse brought with him an interesting lot of early French fiscal paper that has a great historical interest and also his recent U. S., especially precancelled.

Mr. George A. Bell, Grand Rapids, Michigan, was present as usual and attended to his knitting with his usual poise. His interest in stamps and the society could well be emulated by many of us.

Mr. Frank S. Barnes, Kalamazoo, Michigan, was busy on the committee on credentials, but yet was able to keep some of his plenteous store of stamps in circulation. He is a patient man; he is waiting returns, we understand, from last year's auction sale.

Mr. A. F. Merrell, San Francisco, California, at one time a resident of Chicago where he served as president of the Chicago Philatelic Society, came early to the convention and stayed late. Mr. Merrell found the convention something like a rest, as we suppose that as manager of a big hotel in his own city, he is in a constant hubbub. Mr. Merrell was one of the first collectors to devote himself particularly to the off-shoots of U. S. collecting and consequently he has a fine showing of items that have historic interest as well as philatelic.

Mr. J. M. Bartels, New York City, was elected president of the A. S. D. A., and while he does not take the chair until next year, he will go into it full-fledged. Mr. Bartels is about as sapient a stamp man as they make, and we bespeak a successful year both for the man and the society.

Mr. J. A. Galbraith, New York City, was able to add another button to his convention string, and there were some of his customers who had known him only by correspondence who were mighty glad to meet him in the flesh. Mr. Galbraith can surround himself with as pretty an assemblage of British Colonials as one could hope to see.

George W. Linn, Columbus, Ohio, disported himself at play, and buckled down to work when occasion required. He is an exponent of the strenuous philatelic life and could well adopt the motto of the detective agency, "We never sleep," as his own. He is as full of his pet subject, Sonora, as of yore, and he has a way of keeping current with the latest happenings in our world.

Fred Green, Ft. Sam Houston, Texas, has many a stamp story to relate and best of all, he illustrates them with simple little things, such as the Gonzales, Texas, and one or two unknown provisional Confederate possibilities. Many a gem he has rescued from dark, unfathomed caves and when it is necessary, he can do other acts of rescue as shown in his master-piece, "Saved by a Pair of Stamp Tongs." Eh, Fred?

Gordon H. Crouch, Toronto, says that the newly-formed philatelic society in his city is growing so lustily that it will not be long before it will be able to extend an invitation to the A. P. S. to hold a convention there. A convention waiting list is a sign of popularity and early applications are advisable from aspiring cities!

Otto F. Moses, Cleveland, Ohio, who as recorder of the Board of Vice-Presidents has lived in the midst of alarms for the past few years seemed happy enough to throw aside the cares of office and seek a sheltered nook far from the madding crowd. Even the judicial temperament gets off balance now and then when it comes to sizing up a philatelic impasse, as exemplified by "You did" and "I didn't."

Paul P. Murray, St. Louis, started in well but due to a touch of neuritis, he had to conserve his gestures, for he carried one arm in a sling. Mr. Murray had the sympathy of all, not alone because of the twinges that he felt but because he was handicapped in handling stamps.

Chas. K. B. Nevin, Boston, as ex-president of the Boston Philatelic Society, offered Boston as the next convention city and he arose to the occasion in an engaging way. If it were not that Los Angeles had in a way been promised the convention for 1925, there would have been a battle-royal and as east and west shall never meet, according to Kipling, St. Louis, in all likelihood would have brought home the bacon.

literature brought with him for the education of his friends a number of very rare examples of early philatelic prints of which we shall have to make mention later. Mr. King's library is one of the best in existence and he keeps closely touch with developments abroad in connection with his specialty. The work of France and Germany in this regard calls for attention and it certainly will not long before literature, particularly of the baby days of philately, will be in keen demand, in our own country.

A GREAT RARITY CHANGES HANDS.

A FINE UNUSED PAIR OF THE 12d BLACK CANADA GOES TO A NEW YORK COLLECTOR.

The following story taken from the Victoria, B. C. Daily Times gives some of the particulars of a transaction which has recently taken place and which will interest the whole philatelic world. We are not privileged to give the name of the New York collector who possesses the great rarity described herewith, but in naming a half-dozen New York collectors one would certainly hit upon the right person. In due season, the further information will be available. An illustration of the pair shows very wide margins, the two stamps coming from the lower left-hand corner of the sheet. Henry C. Hitt of Bremerton, Wash., through whose hands this rarity passed, calls it the "Walsh pair," and doubtless the identification of this party is only a matter of time. Certainly, U. S. collectors will be pleased to know that this fine rarity is to be the property of one of our own philatelists.—W. O. W.

One of the most remarkable philatelic discoveries of recent years has been made in Victoria lately. This is the transfer of a pair of the twelve penny black stamps of Canada. Originally issued on June 14, 1851. As many as 51,000 of the stamps were printed, but only 1,510 were delivered and sold by postmasters. The remainder were destroyed by the Government. In consequence of the small number of these stamps that were used for postage, very few of them survived for collectors, and they are classed today as among the world's stamp rarities.

These stamps were brought into the office of Ronald M. Angus, of Victoria, an authority on British Colonial stamps, and one of the best known British Columbia collectors, some weeks ago. He recognized in them stamps similar to those which were formerly owned by Count de la Renotiere Ferrari and which were valued at $4,000. It was an up-island resident who submitted the stamps but who wishes to remain anonymous. The owner had them in his possession since 1851. He made the request that Mr. Angus should sell them for him, and the latter has just completed negotiations for the sale of the stamps to a well known millionaire collector in New York, for a sum running into several thousand dollars.

IN EXCELLENT CONDITION.

They are without question the finest pair that the critical connoisseur could wish as they are cut from the bottom left hand corner of the sheet and have the full sheet margin on two sides. They have also the original gum upon them, a condition in which these old stamps are rarely found, and are as immaculate as upon the day they were sold, having lain in the cool recesses of a safety deposit vault practically since the day they were issued, Mr. Angus states to The Times.

FAMOUS FERRARI COLLECTION.

Only one pair in an unused condition had hitherto been discovered, and this pair was for many years in the collection of Count de la Renotiere Ferrari. Count Ferrari left his collection to the Berlin Museum, but dying in Paris during the war, his collection was seized by the French Government as enemy property and is being dispersed in a series of sales that have already realized over half a million dollars. Count Ferrari's pair of the 12d black Canada realized the sum of 38,000 francs at the May sale of 1922, or approximately $4,000 at the then current rate of exchange.

THE PORTRAIT.

Mr. Angus states that in 1851 the silver shilling had a different value in New England, New York and Upper and Lower Canada. Hence to avoid confusion the stamps were designated "twelve pence," the copper penny being standard in all these provinces. The head of Queen Victoria depicted upon the stamps is from a full length painting by Alfred Edward Chalon, R.A., which picture was ordered to be painted by Her Majesty as a souvenir for her mother of Her Majesty's first visit as Queen to the House of Lords.

THE FINALITY—SPECIALIZATION.

By WARNER BATES.

Whoever it was recently expressed the opinion that the day of the intensive student of philately is gone had better go out, get acquainted with the collectors of his city or state and find out just how far wrong his guess was.

Why, the day of the intensive student of philately is just arriving.

Only last week a boy of twelve or thirteen years came to my office accompanied by his mother. They live somewhere out in Oklahoma and happening to be in Buffalo the young chap came to pay me the honor of a visit. A few words convinced me that he was already an intensive student of stamps and that he knew what he was talking about. He started like all boys do, with a general collection, but the task became so great that he began to cut down. And, as he read articles on specialization in the stamp papers, he grew to like more and more his United States collection which had grown to considerable proportions through his falling heir to a stamp collection that had been in the family. So he sold one country after another until today he has practically nothing left but a large and growing specialized collection of United States.

And interested—say, that boy was intensely interested in the subject and knew lots about it in spite of his immature years. It happened that I had a few sheets from my own collection in the safe and was able to show him one of the shifted transfers, a damaged plate, stitch watermark and a few other interesting items on the three cent green of the issues of 1870-71. He examined these things and questioned me most intelligently; and I'll wager a double grill against a Salvador Seebeck that within a few months this lad will have acquired some of these items for his own collection.

Last summer an old-time collector from somewhere down state came to Buffalo and asked to see my collection of the Three Cent Green. I spent the better part of a Sunday afternoon with him and he expressed no little wonder that so many varieties of a single stamp could be gathered. He was a general collector and the owner of some 20,000 or 30,000 varieties—I've really forgotten which. During the winter I had a letter from him saying that he had started building up a specialized collection of the one cent blue, the two cent brown Jack and some other low values of the issues between 1870 and 1882, and that he was so interested in the subject that he had done practically nothing with his general collection since.

In my files there are literally hundreds of letters from collectors in all parts of the country who are graduating out of the general collector stage into that of specialization. Off and on throughout the year dozens of collectors from various parts of the country who happen to be in Buffalo drop in at the office to talk over this fascinating phase of philately. From my personal knowledge, I can say that at least one-third of all Buffalo collectors are today specializing in some one or more individual stamps, United States, Canada and other countries. And most of these have become specialists within the past two or three years.

Does all this point to the fact that the day of the intensive student of stamps is passing? Not in my opinion. And in citing these examples I have only touched a few high spots, or rather just a few examples that come to my mind as I write this article. Many other examples come crowding to my mind to prove the point that specializing is still in a lusty infancy and growing rapidly. But I will not give further instances. Rather let's consider the psychological aspects of the proposition.

In my own case, I was a general collector a dozen years or more. In the early days of my collecting I was well enough satisfied with a general collection and got plenty of fun out of it. About 1920 I first began to dabble a bit with specialization. Yet today, four years later, my entire collection which now occupies some five Ne Plus Ultra albums, is composed of a single stamp—the Three Cent Green. And I am getting more fun out of my collection today than ever was the case before. I cannot believe that mine is an exceptional case. With me it has been a perfectly natural development. And others that I know have changed their conception of collecting in the same way. What were the reasons?

In the first place, when I began my general collecting fifteen or sixteen years ago a collection of 10,000 varieties was considered large. The fellow who got together two thousand or three thousand varieties had a fairly large showing. Today 10,000 is quite an ordinary general collection. Dealers offer for sale collections of 20,000, 22,000 and even 25,000 varieties! Apparently there is almost no end to the possible size of a general collection.

The average collector hasn't any too much time to devote to his stamps and gathering and mounting a collection of 10,000 or 15,000 stamps is a task of great magnitude, especially inasmuch as the average collector mounts and remounts his collection three or four times before he is satisfied. Also, the average fellow builds up part of his collection at least through exchanging duplicates and there is a tremendous lot of work involved in

Another element is the cost of thing. Even with the cheaper stamps every set a collection of such magnitude begins to run into big money. There are thousands of collectors whose purses are so limited that, as general collectors they can never hope to get together more than a mediocre showing. And when they have gone to the limit of their ability spend and accumulate they still have a collection that is just like thousands of other collections the country over—small general collection is usually a duplicate of thousands of other small general collections that dealers have offered to them each year—no wonder dealers are not anxious to purchase such collections when they come onto the market and make offers so low that the collector is offended and forthwith with ter to his favorite stamp paper tell how badly he has been treated by the lers.

he point I wish to make is that the eral collector of today, unless he falls luck or has thousands and thousands dollars to spend on his stamps, has a chance to do anything in philately will individualize his collection—e it different from the ordinary run. ut the specialist, even with a limited ay of money, can in a few years d up a collection that almost any er will be happy to buy and usually uch bigger price than the original to the collector. Why is this?

ply because the specialist soon comes now so much about one stamp or a stamps or a few countries that he ble to buy more wisely than the chap knows nothing more than a general logue can tell him. Knowledge

WHAT ABOUT YOUR SURPLUS ?

Almost every collector of stamps has some more or less superfluous items; things that do not fit into his collecting scheme. A few items on cover, when he does not collect covers and has no way to mount them with his other stamps; or an occasional block or strip for which he finds no particular place. Others, in buying collections, acquire good things they have no particular use for.

Why not clear out these odds and ends? Send them to us with your best spot cash price, and we will remit or return your stamps at once. Or, if you wish merely to improve your collection, give us a list of the things you are looking for.

Ours is one of the soundest stocks of the general issues of United States stamps in existence, built up piecemeal by years of careful buying of good things, fine stamps, interesting cancellations, covers, combinations. If you do want to make a "switch" you may feel every confidence your want list will be reduced soon after we see it.

While we specialize in 19th Century U. S., we also hold a fine lot of early foreign stamps such as British North America, Holland, France, Great Britain, Italian States, German States, etc. Let's get together.

J. O. MOORE, Inc. Hammondsport, N. Y.

counts as in every other business or pastime. An intensive search after all the possible varieties of a certain stamp will invariably lead the collector, if he is intelligent and persevering, to some real rarities and often these are obtained at the price of an ordinary copy. And such a collector often goes over thousand lots of his favorite stamps with all the thrills that Christopher Columbus felt when he came adventuring over the Atlantic Ocean 430 odd years ago.

Watch the auction catalogues and see what happens when a specialized collection goes on the market compared with the auction sale of a general collection. Do the specialized items sell for one-third or one-half catalogue when in fine condition. Not by a tinpailful! Choice items of the three cent 1851, which catalogues fifteen cents, the three cent green, cataloguing from one cent to eight, or the two cent 1883, cataloguing one cent, bring a dollar, five dollars, ten, twenty, thirty-five and up.

But over and above all these things is the satisfaction that the specialist has of knowing his stamps. He soon becomes more or less of an authority and others, not so well versed, begin to lean on his opinion. Best of all, however, is the inward pleasure that comes from real knowledge of any subject. It is a thing that words cannot describe—you have to experience it to know just what I mean.

Please don't think that I am condemning offhand the pastime of general collecting. I am not. Every specialist ought to start as a general collector. And undoubtedly there will always be a percentage of collectors who would never be happy except as general collectors. General collecting will always be with us, I believe, and more power to the general collector.

But out of the hundreds of thousands of stamp collectors in the world there are today tens of thousands who have that particular type of mind which is happiest in doing some one thing unusually well and this class of collector is bringing specialization to the fore.

Specialization has been brought about because of the ever-increasing number of possible varieties that a general collector must acquire, because of the pleasure and value of philatelic study, because of the possibilities of acquiring sounder investment values through specialization and various other reasons. It is here to stay. Not only that, but it will be one of the main phases of stamp collecting within a very few years.

Perhaps there will not be many who, like myself, will devote all of their stamp-collecting energies to a single stamp but there are and will be thousands who will cut down their activities to a few preferred countries, a single country, a few issues of a single country, or a single issue of stamps and all of these are specialists.

BOSTON AIRPORT POST-OFFICE

(The following clipping from the Boston Post contains an item of news that will be read with interest. It describes special stamps and a special cancellation that were issued in connection with the World Flight. The world aviators reached Boston Saturday, Sept. 6, and late in that day a branch post office was opened on the flying field and mail received to be taken to New York the following day. We have no information as to how much mail was despatched, nor have we seen any of the stamps or the cancellation used upon the occasion. We await developments.—W. O. W.)

A special branch post-office selling special "World Flight" stamps and stationery, was established in a tent on the flying field yesterday.

Cards and letters mailed there will be taken by airplane to New York early today.

Every piece of mail so handled will have its stamp cancelled with a special cancellation machine, printing the following phrases:

"Boston Airport Station, Boston. First Landing of United States World Fliers. Boston, Mass., Airport Station."

This cancellation will be used only on this occasion. Letters bearing its mark will be eagerly sought as souvenirs, according to collectors.

Of similar interest are the "World Flight" stamps, green for 1 cent and red for 2 cents, bearing the picture of an airplane on their face. Postal authorities say that these stamps will be used only in connection with the present flight and will then be officially out of issue.

To speed the delivery of the airport mail, two army aviators were specially sworn into the postal service yesterday. They are Lieutenant Ronald A. Hicks and Captain Walter H. Welles. It was intended that they should take their first load of mail to New York by air that night, but they were delayed by the same unfavorable weather conditions which halted the world flight. They will, however, hop off for New York immediately after the arrival of the world fliers today.

The airport branch of the post-office was under the direction of G. F. Ruggles, assistant superintendent of the mails. Facilities were provided for letter writing on the spot. Clerks from Boston post-office were in charge of stamp sales.

THE FORUM.

By H. P. ATHERTON,
 318 Main St., Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to 19th century United States postage stamps; Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

Dear Reader of the Forum,

You perhaps want to know a bit about the "new man" who is carrying on this column. To be brief, I was born in Massachusetts, educated somewhat in New York, and brought up in Virginia. Subscribed to MEKEEL'S WEEKLY at about the time our Columbian Issue was dimming the splendor of those beautiful Seebecks.

Why the Manager of this paper singled me out to carry on this column is a puzzle to me. I have always read this column from a to z, as the oddities of our own stamps interest me greatly. I have saved odd things since about 1900, maybe this became bruited about, and they thought this chap might do, so took the chance and wrote me. In advertising parlance, I've got to sell you this column, and never having written ads for shaving cream, indestructible silk socks, or any of those things, places me out of my element for the moment. Co-operation will do it. This "Forum" is all yours. Let's show the owners of this paper that we appreciate their courtesy in allowing us the use of this space. Send on some of your cherished bits, something unusual, together with its history, something you know your philatelic neighbor would enjoy seeing, if you can't show anything unusual, ask questions—do something.

Times have changed a lot since the 90s. Straight edges, creases, pen cancels, and thin spots never worried us especially, the stamps with corners missing were tough traders. Plenty of mucilage was sold for mounting stamps into albums. Someone put out perforated hinges, about the size of that little half penny rose Victoria. Thick white porous paper, perf. 11, I'd call them. They would curl in a jiffy if you unrolled a sheet, and forgot to lay your Geography on them. The flavor was exceedingly unpleasant, for example, if you like peppermint, and do not like wintergreen, these would always be the wintergreen—a mild smile, and the taste as with eggs, deteriorated with age. Specializing was unknown. If a duplicate arrived, it was an eligible trader, going the rounds, accumulating its hinges till it got quite a hump on the back—some folks call them "Camels".

Today specializing enters into everything. The old "Doctor, Lawyer, Merchant, Chief"—or is it Thief—seem but childish appellations for Osteopathist, Consulting Attorney, Haberdasher and the like. When a collector of today corrals one of each of the United States Postage Stamps within his means, he often turns to Specializing. This may be confined to a single likable stamp, maybe an issue of a certain period, perhaps used blocks, maybe covers or cancellations,—anything that pleases his fancy, and among these lines of specializing may be found the answer to why philately is fascinating. Specialists know exactly what they want, they quietly annex all of the material possible, then they study all known works on the subject, if there be such, and now their fun really begins, for they learn which are the actual rarities. They sit back and wave a hand at a page nonchalantly, and remark, "That stuff is hard to get." When they have completed their own study sufficiently, you are the one who benefits from the little brochure on this subject ably and entertainingly presented.

The object of the "Forum" is to discuss and portray the divers and interesting features of the Early Postage Stamps of our own country. Many questions may arise which may not be answered. Questions of values often enter a collector's experiences. Many a time he murmurs under his breath, "I guess I paid too much for that; but it is so pretty I took it." You've probably done just that—what? And if you bought it, say in 1913, are you glad of it now? My guess is yes right out loud.

As you well know, all values are comparative. The "Scott Specialized" is a remarkable work on values. Suppose you specialize on No. 9999—you will soon learn that the dark shade on the thick paper is about 14 times as hard to find as the normal stamp. When you see another such going by at the regular price, you will probably help the owner "out" by taking it, then you become a specialist sure nuf. Even the boys specialize. One boy told me, quite confidentially, that he was specializing in Liberia, he had secured every different stamp of that country that he could find at not over 5c each, and pretty soon he was going to specialize still further by raising this limit to 10c each. There are all kinds of specialists.

Values are intangible, erratic, ungovernable for the most part. They do not seem to be based on "supply and demand" if you'll pardon that overworked expression. Frequently in selections there is an indefinable something about a certain item that captures the beholder, while its drab counterparts stick stolidly to the page without any takers. The item with the charm is hastily removed to grace our collection. It may be the perfect condition, the extra rich coloring, the neat cancellation; it is something that

Just A Moment Of Your Time Please

I like to deal with busy men, because they are usually good business men. What I want to say is this: I have just arranged a wonderful series of approval cards, of early U. S. from 1847 to 1873, of fancy and beautiful cancellations, prices according to centering, cancellation and rarity, with the help of Scott's Specialized Catalog of U. S.

If you really like superb material in old U. S. and are willing to pay for selected items, I am ready to talk business. State requirements and limitations, and furnish satisfactory reference, and I can show you $100 worth or $10,000 worth of Fine lot of Covers, too.

Address as usual, appeals to you far beyond the normal. Suppose you were born in the small town of Stampic, this copy is postmarked Stampic—the only one you ever saw. It's sold, and to you. How can we arrive at values in a condition like this? What knows? Not I. If you ask me about values, you may have an answer referring to this very paragraph, in way of reply.

Some say, "Auctions govern prices." Maybe so. You know this Kicking Mul on the 3c Green. It has no fixed value. You'd be surprised if you had a record of the high and the low prices it has fetched in Auctions this past winter season. So with many other items. When comes to values get out your Scott's Specialized. It may be interesting, note that this little book has a big influence on collectors, and dealers abroad. I'm told that in France if one demure asks "Monsieur, if you please, kind give to me the price of this 24 c 1869?" somehow omitting to remark "red N Y Transit mark beautifully settling over the charming tout ensemble," says, "Ou la la! but it is of the rou obliteration, unmoment till I consult with the Petit Scott!" Yes, they are specializing.

Cancellations interest most U. S. Specialists. How about sending in some of your clean cut and unusual varieties none of the "maybe a dog, maybe a cat or is it a butterfly" stuff. "May bees" call those. They do not reproduce well. Rates are very interesting and confusing they require much study, especially the Foreign Rates. Grills interest many "Shifts", or Double Transfers are great fun if you enjoy minute details. Crack Plates too—and that's odd, for in other forms of collecting they are taboo. Nobody would care to rise and remark in their collection of "Willow Ware" contained a beautiful cracked Platter, much likely "Sh-h-h, it's only a wee nick." Yet damaged plates enhance the value of stamps! There's nothing like Stamp Collecting and it's ramifications.

The "Forum" is all yours. Please make use of it.

NEWS GLEANINGS.
—We regret to have to announce the death of the wife of A. Hippchen, one of Chicago's dealers who passed away August 31, 1924. Mr. Hippchen has the sympathy of a host of friends in his great bereavement.
—Mr. Theodore Siddall of Shanghai, China, says that he will issue a catalogue of the Chinese treaty port stamps if a sufficient number of collectors will say at they are interested in having such a catalogue. We suppose that if he succeeds in getting a hundred prospects he will proceed to issue the catalogue. In order to help a good thing along we shall be willing to send the names of any collectors who write in favor of the project, to Mr. Siddall.
—Mr. Wm. Forpenak, Chicago, shows a sheet of the 3c off-set 1917-1919 United States, plate 9079, with an extra wide margin at right. This sheet of one hundred stamps is a real curiosity cause in reality it shows but 90 stamps and a small slice each of the other ten stamps. The sheet could not have been made unofficially from an imperforate sheet; and it happens that the oddity under notice was returned to the central accounting station from an outside office on account of being an "incomplete" sheet.
—The Foreman Trust & Savings Bank, Chicago, has an exhibit in one of its windows of a frame of stamps that are described as showing the different stamps that paid the U. S. domestic postal rate from the beginning, and sure enough all the stamps are shown beginning with the 5c of 1847 on through the stamps of the current issue. We notice however that the 3c imperforate of 1851 is missing and that for good measure the vermilion of 1887 is thrown in. However, the display is a most attractive one and catches the eye of many a passer-by, and the institution is entitled to credit for its alertness in using stamps effectively on an advertising basis.
—Thomas D. Perry of Grand Rapids, Mich., sends us a clipping from the Herald dated August 30 in which a stamp story dealing with a dinner given by local stamp collectors at the University Clubrooms in the Hotel Panted for James K. Doughty of Lamar, Mo., a veteran collector of United States stamps. Mr. Doughty confessed sixty years "mad pursuit of old, rare and freak stamps," while Mr. Perry himself unblushingly boasted of forty years' stamp collecting along similar lines. Mr. Doughty exhibited a part of his collection and Mr. Perry also exhibited a fine collection of stamped envelopes, including a large assortment of old Wells Fargo envelopes. About twenty collectors were present at the dinner and while there is no stamp club in Grand Rapids it is likely that one will soon be organized.
—Robin Lampson of the Fellowship Stamp Agency, Mountain View, Calif., recently invited the stamp collectors of

—We have received from G. F. Rapkin, 151 Goswell Road, London, Eng., a very elaborate retail and wholesale pricelist. It is printed in three languages, English, French and German, and covers a wide range of supplies. Indeed, Mr. Rapkin advertises himself as the "Universal Provider of Philatelic Accessories." The catalog is printed in colors, has 48 pages with cover, and is very freely illustrated. A copy may be had upon application.
—Your readers might be interested to know that the Canal Zone officials send in good condition fine well centered copies of the New Canal Zone stamps on U. S. Postage and registration fee is required. H. B. Cooper, Balboa Heights, C. Z., is postmaster.—CLINTON L. CHALFANT.
—The Buckey Stamp Co., Dayton, Ohio, would like the present address of L. Leonhard, Box 416, Ardmore, Okla.
—From Mr. William Jerrems, Jr., Kansas City, Mo., we receive the following clipping from the Christian Science Monitor with the heading that the Indian Government is to print its own stamps.
"BOMBAY, July 1 (Special Correspondence)—Hundreds of tons of postage and revenue stamps are imported into India annually. Besides these there are also imported large quantities of currency notes. The Government of India have long been considering the feasibility and desirability of printing these stamps and papers in India, possibly on Indian paper. Printing offices in India have investigated the possibilities of the matter and the Government has had special inquiries made by experts in it. A decision has now been reached to undertake the work in a new Government press.

Printing of the character required for postage stamps involves special difficulties in India, arising mainly from climatic peculiarities. Nasik, a hilly place in the Bombay Presidency, noted for its equitable climate, has now been chosen and a new printing press is to be established there. A building for the press is to be commenced at once and the machinery will be imported as soon as there is a place ready for it. It is expected the press will be in working order by the autumn of 1925."
—"I heard yesterday from Mr. C. F. Richards, New York, who had seen the article regarding that old letter from San Francisco, in 1850, that I sent you for inspection. You may remember it had no stamp but '40c' on the red post-mark, and was addressed to 'Carmel, N. Y.' Mr. Richards is a 'Putnam County boy,' as he says in his letter, and wanted to know who was the addressor or addressee as he might know the family, Carmel being the county seat of Putnam County. Of course I wrote him saying it was from Oliver Ludington to his uncle, I think, Lewis Ludington, my grandmother's father. But why I write you all this is to show that even the small articles are read in MEKEEL'S. And that correspondence of this kind between people interested in philately is both interesting and for the better knowledge of both and the good of the game generally. Even by letter one gets better acquainted with his 'philatelic neighbors'."—R. L. HUSTIS.
—The Society of Philatelic Americans organized Cincinnati local branch No. 2, Sept. 1, 1924, by taking over the membership of the Universal Stamp Alliance. Dr. L. G. Tedische was elected President; Nick Imfeld, Sec'y and Treas.; B. S. Daniels, A. E. Hussey, L. G. Tedische a committee on membership. Regular monthly meeting will be held the third Tuesday of each month. The sole purpose of Cincinnati Local No. 2, is the buying, selling and trading in stamps. Auctions will also be held each month.—A. E. HUSSEY, M.D.

—Mr. Robert C. Munroe, Springfield, Massachusetts, was a visitor to Chicago recently and made a few welcome calls on his friends, who enjoyed talking to him about his covers which are so well remembered by those who have had the privilege of seeing them. Mr. Munroe adds to his store as occasion offers, it is needless to say.
—Though the new edition of the British Empire "Gibbons" has been very thoroughly revised, the publishers are able to announce a welcome reduction in the price, which is now 6s6d (net), postage extra. This volume will definitely be published on September 30th. Apart from many important price alterations, and the usual careful revision, a number of lists have been re-written. Australian Commonwealth has been improved, Bahamas has been entirely re-written, the lists of New Zealand, first type, have been arranged in more correct chronological order, and Rhodesia has been considerably added to. Straits Settlements has been rewritten on the lines of a study by Mr. E. D. Bacon, C.V.O., which appeared in the London Philatelist. The Tasmanian pictorials are now more correctly listed; Trans-Jordan has had full justice done to its complicated but interesting issues; and Victoria now includes full lists of stamps on the three different types "V and Crown" paper, while the list of the "Emblems" type has been re-arranged. Careful attention has been given to Modern Colonials and a new system of notifying the various coloured papers has been adopted.
—LONDON, Sept. 1.—During the turning over of old documents in the Record Office here, a batch of New South Wales postage stamps of the 1855 issue was discovered. Collectors value them at $4,500. The stamps were attached to a report sent to the colonial secretary by the governor of New South Wales.

EDITORIAL.

In a recent "Roosevelt Number" of Haldeman-Julius' "Life and Letters", a critical survey of this historical figure is made, and we learn, although not for the first time, that as a boy Roosevelt possessed the collecting instinct; and that the range of his favor embraced stamps among the objects of collection. On the basis of scattered bits of information that have come to us from various sources over a period of years, we believe that Roosevelt never lost his liking for stamps and though he was not known to have interested himself in a collecting sense during his public life, yet under different conditions we believe that he would have collected stamps in his later years. We do know that he had philately in mind and that when Mr. C. J. Phillips, then of London, was a caller at the White House, when Roosevelt was president, he spoke to Mr. Phillips about philately with a certainty which showed the subject was no stranger to him. Surely the little boy Roosevelt who collected stamps never thought in his flights of imagination that something over a half century later his features would be on one of our postage stamps.

As for President Harding, it is not known that he ever collected stamps, but he was well aware that others did, and an interesting example of his habitual kindness was shown in Mr. Richards' account of an interview with W. H. Schaffner, Marion, Ohio, in the Detroit Free Press. We quote: "Schaffner never interested the president in collecting stamps himself, but his collection is replete with correspondence from Mr. Harding. Whenever the president, when a member of the Senate, went to foreign lands, he always bought some stamps, stuck them on an envelope and sent them to Schaffner." As for President Coolidge, we are sure that he knows much about philately and some day we may be able to give particulars to support our belief. Somewhat over a year ago the WEEKLY had the following editorial: "The Hon. Charles E. Hatfield, of the Scott Stamp and Coin Co., who formerly was chairman of the Massachusetts Republican State Committee, was the first man to enter the office of President Coolidge, and in greeting his old friend the president said, 'Charley, how is your stamp business? Ours is fine.'"

We notice that the Associated Press has announced that Hungary has lifted its embargo on stamps and stamp collections. It is significant that this large news distributing bureau recognizes philately in so direct a manner. We have not been informed as to just what the restrictions were in reference to the restrictions placed on the exportation and importation of collections into Hungary, but at any rate, an improvement in condition is shown.

Mr. L. P. McLouth of Chicago has returned from an interesting trip through Great Britain and a good part of the continent, and in an interview he gives us much recent gossip on conditions as he found them abroad. He says that he was received courteously by the stamp dealer folks of Great Britain, and on the whole he has nothing but appreciative words for the dealers in other parts of Europe. Through his connections, Mr. McLouth had the opportunity to see some rather interesting collections, and he had one of the first views of the great Waterhouse collection that Mr. Godden is to sell; and his comments on it are indeed of a kind to fascinate readers. He promises for next week's issue an article on the subject of Sir Nicholas' impressive lot of United States, and so we shall not trespass on his of these. Taken all in all, unless one makes a special effort he must be fortunate to get a really good item." Mr. Knapp will sail for home on the Berengaria, on September 13, and when he becomes settled we hope to have an article from him that will be of particular interest.

Anyone who is interested in philately in a professional sense is in a position to feel that there is a wave of public interest in stamps that has never been known before. We are getting some what tired ourselves of the constant harping on the one string of publicity but knowing that the future success of our pursuit is partly dependent on the publicity that it receives, we feel that it is a duty to record the ebb and flow of the interest of the man on the street in stamps. It is not often that high philatelic temperature is registered in a public sense just as summer is ended, and that the eagerness of the outsider to hear and learn about philately is shown just at the time when collectors themselves are finding their interest renewed so, without trying to conjure up a too sentimental picture we may be allowed to say that it is a pleasant sight to see the experienced collector taking hold of the hand of the member of the inferior class and leading him slowly and carefully up the philatelic hill. We believe that this curiosity shown by the public on the eve of a philatelic season will develop into a more beneficial effect upon philately than it would if it came at the height of the season.

For some time past Maywood, Illinois envelopes bearing the air mail "winged cancellation as well as a sort of "clock face" postmark on the stamp have been circulated about, and recently there was some question as to the authenticity of these covers as air-mail varieties. In consequence, the following letter was ad-

We have received a notice from the Colombian government bureau of information to the effect that the Republic of Colombia is the first nation in the world to connect all principal commercial centers by air mail. We read that "Air mails in Colombia now extend 1,104 miles, but figures of distance mean comparatively little until savings in time are considered. Six seaplanes following the tortuous course of the Magdalena River, and three landplanes vaulting the mountain ranges, reduce communication to hours as contrasted with days, and even weeks, by shallow draft steamer, railway or pack-team."

A letter from an official of the United States agents for the Sociedad Colombiana Alemana de Transportes Aereos, says that the establishment of the night flight transcontinental air mail in America has enabled exporters to save as much as three days on steamers to South America. There are some bits of information in the communication referred to that we shall try to make provision for in an early issue, but it is to be said that proof is at hand that the enterprise of Colombia in the air is certainly advanced.

choice of the convention site, and the second governing the issuance of the P. S. yearbook, were recommended to the new Board of Directors for their action. After giving Dr. H. A. Davis and the Detroit collectors a rising vote of thanks, the convention adjourned sine die.

Several very interesting collections were exhibited by prominent precancel collectors. Howard S. Wheeler of Boston, known the world over for his famous collection of Victory, Pilgrim and Aeroplane precancels, exhibited his collection. His Nogales, Ariz., pilgrim set was the center of attraction. This set was inspected by the Postmaster-General of the United States, at the Washington Convention last year, and was pronounced by him to be one of the most interesting philatelic specimen that he had ever viewed. Other collections exhibited were Judge J. K. Doughty's collection of specialized parcel post precancels, C. C. Crasper's collection of Chicago dates, V. W. Rotnem's Boston and Philadelphia collections and Roy C. Frank's collection of the early bar precancels, showing the development of precancel types.

London, Paris, Brussels, Berlin, Etc.

I contemplate attending the auction sale of the United States collection of Sir Nicholas Waterhouse, to be held in London during the week of November 17th. It is possibly the finest collection of classic United States issues that has come upon the market in recent years. No doubt the larger portion of this wonderful assortment will come to America. I will be glad to act in behalf of my clients in the purchasing of those lots of interest to them.

From London I expect to go to Paris, Brussels, Antwerp and other nearby philatelic centers, and if my time permits, possibly Berlin, Vienna and Rome. I solicit correspondence from dealers and collectors in these centers having fine United States and Confederate stamps that they desire to exchange for United States gold dollars.

Boston-Philadelphia Air Mail.

The Philadelphia Bulletin for September 2nd carries a notice of an air mail service between Boston and Philadelphia, which comes as a surprise, as there had been no previous notice from the Post Office either through their daily "Postal Bulletin" or their Information Service. I quote the bulletin clipping in full:

"Letter to Bulletin Arrives by Specially Established Route.

A letter carried by a specially established air mail route from the Airport in Boston, the landing place of the three world circling Army planes, addressed to The Bulletin, reached this city today.

It was the first time the general public has ever had the opportunity to send air-mail to this city from Boston. A special cancellation stamp, which had been made by the Post-office authorities for use only yesterday, was printed over the stamp. It read, 'Boston, First Landing in the U. S. of the World Fliers.'

The letter was carried in a plane piloted by Lieutenant R. A. Hicks, Army Air Service, of Mitchel Field, who was sworn by Postmaster-General Harry S. New as an air mail pilot for yesterday only. The postage required was eight cents, and a regular green air mail stamp with a winged radiator was used."

While speaking of the air mail service, it will be interesting to note that under date of September 4th, the Third Assistant Postmaster-General, Mr. W. Irving Glover, advised postmasters throughout the country that official mail in penalty or franked envelopes is not to be dispatched by air mail unless the regular postage for air mail is prepaid thereon.

The postmaster of New York City has applied to the Postmaster-General for ten additional special red, white and blue air mail boxes for Manhattan and the Bronx. In submitting his request to the Post Office Department, Postmaster Morgan pointed out that the character of the mail received at his office for transportation by air mail across the continent has changed greatly since the inauguration of the service on July 1st last.

At first there were heavy collections of what the Postmaster designated as "curiosity or souvenir mail", and this he states has gradually diminished and as the usefulness of the service becomes more generally known, patronage is extending among the corporations, organizations and institutions carrying on nation wide activity from New York headquarters.

In asking for more mail boxes, he advises that the area covered by his office is so great and distinct business centers have so increased in number and importance, that it is necessary and proper to extend this special service to all parts of the city. Of the eleven air mail boxes now set up in New York, the one receiving the heaviest patronage is that at Broadway and Wall, indicating that the financial district is keenly interested in the service and is using it. Banks and brokerage houses are said to be heavy patrons of this special coast to coast service.

Mr. Gustave M. Meyer has shown me covers mailed on the first day of the transcontinental air mail service posted at Mineola, the New York field from which the airplanes started on their westward trip, and these bear special field cancellations in addition to the rectangular cancellation, indicating first day service.

Insured and C. O. D. Service Extended to Third-Class Mail.

Heretofore, it has only been possible to send fourth-class or parcel post mail on a C. O. D. or insured basis. The postal laws and regulations were recently amended effective July 1st, authorizing domestic third-class mail on a C. O. D. or insured basis where desired. This applies to mail when addressed to post-offices in the continental United States and Island possessions and territory thereof. This will prove quite a convenience to photographers, lithographers and others, who send third-class matter through the mails.

This class of mail may, however, continue to be registered upon payment of a fee of ten cents, and indemnity paid for the actual amount of loss sustained up to $25.00. This special service does not apply to Canada, as the insurance to that country is as yet limited to fourth-class or parcel post.

Stamps on Various Sizes of Paper.

Dr. Stephen G. Rich has written me quite an extensive letter supplemented by an exhibit of the 2c green, issue of 1887, wherein the Doctor calls attention to the varying sizes of the stamps. He does not refer to the engraving, but to the whole piece of paper between the

THE PRECANCEL REVIEW.

Edited by FRED'K W. ALLEN, 112 Walnut St., Minneapolis, Minn.

New Issue Notes—Duluth, Minn., has precancelled the 1, 2, 5 cent Huguenot-alloon series with its standard electrotype plate. Huntington, West Virginia, has been noted on the 2 cent value. The printed varieties are quite scarce and could be good property.

Harding precancels have about run their race, as few new items are appearing. The demand is still strong for this stamp and now that the rush is over, the printing out process will bring to light the true scarcity and value of many issues.

Small Towns—Mr. W. C. Black who has had charge of compiling population statistics which will be a feature of the 1925 Standard Precancel Catalogue, submits an interesting list. It is composed of the ten smallest towns which have had precancelled stamps of recognizable character. A discussion of their issues will, it is hoped, prove of interest to readers of this department.

Minnewaska, N. Y.—Population 30. Perhaps in 1905 when this hamlet overprinted the 1 cent 1902 series with a broad horizontal bar, 5mm wide, it was a good sized village. It is the sole variety on record from this place. A glance at the 1900 census might tell another story, but thirty stands today as the population of Minnewaska.

Keating, Ore.—Population 68. Have on the 6, 8, 10 cent values of the 1917 series precancels with the U-8 handstamp. They are genuine without a doubt.

Willoughby, Vt.—Population 81. Bushnell lists a 5 cent Perf. 10 with an overprint described as "WILLOUGHBY-VERMONT" in two lines of small block letters between thick bars 11mm apart. If this item is a genuine precancel it is worth ten times the catalog price of 15 cents.

Hibernia, N. Y.—Population 86. About 1900 there was used a type composed of series of vertical lines 1/2mm wide and 9mm apart, crossed by diagonal lines running down to the right and producing a rough looking "N." This may be found on the 1 cent 1894-95, and 1898 issues. Such varieties come under the general head of "Bar Precancels."

Fricks, Pa.—Population 110. The 1 cent 1902 with a bold printed cancellation is worth several dollars, for it is seldom seen nowadays. The type is capitals, 4mm high, between lines 16mm apart. However, it was made in a peculiar way. After the stamps were affixed to envelopes they were press printed or precancelled before being used. The point is raised—are they real precancels? In my opinion, they are in the liberal sense of the word.

Whitaker, Mich.—Population 110. One of the most interesting sets of "Bar Precancels" comes from here. It shows a gridiron style of precancellation, composed of thick crossed lines 1 1/2mm wide and forming hollow squares 4 1/2 to 5mm in diameter. Nine to twelve squares show on each stamp. The 1 cent Panama-Pacific is one of the scarce ones from this little Michigan village.

North Acton, Mass.—Population 112. What factory is located here I cannot say, but precancels are currently used. They are handstamped productions, which are fairly good property. I have the 3 cent Victory and 1 cent offset in my collection.

Calla, Ohio—Population 115. Early in the century, Calla used a large quantity of precancels. Three styles of overprints are to be had, two of which are handstamped. The latter were used before 1900 in only a limited way. Type III is an electrotype plate which is composed of 100 subjects, reading "CALLA, OHIO" in two lines of plain capitals with a line between. The stamps overprinted by this plate were as follows: 3 cent 1895, 1 and 2 cent 1898, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 cent 1902, 2 cent 1903, and 1 and 2 cent 1908. While they are getting to be rather scarce, one is liable to run across them in most any sizable precancel collection.

Gibsonia, Pa.—Population 138. Currently uses two handstamped styles on the 1 and 3 cent denominations.

Manville, N. J.—Population 150. Home of the Johns-Manville Company, which is quite some corporation. Thousands of precancels are employed monthly to frank parcels. An electrotype plate has done the work since the permit was granted. Practically all of the old series Perf. 11 stamps and many of the new series have been precancelled. They are hard to get in good condition as some P. O. clerk wields a wicked blue pencil.

Edella, Pa.—Population 164. The same situation as we found at Fricks, Pa., existed here years ago in conjunction with the actual precancellation of stamps in sheet form. There are twenty main varieties existing, but few to be had as they have always been popular with collectors, on account of their attractiveness and scarcity.

Conclusion.—At all times, I am anxious to hear from readers and shall appreciate criticism or suggestions.

MANAGING EDITOR IN POLITICS.

The WEEKLY has very little to say concerning politics. Its field is philately. There are, however, enough philatelists interested in politics and as well the managing editor for us to give this item a little publicity. On Tuesday, September 9th, the editor was a Republican candidate for primary nomination for the Mass. Legislature from the 20th Essex Representative District. He had two opponents, Hon. Geo. H. Whittemore, Mayor of Beverly, and Robert Hodgkins, a former alderman. He succeeded in carrying five of the six precincts and won by a clear majority. The vote was as follows:—

ROINEM STAMP CO.

803 WASHINGTON AVE. S. E.,
MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

PURELY PERSONAL.

Dr. T. Henry Tubman, Cleveland, Ohio, added to the joys of the occasion by bringing with him a lot of old letters with various postal markings that afforded his friends an excellent opportunity for browsing around. Dr. Tubman is still one of Cleveland's stalwarts and his interest in stamps stands him in good stead when the routine of the day jangles the bells a bit discordantly.

Elliott Perry, Westfield, New Jersey, was around smoking out the ten cent of 1847 and other early United States. He is the Sherlock Holmes of the U. S. black ten cent, first issue, and he juggles the plates around with the nonchalance of a star act in vaudeville. Now that he is out of the woods and his work on this stamp concluded, his friends feel that they can whoop things up a bit for him.

Ted, M. R. Lupfer, Royal Oak, Michigan, was the embodiment of energy plus and in addition to steering the convention of the A. S. D. A., in a secretarial sense, he had a finger in most of the pies that were baked around the place. The earth which is alleged to move has nothing on this man as he counts that day lost whose low descending sun sees nothing started by him.

T. J. Gundlach, Buffalo, has a high place in our affections for did he not, when our finances were gasping their last, perform a noble act of rescue? Just as we were sinking with no sail in sight, he took out a policy for five years in the WEEKLY and paid the premium of five dollars in advance without a tremor. Who will say that philately has not a true nobility?

F. E. Farnham, Chicago, must have made a big inroad in that famous stock that he has immured in the safety deposit vault at home, before he started for Detroit. As a traveling companion, Mr. Farnham thinks that nothing else can equal a book of saleable U. S. and he usually carries protection in that form. It is pleasant to look forward to the time when good U. S. will take the place of travelers' checks.

Jas. B. Beals, St. Paul, Minnesota, took occasion to look in at the big show and he says that it was worth the price of admission. Mr. Beal's is used to the big-time circuit, having cut his philatelic eye-teeth in Chicago, and coming from him, the tribute is not to be sneezed at. Now that he is acquainted, we hope that he will keep the date at Los Angeles next August.

L. J. Seely, Hammondsport, New York, recently returned from his European trip, finished off his vacation with a trip to Detroit, giving us the satisfaction of basking in the enthusiasm of this lover of stamps. Mr. Seely has more than one philatelic facet and he sees the beauties of stamps, other than those of our own country, even though he is a partizan of U. S. issues.

The Bi-Monthly Journal

A stamp publication with an inimitable style and charm, published every two months.

Each issue consists of from 36 to 48 large pages, profusely illustrated, and replete with attractive philatelic offerings, news items, interesting articles and editorials, etc.

C. A. Ralston of Waterloo, Iowa, writes:

"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

The September-October number, now ready for distribution, is the best and most important one of all.

TOPICS OF THE WEEK

By FRED. J. MELVILLE.

The Late Mr. Hugo Griebert.—By the death of Mr. Hugo Griebert the stamp world loses one of the rare class of stamp dealers who combined the qualities of the dilettante and connoisseur of stamps with those of the successful merchant. It is a matter of public knowledge that as a dealer he built up one of the finest stamp businesses in the world, and was in the very forefront of the men who had chosen stamps as a career. It is no less a fact that he retained throughout his life a passion for stamps which is the attribute of the amateur, the lover of stamps, the collector.

A Rare Combination.—The combination is rare, and is seldom successful. The stamp lover is not usually cut out for a stamp seller. And the dealer, while catering for the enthusiasms of the collector, has to avoid becoming engrossed in them himself. There are, in the annals of British philately, some notable exceptions: Edward Pemberton and his son, Charles J. Phillips, W. T. Wilson, Charles Nissen, are among them, and Hugo Griebert was one of the most prominent. He combined business acumen with philatelic study to a remarkable degree.

One of the Great "Platers."—It is, however, as a student and a lover of stamps that his memory will be perpetuated in the records of philately. He was the pioneer of research into the remoter fields of philatelic specialism, and it is largely to his work that we owe the greater appreciation and fuller knowledge of the stamps of countries long neglected both in Britain and abroad. He was the philatelic conquistador who opened up South America; he was forever blazing trails through virgin forest—Liberia, Turkey, Jhind, Spain, Hungary, Mexico, La Guaria, and even Albania are included among his published studies, while his wide knowledge of all the classic issues, whether of the popular or the "unfashionable" countries, was not surpassed by any other dealer of his generation. In the realm of "plating" he probably ranks with the late Mr. Lesli Hausburg as one of the two most successful explorers of this higher branch of philatelic research.

The New York Exhibition, 1926.—The best news for months is the decision of our American colleagues to organize a great International Stamp Exhibition to be held in New York in October, 1926. Those of us who were fortunate enough to be able to get over to the last exhibition on the other side, in 1913, need not be told how thoroughly they do these things in the United States. It was almost their first venture in the shape of a great modern stamp exhibition, yet it was presented and carried through with a perfection of detail which was beyond all criticism.

They have the Men and the Material.—Most of the same capable men who organized the 1913 Exhibition are co-operating in the coming show, but they have had an enormous accession of co-laborers well qualified to carry through a great undertaking to success. In the Association of Stamp Exhibitions, Inc. and in the Collectors Club they have the leading spirits in American philately, and the men who have the stamps over them have the organizing genius and the will to make the New York Exhibition of 1926 representative of the heights to which philately has risen.

Britain will Co-operate.—We shall follow their preparations with eager interest, and it goes without saying that British philatelists will enter with eagerness into the opportunity of collaborating with our American friends in this notable event. The Collectors Club, and philatelists generally throughout America entered cordially into the arrangements for the London Exhibition last year, just as they have been in the forefront of supporters for other British philatelic enterprises. We are confident, therefore, that when they ask our leading philatelists here to send them of their best, the cream of their collections, for the New York Exhibition, they will receive a hearty and unanimous response.

Be Prepared!—There is but one thing we fear, and that is that our collectors here will possibly regard October, 1926 as a long way off, and consequently think that they can leave the matter until nearer the time. That is the line of least resistance, and leads in the end to not doing the right thing. Let us make our plans now and develop them. The Americans will be developing the plans from now right on to the Exhibition. Make up your minds now what you will show, and work steadily to getting the collection in exhibition array. Then there will be no hustle or anxiety or misfire about your exhibiting in 1926 and you will have done your duty to our American friends and to philately. We have already suggested the British motto for the 1926 Exhibition should be "Be prepared!" So may it be.

The Birth of a Nation.—The United States Post Office is preparing a 2 cent stamp to commemorate the arrival in New York of the sloop "Restaurationen" which brought the first shipload of Norwegian immigrants to America on October 1, 1825. If these events in the birth of a nation are to be commemorated rightly along it is as well they should be kept down to a single stamp. Mr. John Luff hints at cheerful prospects for "Scott's Monthly Journal" for a century with so varied and extensive an ancestry of which comparatively few have been commemorated in stamps as yet. "We must not forget," he says, "the Germans who brought beer and sauerkraut to Hoboken, the Irish who police our streets and boss our politics, the first organ grinder from Italy, the first pack peddler from Central Europe, and a lot of other forebears. When we have finished commemorating the emigrants we might turn to national events. Think of the joy to be derived from album pages of stamps issued to honour Mrs. O'Leary's cow that started the Chicago fire, the first to Lizzie Bryan's first Presidential candidacy, and the return of the White House cat."—Stamp Collecting.

NOTES ON THE STAMPS OF CANADA AS AN INVESTMENT.

By W. H. GOLDING.

If I were asked what country of all the British possessions offered not only as large a field as any for study and research but also the best field of any for appreciation of value I should unhesitatingly say the stamps of Canada.

In saying this, I refer to Canadian stamps as a whole, but they may be divided into three periods. First the "pence" issues, 1851 to 1859, and the "cents" issue of 1859, with the same types as the earlier "pence" issues. This group contains many scarce and some rare items. The varieties of paper are considerable, and in the 6d in particular of the "pence" issues, a great number of shades can be found, as also in the 10 cents, 1859 issue.

The 12d Black of 1851, on laid paper, is catalogued by Gibbons at £250 unused and £200 used, whilst the same stamp on wove paper is unpriced. Specimens on the latter paper, surcharged "Specimen" in red, are, however, obtainable at about £50. This 12d has always been a rare stamp, and it is probable that the next 20 years will see a further great advance in its value.

This stamp exists with a double or shifted transfer, but I believe this variety is no scarcer than the normal. It is different, however, with the 5 cents deep red of 1859, the normal variety being catalogued at 1sh used and the double transfer at £10. The latter price also does not indicate its real value, as fine copies sell for double this price and more. This stamp is one of the most striking examples of a double transfer known, a great part of the design appearing clearly in duplicate and in particular an extra oval frame line appears. For many years it was so catalogued, i.e., as variety with double frame line and not described as what it really was, a "double transfer." Once seen it is easy to detect the "double transfer" variety, as it has a very noticeable over-inked look, and without close examination it stands out very distinctly from the normal stamp.

"Double strikes" or rather "double transfers" also exist of the 3d, 7 1/2d and 10d values. In the case of the 3d eight stamps on each plate were "double struck," and Gibbons says these form eight distinct varieties, which occur on all the varieties of paper. Several of these stamps also exist bisected, in a similar way to other stamps of British North America, as New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island.

The 3d, being bisected and used with the 6d or two 3d, was used to make up the 7 1/2d postal rate; whilst the 6d exists bisected and used as 3d. These varieties are of considerable scarcity and command high prices.

In the 1859 "cents" issue, the 5 cents was bisected and used as 2 1/2 cents, and the 10 cents bisected and used as 5 cents. I do not think any of these stamps have been forged, but forged perforations of the 1858-59 pence issue exist, some of which are rather dangerous. The genuine perforated stamps gauge 12. Forgeries exist of this gauge, also 12 1/4, 13 and 10. The perforation of these forgeries is rather closer than the genuine stamps.

As may be gathered from these notes, a considerable sum must be expended to obtain anything like a collection of this group, but, however much is put into it, so long, of course, as fine copies are purchased, it may be looked on as being a very fine investment indeed.

I will now take the second period or group, being the issues from 1868 to 1897 (but not the Jubilee issue of the latter date). We first get the "large type" issues of 1868-1878, which, so far as dates are concerned, is cut into by the "small type" issue of January, 1870.

This large type is now catalogued with considerably more accuracy, but it is almost certain that as these stamps

OVER $4000 A MONTH

now being spent by members of the A.P.S. for stamps thru their Sales Dept. Ask about it. J. E. GUEST, Box 1042, DALLAS, TEXAS are studied more fully, corrections and additions will be found necessary. In the main issues two varieties of paper exist. The "thin, hard and rather transparent paper" of 1868, and the "Medium to stout wove paper" of 1868-72. Gibbons says the latter paper may be further subdivided into (a) medium to stout wove (b) thin, soft, very white, and (c) thinner and poorer quality, sometimes greyish or yellowish (from 1878 to end of issue). The specialist has in this issue an unrivalled field for study, and also incidentally for picking up bargains. The 1 cent and 3 cent exist on laid paper, and the 2, 3, 6, 12 1/2, and possibly other values come on watermarked paper. These stamps and many of the following "small type" issue are of great interest on the original covers, as by the dates of these the many alterations in shade of some values can be placed, and no doubt at no distant date some of these covers will fetch fancy prices.

As regards the 15 cents, "large type," personally I should keep this value distinct from its place in the sets and put all the varieties together from its first appearance in 1868 to the latest printings of 1890.

The "small type" issues, 1870 to 1893, are now listed much more fully in Gibbons, and the Montreal printing, perforated 11 1/2 x 12, appears for the first time. These issues will undoubtedly need some rewriting in the catalogue as time goes on. There is a very large field for the specialist in the many varieties of shade, and though some of the stamps appear to be over-catalogued unused, fine used copies in many cases must appreciate very greatly. This is a field where a very great number of opportunities must come to the specialist at present to pick up for a few pence really scarce and valuable items.

The cancellations of all these stamps are also worthy of close study. Not only are there the somewhat scarce "maple leaf," "crown" and other fancy designs and the railway cancellations, but as well there are the numbers allotted to the various towns, and later the small circular postmark of the towns themselves. It may be taken that all the fancy cancellations are a good purchase and some of the "number" cancellations are scarce and must become valuable.

I consider this group, i.e., the issues from 1868 to 1893, is at present the most likely field in the world for the collector of moderate means, not only to pick up real bargains, but as a whole to have a really fine investment for his money.

Of group 3, the general issues from 1893 to date, the various War Stamps, Registration, Special Delivery and Postage Due Stamps, there is little to be said. Whilst all, except the commonest ones, must appreciate in value, there is practically nothing to interest the specialist and practically no chance of obtaining bargains, and from the investment point of view, I look on it as as poor a field for opportunities as group 3 is rich in them.

In considering stamps from the investment point of view it is worth noting that Canada is a country of vast resources and is all the time enormously increasing in wealth and population. As a matter of fact, it is the only country which engaged in the Great War, which has since increased in per capita income spread of the whole population. Canadian stamps and British North American stamps are also second only in popularity to the stamps of the United States in that country, therefore the market and consequent demand for these stamps are increasing as no other is, and for any varieties or exceptionally fine copies of Canadian stamps up to say 1880, a corresponding rapid increase in value is assured.—Kensington Philatelist.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

WHAT DO YOU SAY?

Whatever the outcome of the argument as to what is or is not correct, the fact remains that the Greek "philos" is the one certain source of the name of our hobby, "Philately" and the derivatives, "Philatelic" and "Philatelist." But when we pronounce those words correctly according to the dictionary we say, "fil-a-tel-ik" and "fi-lat-e-lis" in the "fil-lat-el-ist", preserving the root in the first and mixing things in the other two by joining the "i" to "a" and "t".

Far be it for me to attempt to correct English "as she is spoke" or to criticize our pronunciations, which are both a wonder and a stumbling-block to foreigners principally because of our famous inconsistency in not pronouncing alike words and syllables spelled alike and of pronouncing exactly alike words spelled differently with different meanings. "You read the red signs that you readily read." (Vot means dot?)

And while we admit we derive many words from foreign sources we seem to endeavor to hide the root even while we retain it, as for example "thermometer", "ther-mom-eter". But we do say, thermo-metric. Then why not "thermo-meter" which would itself indicate a measure of temperature? If we were at all consistent, a "tax-im-eter" should indicate how much the driver wants, for the company.

But getting back,—in three words, derived from one source, we have two pronunciations or divisions into syllables! If "phi-lat-e-ly" is right (and a satisfactory mixture of the "i" and "at") then why, O why, not "phi-lat-e-lic"?

And now-a-days a hard "i" is creeping in, "fie-lat-e-list", like "Fie, fie! Fido!" This sound has usually in English been used as an exclamation of disgust, contempt or dislike. And while quite right and proper in "philanderer" and "Philargury" it should certainly not be associated or connected with us. "Fie-late-el-ist"! "Fill-at-a-list" would be better.

Now that our hobby is growing so rapidly, with so many more people using the words connected with it in both print and speech, cannot we "students of stamps" combine on a sameness of pronunciation in the three words exclusively pertaining to our hobby? Why not get together on "Phil-at-elic", "Phil-at-el-ist" and "Phil-at-ely" or agree on "Phi-lat-elic", "Phi-lat-el-ist" and "Phi-lat-ely"? Or have 'em all different, as "Phila-

ASSAU STAMP CO.

A NOVEL PLAN TO BE INAUGURATED.

The Assistance of Eminent Philatelists Invoked
In Editing Our Publication.

BY WILLARD O. WYLIE.

PHILIP H. WARD, JR., Philadelphia, Pa., Issue October 27
STEPHEN G. RICH, Essex Fells, N. J., Issue November 17
CHARLES J. PHILLIPS, New York, N. Y., Issue December 15
Others Will Be Announced in Due Season.

It is our intention during the coming months to make use of the services of certain eminent philatelists for editorial work upon the WEEKLY, and already three have been secured, each to edit a number of the WEEKLY in October, November and December respectively. Philip H. Ward, Jr., of Philadelphia, Pa., will edit the October number, Stephen G. Rich of Essex Fells, N. J., the November, and Charles J. Phillips of New York City the December number. Others will be secured for the early months of 1925.

Without a doubt this feature will prove highly interesting and instructive. We shall give our assistant editors all the leeway possible in the preparation of copy and our printer will try and meet the editorial wishes of the one sending in the copy. It means that not only will each editor be responsible for the feature article, but temporarily he will occupy Mr. Severns' chair and for that particular number be the editorial mouthpiece for our publication.

If some of our friends desire to introduce features that are out of the ordinary we shall be very tolerant and welcome the same. The WEEKLY is addressing each week the greatest number of stamp collectors of any paper anywhere in the world and no subscription list is more loyal than ours. It is our constant aim to not only meet the needs but anticipate the wishes of the great host of subscribers looking to the WEEKLY for philatelic enlightenment and amusement.

We introduce Philip H. Ward, Jr., of Philadelphia, Pa., as the editor of the October 27 issue of the WEEKLY. A few days following the appearance of that issue, Mr. Ward leaves for Europe, where he will attend the famous Godden sale of the Waterhouse collection of U. S. This will be in keeping with Mr. Ward's energy and is characteristic of the man. His philatelic activities have been many, his interests beginning with the advent of the Columbian series in 1893. Since that time he has been actively interested, first, with a general collection and then specializing in Siam and the United States. Of the former he got together one of the finest collections of this country in existence.

During the past few years Mr. Ward has devoted all his time to United States with Ireland as a side issue. His U. S. is strong in fine singles, blocks and covers and 20th century is probably as fine a lot as is held by any collector.

Stamps are a side-issue with our friend. He is a graduate electric engineer and is in the electrical manufacturing business, operating the Ward Electric Co., which manufactures house wiring and electrical specialties.

Mr. Ward has been editor of our U. S. Chronicle since October, 1918, and previous to that time was one of the editors of the Philatelic Gazette. He has written numerous articles for philatelic papers. Without a doubt he is one of the best U. S. experts on the 20th century issues of our country.

A signal honor has come to him in having been appointed by the Association for Stamp Exhibitions as one of the committee to have charge of the coming International Exhibition to be held in New York in 1926. He is a member of the A. P. S., the Collectors Club, the Metropolitan Philatelic Society and the Philadelphia Stamp Club.

All in all, Mr. Ward may be considered one of the foremost philatelists of the present day. He is in the prime of life and will be a strong factor in the progress of our hobby in coming years. We shall be very glad to have him occupy the editorial chair in October 27 and our readers will enjoy the novelty of seeing what our special staff can do.

BOOKLET PANES

This interesting side-line has been neglected by many collectors. About 15 years ago, I offered complete 97-cent booklets (8 panes) of the 2c 1898 issue at $1.75. Today, a single pane sells at from $6.00 to $8.50, and they are scarce at that! The man who bought at my offer has "some" investment.
The 1917 issue perforated 11 is now obsolete. There appears to be plenty of panes with plate numbers attached just now. Of course, they will never be as scarce as 2c 1898 panes, but here is a chance at under the present market price.
8 2c 1917 panes, each with a different plate number $2.50
As usual, this combination is returnable, if unsatisfactory.

FORECAST FOR THE COMING SEASON.

By WILLARD O. WYLIE.

There is a general feeling of optimism in the air in connection with business conditions. It is reflected in the opinions of leaders in the trade and we feel positive that the "wish is not the father of the thought." Everything points to a record year and the WEEKLY will do its part by going out after the record number of 10,000 subscribers.

To the veteran dealer, P. M. Wolsieffer, we give the place of honor as president of our national society, the A. P. S. His views and those of other dealers will be perused with interest.

P. M. WOLSIEFFER (Phila. Stamp Company.)

Since I have gone out of the retail selling of stamps over a year ago and confining my business entirely to conducting Auction Sales of stamps and the sale of entire collections, I may not be in touch with all the signs of the times that most dealers can distinguish by daily contact with the retail business.

However, from the viewpoint of conditions as exist in the Auction Sale business, I can say it is very good and promises better still. This I judge from the many requests I receive for information from new names and collectors, a large percentage of them saying they saw my ad in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS.

My correspondence with old clients and prospective new ones, both as buyers and sellers, is increasing, which is an indication that the stamp business must be good in all other branches of the trade as well.

At the recent Detroit Convention of the American Philatelic Society on the "Bourse Night," from 7.30 P. M. to midnight, it was the liveliest buying, selling and exchanging contest I ever witnessed. At Mr. Voorhees' Auction Sale, on another evening, was the largest assemblage ever gathered for the sale of stamps and some record prices were obtained.

The Sales Department of the American Philatelic Society for the year showed a phenomenal growth. The efficient Superintendent, Mr. J. E. Guest, reported that the sales were almost double of the year before and going stronger than ever.

Also our Stamp Societies, local and national, are rapidly increasing in membership, and the Convention of the American Philatelic Society broke all records for attendance, collectors participating from coast to coast and some few foreign members as well.

These facts are certainly straws and indications that point to a bigger season than we have had in the past.

I am informed by some of the dealers that advance orders for the new 1925 Scott Catalog are greater than last year at this time, which is also a reliable prospect for a big season.

Summing up all these indications and being aware of the great shortage of fine old issues in fine condition, I feel very optimistic in favor of one of the biggest seasons we have had regardless of the fact that it is Presidential year and many collectors interested in National politics.

E. B. POWER (Gibbons).

The season of 1924-25 should be a good one since general business conditions seem fair enough. Personally I am glad to notice a distinct trend in the general collecting line. I still think, as I always have thought, that the great future of stamps rests on the shoulders of the general collector, and those collectors who go mad over an extra dot in the ear of the portrait or an extra line in the frame of a design are not and never will be the foundation on which this hobby rests.

I believe also in future years we shall hear less of perforations and less of original gum. What are we collecting, holes or stamps? And as for the much coveted mucilage which collectors pay some $10,000.00 a pint for, I value it not. Are we collecting mucilage or stamps?

Of recent memory is the more careful study of postmarks which isn't so bad

ATTRACTIVE APPROVALS

The books I am sending out are made up chiefly of my own general collection which is being broken up. Superb copies, priced as low as can reasonably be expected. A ref. brings you a selection. Edgar W. Field- ing, 1602 Washington St., Wilmington, Del.

since there is a historical and geographical side to this branch of philately, altho I fear this may be carried to too great a length and we may be expected to go into rhapsodies over a three-cent green because it is cancelled from Podunk Four Corners.

There is a dearth of stamps of the middle class of Nineteenth Century issues, of this there is no doubt. One has only to look at Scott's list of sets to see the Nineteenth Century sets dwindling, like the Grand Army of the Republic, into almost a negligible quantity, because the supply is not to be had.

I pay no attention to what the "big" men in stamps are doing, because big men have big means, and it matters not how many copies they buy, but I do pay most careful attention to the general collector and I find him plugging along about as usual. I might also mention that I have started 16,500 new collectors with my Radio work, some of whom will no doubt be second Ferraris someday.

JOSEPH V. K. WELLS.

(Home of the Postage Stamp).

I believe that the new season 1924-25 will set new Philatelic records. One reason for coming to this conclusion is that everyone with whom I have talked seems to think that the coming season will be very successful. There is a great deal of truth in the words Shakespeare put into the mouth of Hamlet: "There is nothing either good or bad but thinking makes it so." A pessimist cannot successfully sell stamps, he can, however, broadcast his gloom and a comparatively small number of people can generally be held responsible for our so-called poor seasons. As a firm we know from experience that stamps can be sold advantageously in the months of July and August. It simply takes a little extra effort and planning. Anyone can sell stamps or anything else if he is firmly convinced that he is able to do so, in other words, he must be optimistic concerning himself, his goods, and the condition of the market.

Business in general is picking up.
 There seems to be renewed confidence everywhere. A man's hobby is a good barometer of his business. Those who believe that there is an ever recurring wave of prosperity followed by a season of reaction and depression, predict that the next two years will be good years for business in general. I don't pretend any great knowledge concerning The Business Cycle, but I desire to point out that all signs indicate success and prosperity the world over.

Few firms engaged in the stamp business can boast of an office such as we enjoy. Three lines of rapid transit to and from New York City with trains to and from every two minutes. There is a delightful view from our windows of Upper New York in the distance and a lovely formal garden below. We have plenty of air and plenty of sunshine.
 This move of ours which involves more than perhaps the average reader, unfamiliar with conditions in Manhattan and Greater New York generally, realizes, proves how firmly and sincerely we believe in the future of Philately and especially the coming season.

H. E. HARRIS & CO., (Boston).

Present prospects for the stamp trade seem to be the result of certain definite causes. Important among these is the stimulation of the boy trade, which has been accomplished by a new esprit de corps existing among dealers. It is undeniable that better values have been given to our future philatelists in the last few years; they can buy cheap stamps at cheap prices and good stamps at fair prices; while the dealers have developed a habit of giving their young customers the squarest kind of a deal, of showing an interest in them, and of trying to please them in as many ways as possible.

 This is important, for as much as we dislike to resurrect that old wheeze about great oaks growing from little acorns, it is undoubtedly true that the dealer, to a large extent, creates his own future trade, and reaps in the summer what he sows in the spring.

The desire to please has given rise to prompt service and attractive advertising.
 An order quickly filled, a letter promptly answered, probably act as agents to keep interested those boys in whom the fire of collecting burns with an enthusiastic but inconstant flame. As for attractive advertising, we cannot bespeak it too highly. One little lad of our acquaintance ambushed his postman on the way to school to get his American Boy, and during recess that day he was storm center to a small cyclone of young collectors who clamored to see what marvellous and wonderful offers were being made to them that month! That is good stuff. It is a mighty active little form of publicity, it spreads stamp collecting, and Kid Radio no longer knocks Young Philately down for the count of ten.

The outgrowth of the boy trade is, of course, the very fiber and tissue of the business, for the beginner of today is the philatelist of tomorrow. While it is true that a certain percentage of young collectors always drop out, many of them remain interested for life. They subscribe to philatelic publications, they enter the market for better stamps, and they patronize the advertisers.

Regular trade has been stimulated by much the same elements which have affected the boy trade. Concerning better values, it is notable that stamps are now being sold on a smaller margin of profit than ever before. While it is true that competition forces this condition on the dealer, it is equally true that more stamps are sold; and the dealer can afford to sell on a smaller percentage of profit by virtue of a larger yearly business. Can the benefit to the collector be denied? As he becomes aware of the new state of affairs he buys more stamps, and he buys them with confidence, for he knows that there is no longer the tremendous difference between the cost of a collection and its potential selling price.

Press publicity has gone a long way toward raising philately from obscurity to eminence. It has been a great benefit in the near past and should be encouraged in the future; and those philatelists and philatelic societies that have prepared articles for the press, and gotten all possible philatelic publicity are highly to be commended.

Publicity, interest in those strange stamps of the new countries of Europe, attractive advertising, the entrance of new dealers into the business, better values offered to collectors, have all been an impetus to the stamp trade in the past couple of years, and their cumulative effect is just beginning to be felt. Summer business, for instance, has been so active this year that we are inclined to believe the "season" for the stamp trade is now an all year round one. At any rate, from a consideration of the elements mentioned above the signs for the coming season seem to be posted and we believe that they point to a comfortable prosperity for the trade.

FRANK SEKULA.

Four years ago at about this time the great majority of stamp dealers were going about with long faces, looking as miserable as can be and giving one the impression that they were looking forward to total destruction, expecting the loss of all their possessions. They would tell you that the good times are over, there is nothing to do, business will never pick up, and they may as well close up. This was the usual cheerful answer to a greeting. It is quite different now. The tone is more cheerful and the outlook is by far better, everyone seems to be eagerly preparing for the coming fall, expecting the best season they have ever had. In my opinion, they are not mistaken either. The only trouble that seems to be encountered everywhere is the scarcity of material on the market, here and abroad.

In order to offer a fair idea of the situation, it is necessary to have a look at conditions in some of the greatest stamp centers in Europe. Let us begin with France. There are more stamp dealers in Paris alone than in the whole U. S. A., and the business in the French Capitol during the last few years has been better, I believe, than anywhere else in the world. Owing to the continuous fluctuation of the French franc, people there were more eager than ever to invest their money in some merchandise which is not subject to devaluation day after day, and by buying stamps apart from a safe investment, they were also in a position to realize cash in emergency on them. Furthermore in most European countries banks willingly accept stamp collections as collateral, a facility we have not yet achieved in this country. Consequently one gets very few offers from France and if we do get any, the prices asked for material make one dizzy.

Germany, Austria and Hungary have practically been cleaned out after the war, but around 1921 the people there started to buy very heavily again, and paid especially for Old German States and German Colonies incredibly high prices. Today there is a great scarcity of cash in the countries mentioned above but it appears that even under these specific and deplorable conditions, especially in Germany, the people prefer to starve rather than to sell. They are asking prices even from dealers anywhere from double to ten times catalogue for anything half way decent.

London is still one of the best markets to buy, but even there prices for good things are extremely high.

There are more stamp collectors every day and the stock of the stamps of the good 19th and 20th Century diminish day by day and consequently the ancient and always modern question of supply and demand dominates the market and causes prices to rise.

Any collector who is but a half way careful buyer and keeps in mind that the condition and quality of the material is even more important than price, will find that stamp collecting is not only the most interesting and fascinating of all hobbies, but also a most profitable one.

Elsewhere in this number will be found several advertisements by Mr. Sekula. One of these states that he has opened a retail department under the supervision of Mrs. Thomas, who is well known on Nassau St., from her wide acquaintance with stamps and the stamp business. Not the least interesting of his announcements is the one calling attention to the Zeppelin air-mail already featured in the philatelic press.

GEORGE B. SLOANE.

As regards the outlook for the coming season of 1924-25, there are several factors which lead me to the conclusion that we are about to embark on a most prosperous year, chief of which is the growing enthusiasm already apparent for the coming International Philatelic Exhibition in New York, in 1926.

This enterprise will receive wide publicity, the daily press will devote columns to it, and its value to philately is impossible to calculate. Dealers and collectors alike will share in its many advantages. The psychological effect on the public mind of such headlines as "Millions of Dollars in Stamps on View" will be most inspiring.

What other philatelic venture could

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—The advance notice of part one of Gibbons' Catalogue, of 1925, promises some revisions that will improve the catalogue in many respects. A number of the British colonies have been rewritten, based on expert information, and it becomes evident that the work will be valuable as a book of reference as well as a price current.

—A writer in the London Philatelist very neatly sums up the thought of the collector who finds that his investment in stamps is mounting up to some considerable sum in these words: "Whilst no true collector regards price as the first consideration in stamp collecting, not even the novice can entirely ignore the financial aspect of philately."

—We are informed that the frame that is displayed in one of the show windows of a Chicago downtown bank composed of U. S. stamps marking the domestic rate in this country from 1847 to date was loaned for display by Joseph Byfield, who was one of the early stamp dealers in Chicago and who now is one of the proprietors of the Hotel Sherman, Chicago.

—The managing editor of the WEEKLY Philatelic Paper was billed to speak on the "Making of a Philatelic Paper" at the meeting of the Boston Philatelic Society of September 16. An informal auction sale conducted by A. P. Brown was the further business of the meeting.

—We feel complimented to note that the well known Philatelic Magazine of Great Britain in its September 6 issue copy Mr. Ward's review of the Scott's advance sheets and designate it as an "Able Review", giving our paper credit for the article.

—Hubert Lyman Clark favors us with a Japanese post card issued in place of the stamps that were proposed in celebration of the marriage of the Crown Prince, but both stamps and plates were destroyed at the time of the earthquake. There were four stamps in the set, in

—We enjoyed the article by Mr. Hoover in regard to the Harding Precancel. He "hits" the nail on the head most of the time. He lists Anamosa as a speculative Harding. Every collector would like to see "his home town" have the "rarest" Harding. Anamosa Hardings are not rare, but we would not consider them speculative. Saunders of Mason City has Anamosa Hardings in about 15 varieties. These do not exist. The majority of them were made from a "single" hand stamp, which cancels one stamp at a time. The different bar spacings are due to "over loading" with ink, and the excess pressure which will spread the "bars" of a precancel. They consider these different varieties but they are not, having all come from one rubber stamp. We have written Saunders in this regard, and he writes that he will correct the errors.—LAWRENCE BROS.

—Sweden has issued a set to celebrate the postal union, inscribed, "Union Postale Universelle 1874-1924 Sverige." The ore values have a picture of a horseman holding a posthorn and looking over his shoulder at an aeroplane. The Kr. values a pigeon carrying a letter over the hemisphere which has a ship on the top and is encircled by a train. 15 values, 5 ore to 5 crowns.

—We learn that Mr. D. A. Berry, of 99 St. James Street, Manchester, England (late 13 Oxford Street), has taken the shop and business premises at 24 Corporation Street, Manchester, England, whereon for 30 years past the late Mr. Ostara and his daughter Miss Ostara have carried on their well known stamp business. Mr. Berry will carry on his own business there, as soon as the necessary alterations are completed.

—W. O. Staab, Milwaukee, informs us that Mr. C. J. Phillips will be the feature at the meeting of Milwaukee's local society on September 25, 1924.

—Mr. Charles J. Phillips was in Toronto during the latter part of last week and gave the collectors of Toronto and vicinity a very nice evening's entertainment by showing them Mr. A. F. Lichtenstein's wonderful collection of the Maritime Provinces as well as giving the collectors in general here a talk on Philately. I can assure you that Mr. Phillips is doing a great advertising for Philately in general, and I know that the Toronto Club will benefit considerably from his visit.—L. A. DAVENPORT.

—We have assurance that the Stamp Exhibition at Winnipeg from September 17 to 20 has attracted wide attention and has been opened under favorable conditions. A number of American collectors have made their appearance there, and Mr. C. J. Phillips is taking a considerable part in the business of the meetings as a speaker and exhibitor. An auction sale is to be a feature of the occasion, and there is no doubt but that the convention will have an important effect on philately in Canada. One of the displays is to be made by the Canadian post-office department which we are assured will be interesting and instructive.

EDITORIAL.

The publishers of the standard catalogue are industriously issuing the advance sheets of the new catalogue, and are now in the letter "R"; and we find that already 1,152 pages are necessary for the countries listed thus far. It looks as though the finished book would be ready by the time advertised, October 15, and we are pleased that such are the indications, because with the advent of the catalogue comparatively early in the stamp season, there is more likelihood of early application of collectors to their stamps. We have no doubt but that the usual stimulus to trade will follow the issuing of the catalogue, and we deem the middle of October with its relatively cool nights which make indoor recreations enjoyable, as about the best time for the coming of the book that is with us for the whole year.

At the recent convention of the American Philatelic Society it was announced that no prizes were awarded for the competition in stamp studies or papers submitted by members; and the unconsidered remark was made that the literary aspect of philately did not seem to appeal strongly to the members. While an observation of this kind is a natural one under the circumstances, yet it is doubtful whether the lack of interest in the contest was due to any reluctance on the part of members to adventure in a literary way, but the explanation is to be laid to the fact that other stamp activities crowd the time and attention of members. In this connection it may be remembered that the recent philatelic congress of Great Britain held at Glasgow, last June, was unable to make an award in the Bates Prize Competition. One of the questions that has never been decided definitely is whether it is advisable to take the time of conventions with essays or articles no matter what their instructive value may be. It is the opinion of some who have the welfare of organized philately at heart that the collector prefers to read articles of the kind at his ease under other surroundings, where the personal element supplied by the audience is lacking as a distraction. One must be rather nimble-witted and give concentrated attention to the reader if he is to grasp any essentials that are not immediately recognized by reason of their plain presentation; and the thoughtful philatelist wishes to read the articles when he has time for deliberation. It has been pointed out in years gone by that the conventions in America, singularly enough, did not encourage the reading of special literary work and that in this wise they suffered by comparison with conventions or society meetings in other countries. It is not alleged by the critics that we have not the men competent to provide instruction or entertainment through their authorship but that the tendency to omit these literary features was all the more apparent for that reason. The only answer to this criticism is that it is thought better to have articles of the kind appear in print so that they may be read leisurely and with due application; and furthermore it is truly to be said that the whole time of the convention is taken with work that comes under the head of general society and philatelic welfare.

The president of the A. P. S., has let no time elapse before naming officers to fill the various appointive berths in the society, and we learn that H. Burt, William A. Stone, W. H. MacLaren, Otto F. Moses, and W. H. Barnum have been appointed on the most important committee on revision of the By-laws. The publicity committee has been named as Messrs. H. A. Diamant, E. R. Ackerman and C. E. Severn who are to select two other members to make the complement of five. Various committees such as the handbook, catalogue, philatelic index, philatelic literature, expert, obituary, recruiting and junior collectors' advisers have been ably filled. All the other appointive officers have been assigned again to the work that they have well in hand. The early start made by the president augurs well for a season of activity, and it is safe to say that the progress recently marked by this organization will be maintained under the careful administrative procedure of Mr. Wolsieffer.

The committee on publicity, with Henry A. Diamant as chairman, will give signs of activity before long, as a general working plan has been devised, with opportunities for intensive work, as occasion may allow, in various ways, unrelated or otherwise, that will all bear on the idea of publicity. Mr. Diamant who is giving his best thought to methods that give promise of being adaptable to the general purpose. He has the boy collector in mind as a prospect, and he is particularly desirous of getting views of members who have given the question of aligning the boys with us, not as transient collectors but as permanent ones. It certainly is a subject in which every member of the society is interested in view of the fact that $1,000 are to be contributed to the cause of publicity. No one is more anxious to dispense this money to advantage than the committee on publicity, and it is a feeling of comfort to feel that the co-operative influence of members is available for the actual workers. Soon the general scheme and one based on efforts that do not come under systematic classification will be presented to the members; and with this working plan as a foundation, the question of measuring publicity, in relation to the money expended, in order to attract attention to our pursuit will be given a fair test. All members of the society should be favorable to the experiment in order that the proper results may be attained, because the success of the undertaking will be not alone a sentimental satisfaction but also one that will mean a measurable benefit to philately. The public knowledge that Congressman Ackerman is treasurer and that he will have the A. P. S. fund in his possession will be a guarantee that the stewardship will be capably filled.

Mr. Charles J. Phillips, New York, left recently on a pilgrimage for Toronto from where he has gone to Winnipeg. He carried with him his collection of Prince Edward Island and Mr. Lichtenstein's superb Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, which he showed in Toronto. It is Mr. Phillips' intention to proceed to St. Paul and Milwaukee where he will be the honor guest at meetings of the local collectors. His itinerary includes Chicago, where he is to arrive September 26, and where the local collectors will make arrangements for his reception in order that they may have the pleasure of meeting Mr. Phillips and inspecting his collections. Mr. Phillips, it is needless to say, through his willingness to appear in the various centers in order that he may show collections of exceptional character to the local philatelists and to edify his audience with the spoken word proves his interest in the forward movement of philately; and we are sure that his generous impulses are recognized appreciatively by all.

The newspapers recently carried a cablegram from The Hague, describing briefly the features of the International Stamp Dealers Exchange, September 13 and 15. gestion from a reader, Mr. G. L. Gordon, of San Francisco, based on the exchange idea: "I envied those who attended the recent bourse at Detroit, and I wonder if there were not many others who did not do likewise. Do you think it practical for the collectors, dealers and all others who may be interested in stamps, resident in a state to get together for a day or two for a similar session or fair? A central town of fair size could be the place of meeting, and I think that the occasion would be an interesting affair and give the more or less isolated collectors a glorious opportunity to mingle with their fellows with the idea of barter and sale." It is hard to predict whether or not an exchange of the kind would be attended largely enough to justify the occasion. Yet in theory the thought is an appealing one, and we should like to see some philatelically populous state experiment with the idea. A well advertised meeting of the kind would attract the attention of outsiders to the stamp theme, and it is not unreasonable to suppose that there would be a real benefit to philately outside of that which those who participated in the bourse might derive. Should any collector be interested enough in the subject to give it serious consideration, we have no doubt but that we could put him in touch with other collectors in his section who might be willing to co-operate with him.

before the end of the sale is reached, making a sum that is stupendous. That a sale of this magnitude could be made without any disturbance of the market is proof of its healthy power of absorption. Instead of shaking it in any way the financial structure of philately, the sales have solidified it. Stamp collecting has stood all the tests to which time in its course could possibly subject it to, and its vitality is so bounding that the obstacles of war, political change and financial upheavals do not stop its onward march. If the investor ever feared that stamps have not become "seasoned" he certainly may now dismiss his misgivings, in view of the evidence that philately is unshakable, seemingly, by any contingency. The great Paris sales have been beneficial to philately in several ways, and one cannot appraise the value of the publicity that they influenced. The object lesson that they provided for the public is beyond cavil an impressive one and such as to identify stamp collecting in the mind of the outsider as a permanent institution.

A writer in the London Philatelist undertakes to determine, "The Status of Commemorative Stamps." The author, Captain B. S. H. Grant, approaches his subject in a plausible way that seems to confirm the wisdom of his findings and makes the point that is apt to be overlooked by the analyst of these stamps that the public mind is freshened by a change in stamp designs whether the result of postal necessities or otherwise. Captain Grant claims that the average stamp collector is predisposed in favor of commemorative issues, while the real philatelist, as he may be called for the sake of contrast, is more or less antagonistic to them on general principles. The observation is made that the objection to such issues is not based wholly on the idea but that the fault is charged to the inordinate number of stamps that is apt to comprise the series, with the additional toll that unnecessary high values are included in the set. Therefore, the commemorative set of two or three stamps becomes almost innocuous, even to the philatelic purist. We believe that the sensible view taken by this writer is that the hope is to discourage any issues with the exception of those that commemorate events of outstanding importance, with the further stipulation that the stamps be available for postal periods "for a definite length of time in place of the ordinary issues." That second stipulation perhaps is not one that would be received approvingly because of the somewhat artificial stimulus that is given the use of the special stamps. However, the main point that is introduced is that commemoratives themselves be classified so far as possible into two main divisions: first, those which serve "a perfectly legitimate purpose", and those which are unnecessary to the extent that they do not "serve any legitimate postal purpose." In this way the commemoratives would be given varying character, and if there would be any general acceptance of the ruling, the catalogues would carry out the suggestions as made. We must realize that while the stamp collectors are numerically strong, even in the case of stamps that seem to be lacking in real postal interest, a following soon arrays itself under their banner and as Captain Grant says in the final sentence of his editorial, "The law of supply and demand applies, and if collectors want these commemorative effusions the dealers will stock them, and all the time this condition of affairs exists, I fear a place will have to be given to such stamps." While we think that even though there were no stamp collectors to patronize a government's new issues the various post-office departments of the countries of the world would have issued commemoratives on different occasions; and we cannot believe that the influence of stamp collectors could be so unified against the commemorative stamp that sufficient weight could be given their demands that no further issues of the kind be made. Under the plan of the writer we have quoted, the real commemorative would be entitled to consideration, while the weaker sisters could be given a haven or not in the album, as the collector desired.

W. Somerville 44, Mass.

London, Paris, Brussels, Berlin, Etc.

I contemplate attending the auction sale of the United States collection, of Sir Nicholas Waterhouse, to be held in London during the week of November 17th. It is possibly the finest collection of classic United States issues that has come upon the market in recent years. No doubt the larger portion of this wonderful assortment will come to America. I will be glad to act in behalf of my clients in the purchasing of those lots of interest to them.

From London I expect to go to Paris, Brussels, Antwerp and other nearby philatelic centers, and if my time permits, possibly Berlin, Vienna and Rome. I solicit correspondence from dealers and collectors in these centers having fine United States and Confederate stamps that they desire to exchange for United States gold dollars.

2c Black Harding Issue.

Mr. Louis D. Loudon writes to advise that there was found in the North Bend, Oregon, post-office a sheet of the Harding stamps perforated the normal way in addition to a diagonal perforation from the lower left corner to the upper right. He further states that these unfortunately were broken apart and sold over the counter and in this way used in the regular way. I merely mention this incident in view of the fact that a number of our readers have called my attention to similar varieties of other denominations in addition to stamps which have the vertical perforation directly through the center instead of in their normal position. Such varieties demand a very little premium over face value for specialists in our issues give little attention to such oddities. These should not be confused with the rare part perforated stamps in which are found perforations running in one normal direction only.

Air Mail Covers.

Mr. M. A. Rheinboldt kindly sends a cover posted with a 2c stamp with a postmark of Salt Lake City, Utah, May 4, 1921, 8 P. M., addressed to a banking house of New York, the said cover being badly burnt on all edges. The interesting part is a four line rubber stamp notation in violet, reading, "This letter salvaged from air mail plane, which was destroyed by fire at Rock Springs, Wyo., May 5, 1921, Postmaster, Cheyenne, Wyo." I do not recall seeing a cover from this plane heretofore.

Canal Zone Philatelic Agency.

I am in receipt of a communication dated Balboa Heights, Canal Zone, April 28, 1924, and signed by F. H. Wang, Acting Director of Posts, advising all postmasters that a Philatelic Agency has been established on that date at the Balboa Heights post-office and that this Bureau is established for the purpose of supplying Canal Zone stamped paper (which means both postage stamps, envelopes and postal cards) at face value to purchasers for collection purposes. Hereafter all inquiries to postmasters addressed to any of the other Canal Zone offices wherein the orders are for philatelic purposes shall be forwarded to Balboa Heights, to the postmaster at that point.

In accordance with the order, this postmaster will make a monthly report of the sales of postage stamps sold for philatelic purposes as per provisions of Section 183 of the Canal Zone Postal Guide.

Collectors will now be able to receive the same service in connection with our Zone possession as is extended us by the Washington Department. The copy of the order which I have received is a circular letter addressed to postmasters of the Zone and I am communicating with the Philatelic Agency for further details as to whether they contemplate carrying the older issues which may still be available in the Zone.

I feel quite confident that if the matter is presented to General Frank McIntyre, who has charge of our Philippine affairs in Washington, that a similar agency would be established in Manila.

our readers' attention to the fact that when they write for information of interest to themselves only, that it is necessary to enclose a stamped reply envelope. Every week brings numerous letters asking for information as to values, types and numerous other points, and we have now reached a point where we can only reply to such letters when return postage is enclosed. This does not apply in cases where readers show us stamps or give us information of general value to the Chronicle, for I will gladly return, paying the postage myself, any stamps submitted in this manner.

CYPRUS.—Mr. R. Roberts reports the appearance of the following values of the new type, inscribed Postage and Revenue:

12p light brown and black.
18p black and orange.
45p purple and blue.
90p green and red on yellow.
1p purple and black on red.

It is curious to note that the 4 1/2p which is equivalent to the 6d denomination is printed on the green paper generally used for the 1sh and the 9p equivalent to 10sh on the yellow paper generally used for the 5sh. All the others are on white. All script except £1 on red being on the old wmk. mult. CA.

GUATEMALA.—Mr. Paul C. Standley advises having received on letters the following surcharged "Official" No. 121, 122, 174, 202 (Surcharged in two colors of ink) 203. Some of these appear to be hand stamped, but in other cases the press has been used.

each applicant on production of ticket admission, costing 50 cents. As the stamps will not be sold at any Post Office and are clearly not required for postal use, they can only be regarded as souvenirs and no collector need regret their omission from a new issue service. Whitfield King & Co.'s Bulletin.

ITALY.—The "Propaganda Fides" stamps were issued at the price of 16 per set of 4, and the same stamps reprinted for the four Colonies at 108 per set of 16. The sales do not appear to have come up to expectations, as the stock of remainders consisting of 130,000 sets of Italian and 14,000 sets of Colonies have been offered to us at a greatly reduced price. We are not entertaining an offer, as we do not consider these stamps a good investment. — Whitfield King & Co.'s Bulletin.

PARAMOUNT APPROVAL SERVICE
There's an intangible something about Paramount Approvals which makes them stand out distinctively from all others. Perhaps it is the immaculate condition, the exceptional quality, of all the stamps. Perhaps it is the very moderate prices, and the prompt, courteous service. Discerning collectors are relying more and more on Paramount Selections in building their collections on a worth-while basis.

We want YOU, without obligation, to inspect a trial selection. Simply fill in and mail the coupon below.

NAURA.—We are officially informed that the British stamps overprinted for this island were withdrawn and the whole stock on hand destroyed on March 14th.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Bulletin.

NEW ZEALAND.—Jellicoe stamps? The Daily Mail Wellington correspondent says that in connection with the campaign to advertise New Zealand, a movement is on foot to print a special set of stamps bearing the head of Lord Jellicoe, Governor-General, to commemorate his five years' service and his great popularity in the Dominion.

Such stamps, it is considered, will be treasured by collectors and the general public in all parts of the world, making New Zealand better known.

The authorities are inquiring whether the King's representative can be used as an advertising medium—and we have no doubt the answer will remain, like the photograph, in the negative.—Philatelic Magazine.

ST. KITTS-NEVIS.—Mr. R. Roberts advises of the appearance of the 6d, 1920-1922 pictorial issue, on script watermark paper.

STRAITS SETTLEMENTS.—The 4c value has been issued in purple on script paper. Mr. R. Roberts sends a copy for our inspection.

SWEDEN.—Mr. R. Roberts sends for chronicle a set of stamps called a "Birthday" Commemorative. The values up to and including the 80ö picture a rider on a speeding horse with the words "Union Postale Universelle 1874-1924." The value is in the upper right corner and at the base the word "Sverige." The three higher values show a bird with a letter flying above the world. The values are: 5ö red brown, 10ö green, 15ö violet, 20ö red, 25ö orange, 30ö blue, 35ö black, 40ö olive, 45ö brown, 50ö grey, 60ö maroon, 80ö blue green, 1kr green, 2kr red, 5kr blue.

TANGIERS.—Following the altered status of Tangiers, the French P. O. has been merged with the local postal service which is administered by France. As from August 1st, Morocco stamps will be sold at Tangiers as elsewhere in the protectorate. The Tangier stamps will be withdrawn from sale both locally and at Paris, and will be burnt.—Philatelic Magazine.

TRANS-CAUCASIAN REPUBLIC.—We are informed by Mr. Godfrey White that this republic stopped the issue of separate stamps "over three months ago."—Philatelic Magazine.

YUGO-SLAVIA.—De La Rue series. Of the series chronicled on Aug. 9, the 2, 10, 15, 20 and 30 dinars have also appeared, says Briefmarken-Rundschau (Aug. 15).—Philatelic Magazine.

URUGUAY.—Yet another commemorative issue! On July 29th three stamps were issued to celebrate the return of the Uruguayan winners of the Olympian Football Match. The stamps were on sale for three days only and our agent could only obtain five sets. The values are 2c dull rose, 5c mauve and 12c pale blue. The stamps are oblong in shape, crudely lithographed and we confess we are completely baffled by the design, which remotely resembles a female on a raft waving a petticoat in one hand and holding a large bowl, probably the prize, in the other. Below this appears the inscription "Uruguay MCMXXIV Juegos Olimpicos." Our agent's letter to us was franked with a set of these stamps and bore a special postmark "Uruguay, Campeonato Mundial de Football." The stamps will probably be interesting to footballers, if not to philatelists.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Bulletin.

Air-Mail Fan's Attention

The new Zeppelin is coming this month from Germany to America, carrying a total cargo of 100 kilogrammes.

Through much work and expense I succeeded in getting a few cards accepted and addressed to me.

My special price is $7.50 per card. This is an unique event in history and through the extremely limited cargo there will be very little mail on it.

Send your order immediately, it is an "unusual chance".

Should anything happen to the Zeppelin and the mail doesn't arrive, your money will be refunded immediately.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—This summer I visited the monastery in Ghent where in 1813 the Treaty of Ghent, concluding the War of 1812 with Great Britain, was signed. Somebody in the monastery is evidently quite a collector of stamps. They have large picture frames filled with miscellaneous stamps, but what suggested my writing to you is the novelty of papering rooms with postage stamps. There are two or three large rooms, say 25 feet square, with 15 foot ceilings, where the entire walls are papered with Belgium postage stamps. After the stamps were pasted on the walls they were probably treated with a coat of shellac. They have used the different colors to work out different figures of flowers and birds, etc.—CALVIN W. RICE.

—Francis J. Field informs us that the remittances made for the North Polar Flight cards will be retained for the flight venture proposed next year from Italy. Those who were interested in the expedition that was to start from Christiania will be glad to receive this information from the Danish agents. It is only another case of patient waiting.

—Rutherford, N. J., collectors, gathered Sept. 6, and organized a stamp club with H. A. Fonda as secretary-treasurer. Meetings will be held every Saturday afternoon from 1 to 4 P. M. at the Pierrette tea-room.

—F. S. Eaton of New Haven, Conn., is on a trip abroad but will attend to correspondence on his return this fall.

—The September-October issue of Harris & Co.'s Bi-Monthly Journal is at hand. It is a pretentious magazine of 36 pages and in addition to an alluring display of offers it contains a copyrighted story by Stephen F. Harris "The Dark Continent." The magazine is attractively arranged and printed.

—We may look for a special set of stamps in 1926 to celebrate the 150th anniversary of American independence. The Liberty Bell, Independence Hall, and the Signing of the Declaration of Independence will doubtless make up some of the subjects.

—BUDAPEST Sept. 5.—The Hungarian government has lifted the embargo on rare stamps and stamp collections. It also has decreed that since August 1 all passport fees must be paid in gold kronen.

—The postmasters at direct and central accounting offices "holding Pilgrim Tercentenary postage of the 5c denomination in stock in full packages of 7,000 stamps each are directed to report the quantities to the Department and to withhold the stamps from sale until instructions are received. Postmasters holding less than a full package of 5c Pilgrim stamps need not submit a report. W. Irving Glover, Third Assistant Postmaster-General."

—Mr. D. C. Turnbull, Mishawaka, Ind., has sent us a metered 2c envelope used by the Dodge Mfg. Corporation of that city. The company also uses the 1c. The machine employed is Pitney-Bowes.

—In "Our Porto Rico" Century magazine of August, 1920, Mr. Harry A. Franck says: "The American who noting the Stars and Stripes floating everywhere (in Porto Rico) and post-offices selling the old, familiar postage stamps, fancies he is back in his native land again, is due for a shock."

Portuguese Colonies

We offer at an Exceptionally Low Price one of the Best and Most Complete Collections of Portuguese Colonies which has ever passed through our hands

This collection was included in the stock of a large foreign dealer recently purchased by us, and it is our desire to offer it intact at a price low enough to draw an immediate purchaser. It is impossible to do full justice in describing this offering, and we shall endeavor only to give the most important details:

The collection contains exactly 3,100 different stamps — every one a distinct major variety. Twentieth century issues are almost complete for all of the colonies. Among the gems are Angola Nos. 116, 134-151; Cape Verde 136 and 138; Mozambique 164a, 184-88, Congo 119, 122a; Portuguese India 262-396 practically cpl.; St. Thomas 116-166, etc., etc. Unused stamps are in the majority, and used copies are lightly cancelled in most cases. Condition throughout is really superb, great care having evidently been taken by the former owner in the selection of fine copies.

Total Catalogue Value is Approximately $2,250.00

Catalogue values on Portuguese Colonies have been greatly reduced during the past three years and it is common knowledge that many of these stamps, particularly the scarcer ones, are now very much underpriced.

We do not believe this collection could be replaced—stamp for stamp—at less than $1,000.00. As a straight dyed-in-the-wool proposition for collector or dealer, it has our highest recommendation. For immediate clearance we offer the collection intact for

OUR PUBLIC LIBRARY HONOR ROLL.

Frank L. Coes of Worcester, Mass., makes us a remittance of $6 for four library subscriptions, included in which is the Worcester Free Public Library for three years. Mr. Coes asks us to enter these subscriptions as credited to the Worcester Stamp Club, but we should not be at all surprised to learn that Mr. Coes is himself, making this payment for the service to be rendered. Mr. Coes is an active member of the Worcester Stamp Club and is demonstrating in more ways than one his interest in philately. The WEEKLY has had occasion many times to make use of his talents, and takes advantage of this opportunity to give him this bit of credit.

The membership in our Five-Year Honor Club continues to grow until we now have a very imposing array of names upon our list. This week we have the privilege of adding L. C. Ernst, druggist, located at Scranton, Pa., at the corner of Larch and Wyoming Aves. Mr. Ernst remits a check for $5 for a five years' renewal of subscription and is now entitled to the advanced degree of M. H. C.

We enter as members of the Honor Club, Robert Sypes, Quakertown, Pa., and G. F. Provost, A. P. S. 7195, Mansfield, La. Both of these philatelists nonchalantly remit $5, as though it is a common occurrence in their lives. We know it is not.

We give J. E. Guest a very high place in our Hall of Fame. Here is a man entitled to the WEEKLY regularly as an advertiser who remits $5 for a five-year subscription. Everybody knows Mr. Guest and we hope the members of the Honor Club will give him a particularly warm hand, especially in A. P. S. Exchange Dept. affairs. Read what Mr. Guest writes us:

"Altho a constant advertiser in the WEEKLY and thus entitled to a free copy, I at the same time believe it is time for me to fall in line and enclose my 'five bucks' to join the Honor Club. When I first started on my philatelic career when a kid in the East, I was a reader of the WEEKLY; a few years later, having become inactive, my interest was revived when running across a copy in the Chattanooga, Tenn., public library in 1908. Having gradually ascended in philatelic circles to a place where I serve a society of 3,000 members to the extent of turning nearly $45,000 in stamps for them a year, I feel that it is time that I showed further co-operation and joined your Honor Club. SOME PICTORIAL SUGGESTIONS

(The author of this contribution prefers that we shall not make public his name. Why not? If the Managing Editor permits it to pass his eagle eye, the author should have a share in the glory attached to its publication.—W. O. W.)

Gentlemen:—

Referring to the matter of commemorative stamp issues, it has occurred to the writer that it might be more appropriate, instead of celebrating some event of the past, to celebrate present happenings for the edification of future generations. For example, we might get out an issue of commemorative stamps at the present time as follows:

- 1c—Portrait of Andrew Volstead.
- 2c—Portrait of Fall, flanked on either side by Sinclair and Doheny after the manner of the 1921 commemorative issue of China.
- 3c—Collision between a Train and an Automobile at a Grade Crossing.
- 4c—Kentucky Night Riders Raiding a Tobacco Field.
- 5c—Klan Mob Flogging a Citizen.
- 6c—A Forest Fire.
- 7c—W. R. Hearst. This should be in black on yellow paper.
- 8c—Portrait of Leopold and Loeb in hexagonal form, like a coffin. I think this design would be improved by small portraits of four distinguished Alienists in the four corners.
- 9c—A picture of the Herrin Massacre.
- 10c—A picture of the Democratic Convention, New York, about the One Hundredth Ballot.
- 11c—Bootleggers making a landing on the Long Island Coast. The 1900 issue of the Turks and Caicos Islands would serve as a model for this.
- 12c—A Lynching Bee.

Other appropriate designs might doubtless be suggested for the higher denominations.

UPPER SILESIA AND ITS STAMPS.

By REV. J. S. DALLMANN, 2509 Nueces St., Austin, Texas.

Through the late war many little countries and peoples, of whom the world at large knew little or nothing, have come into the foreground. People became interested in them. One of the countries of which so little has been known, but which since the signing of the Treaty of Versailles has interested the world and also in not a little degree the noble adherents of the stamp collecting profession is without doubt the little district of upper Silesia. How little indeed was known about this country can be illustrated by the fact that even quite a number of Silesians with whom the writer had an opportunity to speak since the signing of the treaty of Versailles thought and maintained that Upper Silesia was the district of Liegnitz, the part which really is called Lower Silesia, in German Niederschlesien and in Polish Dolny Slask. This mistake might perhaps be due to the fact that Lower Silesia is a mountainous country, whereas Upper Silesia is, with a few exceptions, mostly a plain.

Upper Silesia has since 1740 been an integral part of the Prussian Province of Silesia. It is the extreme southeast corner of the German Empire. One of its most interesting spots until the conclusion of the war was the Three Emperors' Corner (Dreikaiserecke), where Russia, Austria and Germany met. This place has now been assigned to Poland.

Of the early history of this country little is known. Tacitus, and other Roman writers, tell us that the original inhabitants of Silesia were the Germanic tribes of the Lugians and Vandals.
Around the Mountain of Zobten the Sil-ingians, another Germanic tribe, have had their abode. To the latter Silesia thanks its name. About 410, during the great migration, these tribes left and went southwest, and were finally lost among the Vissy Goths. Only a few remnants of the tribe of the Silingians remained for yet a considerable time in their original country.

After these tribes had left, the Poles began to pour into Silesia, and up to the year 1000 Silesia was dominated by Poland. Then it fell to Bohemia. While under Bohemian rule, the country's affairs were administered by national princes of the house of Piast. These princes, commonly called Piasts, after the name of the first prince of this house, called German artisans, merchants and farmers to Silesia, where their settlements and cities were endowed with German rights. The Poles had done nothing for the development of the country.
There were only two classes of people among them, the nobles and the serfs.
The only difference between them lay in the fact that the former were rich and the latter poor. Both classes were uncultured and uncivilized, and vied with each other for excellence in ignorance. Under Bohemian and Austrian rule Silesia became a civilized country. After the death of Emperor Charles the 6th, Maria Theresia succeeded to the crown. A dispute arose between her and Frederick the Great of Prussia about Silesia which led to three wars, at the end of which Silesia was ceded to Prussia, under whose rule she has been ever since.

While the population of Lower and Middle Silesia are Germans, the population of the rural districts of Upper Silesia are Poles or descendants of Poles. As they had seen how their brethren in the kingdom of Poland, whose affairs were administered by Russia, had been treated, their sympathies indeed were with Germany, which has done everything to uplift the Poles of Upper Silesia. When the Republic of Poland was established after the war was over, it was decided that a plebiscite was to be taken in Upper Silesia, and to let the people decide as to whether they wanted to remain with Germany or join Poland. America was to take over the administration of that district until after the plebiscite. And the people of Upper Silesia had full confidence in the fairness of the Americans. Alas, Congress voted this down, and England, Italy and France occupied the country under the leadership of France. The French did everything to intimidate the Germans and to encourage the Poles. We will have an opportunity later to speak about this. But in spite of this, an overwhelming majority (two thirds) voted for staying with Germany.

Upper Silesia had, before a part of it had been ceded to Poland, an area of 13,098.73 square kilometers, and a population of 2,033,685. The importance of the country lies in its rich coal and ore mines.

The Inter-allied Commission arrived in Upper Silesia on February 12th, 1920, and stayed until July 9th, 1922. Like in other parts of Germany where plebiscites were taken, the Inter-allied Commission issued special stamps for Upper Silesia. These stamps were printed in the French State Printery in Paris. But since the stamps did not arrive until February 20, 1920, the stamps of Germany were being used by the public. Only the stamps used for the official mail of the members of the Inter-allied Commission were provided with the hand-stamped surcharge: C. I. H. S. (Commission Interalliée Haute Silésie), i.e. Inter-allied Commission of Upper Silesia. Scott 200-220. The 5, 15 and 20 pfennig values were first surcharged in red, while the other values were surcharged in violet blue. As the same hand-stamp was used for surcharging all the stamps, several shades, from red to red violet, can be found. Later all stamps were surcharged in violet blue. They had run out of 2-pfennig stamps, and had sent some to Oppeln, the headquarters of the Commission from rural post-offices. By mistake a few of the obsolete 2pf stamps, Scott Germany No. 80, were surcharged and postally used. Some of the stamps of Germany Nos. 475 and 476 were also thus surcharged. These stamps, which are called "Oppelner Notausgabe," i. e., Emergency edition of Oppeln, belong to the rarest post war editions. These stamps were only surcharged as they were being used during office hours. After office hours the hand stamp was locked away. These stamps will soon be very good property. Collectors who want to acquire these stamps are, however, warned to be very careful, as 99% of these stamps that are being advertised are fakes. These stamps ought not to be bought unless the seller guarantees that they are genuine. These stamps were discontinued on February 20, 1920, when special stamps for Upper Silesia had arrived from Paris. The stamps of the Oppeln emergency edition were surcharged in the following numbers: I quote the catalogue numbers of the German stamps as this will make it easier for the reader to follow:

3pf brown, No. 81, 1400 copies.

2½pf gray, No. 95, 1380 copies.

5pf green, No. 82, 2150 copies.

7½pf orange, No. 96, 1660 copies.

10pf carmine, No. 83, 1900 copies.

1 Mark, carmine rose, No. 91, 320 copies.

2 Marks, gray blue, No. 92, 150 copies.

10pf carmine rose, No. 105, 1700 copies.

15pf chocolate and blue, No. 106, 450 copies.

25pf green and red, No. 107, 250 copies.

30pf red violet and red, No. 108, 460;

No. 475 carmine 10pf, 120 copies.

15pf No. 476, dark violet, 110 copies.

On February 20, 1920, the so-called first edition of the stamps of Upper Silesia were placed for sale at the post-offices. These are the Nos. 1-9 of Scott's catalogue. It would lead us too far to enumerate all the different shades and misprints of this edition, which are only of interest to collectors specializing in this country. It is impossible to ascertain the quantity in which these stamps were issued, but it can safely be stated that the number was rather small, as about the end of February, i. e., about a week after they were issued, the 2½ and 3 pfennig as well as the 1 Mark values were exhausted. A week later the 5 10 and 50pf values were sold out, and about the middle of March the 5 Mark value. As the second issue, Scott Nos. 15-31 was still in preparation, the authorities had to surcharge the stamps on hand with new values. Ten and 20pf stamps had also been cut in halves and used as 5 and 10pf respectively. The order was first issued that 4 million of the 20pf value were to be surcharged 10pf. These stamps were surcharged in red. It must be mentioned that the stamps were printed in sheets of six blocks, each block consisting of 25 stamps. Thus each sheet contained 150 stamps. It also may be mentioned here that a few sheets of the 20pf value remained imperforated, and that two of these imperforated sheets have been surcharged 10 Pf. Collectors should be careful when buying these stamps, and only pairs ought to be acquired.

The stamps were surcharged in a local printing shop at Oppeln, the capital of Upper Silesia. As they did not have sufficient type of one kind, they used four different kinds as given in Scott's catalogue, Nos. 12, I-IV. But there are also two more minor varieties not mentioned in Scott's catalogue, and which ought to be mentioned. The printers did not only use four different types of figures, surcharging the stamps, but also two different types of the letter P in Pf. The lower part of the head of the P lies in an acute angle to the stem instead of horizontally. As these are only on some of the type I and II, they could be catalogued as type Ia and IIa. On the 8th stamp of the second block, part of the f broke off, which gave the f the appearance of an i. The surcharge therefore reads, 10 Pi, instead of Pf.

The surcharge can be found in the following position: 10 on 20 normal, inverted, double surcharge, double surcharge inverted, double surcharge one normal and one inverted, Pi instead of Pf, 10 without Pf, 01 instead of 10, and Pf above instead of underneath the 10.

On March 12, 1920, another surcharge appeared. This time it was the 50 Pf. on 5 Mark orange, Scott 13. The surcharge is a shining deep black color. There are five different types of the 5, as given in Scott's catalogue, and also two types of the P, which could be catalogued IIa and IIIa. There is another variety of the type I. The letters became loose while in operation in consequence of which they moved a little. The 0 on this stamp is two Millimeters from the 5 instead of ¾. As only one stamp in a sheet has thus been surcharged, and this was soon discovered and remedied, this stamp is naturally very rare.

There are the following varieties of the 50 Pf. on the 5 Mk. edition: 5 different types of numerals as given in Scott's catalogue, two types of the P, Pi instead of Pf, Fr instead of Pf, and a double surcharge. As comparatively few of these stamps (40,000) have been surcharged, and they already are scarce, it is no wonder that many of the surcharges were faked. Collectors should be very careful and buy only stamps of this issue that are guaranteed.

A day or two after the 50 Pf. on 5 Mk. stamp had made its appearance, the 5 Pf. on 20 Pf. blue was issued. The surcharge is similar to the 50 Pf./5 Mk. of shining below the Pf, and pair, one without the surcharge.

In connection with this a word must also be said about the 5 Pf. on 15 Pf. violet, Scott No. 10. When the 5/20 stamps were being surcharged, it was discovered that a few sheets of the 15pf stamps were among the 20pf ones, whereupon the printers telephoned to the post-office for instruction as to what should be done with them. "Surcharge them too," was the answer, and the stamps were surcharged. When the stamps were brought to the post-office, some of the officials sorted them out and bought all of them. These stamps were admitted for postage, and they are some of the rarest stamps of Upper Silesia. But on account of this the fakers have not been sleeping, and collectors should be very cautious as to the dealers from whom they buy these stamps.

Finally, in May, 1920, two sheets of 50 stamps each of the 5 Mk. were again surcharged for the members of the Universal Postal Union. As this Union has its headquarters in Berne, Switzerland, this edition, which can be easily distinguished from the first one on account of its dull black color, is called "Berne Ausgabe," i. e., Berne edition.

A TOUGH LITTLE BUNCH

Probably the most disreputable series of stamps in 99 albums in 100 is the set of United States stamps issued between 1882 and 1889. Off-hand one thinks of them as common stamps. They have been very low priced until recent years, but now they gain consistently in value with each new issue of the standard catalog. Even in the advance sheets of the new catalog we think many of them are underpriced, and any collector who has tried to make up some attractive pages of the 3c vermilion, 4c green and 4c carmine Jacksons, 5c brown and 5c blue Garfields, not to mention the 6c re-engraved, will agree with us.

Many things combined to make fine copies of all these stamps scarce. Comparatively frequent changes of color made smaller printings than of the preceding stamps; thick, soft paper which absorbed the ink smeared on them by generally atrocious cancellations; paper that thinned easily unless the stamps were thoroughly soaked; colors that seemed to run if the stamps were soaked. Fine used copies of the 6c Indian red we believe are at least ten times as rare as the 10c '47. Just a little specialization will, we believe, clear these stamps from the market. There won't be a better time to fill the spaces.

ANOTHER FERRARI SESSION.

By PHILIP H. WARD, Jr.

Through the courtesy of M. G. Gilbert,
 I have received a catalog of a further session of the Ferrari sale, which will be held in Paris on November 19th, 20th and 21st next. In view of these dates, the sale of the famous Waterhouse collection in London has been advanced one week and will consequently be held on November 11th, 12th, 13th and 14th.

This session of the Ferrari sale, we find devoted mostly to France, Ceylon, India and Moldavia, with some choice pieces from one or two other countries thrown in.

In the way of France, practically all of the tête-bêche varieties are represented in pairs and blocks in beautiful mint condition. I especially note a wonderful block of four of the 1 franc vermilion, showing the lower right stamp inverted. This piece is said to be unique and I note is not priced in the catalog.
 There is a tête-bêche pair of the 15c on cover in combination with other varieties.
 There are several unused pairs of the 20c, as well as the 25c and a beautiful strip of five of the 40c, showing the two types. In the case of the rare 1 franc carmine, which, of course, does not approach the vermilion in scarcity, we find two tête-bêche pairs of this variety which by the way is listed at $2,000 by Scott.
 In the Napoleon issue there is a block of thirty of the 20c essay with the thirteenth stamp inverted. A magnificent block of the 1 franc showing the têtebêche variety is present, and this piece will no doubt bring in the neighborhood of $4,000 to $5,000. In the perforated issues of 1863-70 we find both a block of nine and an entire sheet of the 4c, showing the tête-bêche variety. Later issues are equally as fine.

As for Ceylon, the entire first set is represented by superb single mint copies with margins, including the rare 4d, of which I believe only five other copies are known in unused condition. The 8d and 9d are also beautiful mint copies, and these are almost equally as rare. In the perforated issues, there are some especially choice pieces.

English occupation of German countries during the recent war are well represented, including the high value Samoa of which only a very few are known. There is also some of the scarce Bushire.

There are some very choice pieces of the 4 annas of the first issue of India, including mint pairs of the different settings. I especially note a wonderful pair showing the corner ornaments. The same variety is represented in a used pair. There is a block of the commoner setting, although in this shape must be exceedingly scarce. I note an inverted center copy but it is sold as is, and as experts have claimed that the variety is not known except cut to shape, it is quite likely that this stamp is not genuine.

Next to the France, the Roumania are probably the finest lot. The first Molda-vian issue is present in superb unused copies with large margins, including a magnificent 81 pa. He also has a wonderful used copy equally as rare of the same stamp. In the later issues, there are many oddities, some of which are no doubt unique.

This session also contains some fine Natal as well as an unusual lot of Portuguese India and Shanghai.

It is fortunate that the date of the Waterhouse sale has been changed so that these two important auctions do not conflict, for this will give those of us who are going abroad to attend the Waterhouse sale the opportunity of being present at the Ferrari sessions.

THE FIRST POST-CARDS.

By AUGUST DIETZ.

There has been some controversy over the question "Who Invented the Postcard?" The facts, thus far established, are as follows: In 1865, Von Stephan submitted to the delegates at a German Postal Congress held in Carlsruhe, a "new kind of letter in the shape of an open card (offenes Postblatt)," on one side of which was to be written the name and address and on the other side the communication. This plan, however, was not adopted, owing chiefly to the fear that this low-rate commodity would tend to reduce the postal revenue.
 Whether or not this scheme was known to Dr. Emanuel Herrman, of Vienna, is not recorded, but it is a fact that Dr.
 Herrman made a similar suggestion to the Austrian postal officials in 1869, supplementing his idea with an article in the Neue Freie Presse. The Austrian authorities promptly recognized the value and importance of the suggestion, and carried it into effect on October 1st of that same year. Six months later the North German Confederation adopted the postcard, followed by the South German States, then by Belgium, Great Britain and France.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—Mr. Edwin P. Seeböhm, San Francisco, California, passed through Chicago on a trip, whose objective is Stockholm, Sweden, where Mr. Seeböhm will visit his mother. It is his expectation to return in about two months, and we have no doubt that Mr. Seeböhm will make a rather extended tour of the Continent and Great Britain before he embarks for home. Mr. Seeböhm showed us a number of interesting covers combining United States and British Columbia stamps on Wells Fargo and Company franked envelopes. During the absence of Mr. Seeböhm his business affairs will be looked after by Mr. Theo. L. Behr and Mr. Herbert Seeböhm, both of whom are competent to take a hand at the helm.

—The annual meeting of the Metropolitan Philatelic Association will be held at Philadelphia, on the 21st day of October, 1924, at ten A. M., and upon succeeding days, if necessary, for the transaction of business that might be presented. The chairman of the committee on credentials is Mr. P. M. Wolsieffer, and Mr. A. E. Carpenter is the chairman of the committee on arrangements. The call for the convention is signed by Col. J. M. T. Partello, President. We notice that Col. Partello is the sole nominee for president for the ensuing year; and also that Mr. Bachand-Vertefeuille, Chicago, for vice-president and Dr. Hennan, Chicago, for secretary have no opposition on the official ballot.

—John P. Cooper, Red Bank, N. J., would like the present address of S. Anderson, 105 South St., Providence, R. I., "Removed."

—Frank S. Thompson, chairman of the Winnipeg Exhibition Publicity Committee sends us the official program mailed at the special post-office established at the Second Annual Exhibition and Philatelic Convention held at Winnipeg, Sept. 17-20. The envelope is an interesting cover, showing as it does the fine beaver cancellation gotten out by the postal department especially for Exhibition purposes. We congratulate the committee having the affair in charge upon the very excellent program and the marked enterprise exhibited.

—The St. Louis Globe-Democrat recently published a story about the Paris stamp bourse written by O. O. McIntyre.

Thanks to Edwin G. Dickhaut for clipping.

—The veteran dealer J. E. Handshaw has arrived home from his European trip. He writes that he will soon be heard from with a page advertisement.

—Charles Johnson, Grantwood, N. J., would like the name and address of party in Obar, N. Mex., who sent him an order Sept. 14, unsigned.

—The Fargo Stamp Co., of Fargo, N. D., a new stamp firm, has contracted for space in adlets and will be heard from regularly during the coming season.

—P. M. Wolsieffer advises us of the death of Joseph Gallant, Hempstead, N. Y., which took place Sept. 16. No particulars are at hand but we have known that for a few weeks Mr. Gallant has been in poor health. His advertising was discontinued in August. For many years he has used the WEEKLY, was a member of the A. P. S., and made a valuable member of the A. P. S. Recruiting Committee.

—The work of the Publicity Committee appointed by the President of the American Philatelic Society will be closely followed 'we should judge from the tenor of communications that have reached us, and it would seem as if those who give close attention to expenditures of the society are reconciled to the test that is to be made and are willing to give the experiment every chance to succeed. We quote from a letter received from Mr. C. F. Richards, New York City: "What I would like is the steady, if slow, growth of our hobby as in the past. However, I have no objections to the thousand dollar appropriation providing it does not come from the stock fund. I hope you agree with me that the stock fund should be allowed to accumulate, and sometime the interest will take care of publicity."

—Some time ago, we received Number Two of Air Mail, published by Eugene Klein, Philadelphia, at ten cents. The first issue of the booklet appeared over two years ago, and in the present issue it is said that the collecting of air mail stamps has grown extensively since that time; and some dealers even are almost making an exclusive business of air mail issues. There are sixteen pages in the number under notice, and we see that practically all of the air mail stamps are listed in unused condition. The 24c car-

—The convention of the Metropolitan Philatelic Association which had been called for September will be held October 21-22, at Philadelphia. The changed date is due to the fact that forty days had to elapse after the closing of nominations, which took place August 25.

—Frank Sellman, Hotel Montana, Portland, Ore., will be very glad to have ideas and suggestions in regard to the management of a junior stamp club. He has already organized a club in Portland which has taken a strong hold upon the boys of that city, and market enterprise has been shown in interesting and enlisting new members. We hope from time to time to publish article dealing with the management and programs of junior stamp clubs and shall be very glad to publish some short articles from promoters of these clubs.

—A Saturday Afternoon Stamp Club has just been organized which will meet every Saturday afternoon to discuss philatelic subjects at 15 South William St., N. Y. City. H. A. Fonda is Secretary and Treasurer and many of the downtown collectors have enrolled as members.

—I noticed in MEKEEL's for Sept. 1 an inquiry as to the location of Charleston, Four Corners. It is in the south central part of Montgomery County, New York, about 15 miles (air line) south of Fonda, the county seat. Its population as given in the 1910 census is 105.

MR. PARCHE CLAIMS THE HONOR.

Although Erich Parche is now residing in New York City, he takes exception to our giving Mr. Bergman the honor of being the first Mexico member of the Five-Year Club. We are of the opinion that Mr. Parche presents a good case and Mr. Bergman will without doubt relinquish to him the "first" place in the list of Mexican members. We quote from Mr. Parche's letter:

"September 15 I read that Mr. G. (Bergman of Jalapa, Mexico, in making his application for membership in the Honor Club expressed the belief that I was probably the first member of the Five-Year Club from Mexico and that you are very glad to accord him that honor."

In this connection I wish to say that the first application from Mexico for membership in the Five-Year Club I doubt must have been the one you received from me, when in 1923 I sent you $5.00 in U. S. gold coins from Cordoba, Ver. Mexico. Therefore, the honor of Number One from Mexico is mine, despite the fact that I am no longer residing in Mexico."

The Bi-Monthly Journal

Each issue consists of from 36 to 48 large pages, profusely illustrated, and replete with attractive philatelic offerings, news items, interesting articles and editorials, etc.

C. A. Ralston of Waterloo, Iowa, writes:

"I am paying subscription charges for two large house organs, but would rather get along without both of them than to lose yours. If necessary, I know that I could pay a substantial subscription to the Bi-Monthly and save all of it on stamps offered in a single issue."

The September-October number, now ready for distribution, is the best and most important one of all— [64]

BUSINESS CREDIT.

During the past two years the WEEKLY has made it a practice to co-operate with the American Stamp Dealers' Association in connection with honest business methods, and we shall do this to an even larger degree during the present season. It has been the aim of the WEEKLY to constantly improve the business ethics of the stamp trade and we can point to many accomplishments in this direction.

If we were disposed to do so we could procure a large amount of questionable advertising which would be quite profitable to our publication but disastrous to collectors. We propose to protect the trade and the collecting fraternity more than ever this coming season. We shall not require that a dealer shall be a member of the A. S. D. A., but when complaints come in against dealers who may be using our columns, such a course may be found necessary.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

A reader has written to say that he thinks there is much that could be written in reference to recent issues of U. S. revenue stamps that seems to have been left unsaid; or, at least, he has not succeeded in having found answers to questions that form themselves naturally in his mind relative to the "ifs" and "ands" of certain revenues. It is perhaps true that the 20th century U. S. revenues issued from the time of our war period, 1914, to the present, seem to have been taken as a matter of course, and have not caused the usual flutter of interest on the printed page. The $50.00 violet of the 1914 documentary series is a stamp whose history was fully covered at the time it was succeeded by the $60.00 brown. The story of the 1/2, 1, 1 1/2 and 3c proprietaries 1914 was told with a sense of its dramatic values in the WEEKLY which was the first publication to announce the fact of the existence of these stamps. Through the pertinacity of Mr. R. L. Wickes, these stamps which were prepared for use but never used became available for collectors, and while they are catalogued at something above the normal price, yet they may be had at a figure by no means prohibitive. The 1916 or ninth issue wine stamps brought into being the large values, $20.00 to $100.00 exclusively, and they have been described with full attention to detail. The surcharging of the 1917 set for "stock transfer" and "future delivery" use has provided an interesting field, the intensive cultivation of which affords the collector no little "inside information." Suffice it to say here in respect to the "future delivery" surcharges, that in 1920 the government required monthly reports of all transactions with the total tax calculated on all transactions. The stamps equalling the taxable amount were affixed to the sheet and cancelled, and the bills handed into the office of the collector of internal revenue to be filed and ultimately sent to Washington, where after due verification they are destroyed. Latterly, there have been not a few of the high value "future delivery" stamps on the market, but if the cancelled dates on the stamps are examined it will be found that most of them were used, no doubt, before November, 1920, when the present manner of recording the tax was allowed. The narcotic stamps are not stabilized as to values, and there does not seem to be much public participation of the collecting of them. The playing card stamps, issued from 1917 on, give quite a range for the specialist and some of the stamps, we understand, are much scarcer than may be generally believed. All in all, the revenue stamps from 1914 on are of an interest by no means ordinary, and we think that there will be more inquiry concerning them than at present before long.

In looking through the columns of our contemporary, the Australian Philatelist, Sydney, New South Wales, we find in the minutes of the Newcastle Philatelic Society the following paragraph: "Correspondence was also received from the Queensland Philatelic Society seeking our co-operation in an endeavor to secure the establishment of a philatelic branch at the main post-offices where stamps suitable for philatelists could be purchased. It was the opinion of members present that the establishment of such a branch would not be in the best interests of philately or philatelists, and it was resolved to advise the Queensland Society accordingly." This is a new slant at the question of accommodations for collectors, and while we must think that the society who discouraged the movement has a good reason for its decision, yet it would seem as if it would be a step in advance to have philatelists and their wants or whims recognized and provided for officially.

Admissions have been made by different collectors that they do not subscribe to the prevailing sentiment that it is necessary for the collector who really wishes to enter into the stamp activities of the day to dismiss general collecting from thought. It is somewhat of a coincidence that two of our old-time readers have written in to say the same thing in different words, and that is that general collecting may be followed even though it is restricted in its form to the extent that it need not take into consideration the common issues of a country or on the contrary, the rare issues of a stamp issuing place. In our opinion, the term general collector applies to those collectors who make no restrictions according to date or country and collect everything in the way of postage stamp issues, from first to last, throughout the world. We are afraid that our statement that the old-time general collector is almost an extinct species is all but true and that the adult general collector will soon be among the memories to be preserved in the philatelic casket.

It is strange how much difference a few years make in the general view regarding certain stamps. We remember that it was not so very many years ago when the first ad was received offering in our trade column catalogue value or so, which then was considerably under $1.00, for fine copies of the 5c 1847. Other examples could be cited to show that the attention of collectors when concentrated on any stamp or number of stamps insures an advance in price that in some cases is little short of spectacular. It seems but a short time ago when about the most neglected and forlorn lot of stamps were the Confederate general issues. In the stamp album that was usually brought out for the edification of the visitor there were only a few more or less nondescript copies of the stamps. Of course, it was known that the "ten" cents was scarce and likewise the 10c with outer frame; and that it was desirable to get the frame showing on all four sides if possible. Now, conditions are changed and the general portion of the catalogue seems to have taken on a fresher interest by reason of the attention given to Confederate stamps mainly through the appreciation of the

FINE MINT BLOCKS OF FOUR

If you want to make your collection beautiful, unique, and valuable, buy some MINT BLOCKS OF FOUR. We offer you an opportunity to purchase these blocks at wholesale rates. You can make your collection "different" from the average collection. Even the commonest stamp becomes beautiful in a block. You can get the full value of the color when you buy blocks, if you don't believe it, buy one of these "M.C." lots and see for yourself. As an investment, for the small dealers and exchangers, buying blocks of four is the best form of buying. The following groups represent the maximum for your money and they are certain to prove satisfactory no matter for what purpose you collect. Your money will be refunded if you wish it.

THE MELODIOUS CONTRAPTION 102 MINT AUSTRIA, $1.02
This is 1/4 of a cent a stamp. The catalog value is about $8.50. The beautiful Parliament type stamps are pretty enough to be worth the cost of the lot.

MUCH MORE CLUTTER 50 var. BLOCKS $2.04
MINT DANZIG
This group is guaranteed to catalog more than $10.00 by Scott's 1923. There are plenty of the scarcer provisionals, and airport items. Many of the stamps are bicolors and the lot surely is attractive. Just try one lot.

If you really want to "plunge" in Danzig, try THE MORE CLUTTER SPECIAL—110 superb mint BLOCKS—Catalog value in excess of $22.00—Some very elusive items—
$4.04. We can only make a very few of The More Clutter SPECIAL.

THE MAGYAR CROWD 102 BLOCKS OF HUNGARY, $2.04
ALL MINT & FINE
Many complete sets, including "The Portraits of the Soviet Convention Chiefs". The total catalog value by Scott's 1923 is about $12.50. A fine collection.

THE MARK CLIMAX 102 MINT BLOCKS OF GERMANY, $2.04
Including the 50 Mird.
There are 80 or more values 5000Mks and up, and the catalog value is guaranteed to be $14.00 or more by 1923 Scott's. The best bargain in German stamps on the market.

THE MIGHTY CONVENTION 102 MINT BLOCKS $2.04 of ALL the WORLD
We include from now on the BYRON COMMEMORATIVES and the new SMALL Costa Rica stamp. This "M.C." includes no block from the above packets. It is wonderful value for your money. Many countries are represented in this fine group.

THE MELODRAMATIC CATAclysm 500 MINT BLOCKS $10.20
Cataloging $50.00
Think of it, 500 different blocks from a lot of different countries. All mint and all fine. We guarantee the catalog value to be $50, but is really nearer $60. 102 Blocks of Austria, of Hungary, of Germany, and 50 Blocks of Danzig, 142 Blocks from the rest of the World. A remarkable lot and well worth your money.

stamps shown by a number of collectors who were in a position to indulge to the fullest extent their predilection for them.
If one only knew where lightning was going to strike it would be to the great advantage of him, but one of the fascinations of the monetary side of philately is that chance seems to shape the dollar destiny of the stamps as much as anything else.

We have received from Mr. Henry A.
Meyer, Evansville, Indiana, two old covers which were found in Princeton, Indiana, by Mr. E. R. Unthank. He calls our attention to the imprint "Via Railroad" in the upper left hand corner and to the 3c of 1857 with the cancellation "New Orleans" in each case. Mr.
Meyer says "A sort of revenge on the popular steamboat cancellations. The way I have figured it out, in the 50's and 60's all mail from New Orleans and way points for Evansville and vicinity came up on the boat unless especially marked,
'Via Railroad'. I have the printed inscription, and written also, but I believe these with printed directions are somewhat unusual." We thank Mr. Meyer and complacently add these two envelopes to our little lot of railroad envelopes showing phases of railroad carriage in a postalic sense.

We have received the official program of the stamp exhibition and philatelic convention that was held successfully at Winnipeg, September 17-20, 1924, inclu-sively. The letter has the special postmark in blue, "Postage Stamp Exhibition, P. O. September 18, 1924, Winnipeg, Canada," and the stamps on the envelope are postmarked with the attractive beaver cancellation, advertising the second annual Canadian postage stamp exhibition.
Mr. Thompson says: "This letter was mailed at the special post-office established at the Second Annual Canadian Stamp Exhibition and Philatelic Convention, September 17, 18, 19 and 20, 1924, Winnipeg, Canada." The Canadian collectors may well feel satisfied with their accomplishment and as we have said before, there is no question but that advertising that has resulted from this meeting will have a good general effect, with particular reference to Canada itself.

From Mr. F. H. Griswold, who is on the editorial staff of the monthly published by the Chicago Association of Commerce, we have received a clipping that described certain of the auction sales scheduled for New York, with a number of paragraphs of general philatelic interest added for good measure. Mr.

Griswold says, "The fact that the New York Times is giving considerable attention to philately may be a news to phil-atists but I thought it possible that the enclosed clipping would interest you. I rather surprised me to see one of the New York dailies devote so much space to this subject." Mr. Griswold is a newspaper man of many years' experience; and his observation is such as to make us feel all the more indebted to the enterprising New York Times for its liberal and intelligent treatment of philately. We assert that this great newspaper by recognizing the news value of the subject places itself in a position as a "forward-looking" newspaper; and while in time other papers will emulate the example of the Times, we feel sure, yet, it will have the satisfaction of knowing that it is the bell-wether of the flock.
We take the following paragraph from the Times: "Members of the Collectors' Club have been congratulating Alfred F.
Lichtenstein, Chairman of the Board of Trustees and one of the leading collectors in the United States on the award recently made to him by the Royal Philatelic Society of London of the Tillaermedal for a notable collection of the early 'Pence' issues of Canada which he exhibited before the society during the previous year. Other medals went to foreign collectors."

One of the principal characters in Carl Van Vechten's new book, "The Tattooed Countess," is a young man who is described as having passed through the various collecting stages, including that of postage stamps. In imagination, he traversed foreign lands whose stamp designs of "golden suns" and other fascinating insignia intrigued his thoughts. It would have been better for the young man if he had kept his mind on stamps instead of tempting fate's frown in the manner that he did. A stamp collection has kept many a boy and man, too, out of mischief. The writers of this day in any analysis of a boy's character recognize the stamp interest that usually enters into the calculations of the "little man" and by doing so, give their examinations a touch of realism that we do not object to.

We regret to learn of the death of Joseph Gallant of Hempstead, N. Y., whose activities as a dealer and as a society worker are well-known to our readers. Too, Mr. Gallant was a general collector, he has told us, and we deplore the loss that philately has sustained in his death.

24c Air Mail Invert, Mint

At the present time I am in a position to furnish a superb, well centered copy, and it must be remembered that only a portion were nicely centered, of the 1915 24c air mail stamp with inverted center.

Only one sheet of one hundred of this stamp exists, of which nineteen have straight edges and possibly thirty-two exist in blocks of four. This leaves about forty-nine singles available, of which about twenty-nine are centered to one side, leaving twenty fine copies. A dealer recently advertised to purchase this variety at $750, and I am now in a position to supply this copy at the same figure.

At present I have in stock a wonderful line of United States, including most everything with the exception of the rarities of our early issues, in superb used condition, and from 1890 on I have most everything in blocks and singles in perfection unused condition. Want lists are solicited from serious collectors, who appreciate fine stamps.

I am also in the market at all times to purchase at substantial prices fine properties and scarce single items in the way of our issues.

Quite often a collector accumulates fine duplicates that he would much prefer to exchange rather than sell for cash, and if this happens to be your case, send your duplicates along with your want list, and I will make a proposition that will appeal to you. On such a basis, stamps cataloging under fifty cents each are not desired.

No property is too large to handle and none too small if it contains fine items. The best of commercial, bank and philatelic references furnished on request.

Special Delivery Charges.

In a recent Chronicle I gave a resumé of that portion of the proposed Postal Bill, sponsored by the Postmaster General, which was of interest to the philatelist. Mr. Robert J. Wagner, an employee of the Department and one posted on its activities has written a very interesting letter dealing with this subject, from which I quote. This makes clear some of the details in the proposed Act, which to the layman seem ambiguous.

"At present, in addition to postage, the special delivery feature costs ten cents, and of the 10c, eight cents is paid to the employee making delivery. As the matter now stands, for the said 8c, any single piece of mail matter is given immediate delivery by a carrier to any point within the limits of delivery by regular city carrier, or to points within one mile of the post-office. Most such special delivery matter is delivered on a bicycle by substitute clerks or carriers not otherwise employed at the time. It is easily seen that when the heavier parcel post packages are given this service, 8c comes quite some distance short of being ample compensation for the service, that is, time and energy expended. stance, a parcel of type metal weighing near the 70 pound limit, for a printing plant a mile from the post-office, or a bundle of several auto tires, or a bushel basket of peaches weighing 60 pounds, which the carrier dares not sample when he sits down to rest. . . . These are not unusual cases, I see them frequently going thru our local post-office.

The evident intention is to make the 15c and 20c charges on the heavier parcels, paying as compensation to the carrier, 11c and 15c respectively, and has to my understanding, at least no 'sort of tax,' except the extra charge to the public for the service, which I am sure is worth it. The 8c and 10c scale, was no doubt plenty, before the parcel post was introduced.

As to the stamps, probably, if the new suggestions are favorably acted on, new special delivery stamps of the face value of 15c and 20c may be issued, altho in the case of the 20c, possibly two tens can be used. At present, special delivery service is given in Canada, to letters carrying two U. S. special delivery stamps, in addition to regular postage, but no 20c stamp has been issued to cover. But, of course, the demand for this service is probably not great enough to make such necessary, altho raising the domestic rates on certain parcels probably would do so."

As Congress is not in session, the proposal is not even in their hands, consequently the Department would not care to suggest what they might do providing the proposal is enacted into law. There is hardly any doubt but what there would be one or two new stamps to take care of these extra requirements.

New Envelope Contract.

Our readers were informed through this Chronicle a few weeks back that the department had entered into a new envelope contract for the period of four years beginning January 1st next, and that the contractors are the same that are at present furnishing our stamp paper.

I am now officially informed by the department that they have not as yet given consideration as to any changes either the design or paper but they will no doubt consider this matter at an earlier opportunity, and our readers will then be informed as to what the department contemplates doing.

As we have recently had a new series of postage stamps, and as we have not had a change in envelope design since 1916, it would not be a bad idea to give us a new set of envelopes at the beginning of the new contract.

New Provisional 2c on 3c Envelope.

Through the courtesy of Mr. H. Cla Reed, we have a new variety of the surcharged 2c on 3c envelope, issue of 1920 21 to chronicle. This variety is of the Washington type IV-17, size 7, die F, watermarked 20, with a high back. These were located in one of the Federal offices in Raleigh, N. C.

Odd Current Cancellation.

I recently received a communication with a railway mail postal cancellation which in addition to the regular name of the road and date contained the words, "Trans. Clerk." Mr. B. K. Miller has made inquiry as to the meaning of this notation, and we learn that the transfer clerk is the one who takes the mail from the depot receiving station to the post-office. While I have seen dozens of railway cancellations, this is the first with this notation that has ever come to my attention.

AUSTRALIA.—Mr William T. Traha under date of August 15th last sent copies of the 1½d red without watermark which was placed on sale at the General Post Office in Sydney the day before. Mr. Trahair refers to this as surprise issue and further notes that whether this is a provisional issue or not he has been unable to ascertain but that fair supplies of the stamp were received.

BARBADOS.—The British Guiana Philatelic Journal understands that there is under consideration a scheme for unifying the Postage and Revenue stamp and issuing one combined series for both purposes. It is not known exactly when the change will be put into effect, but the date is not expected to be a distant one.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal

Belgium.—Mr. R. Roberts advises of 10c brown in the Parcel Post series. I forwards a copy for chronicle.

Brazil.—Mr. A. A. Wasserscheid in referring to the recent issues of stamps in his country sends us three values that describes as follows:

200R vermilion, perforated 11½, type "A". This has no watermark. It is visible it may be the end of a sheet, yet the same time may be an issue without watermark as No. 227.

200R rose, perforated 13x13½, type "A". The watermark seems to be what might be called a Greek ornament, or an ornament made up of five pointed stars. One of the stamps has the letter "A". 200R orange, type A75. This is listed without watermark, yet apparently there is one which I am unable to decipher.

Since receiving these from Mr. Wasserscheid he informs us that Scott's Monthly Journal prints the following: "We have seen some copies of the current 200r rose, aviation design, on paper with a new watermark. This consists of a row of large five-pointed stars, with a row of 'Casa da Moeda' below each of the rows being repeated to cover the sheet. It is stated that this paper is intended for revenue stamps."

British Guiana.—The British Guiana Philatelic Journal states that stocks of the 48c, 60c and 96c on paper with old Multiple wmk. will last for a considerable period, there being little likelihood of further indents for these values in the present year. It is proposed to destroy certain stocks of stamps in hand, including booklets of the 1c and 2c, Ship type of 1907, which are used less owing to deterioration of the gum. The 2c stamp, supplied in rolls for use in a slot-machine whose use has been discontinued, is also suggested as a victim of an early holocaust.

Inverted watermarks noted. Old CA: 1c green, 6c grey and black. Script: 2c carmine, 2c bright violet.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

France.—Mr. Herbert L. Nichols informs us of the 75c (Pasteur stamp) in the same shade of blue as the 50c value.

Liberia.—Mr. H. Lueders shows us the 30c, 50c, 75c and 1, 2 and 5 dollars, both ordinary and service, of the current "plasters," on clear white paper instead of the coloured paper associated with earlier deliveries. Enquiries on the spot elicited the information that the colouring was probably due to the paper between which the stamps had been packed, as it was understood that no new printing had been made. We notice that the new Registration issue spells "Grenville" "Greenville," the former spelling having been current on previous registration stamps.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

Netherlands.—We are indebted to Dr. C. W. Hennan for the following information:

"The International Stamp Exhibition at the Hague (Dutch official name is Gravenhage) has been opened by one of our Ministers in the presence of our Prince-Consort (husband of our Queen) and inland and foreign collectors of world renown.

The exhibition is a big success, being the first real international exhibition after the war, as both Entente and Central collectors of renown have sent their collections, even the German Reichspost Museum is exhibiting, and the Jury is formed by Allied, Central and Neutral collectors of world fame. Our government is exhibiting a large collection of proofs of Netherlands and Colonies.

The exhibition stamps, 2 sets only, were supplied on one admission ticket, and ten sets to those who had signed Gld. 12.50 in the guarantee fund.

Quite a new series of Netherlands is appearing from 1 cent up to 5Gld. The 4c stamp is issued and the 10, 15, 30 and 40 will follow. (These are in the design of the exhibition stamps in other colors.)"

STAMP NEWS IN BRIEF.

BRITISH EMPIRE.

Australian Commonwealth.—Mr. L. J. F. French shows us a copy of the 1d, purple, with very shiny yellow gum, a variety we have not noticed before. Also the 1½d green, with a white line running across top of right value shield, to meet the "E" of "POSTAGE."

That informative journal, the Victorian Philatelic Record, states that instructions have been given that the large stock of paper with the Multiple watermark shall be used for the 1d value exclusively, so collectors will be spared a full set on this paper. The parcel of paper was discovered when taking stock prior to removal of the Government Printer's works to fresh premises. We gather that this gentleman is not enamoured of the Multiple paper for printing purposes.

Canada.—The Second Annual Convention and Postage Stamp Exhibition has been fortunate in securing pictorial postal publicity, a neat cancellation being now in use showing what we take to be a beaver in a central oval, with maple leaves in the corners, and suitable inscriptions. We are indebted to Mr. Wm. Van, the energetic General Secretary of the Exhibition, for a cover showing this cancellation.

Falkland Islands.—In the London Philatelist Mr. W. H. Lawson, F.R.P.S.L., states that, owing to a shortage of certain values in 1922, South Georgia asked the Postmaster at Port Stanley whether surcharging might be resorted to. While awaiting a reply he bisected the 2½d old C A, and copies were used as 1d stamps, these being noted in the English journals. The reply from Port Stanley, when it came to hand, forbade the surcharging, as further supplies were on the way, and no authority was given for the bisection, though copies of the bisected stamp certainly passed through the post in the ordinary way.

India.—A kind correspondent, who signs himself "Qoi Hai," states that it is now definitely decided that India shall print her own postage stamps on the expiration of the present contract. The press will be established at Nasik Station, about 120 miles from Bombay, on the main line of railway. Being situated at a height of about 2,000 feet above sea-level. Nasik has a temperate and equable climate suitable for the work which it is proposed to carry on there. The earliest supplies of the new Indian-printed stamps are not expected before the middle of next year, and provisional surcharges early next year are a possibility.

Irish Free State.—Mr. J. Breen shows us two distinct shades of the current shilling, one the ordinary pale blue, and the other of a deeper tone. We also owe him thanks for the first sight of the new 2d letter card which bears an impressed stamp in green, the central device being the Celtic harp.

Sarawak.—Messrs. Whitfield King & Co. point out that our catalogue only lists one shade each of the 1c and 3c of 1899-1908, whereas they show us several of each value. In the 1c they submit shades describable as "carmine-red and grey-blue," "carmine and paler grey-blue," "carmine and pale blue," and a very distinct "carmine and ultramarine," which our informants believe to be scarce. In the 3c they have two shades of brown-purple, one rather browner than the other, and two shades of purple, one rather redder than the other.

Southern Rhodesia.—The same kind informants notify us that they have discovered among their importation of the 6d stamp a sheet showing the ninth and tenth vertical rows imperf. between, giving six pairs imperf. vertically. DECATUR, GA.

month, as noted in our Supplement. This small group is quite interesting and so little is known about comparative rarity, some varieties having been sent mainly to England, while others have been issued at the local P.O.'s, that it is not unlikely that some values in the earlier settings will turn out to be quite good.

Straits Settlements.—We are indebted to Mr. G. Armstrong for photographs of an interesting freak in his possession. This consists of a pair of the 4c, King George, Plate 2, with plate number and top margin attached. Part of the margin has been turned over during printing, resulting in both stamps lacking part of their design.

FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

Belgium.—M. P. Massez kindly notifies that, according to a Ministerial decree, the 75c, engraved, will henceforth be printed in blue.

Brazil.—It is a curious coincidence that a stamp commemorating a revolution of a hundred years ago should appear during the present Sao Paulo revolt. The stamp listed this month, says Dr. Mario Sanctis, commemorates the Revolution of 2nd July, 1824, which commenced in Pernambuco, the design showing the device of the republic of 1824.

France.—The Olympic Games stamps have now been withdrawn from issue and will not be valid for postal use after August 31st. We wonder whether their ugliness has anything to do with their short life.

Mr. C. Holroyd Russell points out that the current 5c Sower exists in orange-buff as well as the original orange shade.

Germany.—Mr. A. R. W. Ross submits specimens of the German figure type discovered in looking through a large lot, which show damaged figures. In the 10pf the "1" has a broken top, lacking the serif altogether. In the 20pf the tail of the "2" is broken, and shows no serif. Specimens of the same values with rather thicker figures are also submitted, the figures differing also in shape, though this may possibly be due to heavy impression.

Holland.—Mr. P. Gordon Wimberley, whom we had the pleasure of meeting recently, shows us the 2c, Lion-in-basket, in distinct shades of red and orange-red. Also the 10c, Queen, with lined background in several shades, noticeably distinct slate and grey specimens. On his return to Holland he advised us that the ugly 1, 2, 2½ and 4c stamps are to be replaced shortly, but stocks on hand are to be surcharged 1c, 2½c, 3c and 5c respectively, to serve as Postage Dues. A conversation with Mr. Wimberley convinced us of the interest of Holland's recent issues as a field for study. Many minor varieties are known to specialists over there, and we hope our correspondent will give M.J. readers an article on the subject before very long.

Japan.—A correspondent very kindly sends us a post card bearing reproductions in colour of the unissued Crown Prince Wedding stamps, referred to on several occasions in these notes. The

THE MOZIAN BUSINESS.

Mr. Mozian was so busy with his twoday auction sale recently finished at his 100th sale soon to take place that he could not find time to communicate with us in time for our trade prospects symposium. He writes:—"I am sure that you have had several opinions and I less will do no harm, especially as many of them will write you as I would have done. Business was very active during the summer months and without a doubt the coming season will be a record breaker as we have an excellent background in the International Exhibition soon to be held in New York City."

I started my first auction (which was a mail auction) in February, 1915, and it was printed in your publication the columns wide. I had no other catalog printed, so that my first customer came from the WEEKLY. In the past years I have held sales regularly and now the number has reached one hundred, and I have customers of the first mail sale who are yet patronizing us. That is the best reference for an established firm."

What Mr. Mozian has said is true and we rejoice in the business prosperity which has come to him during these years which he has used the WEEKLY.

MARKET IN MODERN COLONIALS.

Coloured Papers.—Blue 2½d scripts are becoming more stabilised in price, but we shall probably see some interesting changes in these and other recent varieties, in the new edition of Stanley Gibbons' Colonials catalogue, which we may expect in October. Nearly two years will have elapsed between the two editions, and seldom has a new one been awaited with keener interest. It is gratifying to learn that a new method of listing the various coloured papers of the Georgian issues is being used, in which such a widespread interest is taken at the present time. A certain amount of misunderstanding still seems to persist as to the definitions of the various papers. A useful method is to have mounted on a card a set of stamps showing the grades as listed in Gibbons, and using these for comparison with any that come along.

Changes in design or colour of our Crown Colonies are now fortunately less frequent than during the few years following the war. It is noticeable, however, that no settled colour scheme appears to have evolved. Although many Colonies use blue for the 3d stamp, the colour is not standardised. Thus, those who bought up the 2½d blue script of Caymans in the belief it was obsolete (on the strength of a certain dealer's announcement) will have found, after holding on for a year or two, that they are still current. Apparently the old colour scheme is being adhered to, as we now have the 3d on yellow script paper. This same duty on the new yellow paper, old watermark and engraved design (S. G. 62a), is a variety well worth picking up as it is one of the scarcest of the coloured paper varieties.

Rhodesia.—The Rhodesia stamp referred to previously in these articles continues to arouse interest and controversy. South African collectors appear to be specially incensed, and there is little doubt that there is serious ground for complaint against the stamping of these remainders with artificially adjusted date stamps. It has given dealers the chance of offering these stamps as genuinely postally used stamps, and this is being done, one seeing such stamps as the Falls 5sh and high value portrait type at so much per 100, with the statement that they are guaranteed postally used, whereas before the deal it was practically impossible to get these stamps used by the dozen. It may be taken for granted that practically all high value Rhodesians (prior to the Admiral K.G. issue) being offered as "fine used" at the present time are from the "cancelled to order" remainders.

There has been some discussion in the American press on "knocking" by dealers, one by the other, and there seems "over there" to be even less unity than we are accustomed to here; and in the house organs—more numerous and live than in England—we often see digs at charging, etc. All these bickerings tend to undermine the faith of collectors generally in the stability of their hobby, and destroy that confidence which is so essential to the delicate Market of Philately. Fortunately here these bickerings are less obtrusive and certainly unknown in the high places here, and if a dealer complains of "cut throat" competition, or indulges in personal remarks, he gets ignored. It is usually found that competition of this sort is not very serious, and that where good stamps are offered much below retail market rates, they are "out of stock" by the time one can write for them, and probably only one or two copies are supplied at this rate, so that the practice of catch-penny advertising is not one to be encouraged, although the lucky one first in gets a few bargains—and what hobbyist is keener on bargains than the Philatelist?

Barbados, 1912.—The "knocking" above alluded to is not confined to persons; sometimes particular stamps or countries get the knocks, often very justifiably. Sometimes, however, not. An interesting example is the Barbados set of 1912. Some visiting collector was unable to sell a single set at a reasonable wholesale price to a few London dealers, hence the outcry against dealers and mint Georgians in particular. The facts apparently were that the stamps were offered to parties either not short of or not dealing in this line. Others decried this set as overboomed, but the violence was rather taken out of the knocks by another dealer offering to buy a number of the sets at the price offered. Only the set to 1sh was offered, and there is no doubt that the absence of the high values made all the difference, as despite statements to the contrary, the 2sh and 3sh duties of this set are amongst the most valuable of Georgians, excluding high values 5sh upwards which have a smaller and more exclusive clientele. This is not surprising when one remembers that only about 400 of the high values were issued. Numbers, however, are not everything, and popularity counts for a lot when cash values are considered, and Barbados, although popular, is not much more so than most other British West Indian possessions. Another point in their favour is that the 1912 set has been acclaimed by those competent to judge, as one of the best designed of all the Georgian issues, and the colour and design of the highest value, the 3sh, is particularly pleasing, making it a stamp all collectors would be proud to show to other non-collecting friends.

One writer has stated that the mint set to 3sh only fetches a little more than £1; if correct, and if this catches the eye of any seller, he may send them to the writer, % the Philatelic Magazine, and save time and his commission!

Pacific Provisionals.—The new provisionals of New Hebrides and Tonga are only coming on the market slowly. The later ones appear to be due to a genuine shortage of the 2d value, which is the one in general demand, but more details of the New Hebrides and the circumstances surrounding their issue would be welcome.

Of Tonga, the 2d on 5d, 2s6d and 5sh appear to be the commonest, and the only values that have appeared as yet in quantity. These duties are selling at 2sh to 2s6d each. It is probable that we shall find that despite retouches mint sheets of the other duties similarly surcharged will find their way on the market sooner or later. The knowledge of the existence of stocks of a stamp often keeps the price down, when very few are about actually, people curtailing their buying in the knowledge of the stocks.

St. Vincent, 1d on 1sh.—An example of this is the 1d on 1sh K.G. St. Vincent. The bulk of this stamp was bought up by speculators. Only a portion was sold, however, the remainder being deposited in the vaults of a French bank. This stock does not appear to have been brought out yet, and in spite of apparent scarcity, the catalogue price remains at the low figure of 6sh. It has been stated that when the remainder comes out they will be sold at 5sh each. If this price is realised, the profit to the speculator will be nearly £250 per 1,000 stamps, the original outlay being £4 (approximately) per 1,000. Any schoolboy can work out the percentage profit, and if any can still say stamp collecting does not pay, it will not be.—Philatelic Magazine.

ESSAYS of the old CLASSICAL STAMPS of the EARLY ISSUES of SPAIN up to the so called DON CARLOS STAMPS which are included

WE ARE KEEPING OF THE SAME

The Finest Collection Existing in the World

The said ESSAYS, which I could acquire only by chance, belonged to Mr. Moens, the oldest stamp dealer of the world, who no doubt may be considered as the symbol of the philately.

There are many ESSAYS which are lacking in the biggest specialised collections, some items are quite unique. Many in different colours and designs which are unknown since they were not adopted at the time. There are essays in lithography, engraving, typography, copper-print, embossed—printing, etc., misprints in most interesting executions. Further, the early stamps of the Deputy Chamber and the Senate, things of Andalusia, etc.

The Colonies are also represented profusely. The forgeries are especially interesting, more particularly those of the classical issues which were made with a view only to do prejudice to the Postal administration. There are many used items, some were produced in a very sly way. In most cases the Postal administration did not notice the forgeries.

As we have stated already, the collection contains many unique pieces of which there exist but one or two copies altogether. Remarkable among the unknown proofs are the marvelous designs and colours, the fiscal, police and commercial stamps in all possible colours, including essays of the latter. The collection is of the highest interest and of an inestimable value. It contains, moreover, scarce telegraph stamps, as well as essays of the same Brief. You are offered here a unique collection really fit for purposes, containing hundreds and hundreds of different kinds. A specialist in Spanish stamps cannot do without such a collection; he must have it.

I am ready to send the collection out for examination upon request against postage should it not be possible to come to business.

Perhaps it would be possible for me to retail in the case of a considerable purchase.

SPECIALISTS, don't miss this opportunity which will not occur again by asking us at once for particulars.

if for any reason they or the Judges appointed by them consider that no such award should be made.

Disclosure.—Special care must be exercised by the authors to prevent the authorship of their papers becoming known before the award has been made public. Neglect of this rule will be sufficient to disqualify a paper.

NOTES.

The Permanent Congress Executive Committee may, with the approval and consent of the author, print or publish the whole or part of any paper submitted, with suitable acknowledgement of authorship.

In the event of this being done, the copyright, in the matter so published, will belong to the Congress.

Any Exhibit required to illustrate any paper, need not be in Triplicate, but the failure to send the Paper in Triplicate will prevent its being considered.

Should the author of the winning paper be unable to attend the ensuing Congress, his paper shall be read at that Congress by a reader to be appointed by the Permanent Congress Executive Committee.

Unsuccessful papers will be returned by the Hon. Sec., of the Permanent Congress Executive Committee after the Congress, if competitors prove their authorship to him before December 31st in the same year, after which date any remaining in his hands will be destroyed. The decision of the Permanent Congress Executive Committee on any question concerning this Competition shall be final.

THE PARIS STAMP BOURSE.

UNIQUE STREET MART WHERE POSTAGE STAMPS CAN BE PUR-CHASED OR SOLD.

By GEORGE NOX McCAIN.

(This article is taken from the Public Ledger of Philadelphia and will prove of interest to our readers. It is a very breezy sketch of the Paris stamp bourse seen by one who may not be very much of a philatelist, but who is certainly possessed of a keen newspaper instinct. It is novel in its treatment of the bourse and we pass it on to our readers for their enjoyment.—W. O. W.)

This great city, with almost 3,000,000 inhabitants, has the queerest market in the universe.

The City of Mexico has its Thieves' Market and London has its Rag Fair as distinctive features.

Paris has its Postage-Stamp Market.
It is the only one in the world.

The oddity of the thing does not lie in the matter of its existence. Stamps are a recognized medium of barter, sale or exchange in every civilized country.

Its bizarre peculiarity is that it is held out under the trees. Its sessions are held only two days in the week.

It has existed in its unostentatious way now for fifty years.

Never in all that time has it had a roof over its head.

I came upon it by accident.

Walking along the Avenue Gabriel, I saw ahead of me under the trees at the corner of the Avenue de Marigny a large crowd of people.

My first impression was that it was the usual crowd waiting for busses to pass that point.

Then I observed that they were broken into little groups. The formation suggested the soap-box orators of Hyde Park Corner, London.

This concourse was, however, divided into parties of from five to fifty individuals.

Something in the center of each group held their attention.

There was a universal craning of necks and teetering on tiptoes of those on the fringe of each squad.

When I had sufficiently edged my way into the circle of one group I found that they were all intently eying a middle-aged man who was carefully turning the leaves of a thick book.

Then there came the inspiration that this was the priest of a new religion.

There are numberless odd, weird and outlandish cults in Paris. Perhaps this was one.

Besides, they were all silent, intent and eager.

I was sadly in error.

What fascinated them was a transaction in postage stamps between one of these al fresco dealers and a seedy-looking chap at his side.

The book the dealer was consulting was a stamp catalogue containing illustrations and prices.

As for the watchers, they were not merely sightseers or curious bystanders,

I discovered.

Every one of them was a stamp collector who knew the value of the specimen under discussion.

They were waiting to see what price it brought.

It was raining, but some obliging friends held umbrellas over the dickering pair.

Some of the peculiarities of this very curious mart are:

It is the center of the philatelic business in France.

Thursdays and Sundays are its business days.

Its dealers have no connection with any stamp trust.

Every man does business independently and buys and sells for himself.

It was a rainy Sunday afternoon when I ran across it, but there were at least 100 buyers and sellers on the ground under the trees.

The meeting place is in a small grove just outside the Theatre Marigny.

As many as 5,000 persons have attended its sessions on a fair, sunshiny day.

There are a number of women dealers.

One old woman had a large book, as big as a modern atlas, filled with stamps.
It was propped open on an iron park chair.

Its owner sat on another chair and held an umbrella over it to shield its contents from the drizzle.

Stamps of all nations and denominations were pasted lightly in rows on every page.

She was the only one who displayed her stock despite the rain.

Some had their coat pockets stuffed with stamps.

Every one carried one or several stamp catalogues, which were consulted continuously in the course of business.

All sorts and conditions of men and women, boys and girls, were in the throng.

Most of them made a side line of gathering stamps.

Concierges and janitors in apartment houses and offices, and even members of the ragpickers' guild, keep a keen eye open for stamps in the rubbish they gather.

M. Anthony, a kindly and courteous
Frenchman, who has rarely missed a

H. F. COLMAN, 2nd Nat. Bank Bldg., WASHINGTON, D. C.

Thursday or Sunday at the Carree Martigny for the last eighteen years, and who has been buying, exchanging and dealing in stamps for fifty years, talked entertainingly about his profession.

He is sixty-nine years old and speaks English fluently.

For many years he traveled all over the world.

For a generation now he has lived in his little room on the Rue de Dome.

Stamps are not only his hobby but his means of livelihood.

"It is hard to tell how many stamps are sold on the Carree (the square on the Avenue Gabriel). Ten thousand on some days," he said.

"I have seen 5,000 persons here on fine days."

"Today, you see, it is raining; there are only perhaps 100 or 150."

He pointed to a suitcase on a chair covered with a piece of black oilcloth.

"I do not care to display my stamps on a day like this. See!" said M. Anthony.

He opened this suitcase quickly. It was filled with books of stamps.

Another case had piles of cardboard sheets covered with his philatelic treasures.

"Do you make purchases for the large stamp houses?" I inquired.

"No! No! We all deal individually. This is the people's market. It has been here for years. I bought and traded stamps on this spot when I was a boy."

"Of course, if we buy a collection we know where to get the money, for few of us have the cash necessary for such a transaction," he said with a smile.

"Are the stamps of any particular country in demand just now?" I asked.

"Oh, no, no! Values are determined by the age, variety, perfection and what we call the clearness of the 'picture'."

"How do you dispose of your purchases?"

"We sell most of them to individual collectors who come here to get what they want."

"Stamps are like books: If a collector has part of a set by a certain author, he searches the bookshops till he finds the remainder," the old man went on.

"If a collector of stamps has an incomplete set of a certain issue, he tries to complete it. He can get what he desires here, as a rule," he said.

Rare stamps are carried by the experienced stamp merchant in a little portfolio in an inner pocket.

Just as a diamond salesman carries his gems.

RICHARDSON'S 5c NEW YORK.

By ERI H. RICHARDSON.

Some of your subscribers may be interested in the following notes dealing with my collection of the 5c 1847, exhibited in New York in 1912, and which won the silver medal in its class. Soon thereafter I was presented with the Pacific Philatelic Society cup for my research in this stamp.

This collection consisted of over 600 picked copies partially of my own collecting but mostly from the accumulations of H. G. Smith and Frank G. Lord. Smith and Lord started this accumulation in Minneapolis many years ago.

Lord was traveling at the time for one of the railroads, the Grand Trunk I believe, Smith was an insurance man and secretary of the A. P. S., a fine, lovable character. He died about a year and a half ago. The only thing he had left at the time of his death in the way of stamps was the collection, about two thousand varieties I believe, all presented to him by members of the A. P. S. at the time of his retirement after faithful service, a most interesting collection with many unique notes.

In 1912 he handled considerable of my insurance and knowing that I was much interested in the details of stamps and a careful student, suggested the possibilities of specializing in the accumulations which he and Lord had made and which in the meantime had passed into Lord's hands. I paid 1/3 over catalogue, at that time a big price ($2.00 per copy) for the pick of the accumulation of over 3,000 copies.

The opportunity was of course a unique one. I took full advantage of it, studying every detail of the stamps and attendants at the International Exhibit at New York, in 1912, will remember my collection well. It resulted in considerable correspondence with such men as Clark, Putnam, Carroll Chase and others.

The collection was really a historical study of the 5c 47, illustrated by the stamps in every detail, beginning with the postal laws enacted in 1825 and which led up to the prepaid postage. I went into every detail of the stamp; paper, stitch watermark, engraving with all of the plate varieties (only oneshift being known at the time I began my study), color and shade varieties, gum, cancellations, covers and the various interesting cancellations which had been used during the period of prepaid postage and were afterwards used for cancelling the stamps.

It undoubtedly stirred up a lot of interest in this stamp which has been go-up on—foreign rates in different years, largest blocks used on covers, used off cover, and unused. Largest rates used to foreign countries, largest inland rates, stamps cut apart and used for a fraction of their printed value (early stamps, not recent "cut-ups"), early "arrows", covers with two or more issues before 1870, etc., etc. We have found covers postmarked 1851, 1852, 1853 and 1855, on down. Who has seen 1854? Who has seen earlier than 1851 on any U. S. stamp? The above are a few questions in mind at the moment, there are many others. What do you wish to know about? Questions are al-ways welcome, answers even more so.

When we gather our answers to one series of questions, they may be tabu-lated and entered in this column, to be cut out and pasted into your album where needed if you wish.

The earliest stamp to fall under our "Early Low Values Specialized" is the 3c '51. Suppose you are interested. How about terminating each issue of the Forum with a question, the answer to follow as soon as sufficient replies for tabulating have arrived?

In the Detroit A. P. S. Convention Auction a very beautiful cover was sold, mailed with the orange brown 3c 1851, on first day of issue (July 1st), from So. Wilbraham, Mass. The price I do not recall exactly, though it took a fifty dollar bill with some of its little play-mates to get this cover. As a rule covers bearing these very early U. S. stamps on first day of issue come from the larger cities. This system of first day uses can be carried on down through all values if you are interested, though this is merely one of many interesting phases of philately. As a starter—This Week's Question:

Have you seen any orange brown 3c used on July 1, 1851, from towns other than New York, Mobile, Hartford and So. Wilbraham? Let's start a system. R. S. V. P. (Reply Something Very Promptly.)

TWIN CITY PHILATELIC SOCIETY.

COLOMBIA'S AIR MAIL.

R. S. Saltus, Jr., an official of the American Trading Company, 25 Broad Street, New York City, United States agents for the Sociedad Colomba-Alemana de Transportes Aereos, reports that the establishment of the night-flying transcontinental air mail in this country has enabled exporters to save as much as three days on steamer sailings to South America, while United States mail, on arriving at Barranquilla, the Atlantic seaport of Colombia, is taken aboard seaplanes and carried 625 miles into the interior in 8½ hours, whereas, by river boat, this part of the trip requires regularly eight days and in dry seasons exceptionally as much as 15 days.

The company is known among exporters and importers the world over as Scadta. Since its establishment in 1921, Scadta has covered 368,530 miles in 4,521 miles of flight. It has carried 2,830 passengers and 14,522 kilograms of mail, which makes, including shipments of money and other merchandise, a total of 219,567 kilograms of pay-load. Savings in time in interior transportation are almost unbelievable. In one instance trails that are traversed only in four days by mule pack are covered in 70 minutes by plane. Seaplanes fly up the Magdalena River in 8½ hours, as contrasted with 8 to 15 days by steamer.

Special services have also been performed by Scadta. The region of the Catatumbo River, which had long been in dispute between Colombia and Venezuela, was surveyed from the air. This region is covered with vast swamps and tropical forests. Three thousand nine hundred square miles had to be mapped. It was estimated that this would require two years' time and the expenditure of $200,000 if done by surface methods. In sixteen days Scadta covered the entire area, taking 1800 photographs from the seaplane "Caldas." The total cost was one-tenth of the estimated cost by land.

"Colombia is one of the richest countries in the world, but due to the character of the terrain, the Magdalena River has been the principal artery of communication. The capital, Bogota, and many of the other important business centers, are located high in the mountains, 750 to 1,000 miles in the interior. To get the natural riches out of the country, as well as to bring in the goods of other countries which these riches purchased, required that advantage be taken of the fastest and most modern means of communication.

Right after the war, Colombian and German capital combined to make an aerial survey and in 1920 the first seaplane safely reached Girardot, on the upper reaches of the Magdalena, 625 miles from Barranquilla. The company, the initial letters of whose incorporated name spell Scadta, was soon confronted with engineering and meteorological problems which resulted in the establishment at Barranquilla of laboratories and works at which materials, engines and completed craft could be tested.

While constructed at first for passenger carrying, the seaplanes were adapted to cargo work. Arrangements were made with the Colombian Government, whereby mail could be carried and the regular Colombian postage included in the special air mail stamps which Scadta issued. Regular weekly round trips between Barranquilla and Girardot, were established in August, 1921, and since then the service has continued without interruption, and without loss of mail.

The following lines are now in operation:

Barranquilla-Girardot, 625 miles. Eight and one-half hours by seaplane; 8 to 15 days by steamer.

Girardot-Neiva, 94 miles. Seventy minutes by airplane; 4 days by mule back.

Barranquilla-Cartagena, 75 miles. Sixty minutes by seaplane.

Medellin-Cali, 200 miles. Three hours by airplane.

Puerto Wilches-Bucaramanga, 75 miles. Sixty minutes by airplane; 4 days by mule back.

Two air mails fly weekly each way between Barranquilla and Girardot, making connections with North American and European steamers. At Girardot, the mail lies over for the night and next day proceeds 100 miles by train to Bogota. It takes the train 8½ hours to travel this 100 miles—just the same time required by the seaplane to fly 625 miles from Barranquilla. En route to Girardot, mail is delivered at Magangué, El Banco, Barranca-Bermeja, Puerto Berrio and Honda. The mail is taken by special messenger from Puerto Berrio to Medellin (there to connect up with the land plane line); from Honda to Manizales and from Girardot to Bogota, Ibaguá and Tunja. Every Tuesday and Friday the air mails leave Girardot for Barranquilla, following the arrival of the train from Bogota. Every Thursday an air mail round trip is made from Girardot to Neiva. The flight, Barranquilla-Cartagena is made twice a week, connecting with the Barranquilla-Girardot line.

The air mail postage, with the flight to Girardot as a standard, is 30 cents United States currency for each one-half ounce. This includes Colombian national postage. Persons outside Colombia can send any mailable articles addressed to the interior of Colombia by placing on their letters the air mail stamp alone.

COVERS MARKED WITH PRICES.

By CHARLES STUART STREET.
 There is an abuse current among stamp dealers which cries for correction. I refer to the practice of writing the price of a cover on its face. Although usually written in pencil, it still must be erased to make the cover presentable. Often the envelope has a film or patina from age or from lying exposed to the sun and air. The erasing of the price changes the color in that place and affects the appearance of the cover.

Some dealers are still greater offenders. They write the price in blue pencil and I have two that were priced in ink! I also have a particularly desirable cover that has the mere detail of sixteen, only sixteen prices written on it in different angles and different kinds of money by sixteen different dealers, different in person but curiously alike in this gross carelessness or rather stupidity.

The cover can perfectly well be priced on the back or, if it is desired as a display, price can be attached to the face on a separate piece of paper with a stamp sticker. In view of the constantly growing desire of collections for stamps on covers intact I should think that wise dealers would be willing to cater to that demand and offer their selections in as fine a condition as possible. No one would write, with a pencil on the face of a stamp; why mar a beautiful cover?

NEWS GLEANINGS.
—Here is an instance of British justice visited upon the head of a postmaster who "feloniously embezzled the sum of one shilling and ten pence of the moneys of the postmaster-general" as reported in the Illustrated London News, of January 11, 1845. Evidence was lodged against the suspect, age fifty-three, a person of respectable appearance, that the prisoner had the management of the branch post-office at Walthamstow, in Essex; "and on the 14th of December a woman named Carter took a letter addressed to her husband, a seaman whom she at the time believed to be at Calcutta to which place the letter was addressed, to the prisoner and paid him one shilling postage. Shortly afterwards the prisoner sent to her to say that the postage was one shilling and ten pence, and she gave the additional sum required. The letter never came to hand at the general post-office, and in consequence of some suspicion that was created, one of the presidents in that establishment went to Walthamstow, accompanied by an officer in the employ of the post-office, and he questioned the prisoner upon the subject of the letter, when he gave several contradictory statements respecting it but asserted that he had sent it in the ordinary course to the general post-office." The letter was found when the prisoner's house was searched, and notwithstanding that "several highly respectable witnesses were called who gave the prisoner an excellent character" the jury returned a verdict of guilty, "coupled with a strong recommendation to mercy;" and the justice sentenced the prisoner "to be kept at hard labour for twelve months."
The subject is a little too serious to allow us to make the obvious comment that the postmaster who came to grief was the first person known to collect stamps in unused condition.
—"In your Sept. 29 edition, page 517, group picture of the A. P. S. convention, you state:—'First row seated, Gen. C. A. Coolidge (Second person), Dr. H. A. Davis.' Between myself and Dr. Davis are seated J. H. Davis Reynolds of Flint and J. D. Hubel of Detroit. Please note this correction."—GEN. C. A. COOLIDGE.

J., by a tremendous majority of more than 26,000 and with nine districts of Morris County still to be heard from. It must be very gratifying to our philatelic friend to be able to command such warm support. Mr. Ackerman has the congratulations of the WEEKLY as well as our host of subscribers.

They are:—"All America eats New Orleans candy." (Week beginning October 5.) "New Orleans—Famous for its cooking." (October 12). "New Orleans—Where the South sells its cotton." (October 19). "The Paris of America." (October 26).
—Rev. Elias Rasmussen of Windom, Minn., sends in a subscription for our Library Roll of Honor for the Windom High School Library, contributed by local philatelists. In his letter Mr. Rasmussen calls attention to the fact that four metal signs have been posted upon each of the four main roads leading into the town, upon these signs being the following inscription:—"A. P. S. and S. P. A., Windom Members. Look Us Up." We can safely promise that stamp collectors visiting Windom will find Mr. Rasmussen a real philatelist. He suggests that it would be a good idea if other towns with society members would do likewise.

EDITORIAL.

Mr. Charles J. Phillips was in Chicago on his return from the Winnipeg, Canada, exhibition, by way of Minneapolis, St. Paul and Milwaukee; and the Chicago collectors took advantage of his presence in their city to show him a mark of attention by holding a reception for him in the French Room of the Hamilton Club. Mr. Phillips displayed the Lichtenstein collections of British North America to an appreciative coterie of collectors, and Mr. Phillips' collections of Canada and Prince Edward Isle also were on view. During the course of the afternoon, Mr. Phillips regaled his auditors with many an interesting reminiscence and he had a number of stories that were particularly apt in a philatelic sense. Mr. Phillips' views on topics of general import, as always, are worth hearing. He is much interested in the progress of the Collectors Club of New York, and he is devoting every energy to recruiting the membership from the ranks of collectors throughout the country. He believes that the Collectors Club, with a building of its own, will stand as a monument to the stability of collecting and will exert a moral influence that will be of incalculable benefit. The practical advantages that may be derived from a meeting place or home in the most important center of America are evident to all; and the visitor to New York will be made to feel that he has a haven therein. Mr. Phillips, too, finds that much attention is being given to the plans for the great international exhibition as have been revealed thus far, and he thinks that the coming event will be perhaps the most important in the history of philately. His well known views on the necessity of securing for our pursuit a definite standing in the opinion of the world at large need no elaboration here. We agree with him that if philately is to take its rightful place in the accepted order of things, it will be required that it be heralded far and wide. While the stamp papers are doing their duty in carrying tidings to those who are already in the fold, yet more expansive effort is needed; and it is only through advertising that has a general appeal that stamps will achieve the end that is so prominently in the minds of those who have the welfare of collecting at heart. Mr. Phillips is unqualified in his opinion that the recent Winnipeg convention was a success, and the only regret that he voices in connection with it is that so few collectors from this side patronized it as exhibitors or visitors. He cites the obvious fact that the occasion has had a most helpful effect on philately in Canada, and we may readily understand that the great field that is provided by Canada for philatelic cultivation may yield the most fruitful returns. Of his reception in the cities Minneapolis, St. Paul and Milwaukee, Mr. Phillips has words of appreciation. He attended meetings of collectors in the cities named and was the recipient of no little attention; and his fund of philatelic information, aside from the noteworthy stamps that he showed was at the service of those who met him. Mr. Phillips is doing a distinct service for philately by his outspoken alliance with it and his alertness to take advantage of every opportunity that is afforded to speak and write of it publicly. We may add that Mr. Phillips will edit a number of the WEEKLY in the month of December; and we are sure that a good many of our readers are looking forward to the issue in question.

Mr. F. H. Griswold, associate editor of Chicago Commerce, the official publication of the Chicago Association of Commerce, calls our attention to an unusual example of the industry of a "natural" stamp collector who has amassed a collection numbering about 10,000 varieties, without having ever bought a single stamp for his accumulation. We have long been interested in this type of collector, whom we frequently encountered in our boyhood days of collecting but latterly he has become almost as extinct as the dread "Dodo." Ordinarily the collection of the man who takes pride in the boast that he has never expended one penny for the specimens in his book is not much of a sensation and has a somewhat home-made air, but in the instance of the collector referred to by Mr. Griswold, he has surpassed any record established by collectors of this character, we should say. The fact that he began his collection in the eighties accounts for the presence of used Heligoland and other stamps common enough forty years ago but very desirable to-day. As we pointed out some time ago, occasionally a collector of this kind is one who began to collect stamps instinctively before ever having heard of a collector or dealer, and perforce, such a collector must be content with such stamps as he might find on correspondence and through other enterprising methods.

We notice the following paragraph in the Chicago Tribune, referring to a letter that has been received from Buenos Aires in which the following comment is made: "Note the post mark on the enclosed envelope which one of our engineers just received from Uruguay 'Campeon Mundial de Football', translated is, football champion of the world. The Uruguayan government declared that the day upon which they won the Olympic games championship shall henceforth be celebrated as national holiday. If they could win few more contests they would only have about every other Tuesday from eleven to twelve to do business in. Certainly the use of the postmark to proclaiming celebratory news is one that will not be regarded unfavorably by the one who adheres most strictly to philatelic rules. In using the postmark, the government has a monopoly in presenting directly to the citizen news or information of special significance, and in doing so the authorities are in no risk of offending their philatelic patrons; and as for the one who interests himself in postmarks, occasions of the kind are regarded with satisfaction.

The following letter from W. H. Schaffner, president of the Marion County Bank Company, Marion, Ohio is worth recording in view of the reference it makes to ex-president Harding: "I acknowledge your favor, enclosing a relic of the past in the shape of a certificate of deposit dated in 1863 bearing the imperforate five cent revenue, issued by our bank at that time. I am enclosing herewith a few things that may be of some interest to you as they are letters from Mr. Harding when he was still in the Senate of the United States. For a very short time he took advantage of the franking system but only occasionally, as you will see from the enclosed envelopes. While he was president he always stamped his letters."

We learn from the latest number of Stamp Collecting that Holland's international stamp exhibition was a decided success, it having been "opened by the Netherlands State Minister of Post and Telegraphs on September 6 in the presence of the Prince Consort and distinguished assembly of public officials and philatelists from all parts of the world." The exhibits seem to have been adequate in all respects, and we notice that the Berlin postal museum was among those that contributed dis ceived and is never answered satisfactorily. We know that some of the men who attained collecting eminence latterly began to systematically collect before 1860, and there are reasons to believe that as early as 1856 or so the stamp collector had achieved an identity but as for quoting names, we ask to be excused. We believe that able historians do not attempt to name specifically those who were the first to feel the attractions of stamps as objects of collection. Further, none will assert that philately had its inception in a particular year; and so, we shall have to be content to say that collectors were industriously pursuing the stamp "before 1860."

that there is a movement there favor-

Shortridge has sponsored the request to Postmaster General New to order the

A collector has written making inquiry concerning the truth of the story that "some years ago a Chicago dealer bought one hundred sets of the Executive Department stamps for a song."
If any such purchase has been made within our memory, which goes back a good many years, we shall be greatly interested in the particulars, as we have no knowledge of any such transaction.
The only basis for the statement that we can recollect is that Mr. J. A.
Pierce, the veteran Chicago dealer, who died several years ago, used to tell a story to the effect that about 1883 he bought a batch of Executive Department stamps from a son of a secretary of President Grant at about seventy-five cents a set. Mr. Pierce had remarked that he could have had more of the sets at the time if he had wanted them, but he preferred to take the conservative side. Lewis Robie in his book, "Stamp Hunting," utilized the story that he with others had heard from Mr. Pierce. If our correspondent has any further details to give, we should be pleased to have them at this time, when it seems that department stamps are slated for happier days.

ENTERTAINMENT AT CONVENTIONS.

By A. N. CAUDELL.

I have recently seen a suggestion that social affairs at our philatelic conventions be relegated to the background, and more time be devoted to business sessions. This appeals to me as the very worst suggestion that could possibly be made. If either the business affairs or those devoted to pleasure have to be cu-tailed or abandoned it had far better be the former. Most or all business might be conducted by mail, and as a matter of fact much accomplished at the sessions is decided by the proxies of absent members.

It is undeniable that an annual convention is desirable, and the larger the number of attendants the better the convention.
But if the social and entertainment features be diminished or abandoned there is sure to be a decided lessening of attendance. In such case I can vouch for two absentees at most future conventions, myself and my wife.

I firmly believe that there are many good male philatelists who would not care to hie away from their families to attend a convention merely for the pleasures afforded by business sessions, nor to take their wives to be left at their own devices in a strange city. Under such conditions I rather believe that those attending would be limited to one's holding remunerative offices or ones to whom such attendance promised beneficial results in a business way. But it is not only this class of attendants we need at our conventions, we want all, and the more the better. So let us have our business meetings earlier, hold them longer or, if necessary, continue in session one day more, but not interfere with the social and pleasure portions of our programmes.

Make things joyous for our wives in the forenoons and for us all in the afternoons and evenings, and then we can all go. I have already started saving for Los Angeles next year, and have now almost $130 on hand. But if I thought for a moment that my good wife, without whom I would not dream of going, was to be left without entertainment in that far off city, and that I could look forward only to revelling in the doubtful pleasures of business sessions, I am sure I would at once give over the idea of going.

The admirable manner in which the good ladies of Detroit looked after and cared for the comfort and entertainment of our wives and daughters last August made our stay in that city one round of pleasure, and surely none of us could but enjoy the afternoon sight-seeing trips planned for our entertainment.

Plate Number List, Sept. 27, 1924.

Through the courtesy of Major W. W. Kirby, Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, I am enabled to bring our list of postage stamp plates up to and including September 27, 1924.

In this list we find the first of the higher denominations of the four hundred subject plates for the rotary press, which I announced several weeks back would be turned out in short order. These stamps will be perforated 10, and are being made for the purpose of precanceling, for as explained in this column before, the Department is saving thousands of dollars by precanceling stamps on the rotary press at Washington, rather than have each separate and individual post-office perform this work.

The new denominations which we may expect within the next few weeks are the 4c, 5c, 6c and 10c. These will at first appear precanceled only, but the Department no doubt will arrange for a supply in an unused condition through the Philatelic Agency.

$8.75. The 90c 1869 sells well in almost any condition, for a copy cut into a left and top in used condition sold at $17.25. A copy of the 24c 1870 gridded described as unusually strong embossing sold at $96.00. Special printings of the 1857 issue, which were all a little clipped as usual, went at from one-third to one-half catalog. A copy of the 5c 1883 special print went at $52.00, while a horizontal strip of the 1883-2c, without vertical perforations, and with thin spots, sold at $80.00. In the way of Departments, the 2c Navy error seemed to have made a record price at $56.00, while the $5.00 State went very cheaply at $155. A $10.00 with two horizontal perforations sold at $53.00, while a $20.00 one went for two dollars less. It was surprising that newspapers generally brought half catalog and more in a number of cases. The postage Due special prints brought nearly catalog in every case.

Faked Harding Part Perfs.

I mentioned several weeks back that a stamp dealer was advertising and distributing what he designated as perforated Harding stamps, and these were nothing more than the imperforated sheets torn apart into blocks of four by means of a perforation ruler, thus giving a block imperf. on all sides except the edges.

One of our valued readers now submits a further block from the same source, which has been perforated by perforating machine, and the block has perforations on all four of the sides plus a horizontal perforation through the center, giving us two pairs imperforated between. The same dealer is endeavoring to dispose of these as legitimate varieties, whereas they are perf. 11½, and have faked perforations.

Collectors should beware of part perforated stamps, which can be made from accessible imperforated varieties. The faker has never yet been able to imitate the Government perforation to such an extent that they cannot be distinguished by those who have studied the subject. Canal Zone Booklets.

We have been informed that Washington is preparing 1c and 2c booklets of our current stamps overprinted "Canal Zone" for use in the zone. The overprint will be similar to that appearing on the regular stamp and the booklets will be put up in the 25c and 49c kinds. Those who are interested in obtaining these may communicate with the philatelic agent at Balboa Heights.

ASCENSION.—We have received from Mr. R. Roberts copies of the new permanent set recently placed on sale. They are the same type as the 1922 issue of St

OUR large and rapidly growing volume of business with collectors in America is due, first to our possession of an unrivalled stock, second to our willingness to send any portion of that stock on approval to any part of the world, whether the purchases contemplated are large or small, thirdly to our knowledge of the needs of the American market, fourthly to our prompt, courteous and efficient service, and lastly, but by no means least, to the value of MEKEEL'S as an introduction to the collectors whom we wish to serve.

A line from you stating your philatelic interests, with usual references, will receive attention by return mail. Our only address is:

AUSTRIA.—New Charity stamps, issued on September 6th and sold at four es face value, have been kindly ight to our notice by Mr. Arthur alters, of Bournemouth, and Messrs. itfield King & Co. They are of the omary morbid type, the designs deag description but answering roughly the following hypothesis:—K.100+, Woman with lyre over corpse with tches; K.300+900, Woman and man sping hands, the former holding what y be the handle of a wheelbarrow in left hand and the man (who appears be left-handed) seated on an anvil; 00+1,500, Woman and three un- hatched children (and this cold summer, 1); K.600+1,800, Seated beaver nus homo) smelling salts (?) prof- ed by seated lady; K.1,000+3,000, ing female flinging fruit down on ise-tops. We might make a better ss at each of these, but these de- ptions will perhaps be enough to go with. The inscriptions are: "OSTER- H" (at top) and "post" "1924," vasi- ly placed. The denomination is ex- ssed at foot and under the frame , in the lower right-hand corner, is imprint of the engraver, one Sterer. Messrs. Francis J. Field, Ltd., also re- cept of these. Perf. 12½, K.100 00 sage-green, K.500+1,500 purple- y, K.300+900 sepia, K.600+1,800 e, K.1,000+3,000 brown.—Stamp Col- ing.

ENMARK.—Mr. A. E. Pade reports 1kr, brown and blue, No. 160, with surcharge "Postfaerge" in the same as the previous one.

ITREA.—The set which was previ- ly issued, surcharged in black, has appeared as follows, viz., 2c on 1b, on 1a, 15c on 2a, 50c on 5a, sur- rged in blue; and 5c on 2b, 25c on a, 1l on 10a, surcharged in black. rs. Whitfield King report this new es.—Stamp Collecting.

NEW YORK CITY

FRANCE.—We have received from Mr. R. Roberts a copy of the 45c Pasteur type in a terra cotta shade. This is a new value in this series.

The following extract from the Daily Telegraph will be found of interest:—

"Within a few weeks there is to be a special issue of postage stamps to commemorate the 400th anniversary of the birth of the poet Ronsard. This will be the third of the special series issued within a year. First came the Pasteur stamps, which are to remain in circulation, and then the series designed to commemorate the Olympic Games. These latter, which have been the subject of a good deal of hostile criticism owing to their inconvenient size and artistic failings, are to disappear, and will no longer be valid after September 1st. The new Ronsard stamps, which have been authorized as a result of the efforts of a committee of artists and writers, will be issued only in 75 centime values, but as this is the amount of postage for letters sent abroad it meets the object of the Ronsard Commemoration Committee, which is to carry to all foreign nations a reminder of the glories of France's great poet. These stamps will be valid until the end of the year, after which there will probably be an issue devoted to the Exhibition of Decorative Art.

These special issues usually yield quite a handsome profit to the Treasury, and in the case of the forthcoming Ronsard stamp it is estimated that, through sales to philatelists of stamps which will not be used for postage, the Treasury will benefit to the extent of about 100,000f. after paying all the special costs of the issue."—Stamp Collecting.

FAR EASTERN REPUBLIC.—The Philatelic Magazine is informed by one of their correspondents that this republic stopped the issue of separate stamps over three months ago.

GREAT BRITAIN.—Mr. R. Roberts sends for chronicle a copy of the 1sh Postage Due stamp with the new watermark sideways running up printed by Waterlow & Sons.

HONDURAS.—New Series. The Echo adds the undermentioned to the 6c violet listed in our last: 2 centavos, red; 10 centavos, blue.—Philatelic Magazine.

NETHERLANDS.—Mr. Max Brauer informs us that he has recently received the following new surcharged postage due stamps which are overprinted in black: "Tebetalen 4 Cnt Port" in four lines on 3c olive green, No. 88; 5c on 1c, red, No. 72; 10c on 1½c, No. 109; 12½c, on 5c, No. 76.

PARAGUAY.—Mr. E. G. Kent, in send- ing us the new provisional listed this month, states that it is likely to be good, as only 100,000 were printed, of which quantity 18,000 were burnt, being badly surcharged. The stock is practically ex- hausted already. All the late 1p, Build- ing, are sold out, and the 5p are nearly gone. SUBSCRIPTION RENEWALS.

Some of our subscribers need to know our rule regarding discontin- uances. We discontinue all sub- scriptions in arrears promptly the second issue of each month. This means that your subscription should be renewed prior to expiration. The expiration number can be ascertained by consulting your wrapper. No free copies of the WEEKLY are sent out and this rule is as fixed as the laws of the M. and P. Our older sub- scribers understand our rule and the newer subscribers should get ac- quainted with it.

THE PERSONNEL OF OUR FIVE YEAR HONOR CLUB.

A STRIKING TRIBUTE TO THE STABILITY OF THE WORLD'S GREATEST PHILATELIC PUBLICATION.

Hon. Pres., A. W. FILSTRUP

Pres., J. W. PREVOST

Vice Pres., DONALD A. COOK

Secretary, CHARLES R. MORSE

Every once in a while some stamp paper is bold enough to claim the distinction of being the one and only great paper. We should not be over-modest in our own behalf, and to substantiate a self-evident truth in many quarters we list below no fewer than 301 subscribers who during the past year have taken out five-year subscriptions to MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS. There has been no cheapening in price and no premiums of any kind have been offered, and withal many messages of cheer and good-will have accompanied the remittances. Two of these are life renewals. What paper of any kind, published anywhere in the world, can claim an such record as this?

We have published names and addresses with the expectation that honorable dealers will observe the ethics of the trade and refrain from sending out unsolicited approval selections. Price lists mailed will no doubt be read and publishers of stamp papers are invited to mail specimen copies. We greatly fear that in making this list some names may have been omitted. Who will help us complete it? We urge you to add your name to this list and acquire the honor attached to members in this unique club.

Allen V. Buskirk, Bloomington, Ind.
Albert W. Graves, Milwaukee, Wis.
F. H. Clay, Tarentum, Pa.
C. F. Richards, N. Y. City.

As we go to press with this page space is at a premium and we can only briefly refer to the four new members who take their place in the Honor Club. All four applicants for membership are longtime subscribers to the WEEKLY but one of the names stands out strongly. We refer to C. F. Richards who has been a subscriber to the WEEKLY since it began, a period of nearly thirty-four years. Mr. Richards during all these years has been actively interested in whatever concerns our hobby. He is indeed one of our warmest friends.

Dear Editor,

Seems lik all th presidenshul possibilities runnin fur offis this yeer haz overlooked th fillatellick vote. No wun ov them haz held out enny indusement so fur to us "stamp-houns".

Nun of them haz even offured to apeer on a nu issu stamp an I dunno az enny ov them iz so hansum az to be abul to sell thair pikchur fur moarn 2c at that an Geo. Washinton iz ar ol stanby fur private letters.

But jes think if wun shud say, "Ile giv better tastin gum on all stamps, yur choice ov likrish, wintergreen er peppermint t' start!"

Th nex wud yell, "Ile go further than evun th proposed stamp memororatin th first Eyetalian frute-peddler er Greek shoe-shiner, Ile promis a stamp memororatin th first fillatelist an let yu guys pik him! (—if yu vote fur me! !)"

Th thurd wud probly broadcast, "Ile do all that them fellers only promis an lots moar. Ile issu invurted preecans an lef or rite diagonals in ole English er nu Yiddish an in assorted colors, wich th Agency in Washinton can issu az offshul wether used in th places named on them er not. That auto get yur vote, wunse ennyway!"

But kum tu think, them suggestions wud probly split th fillatellick vote 3 ways an weed vote bout az we wil ennyway.

A friend ov mine sez sein that thairs sum U. S. stamps with sunshine on them wy not wun with moonshine,—an a sympathetic flavur gum? But I tole him probly sum peepul wud lick em so hard thayd cum loose atterwards. But if shoze heez intrested in fillately.

Wel, I gotta chance t' be presidunt myself sum day, but aint ben called fur yet. Ime all reddy practizod on my acceptance speech startin, "Feller citizens".

THE MAP STAMPS OF THE WORLD.

By W. L. KINKEAD, Ridgewood, N. J.

Naturally, when one starts to study what map stamps can teach them, they look to their own country first, and we find only the 10c Louisiana Purchase Issue, Scott's No. 327, with its story of the Louisiana Purchase in 1803 from Napoleon for $15,000,000, carried through by Mr. Robert Livingston, then Ambassador to France. That map shows our country, but not North America, which we find depicted on a set of stamps, issued by the North American Telegraph Co. to frank their tolls, Scott's Nos. 3477-3484.

This study of map stamps takes us into 32 countries, including our own. Our nearer neighbors North and South have both shown their possessions far better than we have.

Canada was far reaching in this respect, issuing the two stamps, Scott's Nos. 82-83.

Newfoundland's one stamp shows in outline its entire country, Scott's No. 98. Mexico, fortunately, was not so ambitious, and she made no remarks on her two map stamps, Nos. 512 and 624.

It may seem odd that more map stamps have been issued by 14 different countries in the Western Hemisphere (the number of stamps being 275) than in all the Eastern. But is this to be wondered at, when we realize that the people of these Western countries are far more concerned "about being on the map," than their older sisters of the Eastern Hemisphere?

In Central America we find more map stamps than in any other part of the World, for here we find those map stamps issued during the Seebeck Days by Nicaragua, to the number of 67, both in the general issues and her officials, Scott's Nos. 81-98i and 863-880i.

Then comes Costa Rica with her two beautiful stamps of 1923, with the map showing the Western Hemisphere, and the head of Columbus, whom so many Western countries have delighted to honor, and his three caravels, Scott's Nos. 123 and 125.

Here we find Panama with her 130 map stamps, Nos. 1-83, 101-139, 151-162, 179-184, 196, 203, 205, 302, 341-346, 401-407, 431-435, 529-530, picturing two oceans and the Isthmus, celebrated because of the Canal.

The 18 Canal Zone stamps, Nos. 1-3, 9-15, 28-30, 46-48, on those of Panama, with the dark green stamp showing the relief map of the Zone, brings us to the single stamp of the Colombian Republic, Scott's No. 668, for which I had a long hunt—who has it used?

Brazil globes, Nos. 172-173, 215-217, 225-226, 234, and Argentina map stamps, Nos. 286-291, 308-309, 319, 629, are of interest, but the writer questions whether the former should be mentioned as map stamps.

Venezuela, in 1896, issued five stamps, Scott's Nos. 119-123.

Turning our faces North, we find the ten stamps of the Dominican Republic, Nos. 111-119, showing the Island with Haiti.

Cuba next adds its eight, Nos. 253-260. Crossing the Atlantic, we first reach the Azores, Nos. 74-77, with their four stamps surcharged on the Globe map stamps of Portugal, and the same four stamps, of course, by Portugal, Nos. 106-109.

Going North, we find three stamps with a figure that looks more like a bear than the map of Ireland, Nos. 46-48.

Belgium No. 53, Bulgaria 153 and Esthonia 76, each contribute one stamp to our collection.

Belgium's map is especially noticeable, as it is the tiniest of all shown, as well as the first issued (1884-5).

Bulgaria's is but an outline, while Esthonia's is nicely framed.

We find the Australian Commonwealth map stamps surcharged, North Western Pacific Islands and the 28 are used in the New Bismarck Archipelago, Nauru and New Britain Islands, Nos. 1-10, 13-14, 18-39.

In the Mediterranean we find the Isle of Samnos and its three map stamps, Nos. 621-623.

Turkey is near with six map stamps, Nos. 426, 428, 554-555, 571-572, and the hard to get Turkey in Asia shows an odd map, No. 91.

Add three more from that oddly spelled country, Azerbaijan, Nos. 19, 23, 34.

Liberia's five triangle stamps add to the picturesqueness of the collection, and one reduces your exchequer, Nos. 47, 48, 66, 376-377.

Then that continent that is an island gives us 34 more, Nos. 1-15, 26-33, 39-51, to add, with the kangaroo in its midst, and the four new South Wales, Nos. 85, 87, 386, 388. Here the dealer gets in his innings, as he does with the early Panama & Canal Zone.

The Chinese Province of Ichang, issued an outline map stamp listed by Scott in his supplement as No. 8, three mace carmine in 1895.

Castellorossa or Kastellorizo, an island near Asia Minor, issued five, Nos. 60-64, map stamps while under Italian occupation in 1923.

Reunion Islands, a French possession, off the coast of Madagascar, issued 15 stamps, Nos. 60, 64a, 84-85-86, 151-2-3, some with maps and others with globe maps.

New Zealand is the last one, issued in 1924, outline map stamp No. 176, makes the 32 countries and gives us a grand total of 395 stamps.

We shall be pleased to have any criticisms, corrections or additions to this list.

(This list may be incomplete.)

A two-hours' rail journey, during which one prepares for sleep by dining on the Harwich train; eight hours in a comfortable bunk between Parkestone Quay and the Hook of Holland; a short hour's breakfast in a German "Mitropa" restaurant car attached to the Dutch State Railways, and one arrives at The Hague fit, fresh, fed, and ready for any exhibition that may be afoot.

Today's exhibition—or Internationale Postzegelentoonstelling to give its proper title—is organised by the Nederlandsche Vereeniging van Postzegelverzamelaars, or Dutch Union of Postage Stamp Collectors, to celebrate its 40th anniversary. The Pulchri Studio in the Lange Voorhout, where the exhibition is held, is admirably suited to the purpose. Lest any visitors to The Hague forget that an exhibition is on, the large advertising sign stretched across the avenue immediately facing the railway station should be sufficient corrective. The stamps are shown in upright frames, as in Brussels—indeed a wise economy has been effected by using the same frames, and they are also to go on to Paris for the exhibition there next May. I am informed by Mr. Klinkhamer that the exhibits are insured for £250,000.

Special Stamps.—Following precedent, the Dutch Post Office has been prevailed upon to issue special stamps (see under "Stamps of Today" in this number). The purchase of an admission ticket entitles the holder to purchase two sets. To obtain larger quantities one must buy more admission tickets. The effect of this is that all stamps are sold at a premium of 25c per set of three.

At a second window all other current issues of Holland and Dutch Colonies may be purchased at face value.

Prince Consort at Opening Ceremony.—By noon a great international crowd of philatelists had assembled, and His Royal Highness the Prince Consort entered, followed by their Excellencies Prof. G. J. Van Swaaij, Minister of Canals and Posts; S. de Graaff, Minister for the Colonies; and Mr. J. A. N. Patijn, Burgemeester of The Hague. Mr. G. J. Van der Schooren, President of the Exhibition, delivered an address of welcome in Dutch to His Royal Highness, and in French to the visitors.

Postal Museum for Holland.—The Minister of Posts then spoke in Dutch at some length, dwelling upon the educational value of the hobby, and congratulating the Society upon its achievement. It had been decided to create a National Postal Museum for Holland, and he was particularly pleased to know that the nucleus of it would be the fine collection of Mr. P. W. Waller, shown in the exhibition, and which by gift of the owner would become the property of the State after the end of the present month.

Recent Issues Defended.—Speaking of criticisms of Dutch provisional stamps, the Minister denied any speculative motive. They were actuated, he said, purely by the desire to utilise old stock for postal purposes, and if collectors aided them so much the better. As to the Jubilee issue—well, did not the importance of the occasion fully justify celebrating it on their letters? He congratulated the society on attaining its 40th anniversary, expressed the hope that its good work would long be continued, and had much pleasure in declaring the exhibition open.

The party was then conducted round the frames. Mr. A. J. Warren, the veteran British collector, whose Dutch stamps are a feature of the exhibition, had the honour of being introduced to His Royal Highness, who was much interested to learn that it was just forty years since he commenced his collection in Java, and that he therefore shared the anniversary honours of the society.

Some of the Chief Exhibits.—To detail the stamps shown at an exhibition is impossible, to describe them is difficult. Many great collections change but little between one exhibition and another, and one must seek out, so far as possible, what has not been described before.

The interest in the collection of Holland of Mr. P. W. Waller (Overveen), lies mainly in the large mass of documentary material relating to the early Dutch Post Office prior to the days of stamps. Maps, charts and photographs amplify the franked covers and the text surrounding them in a way that makes Mr. Waller's presentation of the collection to the State particularly valuable from a historical point of view. Some attention has been given to the first type, but for the rest it is largely a single specimen collection. As already stated, this collection is to form the nucleus of the Dutch National Postal Museum.

The well-known Holland collection of Mr. A. J. Warren (Epsom) is much admired, with good reason, for the amount of research it embodies is truly wonderful. Essays, colour proofs, and sheets of all plates re-constructed, with every minor variety detailed, make an exhibit envied by every Dutch specialist. There are four SPECIMEN copies of the first issue which are missing even from the reference collection of the Universal Postal Union at Berne. Of plate VII (with horn on forehead) there is a block of ten, five over five with wide margin between, as well as smaller blocks and singles. Of the 15c a mint block of 30. Nor must a proof sheet of the 5c in black be overlooked.

Mr. A. Leon Adutt's collection of Confederate States, well known among English philatelic societies, is again shown. Some very compact sheets are exhibited.

Mr. Leon de Raay (Amsterdam) has gone deeply into the Memel overprints, and Mr. Joh. van den Berg has done the same for the Sarre.

Both Mr. Lichtenstein (New York) and Mr. R. F. A. Riesco (London) exhibit Cape of Good Hope, and between them one is surfeited. Of the Wood-blocks Mr. Lichtenstein has some 40 copies of each value in singles, pairs, blocks and on entires, including a block of 4 of the 4d error on original cover. Mr. Riesco has blocks of four of the 1d both in carmine and vermilion. Mr. Riesco's Chili stamps are also here. Pairs and strips are plentiful, but the rarity of blocks of the first type is evidenced by the fact that even in such a collection as this only two of the first type are to be found in any of the numerous printings—one of six of the 10c 1857-58 and a block of four of the same value of 1858-59. A very pretty strip of five of the 1c with magenta cancellation of concentric circles graces the pages of the 1862 issue. Of the various scarce Admiralty issued there is a range of 28 copies.

The France of Sir J. R. Andrew Clark (Maidenhead) deserves a column to itself. It includes 1849-50, 20c black, block of 9 with centre stamp tête-bêche, 1fr 1853 in block of four with tête-bêche, a wide range of "Susse" perforations with trial sheet, and a good deal more besides.

Colonel G. S. F. Napier shows Greece up to 1900, arranged in the intricate detail for which the stamps of the first two types are famous.

The stamps of Great Britain are ably represented by the 12-volume collection of Mr. Geo. Munro (London), although it lacks the great rarities. Mr. Johan Koning (Amsterdam) also shows British stamps in some quantity in the form of plates reconstructed by lettering, including the £5 Anchor (36 copies).

No International Exhibition is complete without a "Post Office" Mauritius, and this is provided by Mr. Manus who shows his fine copy of 1d on entire and unused 2d, also the Berlin reprints. "Post Pairs" in eight reconstructed sheets in different stages of the plate form a compact exhibit of 12 sheets.

I have not space to refer to much else in this very interesting Exhibition, but there are some items in Baron de Reuterskiold's Switzerland I must not miss. Here is the only yet discovered copy of the Zurich 6 rappen from a worn plate without retouch, showing the worn void. His "Double Genevas" are perfectly shown, with an unused, and four entires each bearing the two halves (a) normal (b) reversed (c) left vertical pair (d) right vertical pair. Then there is 10 rappen with framed numerals in strip of 3 on entire—perhaps the rarest stamp of all Switzerland.

Mr. Wemberger's stamps on entires are a sight to see. The 3pf Saxony in pair Uruguay 180c, South Australian 1d in strip of six, Moldavia 80c, Oldenburg 1/4 groschen, France 1fr vermilion, strip of 6, all these and others, on original letters.

Then there is Mr. Parkinson's Uruguay and Oldenburg (1/4 sch. mint block of 7 with side margins—unique), range of postmarked blocks; 1864 4/4 sch. mint block of 20 (80 quarters).

Mr. Van Gelder has an exhibit of Early Swiss in the Rarities class which includes a perfect Basle dove dated 25/2/1865 with red postmark on piece.

Entertainment.—On Sunday, Sept. 6, a short reception was held at the Twee Steden Hotel on the occasion of the 40th Jubilee of the Society, and a gold plaque was presented to Mr. Van der Schooren in recognition of his valuable services. This was followed by a dinner in the evening.

On Monday an enjoyable trip was made by tram to the Castle of Wassenaar for tea, returning in time for the Mayor's Reception at the Town Hall. The Mayor, in a happy speech, said that it was not the custom of the municipality of the Hague to receive societies of collectors. If in this case they had made an exception it was because the nature of their hobby gave it a semi-official character. Everybody had been a stamp collector at some time or other, but where the philatelist began was where stamp collecting left off.—Philatelic Magazine.

COUNTERFEIT OVERPRINTS ON BELGIUM CHARITY STAMPS.

By CHAS. S. THOMPSON.

For a number of years it has been possible to obtain incomplete sets of twenty varieties of the Belgium charity stamps of 1910 and 1911, types Montald and Lemaire. The remaining four numbers had always been scarce, and having only "1911" for an overprint, must have tempted many would-be forgers. These are numbers 248a, 248b, 249 and 250 of the Standard Catalog.

Now complete sets of 24 are being offered in Belgium, but the four stamps in question have forged overprints, easily distinguishable with a trifling amount of comparison.

The genuine overprints have long, slim, curved serifs on the 1's, and these serifs slope downward at an angle of about 60 degrees. The "9" is complete, and shows no breaks.

In the forged overprints the figures are thick and irregular, the serifs on the 1's are mere straight knobs, and the bottom of the nine has a distinct break, so that the ball of the figure, which is very distinct in the genuine, and joined to the rest of the figure by a slim continuous line, is in the counterfeits merely a somewhat irregular, detached blob of ink. This character is constant in every stamp of a considerable number of blocks. Furthermore, the last "1" of "1911" has no serif at all on the left side of the foot!

Finally, the forged overprint, measured along the bottom, from serif to serif, is

THE FORUM.
By H. P. ATHERTON,
318 Main St., Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to 19th century United States postage stamps; Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

Letters are coming in with interesting data and copies of various minor varieties in answer to the first call by the Forum. From Rev. J. G. Wildenborg comes an announcement of the "new issue", clipped from the N. Y. Sun, of Feb.
26, 1890. To quote in part,—"It is proper to announce that THE SUN'S long campaign against the sickly green two cent postage stamp ended on Saturday with the complete triumph of sound aesthetics and the just reward of perseverance and patriotism. We may say that the will of the nation has once more asserted its irresistible power. The birthday of Washington was appropriately celebrated by the first public appearance of the new two cent postage stamp, which restores the bright hue of health to the revered cheek of the Father of the Country, and shoves the sickly green horror of the past four years into the back garret of hideous memories".

This establishes the day of issue of the 2c red 1890, as Feb. 22, 1890. Also it started the usage of red-ink, for our regular rate stamp, and this has been used continuously since, with exception of some few commemoratives.

Col. A. H. Benners has sent in many stamps, showing flaws and varieties, among them being several that should be called to your attention. A 1c Re-engraved shows a solid dot of color directly under the N of CENT, it falls in the white curved line, and looks as tho the plate had been damaged at this spot.
Then there is a series of pairs of 1c, 2c and 3c 1890. In the acanthus leaf at left side of medallion, where it terminates in a whorl, there are two dots, instead of the single customary opening in the leaf.
This is the top part of the floral decoration immediately under the curved label below U of United. A 3c 1857 Type II shows a flaw over the ear of bright appearance, not unlike some of the flaws which occur on this stamp back of the head. A 1c American in dark blue has the small pearl at left missing entirely, and the top of the N of cents is separated by a line of color, the serif at right being detached from rest of the N. Another unusual item is a piece of cover franked for the 10c rate, composed of one 3c 1851, one 3c '57 Type II, a 1c '57 Type V, and a 3c Nesbit cut to shape, and affixed to cover. All of the items show intensive study.

Mr. J. W. Prevost read in a recent issue of the New Issue column, where one of the "Triangle" stamps showed entirely white inside the triangle. He remembered having one and brought it to show me. It is a truly remarkable variety.

This is a block of four of the 2c watermarked, 1895 issue. The stamp at top right shows both of its triangles in almost pure white, while the copy at left is almost white, tho faint horizontal lines show. The two bottom stamps are quite normal. As a block it looks most unusual.

During the Civil War many designs of patriotic nature were used on envelopes.
Both the United States and Confederate States employed these. Those from the Confederate States being far less numerous. An odd one that has just come to my attention shows an elephant wearing a U. S. flag down his side. He has a fore foot raised, while a rat is scampering away from under in a great hurry, the inscription below reading,—"What if a hungry rat should cross the path of an Elephant, squelch it, by Heaven, squelch it". There are many of those sort of covers with designs on them. The temperance cover is well known. Then the cover calling for penny postage way back in those days, and back in the fifties when the government charged 5c if not paid by a stamp and 3c if paid by a stamp, we find the rhyme "Pre-pay, pre-pay, is the order of the day." Some collectors save all kinds of covers with advertising labels, and old return addresses of all kinds. Some save those from colleges, others those from hotels back in the fifties, and often on the backs of envelopes we find all sorts of designs. One company put out calendars for the whole year, others showed maps of their part of the country, etc., etc.

Some of the above ideas of collecting may start a new collection for you.
There are countless ways of collecting, especially when covers are taken into consideration.

This week's question,—Have you seen any covers with stamps postmarked 1851 from any place in the U. S. other than New York City, and from Sonora, California?

Editor MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS,

Appreciating the fact that space in your popular WEEKLY is valuable I feel that you are to be commended for the liberal use of it in covering the 39th Annual Convention of the American Philatelic Society at Detroit.

I am sure the membership of the so-vote of thanks for all this publicity and your splendid work.

A number of the members have called my attention to your personal notes of those present and told me how they enjoyed a closer view of many prominent names they have heard but did not know personally.

I trust the WEEKLY will be as greatly benefited by your work as I am sure the society has been.

THE WINNIPEG EXPOSITION.

Saturday, September 20th, at 6 o'clock p. m., the doors closed to what has been the largest Philatelic exhibition ever held in the Dominion of Canada. This convention originated among the Winnipeg collectors some eight months ago and the exhibition committee has worked strenuously ever since trying to make this exhibition the greatest thing the collectors of Canada have ever witnessed. When the opening took place on Wednesday, September 17th, the success of the exhibition was immediately assured and surpassed in every way the expectations of the most critical. Centered under 1,500 sq. ft. of glass were displayed 166 exhibits of rare stamps valued, conservatively speaking, at $1,000,000. The exhibition embraces 88 displays for the senior class and 78 for the junior class. The excellence of the exhibits made difficult the task of the judges for awarding the prizes but a decision was reached at 1 a. m., Wednesday morning, when the list of prize winners was announced in the daily press the next day.

On account of some of the judges being unable to attend the following were appointed: Charles J. Phillips of New York; R. C. Osborne, A. H. Sutherland, C. Arnott, F. S. Thompson, William Van, all of Winnipeg; J. C. Cartwright of Birtle; J. B. Parker of Regina.

Thursday, September 16th, at 10 a.

m., saw the official opening of the great exhibition. Mayor Farmer of Winnipeg presided at that function and suitable addresses were delivered by Dr. F. Dey, president of the Winnipeg Philatelic Society, and Mr. Charles J. Phillips of New York. A large and interesting crowd was present and the addresses delivered were very interesting. Mr. Phillips who has been connected with Philately for thirty-eight years, formerly a dealer in London, England, and now engaged in the same occupation in New York, brought with him a special collection of rare stamps which represents a total value of $28,000. One of the greatest rarities in the exhibition was an unused strip of six of the first stamps ever issued, "The Penny Black," Great Britain, dated May 6, 1840. The strip was valued at $300. Another outstanding stamp in this exhibit is the 30c United States stamp of 1869 with flags inverted at $1,000. Still another is the New Brunswick 5c brown stamp bearing the head of Post Master General Connell issued about 1863 and valued at $350. Another very valuable exhibit was made by A. F. Lichtenstein of New York, who is listed to be the possessor of the finest collection of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick in the world. This collection brought to the exhibition by Mr. Phillips included a wonderful set of blocks and strips of unused penny issues and amongst the rarities noted are 24 superb copies of the shilling stamp including an almost unique pair valued at more than $3,000.

Bisected stamps on covers in this exhibit were a wonderful sight and a unique item in this line was a cover showing half of the shilling and half the three penny, making the 7½ penny rate to Liverpool.

Copies of the rare Canadian 12-penny black were shown by prominent Winnipeg collectors and one superb copy on display in Mr. R. C. Osborne's exhibit. Another rarity of note was 4-Anna India Scott's No. 6 B, with verted center valued at $1,250 owned Col. Freeman of Dublin, Ireland, and displayed by the Van-Cleland Book Art Store of Winnipeg.

All the visitors were taken for a sightseeing trip around the city and a very enjoyable time was had. It is regrettable indeed that we are unable to give in detail the addresses and speeches delivered during the convention, but amongst the most important was the address by Mr. Charles J. Phillips of New York, on "Relative Rarity and Catalogue Use of Stamps." Mr. Phillips said that in many cases the proportion between the numbers printed was not recognized in prices quoted in the catalogues. Quoting from Scott's current catalogue, he compared the three penny, six penny and shilling issues of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. "Of the former 12,880 were printed and were priced at $17.50 each, while the Nova Scotia issue, of which 1,615,000 were printed were priced at $7.50. He did not believe the Nova Scotias were overpriced. They recently sold at from $5.00 to $6.00, but the New Brunswicks were enormously rarer and certainly could be priced at more than $17.50. The six penny New Brunswick of which 5,738 were printed, were priced at $50; and the Nova Scotias, 406,356 number, were priced at $30 each. The New Brunswick was 50 times as rare as the Nova Scotia, and should be priced higher. The Nova Scotia, he said, was priced too high. It came often, and only very exceptional copies would be bought. The most striking difference was in comparison of the one shilling issue. The New Brunswicks, of which 5,738 were printed cost $200 each, while the Nova Scotias, 205,400 in number, cost $225. It was on record that a large quantity of the Nova Scotias one shilling stamps had been burned. There was record of the number destroyed, but the experience of the bigger collectors of these stamps was that the New Brunswick one shilling was several times rarer as the Nova Scotia one shilling.

ROMANCE OF A SMALL STAMP BUSINESS

For some months past the Chicago Daily News has been running a most inspiring series of articles on, "The Romance of Small Business". We are sure that Philately presents many such highly interesting romances and we herewith present one of them.

About 27 years ago a young preacher, Mr. G. C. Rheinfrank, was sent on a missionary tour to a Russian settlement in Minnesota. There he first saw what Russian stamps looked like, took them home to his boys and noticing their great joy, thought, "What will they do if they see 100 stamps all different?" Noting their keen delight he sent for a Scott's Junior Album and "1,000 all different". The game was "on". One of his first moves was to subscribe for "MEKEEL'S" which was scanned for bargains and read by all (the kids) with avidity. Something had been started.

A few years later he opened a stamp shop in Minneapolis at 243 Nicollet Ave. and organized "The Missionary Stamp Exchange". He imported stamps from all parts of the world and developed a thriving business, when a call to enter the lecture field caused a cessation of this promising work. After touring about thirty states as lecturer for the Redpath Lyceum Bureau he settled down in Chicago, where a successful venture in real estate had given him a solid footing.

He now entered the service of Marshall Field & Co. as Superintendent's Assistant. About this time he came across his old albums and stock books. The flame was rekindled: "Ah", he said, "Once a collector, always a collector." Collecting was resumed, and at once he determined to again become a stamp dealer.

He now has a well equipped office and has put in a few strenuous years building up a stock worth some thousands of dollars. It was not his intention to do any selling at first, but his sales department started automatically and developed beyond expectation.

He has two assistants who are kept busy sorting and stocking stamps and preparing sets and approvals. Of the latter he has two lines, Junior Approvals for the collector with a few thousand stamps, and Super Approvals, holding about 20,000 varieties for the more advanced collector.

Asked to give in a nutshell what he considers the main reasons for his success, he said: "The quality and character of my stamps, the fair prices at which they are sold, the Service to which the clients are entitled, and the high quality of the advertising medium thro which his offerings are presented to the public.

Many fond recollections are awakened by his private collection. Years ago, when Senator La Follette was visiting Mexico, he answered the appeal of this young unknown collector by going to the P. O. in Mexico City, buying blocks of all the current stamps then in use and sending them to Mr. Rheinfrank with his compliments.

One summer he was associated with Capt. Hobson and Lieut. Gov. Harding on the Chautauqua Circuit. A message came saying, "Mr. Harding will substitute for Capt. Hobson who is detained at the democratic convention in Denver." After reading this message Mr. Rheinfrank said to the audience, "We may regret that we may not be able tomorrow to hear a possible future Secretary of the Navy, Capt. Hobson, but we may congratulate ourselves on the privilege of hearing a possible future president of the United States, Warren G. Harding." Years later, when this prophecy had been fulfilled, President Harding wrote to Mr. Rheinfrank as follows: "Referring to your prediction on the occasion of the Redpath-Vawter Chautauqua, I must say that you are something of a prophet." This letter now forms the center around which Mr. Rheinfrank has grouped his collection of "Hardings".

EDITORIAL.

With a feeling of acute sorrow we announce the news of the death of Henry W. Wolseley, the dean of Chicago collectors, at the Hyde Park Hotel, aged seventy-five years. For thirty years we enjoyed the friendship of Mr. Wolseley, whose collecting life had covered a span of about sixty years. So recently as a few months ago we accepted the invitation of Mr. Wolseley to spend an afternoon with him and his stamp collection, and though the day was insufferably hot, Mr. Wolseley showed that he was not averse to looking over our shoulders as we turned the well-remembered pages. Thirty years ago Mr. Wolseley identified himself with local philately in Chicago, and as the years passed on his reputation as a careful collector became well known. His albums always contained stamps that were well worth attention, and he was fastidiously neat in his manner of housing his collection generally. A collector from boyhood Mr. Wolseley was able to give his stamps due regard at times, but again he was so busy in his work in the legal profession that he was compelled to ignore their beckonings on other occasions. He always had a liking for British Colonies, and his specialized collection of Strait Settlements was really an exceptionally good representation of the stamps, and when it was sold it realized a good price in the aggregate. Some years ago Mr. Wolseley decided to collect United States issues, and it was not long before he had a fine showing of them; and these stamps, with his collection of British Colonials with the twentieth century almost complete and containing things such as the scarce Natal one pound ten shilling C. A., are left as memorials to his philatelic enthusiasm and application. While always a busy man until his retirement a few years ago, Mr. Wolseley was never too busy to be of assistance to those who sought information that he could give from his vast fund of general knowledge, not alone of philately but of a host of other subjects. The personality of Mr. Wolseley in all its engaging qualities is so vividly before us that we feel that we can say little that can give a real idea of it to those who did not know him.

SCOTT STAMP & COIN COMPANY

33 WEST 44TH STREET NEW YORK, N. Y.

His cheerful philosophy has been a sustaining influence in the lives of many of his friends who feel stricken in having this kind mentor taken from their world. When we look down the vista of three decades and sum up the attentions that Mr. Wolseley has shown us as well as other collectors, we have the thought of overwhelming loss. Mr. Wolseley is survived by his widow and two daughters, both of whom are married. The funeral services were conducted by St. Bernard's Commandery, Knights Templar. Mr. Wolseley was a thirty-second degree Mason, a member of the Chicago Bar Association and the Union League Club, and first cousin of Lord Wolseley, former commander-in-chief of the British army, we are told. Philately has lost a collector who typified the best philatelic traditions of the past combined with the enterprising methods of the present day. He was at home as a specialist, but he extolled the idea of collecting in the normal way, and he had mild ridicule for the extremist even though he could enter into the idea that dominates the specialist. At different times, Mr. Wolseley has shown his stamps at meetings of the Chicago Philatelic Society, and although he was not a constant visitor to meetings of stamp societies, yet he favored them and their purposes and at one time he ran for a place on the board of vice-presidents of the A. P. S. Our heartfelt sympathy is extended to Mrs. Wolseley and the two surviving daughters, and we have a feeling that the good that Mr. Wolseley did in his long useful life is a compensation in some measure for the loss that bows us in sorrow.

Mr. R. L. Hustis, of Milwaukee, the philatelic humorist extraordinary and general cheer leader of the philatelists paid the editor of the WEEKLY a visit some time ago, and we may say briefly that the editor is convalescing. Mr. Hustis is the exponent of genial collecting, and like many a natural humorist, he writes with the fluid of fun. He can reel off reams of conversation that would make a hit at an undertaker's soiree. He says that he is interested in the WEEKLY and wants to increase the circulation of it, and that is why he is so faithful in contributing to its columns. He feels that many improvements could be made in the WEEKLY and we do not want to deny that he may be right. He has his ideas as to the future for our paper, and he thinks that it is a shame that we haven't got full 10,000 readers; and he becomes tearful in imploring collectors to come to the rescue of the paper. In his heart we think that Mr. Hustis blames the editor because we have a circulation of only 9,900 and that he knows that he can point out many essentials in which the inspired touch is lacking; and just for that we are going to play the most uproarious joke on Mr. Hustis that ever befell the lot of man. We are going to ask him to show us how we can improve the paper, and we have selected him, even though he does not know it, as the editor for the special number of the WEEKLY in March, 1925. We know that Mr. Hustis cannot laugh that off.

We want to say that the publishers of the standard catalogue new edition are men of their word and that from all

The last installment of the advance sheets has been distributed, and we are now ready for the catalogue which may be welcomed at any day now. We thank the Hon. L. G. Harris for a copy of the bill incorporating the recommendations of the postmaster-general. While the bill is a long one it is not without interest to philatelists in certain of its provisions as have already been pointed out by different writers on our paper. The changes in postage rates and the effect in the use of stamps of different denominations have been outlined; and to answer an inquiry on the subject we may say that the fee for the registration of mail matter under the new regulations "shall be not less than 12c to be prepaid in addition to the regular postage;" and it is ordered that a receipt on registered matter is available only upon the payment of a fee of one cent. It is interesting to know that the receipt when returned to the sender will "be received in the courts as prima facie evidence of such delivery." It may be added that a section of the revised statutes gives the postmaster-general the option to fix registry fees at any rate not above 20c in addition to the regular postage. Special delivery rates are scheduled at 15c for matter weighing in excess of two pounds and not over ten pounds, in addition to the regular postage, and to secure immediate delivery of article weighing over ten pounds carrying a tariff of 20c.

The chairman of the publicity committee of the A. P. S., Mr. Henry A. Dimant, has been instrumental in having the Post Despatch of St. Louis take up the broadcasting of philately, and to congratulate both the newspaper and M.

A RARE UNITED STATES COIL.

2c IMPERFORATE-SIDEWISE-ROTARY, SCOTT'S NO. 459.

One of the scarcest of the later coils is the 1914 — 2c imperforated rotary print, watermarked, sidewise coil, Scott's No. 459. This variety lists at $9.00 per stamp in the 1925 catalog and there is a place for it in the album.

The variety cannot be faked from an imperforate sheet for stamps from the rotary press have never been issued before or since in an imperforated condition with the exception of these coils.

Only a small lot were made, most of these were used commercially at the time and when the variety was discovered months after, but a few were available.

I offer fine mint copies at $7.50 per stamp in singles, pairs or strips — a line pair at $17.50. What else do you need in coils? In the market to buy all coils except the common varieties. What have you to offer?

Air Mail Postmarks.

I am officially informed by the Superintendent of the Division of Air Mail Service, that when the Shenandoah makes its first trip to the Pacific Coast, it is not contemplated that it will carry any mail as had been originally expected.

There was, however, a special mail carrying flight quite recently from Nashville, Tenn., to Chicago, Ill., and I am informed that this flight was arranged by telegraph so that the department was unable to give the general public much advance notice. I am not informed, however, as to whether a special cancellation was used on this occasion but, of course, if the mail was backstamped it would readily show that it went via the air route.

I am trying to arrange with the department to give us as much advance notice as possible regarding air mail flights, so that our readers will have ample time to send covers after obtaining the information through this publication.

Postage Stamp Supplies for Holiday Mailings.

Under date of September 27th, the Third Assistant Postmaster-General has called the special attention of all postmasters to the importance of submitting advance requisitions for stamp supplies needed during the month of December, in order that all available transportation equipment may be used exclusively for the prompt dispatch of holiday mailings. This applies to all items of postage stamps, postal cards, and plain and office request envelopes. It is pointed out that it will be to the direct advantage of all branches of the service if mails can be relieved of all unnecessary shipments of supplies from December 1st to the 26th inclusive. These requisitions on the department should reach Washington not later than November 15th.

Mention is made in the communication of carload shipments of envelopes, and we now learn that a minimum car consists of 3,000,000 envelopes or 6,000,000 post-cards.

Establishment of Insured Mail Service With Great Britain and Northern Ireland.

Under date of September 30th the Postmaster-General announced that on the following day, October 1st, a new international parcel post agreement which makes provision for the insurance reciprocity of international parcel post packages between the United States and northern Ireland will be put into operation. This is the first convention of the kind, with the exception of that with Canada, to be negotiated between this country and a foreign power.

Under the provisions of the new agreement a minimum fee of 15 cents will be charged for a package having a value of not over $10, while a fee of 50 cents will be charged for a package valued at not more than $100. No parcel will be received for delivery which weighs more than eleven pounds.

It is expected that the new arrangement just concluded will result in a large increase in the parcel post business between the United States and Great Britain as merchants will take advantage of the insurance feature of the convention.

The new convention takes the place of the one which has been in effect between the United States and Great Britain since 1905.

ALGERIA.—The Economist Stamp Co. has shown us the 3c orange of the 1900 issue of France with the overprint "Algerie" in black. Also the 1c of the same issue with the surcharge "Algerie 1/2 centime" in four lines in red.

AUSTRALIA.—Mr. R. Roberts informs us that owing to shortage of watermarked paper consequent upon the delay of supplies from England, these two values had to be printed on paper produced locally and machine gummed by the printers. I understand that of the 1 1/2d, 110,000 sheets were printed and of the 1d green, 2,000 sheets only, that is to say, 13,200,000, and 240,000 stamps were printed, and it is claimed that a great proportion of these were used for postal purposes in the ordinary way of business. A fresh supply of watermarked paper is now in use.

BERMUDA.—Mr. R. Roberts has shown us copies of the 4d carmine on yellow and 6d red lilac, both on script watermarked paper.

public in all parts of the world, making New Zealand better known.

The authorities are inquiring whether the King's representative can be used as an advertising medium—and we have no doubt the answer will remain, like the photograph, in the negative.—Philatelic Magazine.

NIGER TERRITORY.—The new postage stamps being prepared for the French Niger are from designs by M. Kerkor, engraver for the Ministry for the Colonies, and represents a Niger river-boat, the citadel of Zinder, a Touareg, and a well.—Philatelic Magazine.

NYASSA.—A very clever set of Postage Due stamps has appeared for this Portuguese Colony—clever in that, while of triangular format, they embody the central subjects of four of Sir Robert Edgumbe's designs as used for the current postage adhesives.

There are nine denominations, inscribed, in each case, "COMPANHIA DO NYASSA" (at foot), "PORTEADO" (up left side of triangle), and "A RECEBER" (down right side of triangle), with numeral of value and "CENTAVOS" in the spaces between those words. The central subject is enclosed within an ornamental oval medallion, surmounted by a conventional ornament.—Stamp Collecting.

SIAM.—Mr. Philip H. Ward, Jr., calls attention to the 3 satang of the current series which is now printed in chocolate brown, the printing being done in two operations. In the block that Mr. Ward has the name of the country, the Siamese characters and the figure 3 are in a deeper color than the balance of the stamp.

SOMALI COAST.—The Economist Stamp Co. advise of the appearance of a new color, this time it is the 50c blue and indigo, in native design.

TURKEY.—New issue contemplated. The Swedish Postal Department, according to the Westminster Gazette (5-9-24), has been consulted by the Turkish Post Office as to the possibility of Sweden providing Turkey's next issue of postage stamps.—Philatelic Magazine.

YUGO-SLAVIA.—Special postmark. To commemorate the visit of part of the British fleet to Ragusa, Aug. 1st to 4th last, the postal authorities substituted a red cancellation for the usual black one both on postal matter and on registration receipts. We are indebted to a "P.M." reader on the spot, Mr. H. F. Short, R.N., for specimens of both. This is the only instance we recall of the colour of a cancellation having special significance.—Philatelic Magazine.

THE WINNIPEG EXHIBITION.

Turning to the stamps of Canada and comparing some of the figures and relative prices, Mr. Phillips stated the six penny, all papers taken together, of which 350,478 were printed, were priced at $35 each, and the 7 1/2 penny green 82,410 printed, were priced at $40 each. The latter was four and a half times as rare as the former, but was priced at only a few dollars more. He believed ordinary copies of the six penny were priced too high, and the 7 1/2 penny far too low. Good copies of the latter should be worth close to $100 and he believed they would be soon.

Of the 12 penny Canada, 1,510 copies were issued. Others just as popular were the Cape of Good Hope, woodblock errors. Of the one-penny blue 158 were issued; of the four penny red 542, and yet these real rarities sold at less than the 12 penny Canada, while they were from four to ten times rarer.

Of the much more common Canadian stamps, Mr. Phillips referred to the 1859 cent's issue. Of the five-cent, 39,792,000 were issued and cost 30 cents each. Of the two-cents, only 910,500 were issued and cost $4.50 each. In his opinion the five-cent stamp was much over-priced at $4.50 unused or used. Of the 17-cent blue only 600,000 were issued, yet this stamp, one-third more rare than the two-cent, was priced at only $3.50.

Mr. Norris Oughtred of Montreal arrived later and during a committee meeting it was decided that the next annual Canadian Exhibition would be offered to Montreal. Mr. Van emphasized the fact that now the Canadian Exhibition is a certainty, concerted effort should be made to hold Philatelic Exhibitions in the famous Canadian cities each year and if Montreal accepted, Toronto would be assured of the 1926 exhibition. Dr. W. F. Dey, president of the Winnipeg Philatelic Society, pledges his support to Montreal on the proposition. In concluding we can say that the convention and the exhibition in Winnipeg was a decided success. Everyone was happy, and the guests were well satisfied. The sight of the displays was unique, a thing never to be forgotten by those who were fortunate enough to visit the magnificent displays.

Glancing through the list of prize awards we note that nearly all the honors went to Canadian collectors, which would be quite natural. However, C. F. Langworthy, of Washington, D. C., secured first honors in Class H, United States; Charles J. Phillips, N. Y. City, first prize in Class M, dealers; K. N. Woodward, N. Y. City, first prize for ten best pages in four classes.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited, as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—We have received a pretentious price-list from the Rueger Stamp Co., of Dayton, Ohio. It is a well printed pamphlet of twenty pages and contains a wide variety of offers, including albums, etc., as well as stamps. Copy will be mailed on request.

—Mrs. Villiers Appleby, 301 North Jay St., Tacoma, Wash., is unable to secure any replies to letters sent C. B. Wynne of Fair Oaks, Pa., and would like to know either his address or any information regarding him.

—The Holden Stamp Co. calls attention to the fact that they have moved to 126 John R. St., Detroit, Mich. At the new office they are located on the ground floor and are more centrally situated.

—Max Weinstein will be very pleased to send the WEEKLY from October 30, 1920, to June 3, 1922, to any stamp society that is willing to pay the cost of transportation. Address, 1781 Park Place, Brooklyn, N. Y.

—We have received from C. E. Thomas a clipping from the Trade and Engineering supplement of the Times giving a description of the post-office tube railway now in use in London. We regret that we do not have the space to reprint it in the WEEKLY.

—It was the privilege of the Managing Editor to meet A. W. Filstrup of Benton Harbor, Mich., upon a recent visit to Boston. A short time ago we featured Mr. Filstrup in connection with membership in the Honor Club and it was a great privilege to meet him and get a closer insight into the philatelic treasures that he possesses. We hope some time to give our readers a line on some of the good things in his collection.

—Maxwell Krause now has in his employ Justus Sinexon, Jr., who will have general charge of mail orders, and want lists. Mr. Sinexon is the son of Dr. Justus Sinexon, of Philadelphia, a widely known collector and A. P. S. member. Mr. Krause is opening a new office in the Weimer Bldg., Lebanon, and with new equipment and added help will be able to give customers better service in addition to extending the lines which he has been handling. This is quite a step forward and shows how rapidly his business has been growing during the past few years.

—"I am pleased to inform you that my collection of the Confederate States of America secured the silver gilt medal at The Hague exhibition, Holland, last month, and I have just had a cable from Christiania, Norway, to the effect that it has gained a silver medal there; these two awards follow on the bronze medal awarded at Brussels, in the early part of this year, the gold medal at Czechoslovakia last year and the silver gilt medal at the London Exhibition."—From a letter written by A. Leon Adutt to the Editor. Congratulations!

—"More answers to our Canal Zone ad in your "Season Opener" than any ad we have run before."—METROPOLITAN STAMP Co.

—Regarding a stamp club being formed in Rutherford, N. J., for your information I might state that this little town has had one for the past seven years and is quite active, with a well organized sales department, the circuits of which are received by over 40 clubs. The purpose of writing to you is to advise you that the news item was meant for the Saturday Afternoon Stamp Club, which meets at the Pierrette Tea Room, 15 South William St., New York City. This club was organized for the purpose of getting the collectors together, who have Saturday afternoons off. We now have 35 members and many applications pending. We organized a sales and exchange department. Exhibits are held the last Saturday of each month, and auctions, the third Saturday. A library has been established and many other features are being planned.—W. O. STAEB, President.

322 EIGHTY-FIRST STREET, BROOKLYN, NEW YORK

MARKET IN MODERN COLONIALS.

By PHILATELIA.

Gibraltar has long been notorious for withdrawing obsolete issues and destroying them—a very commendable practice, that has had the effect of rendering them popular as well as scarce; witness the Edwardian issues, notably the 1911 set; and the latest action in withdrawing the old watermarked series up to 8sh will render certain of them scarce. The 1sh emerald, of course, is the stamp everyone is watching. Is it going to be a rarity like the Togo emerald, or even 1sh script Turks Is.? It will doubtless be a good stamp, although certainly never as rare as the first mentioned. Most New Issue dealers who work on prompt lines were able to obtain full supplies. It will probably turn out a little scarcer than the previous issue on emerald surfaced paper, but not as rare quite as the Turks Is. 1sh script. But nothing appears to be known as to numbers issued, and it may be that as many have been imported as of the previous shade, but we must wait and see. A good tip is to buy both these 1sh emerald Gibraltar stamps now, whilst they are obtainable cheap and before they approach "double figures."

Numbers and Values.—Numbers issued are not always a good criterion of value, as the other factors of popularity and demand loom so large. It is sometimes asked if two stamps of the same issue are printed in equal numbers, whether the lower value, being in greater demand, is actually worth more. A classic example is in Cyprus 1903 SCA issue, where the 9 and 45 piastres were both issued in equal numbers and both very scarce; here there seems little to choose between the two, the higher value being if anything the more valuable, as most collectors take up to the 5sh duty where they can.

A much more puzzling case is to be found amongst the Georgian issues; thus, the Malta 10sh mult. CA and the Bahamas 1sh War Tax Local were both, according to published statistics, issued to the same number, viz., 1200, yet one has sold for £12 and even £15, whilst the other one fetches about £1. One may say that Malta stamps are more wanted on the Continent, but West Indian stamps are certainly in more demand in U. S. A. War stamps, however, even the scarce ones, are obtainable very cheap just now, out of all proportion to their scarcity and interest, which, however, does not account for this enormous difference. One can only conclude that a very slight demand would send this stamp, the Bahamas 1sh War Tax Local, soaring to heights undreamed of. Talking of numbers issued is reminiscent of the fact that in our last article the number of the Barbados 3sh of 1912 was stated as "about 400"; this of course was an error as the figure is near 4,000, quite a modest total for a stamp in a colony with a useful population and that of service for four years. HON. WARREN IRVING GLOVER, Third Assistant Postmaster General.

THE PHILATELIC AGENCY.

By WARREN IRVING GLOVER, Third Assistant Postmaster General.

The renewal of greater interest in stamp collecting to be expected at this season of the year prompts the Department to call attention to the aims and purposes in view in the establishment of the Philatelic Agency with something of the scope of its operations and limitations to which its service must be restricted, a knowledge and observance of which on the part of mail order patrons will result to the advantage of the Agency as well as those who place orders in more prompt deliveries with greater attention to the selecting of perfect stamps.

The establishment of the Philatelic Agency in December, 1921, was the first official act on the part of the Department in recognition of the well understood fact of widespread interest in and demand for postage stamps for other uses than that of prepayment of postage. No provision for sale of stamps to collectors and dealers had been made previously other than through the usual post-office channels.

This method, naturally, was unsatisfactory alike to purchasers and the postal service, the former requiring the privilege of examination and selection which could not well be provided with the facilities and limited clerical help available in post-offices generally.

The desire to more adequately meet the requirements of collectors and dealers than was possible through postoffices and to provide a source of supply of all current, and, so far as possible, discontinued issues of stamps available alike to collectors and dealers throughout the country and the world, and in the belief that the business of stamp collecting was well worthy of Departmental encouragement and support and with the knowledge that substantial profits accruing to the Govern-

509 Seventh Street, N. W.,

WASHINGTON, D. C.

ment from the withdrawing of postage stamps from postal channels warranted such action, this form of direct selling agency was placed in operation.

In the establishment of the Philatelic Agency, the Department proposed in no way to interfere with the recognized ethical standards of philately or to enter in any way into competition with philatelic dealers. The sales from the Agency must, necessarily, be confined to current issues and such obsolete varieties as might be available for recall from unsold post-office stocks. The existing practice of the Department to restrict new issues of stamps to postage requirements exclusively and commemorative stamps only when specifically authorized or approved by Congressional action or in connection with events having governmental sanction, has been strictly adhered to and will continue to be the policy of the Department.

Every effort will be made to continue the conduct of the Agency from the standpoint of equal opportunity for all and with special favors to none. It will be the aim to meet the requirements of patrons to the fullest extent possible regardless of the size of orders received. With a proper understanding of the principles governing the operation of the Agency which are based on an earnest desire to render a practicable service to collectors and dealers and with the mutual co-operation of all concerned, the service which it is expected to render will be made available to the greater encouragement of stamp collecting.

The Agency is justly proud of substantial gains in business transacted from year to year since its establishment. Its patrons who apply in person are innumerable, while mail orders are received from all sections of the country and from practically every foreign country. The volume of business transaction is quite conclusive evidence, in the opinion of the Department, to prove the need of such a sales Agency.

In the desire to further improve the service offered by the Philatelic Agency, the Department wishes to call particular attention to the necessity of confining mail orders to items of stamps which have been listed as available in stock circulars and supplemental notices that are sent out from time to time to patrons and others whose names are on the mailing register. It is particularly annoying and the source of much delay and extra expense in the filing of orders when stamps are called for that cannot be supplied. This necessitates substitutions or the return of remittances and causes extra accounting and effort which can be easily avoided if orders are confined to stamps listed as available. Observance of the following general rules is earnestly requested by all who desire to patronize the Agency:

1. Stamps are sold for cash only. Cancelled or uncanceled stamps, either domestic or foreign, cannot be accepted in exchange for or in part payment of other stamps.

2. Remittance should be made by

M. L. EIDSNES, JR.

Supt. Division of Stamps.

postal money order whenever practicable, payable to "Philatelic Agency". Cash should be sent by registered letter; cash sent by ordinary mail is at purchaser's risk. Personal checks will not be accepted unless they are properly certified.

3. Foreign currency cannot be accepted. Patrons in foreign countries should remit by international money order or New York draft. Remittances of foreign money are continually being received, causing delay to sender and unnecessary work in the Agency, as such currency must be returned with the order unfilled.

4. As stamps are sold at face value it is necessary for the purchaser to include return postage and registry fee, otherwise an appropriate reduction will be made in the stamps called for to cover return charges.

5. Care should be used in drawing orders to exclude all items not known to be available. When the purchaser is in doubt as to whether certain stamps can be supplied, a letter of inquiry independent of any order should be addressed to the Philatelic Agency. Small excess remittances will be returned in 1c or 2c stamps.

6. Many requests are being received for 3, 4, 5, 6 and 10c "rotary" stamps. Such stamps are not available.

7. The Department and Philatelic Agency receive numerous letters requesting information concerning the probable value and how to dispose of discontinued issues of postage stamps, postal cards, stamped envelopes and old coins. Such information cannot be furnished. Inquiries of this nature should be directed to dealers in old stamps or coins.

8. The Philatelic Agency does not purchase stamps for cash whether of current or obsolete issues, cancelled or uncanceled. Soaked uncanceled stamps are frequently received from the public in foreign countries with re-

THE FORUM.

By H. P. ATHERTON,
318 Main St., Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to 19th century United States postage stamps; Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Kates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

Well, I'm glad that's over! Office doors bearing signs "Will Return Tomorrow," or else you go into an office, wait a few minutes, and someone sticks their head out and says hurriedly, "Mr. Blank is out of the city, and will return after Oct. 10th." It was a wonderful World's Serious, as the Sport writer jokingly said. It sort of paralyzed business a few days, and is really serious, thrilling is a mild word. Can stamps carry such a thrill? Sure; but it is not all so crowded into a few moments tenseness, a longer and more pleasant thrill, if you get what you hope for. We saw the Old Master come thro a smiling. He has been collecting for eighteen years, and I hear that he has the largest collection of "Strike-outs" ever made. Then he gets his star item of his whole collection, the World Series. That's the way to collect stuff!

What do you do with all the little odd items that you run across? Crazy perforations, paper creased before printing, margins altogether too wide, stamps that the printer grabbed with inky fingers, stamps with blurs, blots and blemishes—freaks all. What do you do with them? Most of these would hurt the looks of an album page, as they are usually way off center, torn, or damaged somehow.

Why not start a little book of just nothing but these sort of freaks, saving them even if they are torn or damaged. It is a lot of fun, no sequence in mounting them, no regularity, and mount just what you like yourself. You can annotate them in lead pencil, and nobody will josh you about your lack of care, for they will be too intent on seeing what each item is, and your notes about it. Lots of collectors do this. Many carry a little pocket notebook with them, and a few loose hinges for the next oddity, men have showed me odd things like shifts that I never knew existed, round postmarks that had been stepped on and assumed the contour of an egg, and all sorts of fool things like a 3c 1851, dated May 81 instead of May 18, etc., etc. Start a book, call it your Forum Book, if you wish.

Several have sent in stamps falling outside the realms of the Forum. This column is a continuation of the "Early Low Values Specialized" column, as conducted by Mr. Warner Bates, who suggested that I explain this, as several had not considered it as such, and I had forgotten to mention it in my first article.

I see no fixed reason why we should adhere to "Early" and "Low" except that it reduces our range to what may be carried out more thoroughly than if too wide a range is attempted. If, for example, some enthusiast writes in that he has found a 1924 $5.00 stamp cancelled from some town in Alaska, which used a Blue Iceberg cancellation, I think you would like to know it, and I'd make mention of it. However, if readers want articles on Revenues, Confederates, Departments, Airplanes, Precancels, Dues, etc., we will not have room for postage stamps, which is what we want in this column for the greater part.

STAMPS WITH A THRILL.

A Two Pane Item of the 5c 1847.

Dr. R. W. Payne has shown me a cover bearing a 5c 1847 stamp, cancelled with 7 bar grid, and postmarked "Bridgeport, Ct. Mar 8", both in black. At the left is a wide margin, of 7 mm. This was folded under when the cover was bought. It was soaked out and it shows the right vertical line of the stamp from the left pane, and a bit of the bottom line of that stamp as well, bearing out the supposition that the 5c of 1847 was printed in two panes as were the 10c '47s. Quite a rare item, the only one so far recorded.

The Miracle Cover.

Assuming that you know what a cracked plate stamp looks like—jagged lines of color breaking into the design at any old random place—we will note what is termed the Major crack on the 3c '51-'57 stamp. It is the best known and largest on the 3c 1851 stamp. The crack starts at the bottom of the plate, and runs North by about one point East, disappearing (in the late use of the plate) through the "S" of Cents, and into the bottom right rosette of the third stamp above. The stamps in the 9th (horizontal) and bottom rows, show this defect in the form of a thin line (same color as stamp of course) carrying through the rosettes from top to bottom on the right side of these two stamps.

When you find one of these Cracked Plates on a 3c Imperforate stamp, you've been fortunate, to put it mildly, for they assay maybe one in a thousand. If you ever in your lifetime find one on the 3c 1857 Type I perforated, you may declare a holiday, for you have something infinitely scarcer, as this plate was discontinued soon after the arrival of the Perforating Machine. They are very very scarce, in fact far scarcer than that, if I make myself plain. All the above is merely stage setting.

Along comes a letter from Rev. A. T. Gesner. He says among his old covers he has found one with an Imperforate 3c 1851, affixed at top right corner of the envelope, pen cancelled by two crossed lines. This stamp evidently paid the postage from Freeport, Iowa, to Springfield, Mass. The person to whom it was addressed had evidently left town (why, I don't know, as this is a pretty nice sort of town) so a Perforated 3c 1857 Type I was stuck on the top left corner, postmarked, and sent along to Derby, Ct. The remarkable feature of this cover is the fact that each stamp is from the same position in the plate, and both are cracked plates!!!

POSTAGE STAMPS AS AN INVESTMENT.

By PHILIP H. WARD, JR.

While the collecting of postage stamps is classified as a hobby, most of us sooner or later reach a point where we must look upon it as an investment and consider it from this point of view.

In the last few years considerable space has been devoted to the discussion of postage stamps as an investment and even a booklet upon the subject has been issued by one of our foremost dealers. There has been much said upon both sides pro and con, as to whether stamps are a paying investment, and arguments have been presented to advance the contentions of both sides.

Mr. Charles J. West in recent articles in the WEEKLY painstakingly took the time and trouble to calculate the catalog value of certain stamps for certain years and then gave their values at a later date in accordance with the same catalog, and in this way ably contended that the advance in value was not equal to the rate which might be reasonably expected from other investments, hence Q. E. D., concluded that stamps could only be considered as a hobby, and not as a paying investment.

Personally, I do not agree with the conclusions so reached. It is true that if a man simply buys a stamp to fill a space and is satisfied with the average condition copy that the catalog covers, that he is not likely to obtain a normal rate of interest upon his investment, when he sells.

If, however, he has studied stamps from all angles and has followed their possibilities, I claim that stamps under such conditions are an extremely satisfactory investment.

I can readily call to mind today numerous instances where collectors have accumulated intelligently, and have realized handsome profits upon their investments. One collector that I recall in the course of ten years or thereabouts got together a collection of mint United States blocks and singles which I know did not cost him over $25,000, and these have been sold at a price in excess of $100,000. I know of a further collection of the same issues, which in addition included superb used pieces and took in a greater scope, wherein the profit to the collector was probably 100 to 150%, although during this time he had his pleasure. Just three years back, another collector started a collection of mint 20th Century U. S., in blocks and singles, including the oddities, and possibly invested around $3,000. He has today refused $3,750 for the same collection, and no doubt if sold at auction it would bring even more. Such students as Dr. Chase, who has specialized and written upon certain of our early issues, found all of his investments to be sound.

If one should go back to the Worthington sale of 1917, he could possibly pick out 70% of the United States stamps and sell them at auction today and secure anywhere from 100 to 500%, or even, more in excess of the prices that they brought at that time, and if we go back a couple of years earlier to the Seybold sale of covers, we can add today 1,000% profit, and many things would still be cheap.

A block of six of the 10c 1847 was sold only six or seven years back at $654, which was an auction record for such an item, and those of us who followed the sale at the time considered that the purchaser paid an enormous price. Today if the piece was offered upon the market, it would be reasonable at $10,000. Single used copies of the same stamp could be purchased in superb condition only a few years ago at $5.00, and they would sell at several times the amount today. Many may claim that these are isolated instances but they are not, for they are only a few that offhand come to mind.

All of our big collections of United States when intelligently made have proven to be good investments.

My remarks have referred almost entirely to the issues of our own country for the simple reason that I have devoted my philatelic activities to this line. There is no doubt that issues of certain other countries may be just as sound. British North America, British West Indies and the like are much in demand, and it is my personal opinion that if a collector specializes in any country, he has a sound investment, for there is no one today that can know everything about every country, and the specialist who concentrates on certain issues can often pick up wonderful things that when later written up and presented in their true light turn out to be real rarities.

U. S. STAMPED ENVELOPES.

By H. CLAY REED.

I am enclosing herewith a few notes on the current one-cent United States stamped envelope which you may find of interest to your readers. The envelope collecting public doubtless is small, but at the same time it is as silent as a grave on matters which concern envelope collecting. The latter situation impels me to forward this article—which, by way, is the result of personal observation. Revival of interest in envelope collecting has been predicted for some time past but it doesn't seem to materialize. The reason, I am convinced, is partly due to the general apathy of envelope collectors themselves. I am interested almost exclusively at present in 20th century U. S. envelopes, the most promising branch of envelope collecting, and I would like to see things brighten up as they should this line.

How to distinguish between the varieties of the current one-cent envelope:

1.—To distinguish die A from die B. If the O in POSTAGE is in line with the other letters, and perpendicular to line tangent to the inner circle at point of contact, the envelope is die B. If the O is at an angle to the perpendicular, and leans away from the P, it is die D. In case of doubt, place a straight edge along the vertical axis of the O. If the extended line cuts Franklin's p below the chin, the envelope is die; if it cuts the profile below the base of the nose, it is die D.

2.—To distinguish die C from dies A and B. Compare the E in POSTAGE. die C the E is considerably taller, in proportion to its breadth, than in either die A or die D.

3.—In die B, the left stroke of the A in POSTAGE almost touches the T at the bottom—more nearly so than in any other die.

Die B was used only a short time, and was found only in watermarks 19 and 20. Consequently it will not worry the collector of current or new varieties. Die C is known so far only in high backs. Die D comes only in low backs, and the flaps of the die D entires are cut square, while the A's in low back have the side flaps rounded off. These differences in knives are characteristic of the various dies, but of course the infallible test is the stamp itself.

The descriptions given in Bartels' catalog of these dies will apply to the general run of these entires, but the only real tests the writer has been able to apply successfully to doubtful specimens are those described above.

NOTABLE AIR MAIL CANCELLATIONS.

By JOSEPH A. STEINMETZ, President of the Aero Philatelic Society.

An Air Mail route of especial historic significance, celebrating the return of Around the World Fliers to the United States, was established on September 5th at Boston Air Port, connecting with the Transcontinental Airmail Service at New York.

The Boston Chamber of Commerce, splendidly supporting the Post Office Department on Air Mail extension and tonnage increase, secured permission to put on this special official route and erected on the Air Field a Post Office Tent temporary Station fully equipped.

A special commemorative postmark was used, per illustration, and on Friday, September 5th, a tremendous assemblage of fifty hundred thousand people waited all day to welcome the return of the three Douglas Air Cruisers, which had left Nova Scotia that same morning.

Late afternoon word was received that due to heavy fogs on the Maine Coast the expected Air Fleet had been forced down into Casco Bay and the arrival at the Boston Air Port was then postponed until Saturday, September 6th, weather conditions permitting.

Meanwhile the Post Office Air Field tent was being liberally patronized and about 600 pieces of first class mail matter were received, mostly at the 8 cent rate for the Eastern zone, with but few pieces for the 18 cent mid-continent and 24 cent Pacific zones and a few Registry.

The next day, September 6th, a much smaller throng assembled and the Field Air Mail Post Office was not opened until nearly noon and was not so well patronized as on the previous day, hence covers of this date are of much greater rarity than September 5th though both dates are properly Historic and Commemorative, and should be collected, the 5th for the first landing in U. S. of World Fliers and the 6th arrival at Boston air port.

Immediately after the arrival of the Overseas Fliers at Boston Air Port 3 p. m., Saturday, September 6th, the special Airmail plane took off for New York to connect up with the Transcontinental.

THE PHILATELIC DIVISION OF THE CANADIAN POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT.

By E. L. TAYLOR, In Charge of the Post-Office Stamp Division.

The Canadian Government, like the Department at Washington, found that they were receiving constantly numerous requests from philatelists throughout the world for postage stamps for collections, and under the circumstances felt that they could give the collector better service and cater more to his requirements by concentrating this work at one point, where a stock of stamps in fine condition could be kept on hand.

Under the circumstances a Philatelic Agency, in connection with the Postage Stamp Division under the Post Office Department at Ottawa, was organized in April, 1923. The department at that time found that they had in their possession a large number of postage stamps of former issues, besides those which were still remaining in the hands of postmasters throughout the Dominion. It was decided to instruct the postmasters to send the latter to Ottawa, in order that they might be listed and made available to those interested. It was our idea to model this division after the Philatelic Stamp Agency at Washington, which had proven so successful.

Canadian stamps have always been held in high regard by stamp collectors at large, and it was not long after the establishment of this division that a brisk demand came from all parts of the world, including far away Australia and India.

As Canada does not change her issues very frequently and seldom issues what might be designated as commemorative issues, it is not easy to keep a large supply of stamps to meet the needs of collectors. However, the division still has a number of desirable stamps of former issues on hand, besides well centered specimens of the present series, and whenever any changes are made, such as new denominations, or the issuing of older denominations in new colors, selected specimens are obtained for distribution to the collector. It is our custom to distribute the current emissions at face value, plus return postage outside Canada, and in the case of the former issues, the same plan is followed, except the 1/2c Jubilee 1897 and 1/2c 1898 with numerals, of which there are very few left.

The division is established as mentioned above for the sole benefit of collectors, and as it is our desire to co-operate with them in every way possible, constructive criticism is always invited, for it is our aim and hope to please the philatelist.

EDITORIAL.

Our Feature Article.

It was not so many years back that the post-office frowned upon us when we requested philatelic courtesies. Today, philately is officially recognized by the department and every effort is made to extend real service to the philatelist. Much of this favorable attitude has been brought about by the broadmindedness of the present Third Assistant Postmaster-General, Warren Irving Glover of New Jersey and his efficient superintendent of the Division of Stamps, Michael L. Eidsness, Jr., of Iowa.

In our feature article this week we are fortunate in having Mr. Glover present the scope and attitude of the Philatelic Agency and I may say without betraying any confidence that the Agency is a pet hobby of both Mr. Glover and Mr. Eidsness, and it is with a great deal of personal pleasure that they watch its growth.

Canada Follows Suit.

Canada, our great neighbor to the north, has followed our lead and in turn has established a Philatelic Agency for the benefit of the collector. Mr. E. L. Taylor, in charge of the Post Office Stamp Division, presents the attitude of this division and we know from personal conversation with this gentleman that it is their aim and hope to advance philately. We are sorry to see that they should ask in excess of face value for certain stamps in the hands of the department for we believe the slight extra compensation will be more than offset by the criticism, but we know that this is just one of those minor details that are bound to crop up in any newly formed organization and one that will no doubt right itself in time.

Organized Philately.

American philately has never had in its midst one that it has more respected, and I may almost say loved, than that veteran president of the American Philatelic Society, Philip M. Wolsieffer. Besides being charter member of our oldest national philatelic organization, he is member number one of the Chicago Philatelic Society, one of our older local societies. P. M. tells the story that when a boy, he sold the 24c 1869 by the dozens to a Philadelphia dealer at a few cents each, and that some few were turned back as not wanted because they were of no value—the center was not printed right—it was upside down.

Surely one with this past history is qualified to speak with authority on organized philately, and if the general collector would take his words to heart and join our national and local societies, they would not only benefit personally but would benefit the hobby materially. Any serious collector of stamps owes it to philately to join at least one society.

Our National Society.

Numerous letters reaching my desk prove conclusively that many appreciate their membership in the American Philatelic Society, for they attach to their name the well known letters with their number. This I know is not necessarily for credit purposes, for many of the communications come from those who are well known and need no introduction. The national society has now reached a point where it is considered a privilege to be counted among its members. The time is fast approaching when the same remarks will apply in the case of our dealers and the American Stamp Dealers' Association. The fact that such an organization can make considerable headway proves pretty conclusively that philately is coming upon a firmer basis day by day. The time is almost here when a dealer who is out of the fold will be considered in the same light as those in other lines of business, who do not join their trade bodies. It will be thought that they either are denied the privilege or else are so backward in their ideas that they cannot see the advantages to be gained from an organization of this type. Millions are being invested in the hobby and under such conditions, the one who is not aggressive, does not adopt modern methods and ethics of merchandising, will likely fall by the wayside.

SOCIETY BENEFITS.

By P. M. WOLSIEFFER.

Often collectors have put the question to me: "What society shall I join first, our home town local society, or a National organization?" In each instance I have answered: "By all means your local society first, but both if you can."

Collectors are indeed fortunate that have a local stamp club or society, and should give it every encouragement, and, if possible, become a Branch of the American Philatelic Society, where their interests and activities will be largely increased in many ways. Any five or more collectors in a smaller city or town, where there is no local stamp society, may easily have one by becoming a Branch of the American Philatelic Society. Of course, it would be necessary for each one to be a member of the A. P. S.

Where local societies are strong in numbers, they usually have their own exchange and Sales Department, but the Branches of the American Philatelic Society receives special large circuits direct from the Sales Superintendent and it places them on an equal footing for this particular and important benefit, enjoyed by their fellow collectors in the larger cities and local societies.

In your home town society you have the benefits of personal co-operation with your fellow members; you derive information by frequent meetings, compare notes, swap, buy or sell your duplicates, see how the other fellow mounts his stamps, and that added to the frequent Philatelic social functions gives you many advantages over the isolated and lone collector who can only read about it.

In the American Philatelic Society, or National Organization, you gain prestige by becoming known all over the world. Its annual membership roll is consulted everywhere and when you place an order with a stamp concern and sign your name with the letters "A. P. S." and your membership number, it is equal to any reference you could give, and receives prompt and respectful attention.

If possible, every collector should support the American Philatelic Society that does so much to enhance the value of your stamp collection by its Annual Conventions, publications and "Publicity" work all through the year. Its publicity makes your stamp property increase in value and it is wise to "insure" that continued increase by taking a membership and active part in the A. P. S. The larger the Society grows and the greater its Permanent Fund becomes by increased membership, the more it can accomplish.

Don't hide your light under a bushel; let your friends know you collect stamps, for it often happens your friends would aid you by looking up some old correspondence, or perchance they might be sufficiently interested to also become stamp collectors. That is one form of "publicity" it pays to practice.

THE STANDARD CATALOG.
By PHILIP H. WARD, JR.
The advance sheets of the 1925 edition of the standard catalog have been comed and by the time these notes appear finished publication will be in the ount of work to compile and revise a log of these proportions, and our egratulations go out to the publishers.

hen one realizes that there are upd of 150,000 items to be priced, if we ct at every stamp as two stamps, one ug priced unused and one used, it is prising that there is such small op-tunity for criticising the prices quoted.
is naturally to be expected that a spe-list of a country can possibly point to them here and there where the stamp oo high or too low, but taken all in they reach a general average which s near satisfactory as can possibly be ected.

is usual at this time of the year we begin to hear the usual remarks ut some being too high because the logers have a stock that they desire ell, or some are too low because they re to replenish their stock, but if you just stop and think, you will re-ember that the catalog is priced several ths in advance of its publication, and ng that time new information be-ces available which will make a stamp seemed rare at the time of pricing

JACKSON HEIGHTS, NEW YORK

A GREAT CORRESPONDENCE RICH IN STAMPS AND AUTOGRAPHS.

By PHILIP H. WARD, JR.

The Girard National Bank of Philadelphia, one of the best known and oldest institutions of its kind in the country, is presided over by Mr. Joseph Wayne, Jr., its President—an ardent philatelist. This bank is the successor of the first Bank of the United States and still occupies the same premises and building that it has occupied since its establishment in 1793.

In a recent conversation with Mr. Wayne, he gave me some of the details of the wonderful correspondence found in this bank at the time that the center of the structure was renovated in 1901. At that time several rooms filled with letters and records that had not been touched for years were cleaned out.

It must be remembered that this institution in the 40's and 50's was one of the largest and best known in the country, and not only had correspondents in all of the larger cities of the United States, but had an extensive correspondence with banks abroad. The letters alone would fill several wagons and it will be realized that among these would be communications from practically all of the Presidents from George Washington on through the Civil War. There were, no doubt, numerous communications from Benjamin Franklin and Robert Morris, as well as other Revolutionary characters interested in our finances. This correspondence was disturbed for the first time in 1901, and in some of the rooms the dust was, without exaggeration, at least one-half inch thick. As all of the letters were retained in the olden days, and as the stamps were on the back of the letter sheets, one can readily picture strips of the early St. Louis bears—perhaps a block-pairs and beautiful singles of the Baltimore Buchanans with, no doubt, an Alexandria here and there. As for 5c black New York's, these were, no doubt, present by the hundreds, and one can imagine that the 5c and 10c 1847 numbered in the thousands. If you have seen the Girard National Bank building and realize that the whole third floor was full of this correspondence, you can picture to yourself what it must have contained.

Mr. Wayne had been connected with the bank about two years when all of this mass of paper was sold to a junk dealer, and after it had been taken away he picked from the floor numerous covers that had dropped in being carried down the stairs to the wagons. These were sold to Mr. Durbin, a well known stamp dealer of the time on a basis of $250 in exchange and consisted mostly of New York fives and the fives and tens of 1847. Realizing the possibilities of this correspondence, Mr. Wayne immediately called upon Mr. Morehouse of Frankfurt, the junk dealer, who had acquired the "waste paper", endeavoring to salvage what might be left. Unfortunately the entire lot had been ground into pulp and not a further stamp was to be had.

It is doubtful whether the archives of any institution in the country could have equalled the possibilities both in autographs and stamps that this correspondence just mentioned would have. It does not take a great deal of imagination to find all of our early issues present and many of them in substantial strips and blocks, for currency and valuable securities of weight passed from bank to bank in those days, just as they do today. Being located in Philadelphia, which was the center of activities at the time, there is no doubt that their foreign correspondence was extensive, and we can see whole strips of the early France and blocks of the penny blacks, and as for early German states, these certainly must have been prolific.

In telling the story, Mr. Wayne stated that had the correspondence been sold at the time as stamps and autographs, that the amount realized would no doubt have paid for all of the interior alterations. If the lot was sold today, it would pay for the whole bank, including the ground it is situated upon.

It may well pay our readers to visit similar institutions in their vicinity, for finds of old letters are not of infrequent occurrence. In the past the greatest fields have been the files of our Courts.

A RARE UNITED STATES COIL.

2c IMPERFORATE—SIDEWISE—ROTARY, SCOTT'S NO. 459.

One of the scarcest of the later coils is the 1914 — 2c imperforated rotary print, watermarked, sideways coil, Scott's No. 459. This variety lists at $9.00 per stamp in the 1925 catalog and there is a place for it in the album.

The variety cannot be faked from an imperforate sheet for stamps from the rotary press have never been issued before or since in an imperforated condition with the exception of these coils.

Only a small lot were made, most of these were used commercially at the time and when the variety was discovered months after, but a few were available.

I offer fine mint copies at $7.50 per stamp in singles, pairs or strips—a line pair at $17.50. What else do you need in coils? In the market to buy all coils except the common varieties. What have you to offer?

New Air Mail Stamps.

Business firms have been calling the attention of the Department to the fact that letters on which postage has been prepaid at the air mail rate are arriving at destination after having been transported by rail, and these complaints have been taken up with the several postmasters. The clerks claim, and certainly rightly so, that in assorting vast quantities of mail, they cannot readily distinguish between the air mail stamps and the normal stamps, which in certain cases are quite similar. Under the circumstances, the Department is now considering and will, no doubt, have ready for delivery shortly after the first of the year a new series of air mail stamps, which will possibly be longer than the Special Delivery and perhaps the same height. They are going to be of such a size and design that they will be readily noted, and it is hoped that their use will distinguish air mail communications from the normal mail. It is suggested that on one stamp we will have an airplane in flight showing on the right Golden Gate, San Francisco, and on the left Hells Gate, New York. One will possibly bear a long arrow and a third a fancy combination in which the insignia of the air mail service will be worked. The designs have not definitely been decided upon and it is not likely that the proposition will take definite shape before the Christmas holidays.

4c Martha Washington 1923.

Mr. Ernest Allison Smith has shown me a block of twelve (4 x 3) of the current 4c brown with portrait of Martha Washington from the lower right corner of the lower right pane, wherein it is noted that a portion of the stamps became torn in handling, and that the torn portion was mended by the usual means of a piece of heavy brown paper on the back. The sheet then received the normal vertical perforations and later the horizontal perforations but the damaged part no doubt caught in the perforating machine, so that we get an irregular block showing all the perforations vertically and part of the perforations horizontally. The block has been blue penciled and should have been removed by the inspector, but like other blocks of other denominations that have been found, they slipped the vigilant eye of the Bureau employee.

Around the World Air Mail Trip.

In the WEEKLY for September 22nd, there was a quotation from the Boston Post wherein it was stated that special 1c green and 2c red stamps showing a picture of an aeroplane were issued and used in connection with the "Around the World Fliers' Trip" from Boston to New York. I am officially informed by the Department, that no such stamps were ever issued, and they state that this is only one of the many rumors that add to the burdens of the Philatelic Agency by the request of such stamps from collectors.

To further quote from their letter, they state that "The Department will be glad to advise you and the WEEKLY STAMP NEWS of new issues contemplated well in advance of their issuance.

I sincerely hope that you will take steps to correct this erroneous article in order that the agency may not be further embarrassed by requests for stamps which were never issued."

HAYTI.—The expected new series has now materialized, and we are indebted to our Special Correspondent at Port-au-Prince for examples. These, we note do not correspond exactly with the forecast in our issue for May 31st, the designs, denominations, and colours being as follows:—Issued September 3, 1924 engraved and printed by American Bank Note Co., Perf. 12. 5 centimes de gourde green, President Borno; 10 centimes de gourde rose-carmine, citadel; 20 centimes de gourde blue, map; 5 centimes de gourde orange-brown, President Borno; 1 gourde olive, National Palace. The Citadel on the 10c is that of Laferriere, near Milot, and was built by "King" Henri Christophe, whose palace is depicted on the 4c de piastre stamp of 1906. Our correspondent quotes the quantities printed as three million of the 5c de g and half a million of each of the others.—Stamp Collecting.

LATVIA.—Our Special Correspondent Mr. George H. Jaeger, reports the issue of an entirely new series according to the order of the Minister of Foreign Affairs in Latvia. Owing to the resolution of the International Postal Confederation at Stockholm, the following new values are needed:—15 sant. for post cards (up to now only 12 sant.). 5 sant. for printed matter (up to now only 4 sant.). 2 sant. for letters (up to now only 1 sant.).

Such values have not hitherto been required. The designs of the new stamps are the work of the Director of the Latvian State Printing Office, Professor Sarrinsch, and include a map of Latvia (inspired by the Estonian 100 mar stamp), the head of the State, Janis Tschakste, and the leaders of the Latvia movement, Valdemar Barons, &c., as well as views of Riga, Libau, Mitau, and Livonian Switzerland "Kokenhusen."

These new designs will be a change from the present rather monotonous course of arms series.—Stamp Collecting.

SIAM.—The Oriental Stamp Co., is sending us a copy of the 3 sat. Waterloo in its new colour, chestnut (chronicle last month), write:—

"In view of numerous inquiries we have received during the past few months we shall esteem it a great favour if you will kindly mention in Stamp Collecting that the prospect of the appearance of a specially printed set of air postage stamps for this country seems a long way off."—Stamp Collecting.

UNION OF SOUTH AFRICA.—Mr. Stephen G. Rich has shown us a cover bearing metered cancellation. It is the same as the usual one with the exception that where the time is noted in the regular cancellation on the metered one are the words "Paid ½d". It also bears the words "Post Early in the Day" and the same in the other language used. Mr. Rich also calls attention to a copy of the 6d with the shift in the purple border and is particularly noticeable around the 6d on the left side.

URUGUAY.—Mr. N. King, of Southport, reports recent receipt from Montevideo of a copy of the current 2 centimos, tercio type, in which the design only measures 17 x 21mm as against the normal 18 x 22mm. The whole design has a parently been redrawn proportionately smaller. The colour has also been changed from mauve to rose-lilac.

Mr. King has also come across, among some hundreds of the current 3c green, a single copy perf. 11½ x 12½.—Stamp Collecting.

THE 1915 ISSUE OF BELGIUM.
As I was rather ashamed to inflict on readers the long article which appeared in the May M. J., I tried to summarise the history of this issue and leave some hints in the shadow, a method which fear led to some wrong opinions, hence a few notes to correct them and add me information.
It seems that this issue will remain a subject open to discussion, as no official information has been available owing to the prudent policy of the Belgian postal administration, which observes a complete silence about the postal issues, and owing to the fact that perhaps this administration gave little attention to the various printings and dies. Therefore neither the date of printings nor the quantities of stamps printed have been disclosed. Only by inferences and data gathered and a scientific basis almost entirely lacking to guide collectors in the maze of these numerous varieties.
It is also noteworthy that in Belgium the study of this issue is much neglected; the local philatelic press and the specialist's catalogue of Messrs. Gelli and Tani do not mention these different printings. Furthermore, at the recent Brussels Exhibition not a single exhibit was devoted to this issue, which, in general collections of Belgium, was but poorly represented. The chronological sequence of the printings can hardly be given, as in Belgium a distinction must be drawn between the date of the printing and the date of issue. The postal authorities supplied the post-offices with the values required without paying any attention to the various printings; from 1919 the different issues were mixed all over the country, and frequently in the same postage stamps of the same value but of different printings, were sold at the same time. Postmarks, therefore, are not a safe criterion. On the other hand, some values have been used in a few towns only, or in a very limited area, owing to local needs and the supplies available. It is not improbable that for all the printings dies were prepared for each value, though it might happen that some dies were little used, if at all; such was the case with the 30c die, which was used only for post cards.

Also great variations are found both in the paper and in the gum; the later printings have often a paper showing the mark of the felts, and the gum is nearly brown or dark yellow, instead of white.

THE MECHLIN PRINTING.
In actual fact there were two different printings of Mechlin. The first one has been described in the previous article; it may be added that the retouches were by no means uniform all over the sheet, and therefore variations from the original die, but as in the Haarlem printing all the C's are similar in the sheet, though the shape is not uniform in the various values. Moreover, round the margin of the sheet runs a frame of single or double lines in the colour of the stamp, a few millimetres from the perforation, as was the case for the 3 centimes, black.
The second type—omitted to avoid confusion—appears as a sort of combination of the first one and of the Haarlem printing; the corner design is from the original die, but as in the Haarlem printing all the C's are similar in the sheet, though the shape is not uniform in the various values. Moreover, round the margin of the sheet runs a frame of single or double lines in the colour of the stamp, a few millimetres from the perforation, as was the case for the 3 centimes, black.
Probably all values were printed in this type, except perhaps the 15c (owing to the large stock of the Haarlem printing). We have seen:—
2c, single line, 2½mm thick, thick rounded C.
5c, single line, 1mm thick, thick rounded C.
10c, single line, 1½mm thick, thick C.
20c, double line, 2mm thick, thin and wide open C.
According to the marginal marks, these stamps were printed at least during 1920. They can hardly be distinguished from the previous printing when they are not found in strips or large blocks, showing the uniform C's or with the margin attached.

THE HAARLEM PRINTING.
Some readers have shown me the 1c in this type, a variety which I had never seen in all my researches and which was not recorded previously—a fact consequent on the extraordinary olla podrida of issues found in the Belgian post-offices between 1920 and 1922.
OCCUPIED PROVINCES.
I have been able to locate the position of the variety with small terminal "E" in "ALLEMAGNE"; it occurs on the seventh stamp of the second row of the left pane. As regards the relative rarity of the different values of each printing, it can hardly be established as long as we do not know the exact quantity of stamps printed in each case. The examination of dealers' stocks shows how difficult is any appreciation, as in some instances varieties are largely represented which are missing in other stocks. Usually every value belongs to one printing only and rarely to two, but we never saw all the varieties represented even in the largest stocks.
The necessity of gathering many clues is once again made obvious, and this study can only be a first step toward the perfect knowledge of this long-neglected issue.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

MAXWELL KRAUSE, LEBANON, PA.

Your Attention Please!
On my recent trip to England I met a party that I had known years ago, but had not heard from for a long time. He told me a remarkable story, which seemed like a piece of fiction to me.
THIS IS THE STORY
In part, which he told me in a hotel in London where I was stopping: "I have some Confederate stamps in complete sheets of 200. These sheets of which have come to light were secured from an old safe, where they had been for more than 60 years, rolled up, not folded. These stamps were taken from the Confederates during the Civil War and were sent or brought to England by the party who secured them, and they have been lying there during the long years that have passed. The party died many years ago, and after such a long time these valuable relics of the Rebellion have come to light."
CONFEDERATE STAMPS
THE STORY SEEMED LIKE FICTION and I doubted it. However, the party gave me to understand he would sell the stamps. He told me he would bring them to London so I could see them. He promised, but failed to keep his promise at first. The party lived some miles from London, where he had a country home, and the old safe where the stamps were found was a long way from London. I learned in due time that the party was not telling a fairy tale, but the truth, for he brought the entire lot to me, and after spending a large sum of money, the entire lot became my property. The matter is a secret not known in London, and the party who put the deal through, with another interested person, as far as I know, are the only ones there that know anything about this REMARKABLE FIND.

I found no dealers that offered me Confederate stamps. I inquired about such and they are no doubt very scarce in London.
NOW YOU ARE INTERESTED!
I have the entire lot, and no dealer has seen them. No price will be placed on any at the present time, but I ask for offers from any interested.
First, I offer an Entire Sheet of 200 No. 206 Scott's, FINE CONDITION, NEVER FOLDED.
You have seen sheets of 100. Did you ever see a sheet of 200? I never did before. I think it has been unknown.
WHAT WILL YOU GIVE for the sheet?
But Here is a Nice Entire Sheet 200 fine, never folded No. 207. What's your bid? This will do now.
Stamps can be seen at my office.
I HAVE SECURED

WHEN a stamp business is built purely on the success of the service it has rendered the collectors, when the Stamp Firm attains an outstanding distinction as a result of its progress, every thinking collector is interested. IF he is patron of this Firm, he knows intimately the reasons for this success; if he is not, then usually there is an eager desire for detailed information.

THE experienced Collector knows there exists no higher standards than that which Y. SOUREN CO. maintain.

FINALLY, and this is important because our future relations with you depend upon it, moderate prices for every stamp have been permanently established, prices that make friends.

THIS is the chief reason that Y. SOUREN CO. is located to-day at the spacious offices of the POTTER BLDG., corner Nassau St., Beekman St. and Park Row (3 convenient entrances).

The expansion of our Firm has required more personnel for the different Departments in our business, so we have invited and are proud to introduce to you

Mr. K. WOODWARD

Member Collector's Club, Life member A.P.S. and others.
A real "STAMP BUG"

Mr. K. W., as he is most known to many collectors or dealers in the Country, is our

AUCTION MANAGER

All correspondence, inquiry for the terms of our Auctions in future, should be addressed to the attention of Mr. K. WOODWARD.

Our Order Department is conducted by

Miss ANNA YOHANNESSIANTZ

(don't try to write her name in full)

A Law Student of the N. Y. University

The 367 Collectors who ordered stamps from our ad in the WEEKLY of October 6 are familiar with the Courteous, Prompt, Careful Attention Miss Anna renders to the orders filled with Y. Souren Co.

Let us now introduce you to our

Miss JOSEPHINE LINDNER

That little lady, just off from Newton, N. J., high school, is anxious to learn Geography through stamps. And she learns it Fast, in fact, she knows Now that there is (or rather existed) an independent Government of GEORGIA, 6000 miles away from Atlanta.

Miss JOSEPHINE attends to all our mail, keeps on file in perfect order all want lists entrusted to Y. SOUREN CO.

And now, with three cheers, we introduce you to OUR

MR. ZAVEN

OUR "BIG" MAN IN THE BACKGROUND

Through the untiring efforts of our Mr. ZAVEN, who has found a "way" to get for this Firm every stamp ever issued by Soviet Russia, Armenia, Georgia or Azerbaidjan direct from the Post Offices in the above mentioned countries since 1921 at the very face value, that enables Y. SOUREN CO. to offer all the current and new issues of those countries at 20% over face, against the regular 25% charge of the Soviet Philatelic Representatives in this or any other countries.

Finally, we introduce you to

Mr. SOUREN Yohannessiantz

the FIRST American Stamp Dealer who ever covered all countries of the Old World, from London to Constantinople and from Revel to Rome, to purchase fine stamps and fill up many want lists of our numerous steady clienteles. He also hopes to get at least some of the 350 covers sent

VIA ZEPPELIN ZR3

FIVE-YEAR HONOR CLUB.

Henri I. Baer, Shgfd. Gardens, N. Y.
H. W. Parish, Seattle, Wash.
C. F. Mann, Chicago, Ill.
Wm. B. Erichson, Pittsburgh, Pa.
F. LaRoche, Sedro-Woolley, Wash.
H. E. Sandstrom, Chicago, Ill.

We are glad to welcome to our club Henri I. Baer of Springfield Gardens, N. Y., who appreciates our hobby to such an extent that he uses an embossed letter-head calling attention to the fact that he is a philatelist. He has an extended line of collecting interests, including France and French Colonies, Alsace, Old German States, Old Italian States and Hayti. Of all of these he has specialized collections, incidentally keeping up a general collection, which figures some 35,000 stamps upon which he carries $17,000 insurance. Mr. Baer's specialized collection dates from the collections of his father and grandfather. His favorites are Bomba heads, which he is plating.

The Seattle Star of Seattle, Wash., has upon its staff one H. W. Parish, whose name is inseparably connected with the growth of philatelic interests in that city. For more than twenty years he has been a subscriber to the WEEKLY and this is the second five-year renewal of subscription that he has sent in. We are very glad to have Mr. Parish as a member of our Club.

From Mr. Seyern at our Chicago office we have received an application for the Honor Club from C. F. Mann of that city. Mr. Mann has been treasurer of the C. P. S. from time immemorial and years ago he served as treasurer of the A. P. S. He is an auditor of the Illinois Central Railroad and though his duties are so exacting as to make heavy demands upon his time, he has given many years allegiance to his faith in philately. We are pleased to have him on the roll of "permanent philatelists."

Our readers must have been impressed with the splendid appearance of our Honor Club list as found in the WEEKLY of October 13. Applications for membership continue to come in and we are glad to welcome to the charmed circle William B. Erichson, 7129 Mt. Vernon St., Homewood, Pittsburgh, Pa., who remits $5 for a five-year renewal.

F. LaRoche Jr., Sedro-Woolley, Wash., has been a reader of the WEEKLY since it was published in St. Louis in 1896. Mr. LaRoche is not an active collector but feels impelled to keep in touch with what is going on in the stamp world. He believes that the WEEKLY will be the means of inspiring him to "become a live one again," if there be any agency in the world that will do this.

Mr. Sandstrom's application for membership comes to us through Mr. Severn's office in Chicago. He is a general collector of many years standing and is a member of the Chicago Philatelic Society. He enters the Honor Club from a rather unique standpoint in that he is probably the first one to jump from the three-months class to a five-year renewal.

NEW HEBRIDES.

Last month we stated that we viewed with gravest concern the action of the postal authorities at Vila in issuing a number of provisional stamps. We have now received some further information to the effect that these stamps were issued in accordance with Article 6 of the rules for carrying out the provisions of the International Postal Convention, dated November 30, 1920, which states that, on and after the first day of May, 1924, postage stamps of the Condominium of the New Hebrides of the values and colours specified below, will be used for the prepayment of correspondence in and beyond New Hebrides, in substitution for those now on sale (April 17, 1924). 7/8d green, surcharged 1d; 1d red, surcharged 3d; 2 1/2d blue, surcharged 5d; 5c green, surcharged 10c; 10c red, surcharged 30c; and 25c blue, surcharged 50c. The same notice also states that applications from collectors and dealers would only be complied with so far as the stocks in hand permitted, due consideration be given to the requirements of the public for general postal purposes.

We have also been advised by a correspondent at Vila that the above mentioned stamps are intended to frank international correspondence until the new issue which is being ordered in London is ready. The new set will bear French values on one side and English on the other, and in this way the Government superseding the current double bi-national issue.

On July 10th last the remainders of the 1911 issue were destroyed, with exception of the 1d, 2d, and 6d values with the Script watermark, and the 5, 20c, 1 fr and 2fr, as well as the new surcharges.

The contemplated issue should facilitate matters considerably in New Hebrides, for at present the question of exchange value of the franc is a serious handicap.—Australian Stamp Journal.

—It is said Thomas Brown, a clerk in the Richmond, Va., post-office during 1810, invented the first post-office box.

—We are in favor of a portrait of Walter Johnson on the new 13c stamp. The old home town, including the Post Office Department, all turned out to see him bring home the bacon.

—Gustavus Kabel of Bridgeport, Conn., has acquired newspaper fame by papering two entire rooms at his Oak Street home with postage stamps. It required more than two years to complete the task and 300,000 stamps were used. The designs consist of flags, cannon, initials, dates, etc. Mr. Kabel took great pains in his wall papering. First a layer of varnish was spread over the walls and after the stamps were pasted on a generous coating of white lacquer was applied. We are indebted to Joseph Zimmerman for the clipping from the Bridgeport Sunday Post, of October 12. The story is a very interesting one and is accompanied by a picture of Mr. Kabel.

—S. P. A. New York Branch, No. 1 was organized on September 28th in the office of J. M. Bartels Co., 135 West 42 St. Fifteen charter members were enrolled. The officers elected were: President, A. O. Litt; Vice-President, Alfred Nielson; Secretary and Sales Manager, F. F. Greeley; Treasurer, N. R. Hoover; Trustees, A. E. Landvater, Dr. D. R. Whitcher and R. C. Bach. The Branch plans to meet every other Thursday night. The dues will be $1.00 a year. The object of the Branch is to form a body of collectors who can meet, exchange and sell to members, and compare notes philatelically. President Litt says New York and Brooklyn should yield 200 members for the Branch.

—The Springfield Republican recently contained an interesting article contrasting the old stage coach days with the present auto bus lines which was illustrated by reproductions of two old wood cuts showing the stage means of locomotion. It is remarked that almost one hundred fifty years ago, or on October 20, 1783, the first mail and stage coach in New England and probably in this country was operated for the first time.

enough to attract the philatelists of neighboring states. The society meets each month on the first Friday at the public library.

—In the same newspaper we find an interesting account of a dinner that was attended by fifteen members and friends, including the assistant chief of police of Elkhart. This organization certainly is a live one and is doing more than its share in publicity work.

—We have received a copy of the second edition of "Aero-Stamp Collecting", by Fred J. Melville, and published by the Philatelic Institute, 26 High St., Plumstead S.E., 18, London, at one shilling. This popular work is amplified in the present edition and has the latest examples of air mail franks with copious illustrations, including the last three stamps issued by the United States. This catalogue well deserves the description of "guide", because of the text that provides a setting for the illustrations of most of the different varieties. In an entertaining way, Mr. Melville furnishes an introductory in the form of three chapters that give a satisfactory explanation of air mail activities in connection with the stamp issues. An appendix is a compilation of postal terms used in air mail parlance, and further features are cuts of essays for a British Aero stamp and a bibliography of works and articles on air mail posts. The little book is tastily presented and is well worth having.

—The New York Times recently had a very fine article on the coming Waterhouse auction sale in London and the Ferrari sale in Paris, both of which take place in November. It is told that this country will be represented at the sale by a number of dealers, among whom may be included Edward Stern of the Economist Stamp Company, New York, and N. B. Paulson, of Chicago, Ill.

—We find it quite interesting to watch the decline in price at which large variety packets or collections may be bought. We do not have to go back many years to find a price of $10.00 as the standard for a thousand different stamps, while now the number may be bought for about a dollar. Three thousand stamps are offered for around $6.00 and five thousand for about $20.00; and ten thousand for a bit under a hundred dollars.

—We notice that her majesty, the queen of the Netherlands, offered two medals "for the most beautiful collections of Holland and the Dutch Colonies," at The Hague exhibition.

—The membership of the Royal Philatelic Society, London, is somewhat over four hundred and fifty, and in its "fiftieth anniversary fund" there are six thousand pounds in investments and cash.

—The programs of philatelic societies already received show that the coming society season will be a most interesting and instructive one and it behooves all local and other stamp organizations at least to provide tentative programs which should be adhered to as closely as possible.

A PUBLIC SPIRITED PHILATELIST.

By WILLARD O. WYLIE.

The city of Benton Harbor, Mich., has been given a fine field and stadium by A. W. and E. C. Filstrup, this information being conveyed to me by P. D. Booth, who sends a newspaper clipping giving the particulars of the dedication. Some $26,000 has already been spent in developing the field and a fine stadium accommodating 3,000 is one of the features. In an interview in a St. Joseph, Mich., paper Mr. A. W. Filstrup told a reporter that the original plans will be completed, even though some $60,000 may be required. A baseball diamond and tennis courts will be laid out, and the construction of a field house for athletes is considered likely. Mr. Booth sending in the clipping writes:—"Mr. Filstrup is not only a big stamp man, but has other big interests, and is not afraid of spending his money."

The above news item was prepared for the WEEKLY some days ago and it seems wise to make it a preface to this further story concerning the activities of A. W. Filstrup, mentioned therein. Quite recently he paid a visit to New England and it was my privilege to meet him while he was in Boston. I had a very interesting conversation with him. I found that he was an ardent philatelist but our meeting was not sufficiently long for me to get fully acquainted with his wide range of activities.

As a stamp collector he began his career when a boy of fourteen and with his brother, two years younger, a general collection was formed. In 1901 their interest in collecting ceased, but in 1910 the Senior Mr. Filstrup, of whom I am writing, started in again actively collecting.

In a couple of years he came to the conclusion that it would be impossible for him to do justice to a general collection and decided to put his energies into U. S. stamps exclusively.

Mr. Filstrup confesses that he is interested in philately, not only from the standpoint of the joys of specialization, but also from that of investment. First, he took up with the collecting of United States stamps from different angles, as, singles, pairs, covers, etc., and finally reached the point where he decided upon limiting his endeavors to the old issues. These gave him the greatest thrill in the way of research work as well as the satisfaction that he had a good financial investment. The result is that he has accumulated a considerable quantity of the first three issues of U. S. stamps. He has a strong desire for platable varieties and purchases them in great quantity, as they present themselves.

As regards stamp societies, Mr. Filstrup is a member of the Collectors Club, New York, The American Philatelic Society and the Chicago Collectors Club.

Mr. Filstrup's business activities are indeed numerous. He is secretary and treasurer of the Covel Manufacturing Co., Benton Harbor, specializing in saw fitting machinery, grey iron castings, etc. This is a business in which his father became interested in 1895 and in which Mr. Filstrup's brother is now president. Each of the two brothers own a half interest in the business. He is president of the local Board of Education, a director in the Berrien Hills Country Club, and as might naturally be expected in one with so many diversified interests, a director in the local Rotary Club.

He is the Honorary President of our Honor Club and is credited with a life subscription to the WEEKLY.

SCOTT'S EIGHTY-FIRST.

The new edition of the Standard Postage Stamp Catalogue of the Scott Stamp and Coin Company is a monumental work embracing fifteen hundred pages, tastefully bound in a blue cloth cover with ruling and text in orange. Its punctual arrival is to be commended as now we may feel that the stamp season has opened in earnest; and with the cool evenings at hand, the book will be the "best seller" in philately for some time to come. As an illustration of well-executed typography, the catalogue deserves a word of praise and all the men of the job knew their business. In bringing the catalogue down to date, a large number of new issues have been added and the fullness of philately has never been exemplified before as in the present book.

The stamp illustrations have the thin white line across the cuts of the foreign stamps and as before, the United States stamps are shown in part. The circulation of the advance sheets by the publishers removes the element of surprise in the quotations now at hand and all in all, the changes are not remarkable as to number or range. The increases in the prices of U. S. have not been revolutionary and the same may be said of other countries. There are isolated instances of huge advances proportionately and here and there a stamp has been reduced in price, as for instance, No. 3 of Netherlands, which is now listed at $6, instead of $7.50. In some of the countries, the pricing seems to be done most carefully and equitably and in others the market scrutiny to which the stamps were subjected does not seem to have been as deliberate. However, we happen to know that the policy of the cataloguers is regarded by them as the best working means to achieve proper price adjustment but they are human enough not to claim perfectability for the system. We have had examples before us already of underpricing and overpricing but we believe that the publishers are actuated by a strict sense of fairness in arriving at quotations.

All the features of former editions of recent years are retained and the tendency to incorporate explanatory notes for the instruction of the reader is more pronounced than ever, thereby confirming the catalogue's position as the philatelic vade mecum for the American collector in particular. Cloth bound, $2; cloth bound, thumb indexed, $2.50; Carriage extra. Scott Stamp & Coin Co., Limited, 33 West 44th Street, New York.

—"Taking a Tip from Tomatoes" is the title of an article in Folks and Facts for October. The well-known philatelist, Charles L. Pack, is given a write-up as a young man, who found wealth in the soil and "has devoted his life to telling people how to plant things." It is an interesting article and we shall hope to reprint it in an early number of the WEEKLY. The article is accompanied by a full page halftone of this well known collector.

Class B: We term "educators", copies ranging from fair to very good and useful particularly to those who have not learned to discriminate between the different printings.

STANLEY GIBBONS, LTD. NEW CATALOGUE OF THE STAMPS OF THE BRITISH EMPIRE.

Reviewed by CHAS. J. PHILLIPS.

The 1925 edition of this catalogue is just to hand and as this was my baby for over thirty years it gives me peculiar pleasure to review the first edition that has been produced by my successors. The firm express their thanks for valuable assistance rendered by many old friends, like Messrs. Bacon, Yardley and Collins, and to some new ones, such as Messrs. Bradbury, Hitt, Dyer, Mann, etc., etc.

The new edition is a distinct step forward in philatelic knowledge in several important countries. The greatest improvements I note are in the New Zealand "pence" issues that have been re-written by Mr. Bacon in strict chronological order.

We now have these stamps arranged in the following order:— 1856-59. No wmk.

Feb., 1862. Wmk. Star. Imperf.
June, 1862. Wmk. Star. Rouletted.
Aug., 1862. Wmk. Star. Serrated and Pin Perf.

1862. Wmk. Star. Perf. 13.
1862. Pelure pp. All varieties.
Dec., 1862. No wmk. Thick hard pp. Perf. 13.

1864. Wmk. N. Z. All varieties.
1864-67. Wmk. Star. Perf. 12 1/2.

In this latter set we note a radical alteration. In the 1923 catalogue and for many years previously, we had three shades of the imperf. 3d. The common brown-lilac, the scarce lilac and the very rare deep mauve. These two latter stamps are now classed as imperf. varieties of the perforated stamp and not as separate issues of the imperf. The same remark applies to the imperf. 6d, pale brown, a stamp I only know unused.

I am very glad to see a thorough revision of the early issues of the Straits Settlements. This has wanted doing for years, and is now a very fine list based on the series of able articles by E. D. Bacon in the London Philatelist. The new and numerous illustrations of the issues of March, 1880, 10 on 30c claret, are especially to be commended.

In Victoria my old friend, Mr. R. B. Yardley, has completed the good work he started with me some three years ago. He has revised the list of the "emblems" type, the three types of the V and Crown wmk. and especially he has finally established the status of many stamps formerly grouped with Postal-Fiscals but many of which were the only stamps of these denominations available for paying postage on heavy packages.

The prices have received careful revision and show a marked upward tendency in many of the older issues of special interest to American collectors.

The Trinidad stamps show distinct advances. The "Lady McLeod" goes from £50 and £25 to £75 and £40, which its rarity well merits. The blue lithographed stamps have many prices advanced, £2 to £3 each, and are still under market value here for fine copies.

In Canada there are many increases, the 3d on laid paper goes up 10sh each shade. The 3d on thin wove only goes up 1sh each to 8s6d, while copies here readily sell at 12sh to 14sh each, the hard paper 3d goes from 10sh to 12s6d, and the real thick paper is increased 5sh and is then undervalued as compared to the others. The 10d blue are raised from £1 to £2 each and the 7 1/2d is increased £2 each shade. The 5 cent Beaver jumps from 1sh to 2s6d and is still 20 cents below Scott's price. The 12 1/2c green are each increased 1sh and the 17c slate from 12s6d to 20sh. One of the biggest increases is the 6c brown, watermarked, from £3 50sh to £8. Gibbons have at last found out what a rare variety this is, and I now shall not get any more from London at 40sh and 50sh.

Space will not permit of further details but I would strongly advise all Americans who collect British Colonies to get a copy of this new book to supplement the popular Scott catalogue. Gibbons contains a wealth of detail and prices that are not found necessary in our American catalogue but a knowledge of which will pay the collector twenty-fold the cost of the catalogue by showing him the correct value of hundreds of varieties only catalogued by Gibbons.

I should like to congratulate the Editors, Messrs. Fulcher and Stanley Phillips, upon the production of a very fine catalogue.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—H. A. Diamant of the A. P. S. Publicity Committee gave a radio talk on stamps from St. Louis Wednesday night, Oct. 22. We tried to tune in at our Beverly office, but while we are able to get Davenport, Iowa, and Hastings, Nebr., in excellent form, we find it difficult making connections with St. Louis.

—Erwin Strasser has sent us for inspection two Russian covers. Upon one of these are 155 stamps and upon the other 120. Many of the rows of stamps overlap each other so that only the numeral of value shows. The covers are indeed curios.

—We are indebted to Nathan L. Levy for a specimen of a new stamped envelope from the Canal Zone. The denomination is 2c and it is printed in carmine.
 It is upright rectangular in shape with the words "Canal Zone Postage" at the top and the value in numerals and letters at the bottom. The central design shows the seal of the Canal Zone. Mr.
 Levy informs us that there is also a 1c value presumably in green. The envelope was made by the Union Envelope Co., of Richmond, Va., and printed by the Panama Canal Press at Mt. Hope, Canal Zone. They were placed on sale October 10. The envelopes are printed in two sizes with no gum on the flaps.

—The World's Series (scandals of 1924) being over I hasten to inquire if the O. B. surcharges stand for Organized Baseball.—J. G. JEWETT.

—B. J. Dattner, Box 1224, Phila., Pa., has several hundred slightly damaged stamps which he will be glad to send to worthy shut-ins, who may have use for them. If this offer is taken advantage of kindly give Mr. Dattner proper credentials.

—A. A. Leve sends us a clipping from a local Syracuse paper featuring his receipt of a letter by the dirig'ble ZR-3.

—In the Boston Traveler of Monday, October 20, appeared a stamp story entitled, "The Curse". It won the prize award for the day and the author was James Lanphere, a sophomore in the Revere High School. Clipping from G.
 A. Hunt.

—We recently published a change of address of Frank E. Hadley, of Detroit, Mich., but gave the number of the street incorrectly. Mr. Hadley is now located at 112 John R St., where he will be pleased to have Detroit collectors inspect his stock. He has a ground floor location.

—J. H. Blackney, of Saginaw, Mich., sends us two items of interest. One is a card which arrived on the ZR-3. The other is a Canal Zone cover which bears an airmail marking, although Mr. Blackney calls our attention to the fact that the postmarking on the cover is insufficient to establish a genuine air mail flight.
 The letter left Balboa Heights October 7, Cristobal October 8, New Orleans October 13 and Chicago October 14. Where the air mail service comes in may be indicated later.

—We are indebted to Robert F. Heubach for a clipping from the New Orleans Times-Picayune which announces investigations by Paul Henderson, Second Assistant Postmaster-General, for the establishment of an air-mail service

—The Tucson Stamp Club held a three days public exhibition on Oct. 11-13 in a vacant store in the heart of the business district of the Arizona metropolis.
 A large series of exhibits was specially prepared to show the interest and appeal of collecting from as many angles as possible. The most popular of the exhibits were early stamps on cover, blocks with the 5c red error, and series of stamps from various countries arranged to show how the postal emissions serve as milestones in history. Free stamps were liberally dispensed to the boys, and numerous well filled albums were held in reserve for view by the more interested visitors. On the evening of the 13th a state-wide meeting of the Club was held attended by eight visitors, and an auction of contributed lots was held to defray the expenses of the exhibition.

NEW EDITION OF ZUMSTEIN.
One of the first of the 1925 catalogues before us, and we welcome the entrance of the publishers in Switzerland in giving before philatelists so early in the season their complete list of the stamps of Europe. Though this catalogue limits itself to the stamps of a single continent—Europe—it is to be said that over a hundred pages are required to accommodate the issues of this stamp-issuing division; and it is evident that Europe provides a field large enough for wide philatelic range. The Zumstein catalogue is a good example of careful compilation both in text and prices which, in Swiss francs, and consequently, not liable to exchange fluctuation in degree that some of the other continental currencies are. The catalogue which runs from Albania through to Liechtenberg is well supplied with cuts, and the numerous notes of explanation are an instructive value to the book. It is appreciated by the student. Taken in all, the catalogue is about as good a handbook with the further advantage of prices which are said to be adjusted with due consideration to all of the many agents entering into pricing. The bibliography is clean, and the print, all of which is relatively of large size, is very good. A supplement to the new catalogue listing the additions monthly is issued by the Journal Philatelique de la Suisse. This Zumstein catalogue has become one of the annual features of the philatelic world, and we can imagine that following that the book has, increases with each new edition. The book is in French and German. Zumstein and Bern, Switzerland.

YVERT & TELLIER-CHAMPION CATALOG
(English Edition.)

This book is deserving of something more than an ordinary book review. Believing that credit should be given wherever credit is due, we must bestow upon the catalog makers great praise for the superb work that lies before us. One of the remarkable features is that this book, issued and printed in France, is written in the English language and in such a form as would please the eye of any philatelist. The catalog makers have followed a strictly alphabetical order in the arrangement of countries, with a very few exceptions, as is the case in Colombia and some other stamp issuing units. Main varieties are indicated by numbers and varieties by letters.

Mention must be made particularly of the numerous notes found throughout the catalog. The stamp collector will find a liberal philatelic education in the data that is scattered throughout the pages of the book. Too much praise cannot be given the electros used to illustrate the book. They are well executed and clearly brought out in the press work. A small philatelic glossary is given as a preface. The U. S. collector will be very favorably impressed by the production of this great catalog in the English language and the book deserves every word of commendation that we have accorded it. Price, 27.85 francs (English or French.) Address Theodore Champion, 13 Rue Drouot, Paris, France.

FIVE-YEAR HONOR CLUB.

F. W. Gilcreast, Bethlehem, Pa.
James Starr, Philadelphia, Pa.
C. F. Sanders, North Wildwood, N. J.
Mrs. J. W. Lundy, Newtown, Pa.

Our first application this week is from F. W. Gilcreast, 1416 Lenox Ave., Bethlehem, Pa., and in enclosing his remittance to cover the renewal, Mr. Gilcreast reminds us that he has been upon the WEEKLY list for twenty years. The freedom with which stamp collectors announce their years of connection with the WEEKLY as subscribers is a sure indication that stamp collecting makes one feel young.

We acknowledge with thanks the remittance of $5 from James Starr, 1200 Atlantic Bld., Philadelphia, Pa., and we are pleased to add him to our list of Honor Club members. Mr. Starr's application comes in in a very informal manner, and our next application is equally informal in character as the check for $5 is merely accompanied by our regulation subscription renewal blank. We refer to Charles F. Sanders, Jr., 214 E. 12th Ave., North Wildwood, N. J.

Not many ladies have been as yet recorded in the membership of our Honor Club, but Mrs. J. W. Lundy of Newtown, Pa., just as we go to press, makes her remittance of a check for $5 for a five years renewal. We are very pleased to enter her as a member of the Club.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

Y. SOUREN CO., 145 Nassau St.

WE, too, believe in pooling overhead. In five days from the time we first advertised our prices for Soviet Russian Stamps, 367 mail orders have been filled and sent. AND that concentrated volume is the secret of our Firm's amazing value. When through a small adv., as it appeared in October 6th issue of MEKEEL'S, 367 collectors, by their patronage, proclaim our offer the best—we can afford to reward them with phenomenal values.

MONTHLY

"Phillips' Monthly Bulletin" has 24 or more pages each issue full of interesting offers. We believe it will offer you more first class stamps during the year than any house organ or paper issued that we have seen. Special Bargains, Sets, Packets, New Issues, Short Notes on things of interest to collectors, etc., etc. Fresh, new material offered in each issue. If other house organs are worth a subscription fee, this surely is, but it is FREE. Not only is it FREE, but to make it well worth your while to see just what this Monthly List is, we offer you ANY ONE of the above premiums, FREE, if you agree to make a purchase of at least $1 from the list soon as received. If when you get the list you see nothing you want to buy, simply return the premium and no harm done. Can we do more to get acquainted? We'll treat you square and expect the same in return. Collectors who buy of us or who regularly receive this list cannot take advantage of this offer, which is made purely to get collectors not on our list interested.

BULLETIN

DANZIG-IRELAND-B.C. GEORGES-ETC.

Space will not permit us to make many offers here, but by way of giving "Weekly" readers an idea of what we can supply, we make a few offers. Get our "Monthly Bulletin", submit want lists, or have us send your pet country or countries on approval. From A to Z we believe we have several copies each of the largest variety of stamps in the New World. We solicit a trial and with these offers and the FREE OFFER on the opposite page hope to interest you. Satisfaction or money back and every-thing fully guaranteed. All stamps marked thus * are unused.

EDITORIAL.

Mr. Henry J. Stirn of Milwaukee has shown us a most unusual cancellation on a 3c of the 1851 issue on cover. The envelope bears the pen-written postmark of "Cassville, Wisconsin, June 25," of the year 1852 and is addressed to Mr. Edward B. Pollock, New Athens, Ohio, and the only obliteration that the stamp shows is the three words of greeting in pen and ink, "Good morning Edward." We assume that the postmaster was a friend of the addressee, and when he saw this letter, enterprisingly enough, he took advantage of the opportunity to use the postage stamp as a message of cheer. We are somewhat doubtful as to the philatelic value of this cancellation, but certainly it is a genial reflection of friendliness!

In an auction sale of philatelic literature to be held in London on November 13, 1924, we find some excessively scarce numbers listed, and among these gems in the line of literature are the first Swiss catalogue of W. Georg in original wrapper, with the date of 1864 and the three great rarities of literature, F. Vallette's "Petit Manuel de L'Amateur des Timbres-poste," with the Paris 1862 imprint, which is said to be rarer than the Potiquet first edition of 1861, which has been sold for 25 pounds, and which is conceded to be the first philatelic publication. The second edition of a Potiquet catalogue is offered in original wrapper and also the first, second and third editions, Paris 1863-65, of Baillieu's "Guide de L'Amateur de Timbres-poste." There are many other most interesting examples in this offering of over two hundred lots, and American literature is well represented. While the collecting of literature in this country does not compare in extent with that of a number of the European nations, yet we do know that progress is being made in this direction by perhaps a score of patrons.

ports that are now available in the philatelic papers it is not exaggerated in its importance. We find that these stamps were attached to replies that were sent to Lord Palmerston, secretary of state for the colonies, in answer to a questionnaire as to improvements in postal procedure since 1839. The great historical value of this discovery is such as to make it a momentous one, and the fact that stamps were included in the replies gives a philatelic cast that is apparent. We learn that a proper disposition was suggested by the Council of the Royal Philatelic Society, London, who advised that they might be included in the Tapping collection at the British Museum. It is probable that further replies will be found inasmuch as the circular was sent in 1855 to the governors of no fewer than twenty-six different colonies. In the London Philatelist the stamps submitted by New South Wales are illustrated, and they consist of strips of three of each of the imperforate stamps then in use, the one penny orange vermilion, the two penny blue, the three penny blue green, the six penny slate green, the eight penny orange and the one shilling brownish red. On the sheet that bears these stamps is the notation: "Postage stamps are in general use; everything liable to postage must be prepaid by them. Specimens of the New South Wales stamps herewith." Further particulars will be of decided interest and value.

Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal publishes a posthumous article by Hugo Griebert, whose death several months ago occasioned so much sorrow in philatelic circles. He explains that the first stamp of Spain, which a few years ago was selling at a few pence each, is now much advanced in price, because of the demand for the stamps for plating purposes or merely for speculation. In the brief article under notice he lists five new errors all belonging to plate two; and he says they are of "considerable rarity." For instance, here is a description of a typical variety of these transfer errors: "The 'o' of 'Franco' is very thin and a very remarkable variety." It is evident that a careful scrutiny of this popular stamp as it has become latterly, particularly, may be attended with great material advantage, as Mr. Griebert says that in case a student finds what he calls "the" retouched variety, a reward several hundred times the cost will be had.

Now that the collecting of United States stamps on original envelopes is no longer an infant industry and is followed by a body of collectors numerically strong, any observations based on the experience of collectors of covers may be of interest. It is remarked that during the seventies and eighties a large number comparatively of the total issue of stamps must have been destroyed; and hence the relative scarcity of covers and stamps of those decades. The attention of Mr. D. C. Turnbull of Fishawaka, Indiana, has been given to this phase, and he has a theory that might account for the somewhat barren stamp returns of the years named. He says that while the factors governing the condition are many and not always of a regularity to allow systematic inquiry, an observation covering a period of three years and visits to almost sixty court houses in search of stamps leads him to the conclusion that another factor is not to be disregarded. He cites a reconstruction period from say 1867, shading into the seventies, which was more or less governed by local conditions, and he continues, "New court houses built, old filing systems remodelled, papers filed in regular filing envelopes, business increasing, no time to refile old papers, so they stay as they are without, and envelopes and stamps intact. All new work handled in a new way, envelopes thrown away on incoming mail, gradual cleaning out of dark corners, old drawers, store rooms; old files of obsolete papers sold to junk man. This letter sheet may have a lot of 10c 1847 or imperforate U. S. revenues in its make-up. This condition of cleaning up and improvement was general, all lines of business affected, homes included, and now we cannot find many stamps to speak of in that period between 1875-89." Mr. Turnbull has given us a new line of thought, which in its applications could be extended in an analysis of the issues of other years.

Those who have regarded the earlier issues of the United States as showing the greatest advance in catalogue price overlook the upward strides that have been made by many of the recent issues of our stamps. Beginning with the ordinary issue of 1902, we have the $2.00 and $5.00 as having proved their great price expansion. Then skipping to the regular 1908 and 1909 we have the 13c as an example of increase, to mention no others. The 1910 watermarked perforated 12 are all rather good, and the increases in the Panama Pacific perforated 10 are noticeable. The 1912-15 perforated 12 has a few stamps that stand forth, while the watermarked perforated 10 were all stamps of recent price flights. The unwatermarked perforated 10 show some striking quotations, compared with face value in the fifty cent and $1.00. An examination of the issues of the

A number of readers have called our ection to cuts of the envelopes that ve carried on the Zeppelin, and some our callers are showing the envelopes mselves. In Chicago, perhaps the gtest number of covers were received t Mr. Marco Heiman, on behalf of one t the great European stamp dealers who ends upon his correspondent to re- n the lot. Mr. Heiman was photo- ephed posing with his covers by one t the newspaper artists on the Chicago bne with the intention of using the ture, but it happened that the news- er in question received a cover ad- ssed to its publisher; and it was this roduction that evidently had prece- ce. One of the most interesting de- scriptions of the envelope comes from an ianapolis paper through the courtesy of Mr. Le Grand Payne. The clipping shows the envelope franked with the hundred pf. stamp with the regulation "Mit Luft Post" label together with the distinctive marking of the mail carried by the ZR-3, a purple ellipsis with the wording in three lines: "Mit Luft Schiff ZR-3 befördert". The letter came from the representative of the Ayres Company in Berlin, and was one of two, which read: "These words of greeting from the Berlin office have traveled with the new American airship ZR-3 on her maiden trip from Germany to America. It was only three days ago that this letter was written in Berlin, and knowing your keen desire to keep in touch with foreign markets feel sure you will appreciate this initial attempt to speed up existing service between the new and old worlds. It is hoped that this will form the nucleus of a regular express freight service whereby merchandise selected by your buyers during their periodical visits to Europe may be available to the Indianapolis public a few days after leaving the European factories."

THE HOME OF THE POSTAGE STAMP J. AVERY WELLS
JOSEPH V. K. WELLS
(Telephone Havemeyer 3350) JACKSON HEIGHTS, NEW YORK

Writing from Sweden, Mr. Edwin P. Seebohm says under date of October 2, 1924: "We passed the rock-bound coast of Scotland this morning and are due in Sweden tomorrow. The ship's post-office has some of the latest Swedish stamps, and I enclose with my compliments a block of four of the values on sale here." Mr. Seebohm sends blocks of the 10, 15 and 20 ore of the new Universal Postal Union commemorative set.

The following interesting note is written on a page of a stamp album, once the property of a British army officer, bearing a single German stamp, a single pf. blue of the Germania type with the pen-marked cancellation 28-2 in black and the following written description: "This stamp was taken off an unopened parcel of a German officer who was killed in his dug-out during the German retreat in March, 1917. The 28-2 on the stamp means 28th of February. It was not post marked but written. R. S. Peak, Second Lieutenant R. F. A."; and following the name we find the pencilled revision, "Now Lieut. R. F. A."

In one of the interesting "columns" of a Chicago newspaper the following lines dedicated to "The Cross Word Muse" appears, and in telling of the devotion of a husband to the new form of entertainment, a contributor in the course of the metrical story says: "Senegambia's postage stamps and Uruguay's he did collect. But the cross-word puzzles got him, and the stamp trust is quite wrecked." "Trust" is used figuratively, we are sure, unless the writer is a Soviet agent. The

ON TO EUROPE

When this reaches you, I expect to be on the briny deep en route to London and the Waterhouse Sale of wonderful United States. Then, for a little trip to Paris (the Ferrari Sale), then to Brussels, to Amsterdam and to Berlin. Let's hope I will have my pockets full of fine things by this time. I may add to my holdings something nice in Prague—most dealers leave it alone—then to Vienna—can't speak German, but they say American dollars talk, to Venice and to Rome—what will they have in the way of fine U. S. there?—to Milan, then across the Swiss Alps to Luzerne, to Bale—to Paris—Cherbourg, and home to the good old U. S. A., December 16th.

In the meantime any letters arriving in Philadelphia will be carefully awaiting my return.

They tell me Europe has been milked dry of fine United States emissions, but I must see it to believe it.

May be reached while abroad in care of Thomas Cook & Son, Ludgate Circus, London, England.

When these notes reach our readers, your editor will be on the way to Europe and after visiting London, Paris, Brussels, Amsterdam, Berlin, Prague, Vienna, Venice, Rome, Milan and Luzerne, contemplates returning on the steamship "Majestic," reaching New York on December 16th.

He expects to have in this column in short order a full report on the sale of the Waterhouse collection of fine United States postage stamps, and will later supplement this report by news items of interest to collectors of our issues.

I have been in close touch with Washington and it is not contemplated that anything new will appear in the near future with the possible exception of the perf. 10 rotary prints, and full details regarding these will be given at a later date. The contemplated air mail stamps will not appear until after the first of the year, so that our readers will be given sufficient notice as to exact dates of issue.

Transfer Clerk—Railway Mail Service.

In our issue of October 6th, mention was made of special cancellation found upon one of our current stamps, wherein the postmark included the wording "Trans. Clerk". One of our readers kindly advised us regarding the use of such a cancellation, and the information is now kindly supplemented by Mr. Albert E. Wellman, Postmaster at Torrington, Conn., who writes as follows:

"A transfer clerk is a railway mail clerk stationed at a junction of two or more railway mail routes, and takes care of mail between these routes. He generally has an office in the depot, and mail is assorted in this office, and in many cases, pouches of mail are made up and dispatched to these transfer clerks by post-offices. When received by him, they are opened and distributed. Many times mail is greatly expedited in this way. There are four transfer clerks in Connecticut—Bridgeport, New Haven, Hartford and New London."

Mr. E. A. Young also writes us under date of October 8th, as follows:

"I note in the latest MEKEEL'S WEEKLY a reference to a postmark used by a Transfer Clerk. As I am a strong believer in the policy of spreading all possible knowledge pertaining in any way to philatelic side lines, use of cancellations, etc., I wish to correct the statement made that a Transfer Clerk handles mail between railroad stations and post-offices.

Mails are handled between railroad stations and post-offices by a number of different methods. In large cities Government Motor Vehicle Service is used. At other places a Government Mail Messenger is employed, and at others still, the duty is performed by the railroad company, for which a certain additional compensation is paid and is known as "side and terminal" service—side service being at stations along the route and terminal service at the ends of the route.

Transfer Clerks are regularly appointed railway postal clerks specially detailed to duty at important railroad junctions to supervise the handling of mails to and from trains, electric cars, etc. The Transfer Office is usually located in or near the railroad station and the chief duty of the Transfer Clerk is to meet trains, see that the mails for other trains are properly assorted and dispatched, handle registered mails between trains having a railway post-office, and similar duties that would naturally come within the scope of his assignment. At some Transfer Offices a certain amount of distribution of mail is performed, for outgoing trains.

Transfer Offices are provided with a postmarking stamp with which to cancel letters and other mail collected from station letter boxes, and this accounts for the postmark mentioned in your article. These postmarks are quite common and any waste basket of a firm receiving very much mail should yield a few. Reference is made to these marks in my article in the American Philatelist of May, 1921.

This class of employees were originally termed Local Mail Agents (employees assigned to road duty being termed 'route agents' and later 'railway postal clerks'). I inclose herewith a sample of the Local Mail Agent cancellation. I have quite a few, so they are not very scarce.

Note the numerous points where Transfer Clerks are stationed."

Canal Zone.
Mr. H. B. Cooper, the postmaster at Balboa Heights, advises that Panama stamps surcharged "Canal Zone" were withdrawn from sale on June 30th last, and that it is not the intentions of the philatelic division carrying this issue, well as older ones for sale to collectors.
U. S. stamps surcharged "Canal Zone" which have been enumerated in our previous issues are now available, including the postal card and the 1c and 2c stamp envelopes. These stamps will be sent to collectors on receipt of face value, at specific mention is made of the fact that the Postage Due stamps are not available.
Mr. H. Clay Reed kindly sends for inspection a sample of the new Canal Zone envelope especially prepared for the Canal Zone. The sample submitted is a 2c red rectangular shape inclosing within a fancy border a seal of the zone.

REPRODUCTION OF LETTER WRITTEN IN 1862 HAVING AN HISTORIC VALUE.

By THOMAS H. PRATT.

Richmond 13. Dec. 1862
Mr W. L. Allen

My friends

1st Men from 18 to 24	1500 to 1700
1st Boys from 14 to 17	1200 to 1400
1st Girls from 18 to 24	1200 to 1500
1st Girls from 12 to 17	900 to 1300

Other classes except No. 1 are dull and much lower.

Above is a reduced reproduction of a letter giving the price of negroes when they were sold as chattels in 1862. The letter was written on a letter sheet and folded. On the back is a pair of 5c blue Confederate stamps, No. 203.

The letter was addressed to W. L. Owen, Esq., Black Walnut, Halifax County, Va. It follows:

"RICHMOND, 13 Dec., 1862.

Dr Sir:

Yours of 9 to hand Since you left Richmond the market has advanced and No. 1 Negro men are selling brisk at from 1400 to 1700. We give below a statement of our prices.

Respectfully,
DICKINSON & HILL.

No. 1 Men from 18 to 24, 1500 to 1700
No. 1 Boys from 14 to 17, 1200 to 1400
No. 1 Girls from 18 to 24, 1200 to 1500
No. 1 Girls from 12 to 17, 900 to 1300
Other classes except No. 1 are dull and much lower."

The above letter is an example of why the stamps of the Confederate States are steadily gaining in popularity. They are probably the most historic issues ever used in this country and there is no find of Confederates even today that does not recall that bitter war between the states. For the specialist these issues are most interesting and no one will know all about them. First, there were the many provisional or postmaster's issues caused by the failure of General John H. Reagan, postmaster-general of the Confederacy to supply the Confederate postmasters with stamps when the machinery of the federal post-office ceased to operate and that of the Confederate States of America began to operate on June 1, 1861. Then there are the lithographed general issues which can all be plated and which abound in flaws and minor differences. Cancellations on these historic stamps are sometimes most interesting showing as they do their use on soldiers letters, prisoners letters, and letters passed through the lines.

To the collector of these issues the patriotic envelopes used both in the north and south make an interesting collection at which the non-stamp collector will always look with interest.

It has been said that it is not safe to tell an Englishman a joke on Saturday night, because it makes him laugh in church on Sunday morning. It will hardly take you that long to comment on our nerve in quoting:—

WASHINGTON, D. C.

A DISTINCT LOSS TO PHILATELY.
DEATH OF MISS BROWN, PRESIDENT OF ST. LOUIS SOCIETY.

ST. LOUIS, MO., Oct. 22.—Miss Lillian M. Brown, head of the art department of Soldan high school, and a daughter of the late Governor Benjamin Gratz Brown, of Missouri, died here today of injuries suffered last night, when she was struck by an automobile. She was the 142nd victim of automobile accidents since January 1, last, and the fifth person killed by automobiles in one day in St. Louis and immediate vicinity.

The above clipping from a Missouri paper tells a sad story. We will supplement it with a sketch we published last May:

Miss L. M. Brown, an artist and art teacher in a St. Louis High School, was recently elected president of the St. Louis Stamp Collectors Society. She is the first woman to have been elected president of any philatelic society. Miss Brown was born in St. Louis, Missouri, and was educated in the public schools there. She studied art in the St. Louis Art School, after which she spent two years studying in Paris. Since that time she has visited Europe some fourteen or fifteen times. Miss Brown is a painter of some note and every winter exhibits some of her works in the East.

She became first interested in stamps watching her little brother stick his stamps in one album, and then pull them all out and put them in another. When she was in Europe studying she gathered stamps from her friends to send home to her brother. When he was leaving home, he presented her with his collection, because, as she said, "I was the only one who took any interest in it." The collection lay untouched for some time, until four or five years ago she was induced to attend a meeting of the St. Louis Stamp Collectors Society. Since that time she has added to the original collection, until she now has a fine general collection, including many countries practically complete. She has a comprehensive collection of United States, including several early covers. Miss Brown does not believe in specialized collections, because, as she explains, "Sooner or later a specialized collection has to stop, while a general collection is never completed."

Miss Brown lives in St. Louis County, a few minutes' ride from the city. Her home consists, as she expresses it, "Of a studio surrounded by enough rooms to live in." With the aid of one of the instructors at the school where she teaches, she designed the studio, which seems to exactly meet her needs. It consists of one large room, two stories high, with large windows, in which she paints; a small kitchen and breakfast room are at one end, while the other part of the house is reached from a balcony half way up one side of the studio. She also has a glassed-in sun porch.

Among other interests, Miss Brown is sponsor for the Soldan Philatelic Society, which numbers some twenty or thirty students as its members. She has also been a member of the A. P. S. for several years.

THE FORUM.

By H. P. ATHERTON,
318 Main St., Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to 19th century United States postage stamps; Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

The Front of the Book.

A collector who enthuses much over Early U. S., told me that he derived great interest from the reading of the "Hints for Collectors" in the front part of the Scott Catalog, says he reads it three or four times each year. Paper, Watermarks, Perforations, Impressions, all pertain to U. S., and the Hints are useful all the way through, the last paragraph being well worth quoting in full; you have the catalog, so the last two lines will be enough here, it remarks that this information will "lead him to study his stamps, and thus derive benefit and knowledge from his collection."

"Study Your Stamps" sounds like a perfect slogan for the Forum.

If you just buy stamps and fill the spaces in the album, you sure do miss much of the real pleasure of collecting. Many collections are along those lines however, the last few pages, both the printed and unprinted, being tastefully bestrewn with Green Trading Stamps and others of that ilk. And this is the book of a stamp collector—not a "filatelist" as per Century Dictionary, via Hints to Collectors.

Oh, about that Book of Freaks. Have you started it yet?

Mr. A. C. Johnson showed me two of the prettiest little flaws in the neck of Andrew Jackson on the 2c vermilion, soft paper. The flaw is shaped like the ZR-3 but in size only about 2mm long and 1/2mm wide. The two copies were identical, proving it to be other than a little local ink flurry on that particular sheet. He showed me many with plate flaws or blurs, none of which he had found in duplicate. His Book of Freaks is working.

You probably know that if the ornaments on the right side of the 1c 1857 are complete it is a stamp of some class, while if the ornaments are rubbed off the plate, it is another of those Type Vs. Some of these are quite different from others tho, note the little irregular broken blue lines on the right side. They vary a great deal, and make interesting varieties, as do these same sort of markings in the side margins of the 2c black Jacksons. Save a few for your new book. Some are very interesting as you will find out on looking.

In answer to the Question, "Have you seen a 3c 1851 orange-brown used July 1, 1851, from towns other than those mentioned" is a reply from Dr. Robert F. Chambers saying he has one from Providence, R. I., dated July 2nd. This is the only reply received. We thank you for that, Doctor, and hope you hit a 7-1-51 next lot you get. They must be scarce from the way nobody answers. Collectors from all countries are digging into the "First Day" material, especially of the early issues. It is probably given prominence nowadays by the groups of Airplane enthusiasts, who are constantly on the lookout for a "First Trip". That 20 centime French stamp preceded the next stamp issued by a year and two-thirds. It was listed as appearing Jan. 1, 1849. A few fortunate collectors secured a copy dated Jan. 1, 1849. Great was their consternation on reading that an authentically used copy was found emanating from some town in Algeria, and dated December 31, 1848!

If any of you find a 3c 1851, dated June 30, 1851, we'd all like to hear of it, Last year a very pretty 3c 1851 imperforate (it was of the 1855 printing!) was shown to me. Cancelled from New York City with deep reddish ink, and inside the ring of the postmark was the year date "1853" in figures about two-thirds the size of the true black figures.

Some issue of this Forum may see an article "Counterfeits I have got, and that have got me". I have found them interesting—yet not always laughable!

Have you ever seen a 90c blue of the first issue perforate, 1860, used on a letter? is the question for this week.

Since writing the above, the 1925 Catalog has appeared, and the Hints are not printed. You will have to refer back to an earlier edition of the Scott Catalog. With the addition of 88 pages, we find now 1483 pages. The 1919 volume shows the Hints, and possibly later editions.

PRECANCELLED STAMPS OF CANADA.

By FRANK S. THOMPSON.

Stamps cancelled before their use to secure postal service, i.e., precancelled, were first used in Canada at the Ottawa post-office, in 1888, to facilitate the handling of catalogues and similar printed matter in large quantities. Complete sheets of the 1, 2, 3 and 5-cent denominations of postage stamps then current were cancelled with the local office handstamp, a circle the size of a quarter dollar, with nineteen fine lines, and the centre punched out oval shape bearing the figure "1", the cancellation being repeated on each stamp of the sheet. Complete sheets and half sheets of the precancelled stamps were sold to firms of standing, and a record of each sale kept. When mail prepaid by the precancelled stamps was presented at the post-office the record was referred to, weight and rate of postage on one of the articles checked, and the mail promptly despatched to its destination without the necessity of cancelling stamps or weighing each individual package.

Other large offices were not long in adopting the idea. At St. John, New Brunswick, the office handstamp, a long shaped oval of fourteen lines with a circle let in containing a bold numeral "1", was used to precancel the 1-cent denomination. Toronto precancelled complete sheets of the 1, 2 and 3-cent values by having several lines ruled with pen and ink across each row of stamps. The stamps precancelled at Ottawa and St. John being so treated with the handstamp ordinarily used on mail, practically the only way to distinguish them from the ordinary variety would be to possess pairs, strips or blocks, so that the cancellation is shown repeated, and not with the dated town's mark. In the case of the Toronto cancellation an undoubted original cover with the stamp affixed could be considered evidence of its precancelled origin.

The locally prepared precancelled stamps possess an undoubted interest, but as their use was not officially authorized or sanctioned, no attempt has been made to catalogue them.

The first official issue of precancelled stamps, comprising the ½, 1, 2, 3 and 5-cent denominations, was prepared by the Post Office Department and distributed to the large offices in 1889. Use of the stamps was permitted on newspapers, circulars and catalogues. The stamps were cancelled in whole sheets at one operation on an ordinary printing press, the overprint consisting of a number of bars from one to two mm. wide extending across each row of stamps. Later, in 1891, the 1-cent appeared precancelled with from one to five lines of single or double dashes. The precancelled stamps issued in 1892 were overprinted with two bars, 1mm wide and 11mm apart with a wavy line of the same thickness running half way between them. This type of overprint, with several variations, continued in use until 1903. Commencing with 1892, precancelled stamps were permitted to be used on parcels, and several of the higher values were issued precancelled for this purpose, although they appear to have been but little used.

Since 1903 all precancelled stamps have been overprinted at Ottawa, from electrotypes plates of one hundred subjects. Each subject consists of the name of the city in which the stamps are to do postal duty, with name of province below, the two names being separated between by double or triple bars running the entire width of the sheet. While the style of type used for different cities varies greatly, there are but three variations from this design of the subject, namely, the first type of Toronto in which a fancy network band 3mm wide appears above and below the inscription "Toronto, Canada", the special type once issued for use on printed matter in which name of city appears above two thin bars, beneath which is inscribed "For third class matter only", and the type of Peterboro in which name of city and province are separated between by a broad network band in place of the usual bars.

Precancelled stamps are issued to postmasters by the Post Office Department at Ottawa, upon requisition in the same manner as for stamps of ordinary issue. Persons or concerns desiring the use of precancelled stamps are required to first obtain a permit of use from the postmaster. Regulations governing use of the stamps are laid down by the department and are required to be strictly observed by both permit holders and postal employees in order to prevent fraudulent usage.

The use of precancelled stamps is permitted on the following postal classes: second class mail, such as newspapers and periodicals in large bundles; third class mail, printed matter, such as circulars and catalogues; fourth class mail, or parcels.

The use of precancelled stamps saves a great deal of time in the post-office, for the time consumed in cancelling stamps on package after package, with their respective sizes, shapes and bulks varying greatly, is considerable. Firms accustomed to sending out quantities of circulars and catalogues find that the use of precancelled stamps insures more prompt delivery, while through use of the stamps the large mail order houses are enabled to deliver their mail direct to the railway station, without the necessity of its passing through the local post-office.

Although the Bar and Line types of the period 1889-1903 had certainly attracted the early notice of collectors, philatelic interest in the precancelled issues really commenced in 1903 with the appearance of the first types bearing the name of city of issue. Canadian collectors interested in the stamps were joined by others

M. P. A. CONVENTION.
By PHILIP H. WARD, JR.
The Metropolitan Philatelic Association met in convention at Philadelphia October 21 and 22, the meetings being held at the club room of the Philadelphia Stamp Club. There was in attendance, or represented by proxy, upward of one hundred fifty of the three hundred seventy-two members, which now comprise the association.
In the absence of Colonel J. M. T. Partello, the President, Mr. Philip H. Ward, Jr., the Vice-President, presided. Mr. P. M. Wolsieffer acted as Secretary.
The main business meetings were held on the afternoon of the 21st and the morning of the 22nd, at which time the affairs of the association were carefully gone over, and recommendations were made to the incoming Board, which the convention feels will put the association on a sound basis where they will be in a position to advance the interests of philately in general, and its members in particular.

The by-laws were amended so that the Junior Sales Department is combined with the regular Sales Department. It was suggested that the Exchange Department, that feature which appeals to so many of the members, be made more active, and arrangements will be made with this end in view. Colonel Partello was re-elected President for the coming year.

It has been recommended that the incoming Board of Governors make arrangements with one of the philatelic publications to act as official organ. In this way, the membership will be kept fully posted as to the doings of the organization.

The convention also passed a resolution endorsing the International Philatelic Exhibition to be held in New York in 1926, and recommended that individual members join the Association for Stamp Exhibits.

The convention further expressed its appreciation of the activities in behalf of philately of Mr. Warren Irving Glover, Third Assistant Postmaster General, and Mr. Michael L. Eidsness, Jr., Supt., Division of Stamps.

Mr. A. E. Carpenter, the Chairman of the Committee of Arrangements, arranged a very interesting program for the attending members, including an informal dinner at the Germantown Cricket Club, followed by attendance at one of the shows.

PHILLIPS EXHIBITS AT BOSTON.

On Tuesday evening, October 21st, the Boston Philatelic Society had a gala occasion. There was a very large attendance to greet Charles J. Phillips of New York City, who came over not only to talk to the members but to exhibit his superb lot of U. S. official stamps.

Mr. Phillips addressed the club very informally and gave an interesting account of his experiences with King George, the Prince of Wales, Ferrary and other celebrities. His exhibit of stamps was keenly appreciated and the members were greatly pleased at the privilege given them. He showed U. S. officials in the following groups:

- (1) Die and Plate Proofs.
- (2) Unused singles and pairs to show shades and colors.

EDITORIAL.

Several weeks ago Punch of London had a clever analysis of the stamp collector that showed that the "laughing-stock" of this standard smiling sheet is fresh and well in accord with the day. The skit is crammed full of allusions that while fanciful are yet not without some foundation in fact. Moreover, the writer has a knowledge of philatelic conditions that proves that he is well equipped to write lightly on the subject. We believe that in "lifting" the account from Punch of September 27, 1924, we are justified on the score of promoting the advice sometimes given, that we should not take philately too seriously.

From a letter that has been received from one of the earlier collectors of this country, we make the following extract which brings before us vividly the older regime, and thinking that perhaps others will be interested in hearing again names that were prominent in the past, we shall review briefly the inquiry,—"What has become of H. C. Beardsley, Henry Hechler, T. J. Mitchell, E. R. Aldrich, S. B. Bradford, E. W. Voute, F. N. Massoth, Jr., and your friend, S. B. Bradt?" Four of the eight men named are dead, as follows: H. C. Beardsley, St. Joseph, Mo., of whose death some time ago we have only been informed comparatively recently; T. J. Mitchell who wrote under the nom-de-plume of "Wanderer," of Chicago, died in Philadelphia some years ago as we reported at the time; the death of E. R. Aldrich, Benson, Minnesota, was duly recorded at the time, while F. N. Massoth, once of Hanover, Indiana, and later of Chicago, passed away well over a dozen years ago, when mention was made. The last that we heard of the peppery E. W. Voute of Stamp Collectors' Figaro days was that he was succeeding as a writer on stage topics, while of Henry Hechler, of Halifax, Nova Scotia, and S. B. Bradford, of Ottawa, Illinois, we have had no information for a long time. The last that we heard of S. B. Bradt was that he was in the old book business on the south side of Chicago.

SCOTT STAMP AND COIN COMPANY

33 WEST 44 STREET

NEW YORK, N. Y.

We are pleased to learn that the Christian Science Monitor had special correspondence from the Hague with an interesting review of the exhibit there giving particulars as to the displays and the award of prizes. We notice that one of the proposals suggested "that governments should be petitioned to issue stamps of a character to discourage the attention of counterfeiters." The Associated Press story of the Holland exhibit was liberal in its scope, and somewhat oddly, one of the paragraphs in it leads off "prominent among the 250,100 stamps shown", which may be called a good example of specific report.

One of Bruno Lessing's copyrighted newspaper editorial "strings" is on the subject of "hobbies," and we find that stamp collecting is not passed by without a nod of recognition, as we read: "One of the commonest hobbies, that of collecting postage stamps, results in a thorough education in geography." While we cannot say that the originality of this observation is striking, yet we feel that it is well grounded. A further comment to the effect that when the "find" represents the exercise of his wits, the real collector gets his greatest thrill, is worth a thought.

We have received a clipping from a San Diego newspaper, from Lowell J. Ragatz showing a picture of a letter that was carried on the first flight of the Shenandoah from the Atlantic to the Pacific Coasts. The postmark, U. S. Naval Air Station, etc., was applied at Lakehurst, N. J., on October 8th, and the letter was received at the San Diego Naval Air Station, October 11th, about noon; and the envelope has the further rubber stamp impression: "First trip U. S. S. Shenandoah, Naval Air Station, Lakehurst, N. J., to Camp Lewis, Seattle, Washington." We read that there are but two collectors in the world, who will have these letters, Professor Stanton of the San Diego high school faculty, and Joseph A. Steinmetz of Philadelphia, prominent in air circles generally. As Mr. Ragatz says, Mr. Stanton is an old philatelist who has been much interested in the Mexico insurrection stamps.

We are greatly distressed to learn from the St. Louis newspapers of October 22nd that Miss Lillian M. Brown, head of the art department of the Soldan High School and daughter of the late Governor Benjamin Gratz Brown of Missouri, died from injuries received from an auto while crossing one of the boulevards. We read that Miss Brown had been at a meeting in the Chemical Building of the St. Louis Stamp Collectors' Society, of which she was president, and later she was mortally injured. Readers will remember that in the issue of the WEEKLY dated May 5, 1924, a picture of Miss Brown appeared, and a review of her philatelic as well as other scholastic activities was given, especially her interest in the work of the St. Louis artists was mentioned. This shocking accident is deeply deplored by the philatelic friends of Miss Brown who feel that they have been bereft of a staunch member who was doing much to advance the best interests of our pursuit.

A letter from Milwaukee by Mr. R. L. Hustis shows that we must have put a chestnut burr under the saddle of his steed, as he writes, "Your fine Italian hand shows up plain as a billboard. In that editorial you twisted my meaning in the words 'wants to increase the circulation'—and that is why he is—contributing to its columns." I never had any idea whatsoever that my stuff would, could or might increase the number of subscribers, but rather the idea that its publication might decrease it, nor did I intend to convey the thought in my article that you, the editor, were to blame for anything, or that I thought I knew that I could 'point out many essentials in which the inspired touch was lacking,' but I still do think that MEKEEL'S is worth more than $1. per year of any reader's money and that its circulation can be increased. You put the spurs to me just enough to make me think something good." Withal, we are surprised we did not make it worse, because as some caustic critic has said, the interviewer for a newspaper as a rule is some individual who is suffering with a congenital defect that will not allow him to repeat the simplest facts accurately.

H. A. Diamant of St. Louis, chairman of the publicity committee of the American Philatelic Society, made good as a radio broadcaster at his Post Dispatch introductory, and he was allowed twenty-five minutes in which to proclaim the gentle pleasures of stamp collecting. Many letters have been received from points far and near saying that his observations were followed with attention. In this connection, we suggest that any of our subscribers who heard Mr. Diamant's radio talk communicate with KSD Post Dispatch, St. Louis, telling of their impressions of Mr. Diamant's entertainment. It is only fair to bestow encouragement on those who are working so sacrificingly for the welfare of philately, and we believe that by utilizing

That philately has encircled the globe is known by those who have followed the activities of stamp societies in all the continents. Stamp organizations flourish in Asia, Africa, Australia and what were countries generally regarded as beyond the pale of ordinary tourist travel a short time ago. We know that in India, China, Siam and Japan in Asia there have been philatelic societies that engaged seriously in philatelic study and diversion. The Australian states are known to have been for some decades past very advanced in an organized way, and some of the best research work of the stamps of Australia has proceeded from students there. Looking through the South African Philatelist we find that it is the official journal of a dozen or so stamp clubs of its section, including the West African Philatelic Society, the East African Philatelic Society and the Kaffrarian Philatelic Society. South America and, to a much more limited extent, Central America, has established societies for collectors that vie with those of the oldest European centers, we may say by way of courtesy. We cannot conceive of a more universal pursuit than philately, nor is it to be easily explained how so many different nationalities, some of whom are totally at variance with others, meet on the common ground of philately with a feeling of regard for one another as philatelists. Suffice it to say that the stamp is becoming a universal badge of recognition between all the peoples of the world and we suppose that a shrewd dealer could start out with a stock of stamps and sell his way around the "habitable globe."

It is somewhat interesting to find a letter written from "foreign parts" by a Jackie in the navy as early as 1842, but we recently found a New York "ship" letter post mark form in red that was sent from the old frigate Constellation, at Manila, December 9, 1842. The letter was entrusted to the care of the United States consul at Macao, and is addressed to the mother at Albany, New York. Merely to show the contrast effected by eighty years in the methods of postal transmission, we quote from the letter as follows: "Manila to us appears to be a very pleasant place, coming from such full unpleasant one as China. We arrived here on the 22nd of November after rough passage of five days from Sao Paulo. It is a long time since I have had an opportunity to write home, and I am afraid it will be a long time before I have a chance to send this. I am writing now so as to have a letter in readiness in case my vessel should sail unexpectedly and I have not time then. I have given up hopes of receiving any letters from home, as I suppose I think that by this time we are somewhere on the coast of South America, I have one consolation in the thought that in a few months after this letter reaches home I will be there myself. If I write to me any more, direct your letters to Rio de Janeiro, as we will probably be there some time in May next and, I suppose, remain there about two weeks, then, hurrah! for home, and right away I will be when we get there. I am very well, but to be long away from you, my dear mother, and all my friends at home renders it an unhappy one, especially in this season where I can't even hear from home. There is the inspiring postscript: "There is a ship going to sail away for Macao, and as there are several vessels going to sail from there for the United States in a short time, I will take the opportunity to send this letter by it." The signature is that of G. A. Johnston, and we say without reserve that he was a chap of the kind whose stuff must have been proved by his rascality on the Constellation of his memory.

NEWS GLEANINGS.
 —The London Daily Telegraph recently had an entire page devoted to postage stamps. In the center of the sheet was an article by Fred J. Melville entitled "The Lure of the Postage Stamp," consisting of a description of the business activities of some fifteen representative English firms. The advertisements of these firms were arranged around the sketch in a frame-like form. Thanks to Mr. Steinmetz for the clipping.

—Charles H. Fowle, better known to our readers as "Undoooley", a contributor of humorous articles to this paper some years ago, sends us a clipping from the New York Sunday Mercury of around 1870. The article is entitled "A New Mania" and we would very much like to reprint it in our publication were it not for the fact that just now there is tremendous pressure upon our reading space. We have filed the article for possible use in the future and thank Mr. Fowle for his courtesy.

—H. D. Nicoll sends us a clipping from the San Francisco Examiner, describing a set of special stamps to be issued by Italy for the "Holy Year Jubilee." A special set of stamps depicting the four principal Roman churches and the opening and closing of the Jubilee will be issued.

—The Scott Stamp & Coin Co. has just issued a wholesale price list under date of October 20th. It contains a full line of albums, packets, catalogs, accessories, etc., and may be obtained by addressing the firm at 33 W. 44th St., N. Y. City.

A seven weeks' visit to Europe including London, Paris, Brussels, Amsterdam, Berlin, Vienna, Prague, Venice, Rome, Milan, Lucerne and Bale certainly should produce something worth while in the way of United States issues, and on my return I hope to be able to offer to my clients an even larger stock to select from than the one I now hold.

Those who are looking for the unusual as well as those seeking the normal should drop me a line to arrive on my return December 16th.

Those having fine things to offer should communicate with me, for if I visit nine countries seeking for the almost unobtainable, I certainly am in a position to pay even more for fine properties here.

In further reference to the recent contract entered into by the Post Office Department and the manufacturers of our current series of envelope, would advise that I am officially informed by Washington that they are not as yet in a position to inform us as to any probable changes; for these details are now being discussed and it is not their desire to announce them officially at this writing. I am, however, advised that the data will possibly be available around December 15th, when our readers will be further informed.

INTELLIGENCE"

What would an army do without its intelligence service for gathering information? Yet many collectors are content with single stamp journal, neglecting other sources of information which would be of great advantage to them.

STANLEY GIBBONS MONTHLY JOURNAL is admittedly the world's finest stamp magazine. Its news service is unrivalled, its articles unsurpassed. PROVE OUR STATEMENT by sending a postcard for free specimen copy, or send 60 cents for year's subscription.

Frank C. Clark, Medford, Oregon.
W. J. Cadbury, Philadelphia, Pa.

We acknowledge with thanks the remittance of $5 from W. E. Pfannmuller, 3 Ridge Court, Brooklyn, N. Y., and with great pleasure we enter him as a member of the Honor Club.

Frank C. Clark of Medford, Ore., asks that the title of our publication should be improved by leaving out the word "and", as the paper is anything but "Weakly". We are perfectly satisfied with the conclusion Mr. Clark argues at, but for advertising purposes we are compelled to allow the present name to stand. Mr. Clark has been a subscriber to the WEEKLY for over twenty years and his application for membership in the Honor Club is accompanied with the words: "Please put Oregon on my honor roll." This we are pleased to

We are also glad to add the name of W. J. Cadbury, Philadelphia, Pa., to our list. Mr. Cadbury is secretary of the firm, Jones & Cadbury Co., makers of plumbers and heating engineers, with general offices in Philadelphia.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

We deeply regret to announce the sudden death of our dear friend and Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. A. E. Landvatter, who passed away on October 22nd. He was President of Passaic Stamp Club, Life Member of A.P.S. and member of Collectors Club of New York and S.P.A., etc.

INTRODUCING STEPHEN G. RICH.

Stephen G. Rich of Essex Fells, N. J., will edit the next issue of our paper. His literary work has already had a prominent place in our publication and we were very much pleased that he accepted the responsibility connected with the production of our next special number.

Mr. Rich has been a collector ever since he was seven years old, although he affirms that on the day he was born his stamp collection was started by his father with the New York 5c postmaster's stamp, and little by little his father turned over the collection that had been made for him. When about thirteen, with his brother, he added postmarks and amassed over 6,000 different ones.

From 1905 to 1916 Mr. Rich took a vacation from stamp collecting but in the latter year, shortly after he had reached Amanzimtoti, South Africa, to take a teaching position there, A. E. LeRoy, principal of the school, got him interested again. Mr. Rich began to specialize in Union of South Africa. In the meantime he had sent home for his collection and began at once to work up his South Africans. Since returning to this country he has gone more intensively into this special line.

Mr. Rich is a member of the Phi Delta Kappa fraternity and has been a fairly extensive contributor to educational journals, especially Education of Boston, during the past three years.

We are pleased to give our readers this brief sketch of Mr. Rich and feel positive that they will appreciate the issue of November 17th, of which he will be the editor.

SAN FRANCISCO STAMP SOCIETY.

This Pacific Coast Society is forging to the front as one of the leading philatelic societies of the country. Its president is A. H. Wilhelm and its secretary-treasurer, Donald Piercy. Bulletin No. 1, dated October, 1924, is a lively four-page sheet giving full particulars of the activities of the society. We take the liberty of quoting the following from a letter just received from Louis C. Muller, the auction and sales manager:—

This society is one of the largest local philatelic organizations in the country, the membership at present numbering one hundred and fifty. The society meets twice a month and the attendance is seldom less than forty and often as high as sixty. We are of a progressive nature and strive to do everything possible to boost philately.

Our Monthly Bulletin is sent to our members, to prospective members, to stamp dealers and to the nine San Francisco newspapers, from whom we expect to receive some recognition. You will note that our advertisements are restricted to our own members. We would appreciate some mention of our Society and Bulletin in your paper. We were pleased to note the article regarding Mr. Seeböhm, who is one of our staunchest supporters.

in the United States, where similar precancelled stamps were in use, and to a collector in that country, F. Percy Collingwood, of Attleboro, Massachusetts, is due the first approach to a catalogue, a check list of the varieties in his collection, compiled for the Stamp Journal in 1911. In the following year S. M. Schoemann, of St. Louis, Missouri, published his pamphlet, "A Check List of the Precancelled Postage Stamps of Canada", which contained a classification of types, in addition to an extended list of varieties.

Victor Ruggeri's admirable work, "The Canadian Precancelled Stamps", giving for the first time a priced catalogue, appeared serially in the February, March, April, May and June, 1917, numbers of the Stamp Herald. A second edition of this work in pamphlet form and entitled, "The Canadian Precancel Catalog" appeared the following year edited in collaboration by Victor Ruggeri and Dr. W. I. Mitchell, and published by B. Gordon Bushnell, of Indianapolis. Supplements to this edition appeared in the Stamp Herald for August, 1918, and January, 1919. Later in 1919 a third edition of the catalog was published. The fourth and fifth editions, edited by the present writer, were published as sections of Bushnell's Precancelled Stamp Catalog for 1920 and 1922, respectively. A supplement to the fifth edition appeared in Bushnell's Magazine for May, 1922.

In addition to the check lists and catalogues mentioned are the following writings: an article by W. Ward, entitled, "The First Precancelled Stamps", contained in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS of November 25, 1922, notes by J. Harvey Westren in the Precancel Gazette during 1921 and 1922, and the Stamp Herald during 1922, and notes by the present writer in the Stamp Herald from 1918 to 1920, and The Canadian Stamp Collector from 1920 until the demise of that publication in 1923. Occasional notes have also appeared in the philatelic press from time to time but these for the most part convey little of permanent value.

The present "Canadian Precancelled Postage Stamp Catalogue" embodies all that has previously been recorded concerning these issues, together with considerable new data and an extended list of varieties. In the preparation of the work the editor has had the advantage of reference to his own nearly complete collection, and also of the generous assistance of the owners of other advanced collections, Mr. J. D. Cox, veteran postmaster of Upper Stewiacke, Nova Scotia, whose keen interest in these stamps has been maintained for two decades or more, Mr. Victor Ruggeri, of Gamelin, Quebec, compiler of the first priced catalogue, and also a collector of many years standing, Dr. W. I. Mitchell, of Paonia, Colorado, owner of the largest collection of United States precancelled stamps, into whose hands some years ago passed the Schoemann collection of Canadian precancelled stamps, and Mr. J. Harvey Westren, of Toronto, whose research concerning the early General issues has brought to light much of interest. The Catalogue of Canadian Precancelled Stamps can be obtained from the Philatelic Publishing Co., 374 Sackville St., Winnipeg; 50c postfree.

RAPKIN ACCESSORIES.

We have just received a new stamp album from G. F. Rapkin, 151 Goswell Road, London, E. C. 1. It sells at only 25c and is a very comprehensive book and an ideal one for the beginner. It contains one hundred pages, size 8x6½, has spaces for 2200 postage stamps, and nearly 700 good illustrations. It is a fine album for the juvenile collector.

We have also received from the Rapkin firm a specimen "Stamp Collector's Companion" which also sells for 25c. It contains fifty different foreign stamps, a watermark tray, an approval card, perforation gauge, 200 hinges and a book for mounting duplicates. This, too, should prove a good seller.

THE PHILATELIC INSTRUCTOR.

Written for MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.

By FRANCIS M. BOTELHO, Ph.D., Wayne, Pa.

CHAPTER IV.

PRELIMINARY RESEARCH.

Experience is a good teacher, but it is apt to be a hard and costly one. So that you may travel along in your philatelic itinerary without unnecessary disappointments, it is important that you should at least in a general way chart out your milestones.

The first thing to be done is to make friends with your album. It cannot talk, but nevertheless it can tell you very much. From its pages, with a little intelligent observation and analyzing, you will gather considerable information previously unknown to you. If it is not provided with a map or several sectional maps, you should have at hand a convenient atlas of the world. Turning the album's pages, and consulting the maps, you will discover many countries and principalities, whose existence you have either not known or forgotten. At the same time, you will get an idea of the number of specimens allotted for each country in your album.

This initial, though simple, effort will mark the beginning of the formation of your program, for as you turn the pages, your mind will automatically form its selection of countries that appeal most to your make-up. Perhaps your ancestors came from a certain geographical division, perhaps you have relatives and friends in another, perhaps you have visited still another—whatever the subconscious causation, ere you have reached the back cover, you will have probably decided on several countries as your first favorites.

Now you would turn to your catalogue, as to a book of reference, to ascertain something about the issues and values of those favorite countries. You will find that some stamps of more recent issue are listed at higher selling prices than some of older currency. You will also notice that some stamps are worth more in an unused condition, while others are considered more valuable in a used state. Still others will be seen to have added value through possessing special features, like different perforations, surcharge inscriptions, errors in printing, wrong color of ink used, and so forth.

This cursory examination of the issues of your favorite countries will lead you to want to know if similar situations arise with the stamps of other countries. Soon you will find yourself engrossed in studying the whole catalogue, and, if you are at all methodical, you will be making notes as to the items that you consider most desirable to have represented in your album.

By this time, the few first favorites will have been modified. One or two may have been dropped. Others will have been added. Your enthusiasm as a hobbyist has been aroused, and you are itching to commence filling the blank spaces of your volume.

But you should do nothing of the kind yet, even if you already have a nucleus quantity of stamps with which to begin.

Instead of "fixing your stamps," you need to apprise yourself more about them. At this stage, you still have to prepare your program, and naturally a good program cannot be drawn up without knowing what's what. Therefore, you should spend a little time in carefully reading the philatelic matter brought within your immediate reach within the covers of the publications you have subscribed to. In this way you will get acquainted with terms and nomenclatures used by other stamp collectors. Not less important is the perusal of the advertisements; they indicate to you what stamps are "on the market" and the reductions from catalogue list prices.

However, to the beginner, a word of warning. Take all advertisements with a generous grain of salt—not because there is more chicanery here than in other fields, but because you must beware of being too responsive just yet. Watch your step while your sense of relative values is being developed.

INTERPROVINCIALS.

By STEPHEN G. RICH.

Section 1.

The term "interprovincials" was first used in philately, so far as the present writer knows, in his articles on the stamps of the Union of South Africa in MEKEEL'S WEEKLY in 1922. It was there used to describe the stamps of the four constituent colonies (Cape of Good Hope, Natal, Orange River, Transvaal) as used in all four provinces after the formation of the national government and previous to the national issue of stamps. In the further study of these interprovincials, the existence of similar uses of stamps in other countries, and the possibility of such use in still others has come to light.

The term "interprovincials" is not wholly without objection as applied in certain other cases, since the unifying or federalizing of various countries has not always given the name of "province" to the districts united. In Australia, for example, the six colonies are now called states; in the pre-war German Empire each state retained its old title of kingdom, principality, duchy, electorate, etc. Nevertheless, in order to avoid the difficulty that might come from the use of the term "interstates" for similar uses of Australian stamps to those in South Africa called "interprovincial," it is here suggested that the latter term be used uniformly, irrespective of the political name of the subdivisions involved.

At this point it might be well, by citing a few South African cases, to illustrate exactly what is meant by an "interprovincial." From 1904 onwards Natal, then a separate colony, used the King's Head series of stamps with multiple Crown CA watermark. After the formation of the Union of South Africa, May 31, 1910, these stamps of Natal were used in all four of the provinces of the Union. Thus, we find, for example:

Used in Cape Province, Natal stamps postmarked Port Elizabeth, May 5 and May 22, 1911; postmarked Cape Town, April 24 and May 12, 1912; postmarked Oudtshoorn, Sept. 8, 1911.

Used in Orange Free State Province; postmarked June 5, 1913, Bloemfontein.

Used in Natal Province; postmarked Durban, June 6, 1910; Greytown, Aug. 6, 1910; Pinetown, Feb. 10, 1911; Pietermaritzburg, Jan. 29, 1911; Durban, August 5, 1911, etc.

Used in Transvaal Province; postmarked Johannesburg, Nov. 7, 1911; East Rand, July 23, 1912, etc.

A similar selection might be made of the stamps of any one of the four provinces, showing their use throughout the Union. The most extensive list, for South Africa, would be of Transvaal stamps; one or two combinations, though possible, are rare or do not occur at all. For example, I have yet to find an example of a Cape stamp used in the Orange Free State province.

It will thus be seen that the collection and study of interprovincials is largely a study of cancellations. The lover of covers will find also plenty of chances for his specialty, as in many cases the whole cover or a large piece is necessary in order to show interprovincial use. Occasionally covers will show not only one, but two or more interprovincials together: a cover reported to me shows, used at Capetown in 1912, the 2½d Natal, ½d Cape, and 6d Transvaal together. From the account given by the owner of this cover, it appears not to have been "philatelically made to order," but represented the stamps actually sold over the counter in the post-office of that city at the time.

The collector of interprovincials has, above all else, to seek for cancelled specimens that show the place and date of cancellation clearly. The very specimens that are rejected for ordinary collecting, as being "too heavily cancelled," are the ones of greatest value to him. The importance of date as well as place cannot be too strongly emphasized, especially in the matter of the continued use within the province whose name the stamps bear. In Natal, for example, there were no new cancellations, no new types of cancelling stamps in use for some time after Union; new types were only sparingly and slowly introduced; and without date it would be easy to mistake late colonial uses of the stamps for interprovincials. The dates also give clues to the cessation of particular interprovincial uses. Citing Natal again, it would appear that there were no printings made after Union; and that by the middle of 1912 nearly all the Natal stamps on hand had been used up. From that time onwards, until the national issue of 1913 appeared, Transvaal stamps were extensively in use in Natal, with Cape stamps occasionally at some offices.

One curious interprovincial is the late printing of the 4d Orange River Colony, in a slightly darker shade than usual. This dark shade I have not yet been able to find either uncanceled or used in the Orange River Colony previous to Union, or used in the Orange Free State province after Union. It is nearly always found with a Cape Province postmark—sometimes showing the place, and sometimes only the abbreviation "C. G. H."

The South African interprovincials are not limited to ordinary adhesives. One colony, the Transvaal, had postage due stamps; these were used extensively in other provinces after Union, not only until the national issue of dues appeared in 1915, but at least as late as 1920. In fact, so many of certain values were on hand, that in the recent speculative issue for the protectorate of Southwest Africa, these as well as the national issue were sur-

DOLLAR COVER BUNDLES

Hundreds of these bundles of United States original covers have been sold by me in the past year. My extensive buying constantly gives me a change of stock—to-day I get covers from California and tomorrow from Maine.

I cannot say just what these bundles will contain, as hardly any two are the same—but I do guarantee each bundle to contain at least twelve different covers—all containing United States stamps used in the period of their issue and mostly prior to 1890.

Your Money Back If Unsatisfactory is my definite guarantee. "Dollar Cover Bundles" are an advertising "lead" with me and I make them up so as to prove satisfactory in each instance, giving more than one hundred cents in value for the dollar.

Austria, Roumania Errors, Etc.

Very few people realize that one existing sheet of Austria special delivery No. 553 contains various errors of surcharge, of which we have purchased one-half the known quantity. Here is how and why.

A single sheet has been inverted in the press, causing the last row, containing the "Andrews Crosses" to be the first, and receive the "Deutschosterreich" surcharge, and the first row, which should be overprinted, being in last position and obtaining no surcharge. The entire sheet of normal varieties is of course with inverted surcharge.

Prices on these exception pieces are as follows:

- *Austria No. 553, inverted surcharge.. 6.00
- Pair, one surcharged, one unsurcharged 20.00
- Pair, one stamp being only the "Cross", but surcharged 15.00 charged. The collectors of postal stationery will find an exceedingly wide range of interprovincial envelopes, wrappers, and postcards also; curiously enough, I have not yet found any interprovincial letter cards. Revenue stamps occur in interprovincial use, especially the lower-value postage stamps surcharged "customs duty." One rather odd interprovincial revenue stamp is the embossed 1d check stamp. Dies for each province, bearing name of province as well as of the Union, were made, apparently in 1910; but in 1916 checks on Natal banks, stamped with the Cape die, were in use.

At the time when the interprovincials were being supplanted by the national issue, combinations of national and interprovincial stamps on the same cover were of course found. In the same way, the 2½d national commemorative stamp of 1910 is found on cover with interprovincials. Further cross-combinations, such as a Transvaal postcard interprovincially used, with national issue stamp added to make up the overseas postcard rate, likewise exist.

Such, then, is the field of interprovincial stamps as illustrated by one country. The number of possible varieties of use is, of course, easily calculated; but when the question of dates of use, taking on and discontinuance of particular uses, cross-combinations, and combinations with national issues is considered, the variety possible is sufficient to keep an ardent collector busy for a long time. Moreover, all this has been written without reference to the question of what denominations were used in particular places in particular years. A lot of Transvaal stamps used in Natal is before me as I write; I find the ½d and 1d as early as May, 1911; these same values, with the 6d and 1s, in 1912; all of these, with the 2s6d, 10s, 2d, 4d and £1, in 1913. In 1914, after the national issue was in use, a solitary 1d Transvaal used in Natal is still found. This particular lot represents the pickings out of a dozen large lots, derived from different sources.

The collector of interprovincials is likely also to include, as I do in my South African collection, the extension of the stamps of one country to use in a dependency. After the World War, and until the advent of the recent speculative surcharged issue, the stamps of the Union of South Africa were used in Southwest Africa, occupied under mandate. As within the Union, Transvaal postage dues were used there along with Union dues. We therefore have Union of South Africa adhesives, envelopes, dues, etc., with Southwest Africa cancellations, and also Transvaal dues with them. Of these latter, I have seen a number of the 1d, mostly used at Windhuk about 1920.

Section 2.

Thus far the purpose has been to show, with Union of South Africa as an example, how extensive and interesting a philatelic specialty may be made of interprovincials. But as I write, I can imagine someone saying that it is only the enthusiasm of a South Africa specialist for his specialty. The next few paragraphs will therefore be devoted to the occurrence of interprovincials.

The collector of British Empire stamps will find a number of countries and colonies within the empire in which interprovincials may occur, and in some of which they are known to exist. Prominent among these is Australia. In fact, it was a small collection of Australian interprovincials, exhibited at the Philatelic Society of Natal in 1919, that first drew the writer's attention to the significance of the interprovincial postmarks that he had noticed on South African stamps. A recent search through the stock of one dealer (not one of the smallest concerns by any means) disclosed only a very few interprovincials among all the Australian stamps from 1900 to 1912. The few that were found were in 1910. Theoretically, 36 combinations are possible; in practice it is extremely doubtful if more than half of these are likely to be found. The most promising material in which to look appears to be the low values of the later issues, especially the last issue, of Victoria and New South Wales.

Whether interprovincial stamps exist for Canada I have not been able to find out. The difficulty lies largely in the fact that Canadian cancellations rarely show the date and place in the early issues, and hence covers are almost a necessity. I make this statement in the full knowledge that it may be denied on the strength of the design of the postmark; but I have yet to see more than a very few early Canadian stamps on which date and place of postmark can be made out. A further difficulty lies in the fact that the name "Canada" appears on the stamps used in the two colonies of Upper and Lower Canada, as well as on the Dominion's issues; moreover, the colonial issues were continued for a short time after the Dominion (national) government was established. Canadian interprovincials, if they exist, will probably consist of Nova Scotia stamps used in New Brunswick and vice versa, with perhaps some of each of the Maritime Colonies' stamps used in Quebec or Ontario. A little later, Prince Edward Island stamps may possibly be looked for in interprovincial use. Owing to the isolation of British Columbia before the transcontinental railway was built, it does not seem likely that any interprovincials other than B. C. colony stamps used in B. C. province will be found. Whether interprovincials of Vancouver Island in British Columbia and vice versa, from an earlier day, occur, I do not know.

The Federated Malay States are likely to offer some interprovincials from their constituent states.

In Rhodesia, the old postcards inscribed "Mashonaland," are likely to offer interprovincials from other parts of Rhodesia. With the separation of Rhodesia into two units of government last year, there are likely to be a few cases of Rhodesia.

Dealers in Sound Old Postage Stamps

Our stock is built up of seasoned 19th century issues of the United States, Canada, Holland, Great Britain, France, German States, Italian States, and other classics of the investment class. For the specialist we offer specialized selections of any one stamp, single issue or country. For the general collector we have miscellaneous approval books made up by countries.

We Are Buyers For Cash

We are ready buyers for spot cash of fine single items, specialized collections, old accumulations. We want early covers, pairs, strips, blocks, odd cancellations; anything in 19th century that is fine and attractive. Common U. S. before 1890 wanted in hundreds or thousands. Send what you have at your own price; we will send the cash or the stamps by return mail.

THE FORUM.

By H. P. ATHERTON,
318 Main St., Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to 19th century United States postage stamps; Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

There is nothing particularly interesting to hand you in this number, no freaks have turned up—am still speaking of stamps. There are so many outside attractions that your reticence is entirely excusable.

The "Heat by Oil" and "For Winter Wear" ads and displays are now so numerous that winter must be in the offing. Bet the old Album will look good again. What do you see in your effects that will make your Philatelic Neighbor tear his hair, and bend his tongue? We crave such items, send on the description, or item. Have you started your little "Book of Queens" yet? Try it and see how you like it.

The subject of "Arrows" on stamps gives many collectors enjoyment. The '69s have a fine lot of arrows; Mr. Spencer has written of them in the WEEKLY. An interesting collection can be made of the arrows on the 3c Locomotives alone. The next time you get, say, three of them with arrow at right, see if any two are alike. You may be surprised to find that all three are different in detail. The angles differ, and some do not meet the straight line at the same spot as they should do. It is the same with the other values, tho there were more plates of the 3c value.

You probably try to get all stamps "well-centered and no straight edges" as per ads in the philatelic press. Did you ever try to get straight edges? Some have arrows, others center lines in whole or in part. Never throw away a good copy with a straight edge. Twist you and me, there are a few collectors who have been quietly gathering stamps with center lines and with arrows for some time past. They are wise.

On a government printed sheet of 400 subjects there are but four arrows. On a post-office sheet of 100 there are 19 straight edges, with 81 normal stamps, of which it is perhaps safe to estimate that we might get three well-centered blocks. You will say, "Bet he has been collecting Harding precancels". Nevertheless, the point is that of this 100 stamps you stand a small chance of getting a fairly well-centered stamp with arrow, and even then the arrow may be divided so that it shows a half of the arrow only, which is of small use.

Here's another question, what is the earliest arrow that you have seen? U. S. of course. For many years the 2c Black Jackson has been engaging my spare time. There are a wonderful variety of happenings on this stamp, the shifts being of marked character, and averaging high—maybe one in every ten. You will perhaps hear more of these as "copy" runs low; let's hope it doesn't run low. After collecting them for about 15 years, a top row Jack saunters in one day with the prettiest, neatest, wide spreading arrow that I have seen on any stamp. Strange to say, none other has come to my attention. It is probably the earliest plate which had an arrow in the making of our own postage stamps.

'Tis said that the ZR-3 had so many letters that they made her bilge bulge, and I trust that you all got one. Who knows, this transatlantic flight may become a constant means of conveyance soon, in which case it is fair to assume that before we are many years older we will be collecting the new set of International stamps. If each country were to design a stamp and the best of these were to be made for use—oh, well, who has any items of U. S. A. Earlies for the next issue of The Forum?

THE 150PF IMPERFORATE GERMANY.

When Mr. Victor Weiskopf returned from his trip thru Germany, Austria and Switzerland he brought with him a very small quantity of the 150pf orange "Workman Type" imperforate. The Home of the Postage Stamp purchased his entire lot and at the time of sale neither of us knew that any 150pf imperforate was listed in Scott's 1925 Catalog. On making up the advertisement for MEKEEL'S the firm discovered that the 150pf watermarked Lozenges was listed imperforate (No. 148a). Forthwith that number was included in the advertisement. When the stamps were gotten out to fill orders it was discovered that the watermark was network! When Mr. Weiskopf sought the aid of the Scott Stamp & Coin Co. he discovered that they were quite willing to believe that the correct number of the 150pf should be 170a instead of No. 148a. It is quite impossible that both exist. Proper mention of this will doubtless appear in The Monthly Journal.

Further information about this stamp is most interesting. One package, 100 sheets or 10,000 stamps, was shipped to Bautzen in German Silesia. There the stamps were sold to the public. Mr. Weiskopf says that this stamp is in great demand in Germany and that it was only with great difficulty that he obtained the small lot he brought back with him.

MR. MOUNT OF THE AGENCY.

By A. N. CAUDELL.

All honors to Hon. W. I. Glover of the Philatelic Agency, likewise to M. L. Eidsness. But it is not the face of either of these gentlemen that the ordinary collector sees when he goes to the agency to spend his money. The genial and smiling countenance that greets one across the counter is that of the patient Mr. Mount, and it is his pleasing and accommodating nature that makes buying over the counter a real pleasure. Thus I say all honors to Mr. Mount, whose likeness might well have graced the pages of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY in company with those of Glover and Eidsness.

PSYCHOLOGY OF STAMP COLLECTING.

By STEPHEN G. RICH.

There is enough possible material under this title to make a book, let alone a magazine article; hence only a few of the more obvious phases can therefore be treated here. There are a few questions to which an attempt at an answer, in terms of psychology, can be made, and which are directly relevant to the hobby of philately. One of these is: "Why do people begin to collect stamps?" Another: "Why do people continue to collect stamps?" Another: "Why do almost all collectors specialize if they continue collecting long enough?" Another: "Why are there periods when a large number of collectors take up the same specialty?" Another: "Why do some specialties die out?"

It is generally assumed that people begin collecting stamps because of a "collecting instinct." Comparison is made with the well-known South Sea bowerbird, that collects bits of china, bright stones, etc., to ornament the space at his nest. Whether any "collecting instinct" exists in human beings is open to dispute; there is no manual of psychology that admits such an instinct without qualification; and many psychologists omit it entirely. There is, however, an allied instinct that is fairly generally admitted to exist. This is the "acquisitive instinct." Let it be pointed out that there is a vast difference; this is no play on words. An instinct for collecting, if such a thing existed, would be no mere instinct, but a complex mixture of several. This can be seen by watching the expressions, in word and deed, of any beginner in stamp collecting. He satisfies his desire for acquiring; he asserts his self, in trading stamps, in mounting his stamps, in showing his friends what fine stamps he has, and in other less obvious ways. He exhibits the acquisitive instinct; he exhibits a disposition to get the better of the other person (all the time in conjunction with self-assertion) in trying to drive a sharp trade. In what care he gives to his collection, he shows the same trend of mind as a parent does in caring for a child.

But the question must be analyzed a step further. It is not enough to say that stamp-collecting begins by the effect of the self-assertive, acquisitive, conquering, and parental-care instincts. These same instincts might equally well lead to collecting insects, street-car transfers, scarabei, marbles, or minerals. Yet, for every collector of either of these kinds of objects, there are several collectors of stamps. Our analysis ought to give us some clue as to why people take up stamp-collecting instead of some other kind of collecting. In part, of course, this fact is due to stamp-collecting being an established custom; the beginner, usually a child, is social enough and imitative enough in nature to fall in with the custom. But the psychologist is naturally interested in knowing how the custom arose; he is convinced that it was not mere chance, but the result of some recognizable activity of the human mind.

One fact that has contributed to the establishment of the custom of stamp-collecting is the ease with which a collection can be made. The combination of instincts which leads to collecting is able to get more immediate action in collecting stamps than in almost any other form of collecting. This ease of starting begins with the situation that stamps, not all alike, are received daily into almost any home, on letters. The fact that a collection is readily portable, in its early stages at any rate, makes comparison of collections, rivalry, exchanging, and the like very easy. Still another phase of the ease of making a collection is the fact that stamps, fastened into a book, are less easily disarranged than almost any other kind of collection that a young person can make. It is, therefore, not unwarrantable psychologically to say that stamp-collecting became an established custom primarily because it offered less resistance to immediate action of the mental processes involved in beginning a collection than any other form of collecting.

Still another phase of the establishment of stamp-collecting as a custom is due to the mental convenience of stamp-collecting. The beginner's collection, and indeed almost any collection before it has reached the stage of specialization, is seldom so bulky as to be a nuisance to non-collectors. The same parents who would throw in the rubbish-heap a boy's collection of birds' eggs when he had tired of it, have no occasion to do so with the stamp-collection. It is a small book; it is left in the bottom of a drawer or put in the bookcase, and forgotten. The boy still has it when he founds his own home, years later; and seeing it once in a while makes him more sympathetic when his own child begins to collect. There is no cluttering-up of homes to produce a parental dislike of stamp-collecting.

We have, now, the child started in stamp-collecting; we may justly claim to understand how he comes to collect stamps; why does he continue into adult life as a collector?

"Square Deal Approvals"

In addition to SQUARE DEAL APPROVALS—Fifield offers an unique service—"Individual Written Offerings of Unusual Single Items—Issued Periodically." Would you be interested in receiving this service, at no expense—or obligation—on your part?
EDSON J. FIFIELD, PELHAM, N. Y.

The answer is that he does not. There will be some opposition to this statement; but I am convinced that, unless the collectors that I know are not fair sampling, nearly every collector has dropped philately for a time, usually during the high-school age. Some come back to it soon; some come back to it after a long interval; many never come back to it.

Our problem, therefore, is to find out why grown persons return to what has been a childhood pastime, and carry on with far more interest than they did as children. One point to notice here is that, during the period in which a person is as yet struggling to find his vocation, his niche in the social order, few collectors. The revival of interest does not, however, wait upon success in the vocation, but only upon definite finding of it and beginning in it. So long as the problems of personal adjustment take up a large part of the person's time, the tendency appears to be towards use of leisure time in ways that are discontinuous—a movie tonight, a dance to-morrow night, a trip to Coney Island or Revere Beach next Sunday. But as the habit of regular and consecutive work in a vocation becomes fixed, there appears to be a growing desire for an equally regular amusement. Some persons become bridge-players; others, with wealth and leisure, become golfers; and some become stamp collectors again. What determines which they take up is not easy to say. This much is sure, however, there are few adult collectors who did not collect as children; and there are few adult collectors who did not resume collecting because they had one or a few collectors among the people they regularly associated with.

This amounts to saying that it is not complex of instincts that start when collecting stamps that is the seed of adult collecting. The adult collector is a social product: he collects because it is a satisfying mode of social intercourse. Let it be said at once that social motive is rarely, if ever, conspicuous: it is, in fact, more often denied or admitted. Yet the fact remains that the lonely specialist in the West Virginia village is socially quite as much in contact with the philatelists with whom he corresponds, or whose articles he reads in the WEEKLY, as with his neighbors in the village. By collecting, he has an himself a wider and more satisfying circle of social contact than he otherwise would have. Socially, through stamp-collecting, he is asserting himself; in snapping up bargains and in making good exchanges he is getting the better of the other person. His local contacts do not, in many cases, afford enough opportunity for the action of these traits of human nature. Now we might go into much more detail in this; the analysis has thus far only touched the edge of the question. But to do so would mean writing a book. Another psychological aspect of the return of the adult to stamp-collecting must be mentioned before passing to the next problem. There exists in each person in some degree an instinctive tendency towards creative activity of some sort. This wide term, "creative activity," must not be taken as meaning only invention or writing literature or composing music. From the point of view of the person doing it, there is as much creative activity in building up a business, in establishing a circle of friends, in driving a car well, as in any of the more original forms. For a large proportion of the people in most lines of business, the scope for creative activity either is or appears to them to be, exceedingly small. Those in whom this urge is strong are likely to seek some outlet for it in one or another form of adult play. The suburbanite with his garden is a case in point. The collector making a good collection is equally so. The same features of ease of beginning, of small bulk of the collection, of small disturbance to the household, that made it possible for the child to collect stamps in preference to minerals or insects, undoubtedly are among the factors that decide adults in their choice of stamp-collecting as a hobby.

This aspect of the matter leads us directly to a solution of the question as to why almost all collectors become specialists if they continue collecting long enough. The instinctive tendency towards creative activity has comparatively small scope so long as it is limited by the pages of a printed album or the varieties given in the catalogue. In discovering fancy varieties, in mounting stamps according to one's own plan, in writing-up album pages, and in exhibiting a fine collection, the creative activity finds plenty of expression. The mere mechanical difficulty and the mere limitation of time available prevent the collector from doing this for more than one or a few countries. Even if the collector can afford the money for a specialized collection of many countries, there are not enough hours available to work up more than a few. I am considered a quick worker; but I find that I have to allow an average time of an hour a page for planning, writing-up and mounting my collection. This does not count in the time involved in hunting through material, in deciding which specimens to keep, etc., but only the actual time for making up the page, from the start until it is ready to go into the album.

The creative impulses, then, are the chief source of specialization. They are, however, not the only ones. They determine only that specialization shall take place; for as they come into action they make it impossible to collect everything. The choice of specialty may be determined by them: there appear to be cases in which a country or group of countries for specialization has been chosen because of either its challenge to the constructive powers of the collector or the apparent ease of specialization.

More usually, however, other mental factors, often of social origin or socially stimulated to action, decide the field chosen. That complex of habits, attitudes, prejudices, sentiments, likes and dislikes, called patriotism in ourselves and nationalism in others, has often the deciding voice. At times the interests aroused by current events determine many in their choice of field: witness the rage for South Africans after the Anglo-Boer War, and the interest in old German states as a reaction from the World War. Political alliances, such as that of the Allies during the World War, exert a strong effect; the current liking for British North America is at least in part caused in this way. Frequently some well-known collector will start a number of others imitating his specialty, carrying it perhaps a few steps further.

This set of situations not only completes the outline of explanation of why collectors specialize, but answers in part the question as to why there are periods when large numbers of collectors take up the same specialty. It implies also the answer to the last question at the start of this article. The decline and fall of specialties is due to drainage of new collectors into other fields of specialization. As the fields develop, one after another, the new collectors are attracted to the ones in which there is chance for creative activity, rather than into those in which the work has been done. Thus, Match and Medicine stamps of the U. S. were worked out fairly exhaustively by 1900; and the collectors of that day who were ready to specialize turned elsewhere. By the time the World War came along, with its results in war stamps, Neupe, etc., the chances for specialization in British Colonies had been fairly well worked out.

Such, then, are the more prominent features in the psychology of stamp collecting. A very large number of interesting phases still remain to be worked out; some will require experimental work, some mental tests, some careful collection of opinions from many collectors. Psychologically, we do not yet know what effects stamp collecting produces on children or on adults. We do not yet know whether or not it has any educative effects; though we suspect that it does have. What they are, whether they are worth having, and whether they can be had with less time or more efficiency by other means, we do not know. But the really important and valuable thing is not to expect an immediate solution of the problems; rather does it lie in recognizing that they exist and that they can be solved. As a first analysis towards this end, the present article is offered.

EDITORIAL.

Brains.—We sometimes wonder that nobody has seized upon the fact that stamp collectors are not stupid people, as an argument in favor of our hobby. It is true that we often hear that philately develops "observation," "neatness," etcetera, as an argument in favor of the hobby. That is possibly true; but the reverse argument is considerably stronger. The reverse argument is also considerably more valid. This argument is simply that people who take up and stick to stamp collecting show that they have plenty of brain-power. We do not know personally every stamp collector in the country or even in our own county; but we have yet to meet a stupid person who collects stamps. Take it among the school-children who are beginners: we have seen just two boys of decidedly inferior ability start collecting, when it was the fashion in the "Vinegar Rock" school; but they got tired of it before the others arrived at the heat of enthusiasm. There was published in this WEEKLY some months ago an account of a school stamp-contest, in which the winners were the two brightest pupils in the school. If we consider the adult collectors, we have, to our positive knowledge, a galaxy of high-grade talent in any bunch of collectors that we may pick. One collector in Europe, of royal rank, has for many years done well and to the whole-hearted approval and liking of his people, the duties of a position which he is often quoted as cordially detesting. One of the contributors to the WEEKLY is quoted by the authorities of the university where he graduated, as having passed the most brilliant examination for a higher degree of any student in recent years. Still another philatelist is editor of one of the most important technical journals of chemistry. The money-making abilities of some prominent collectors in Cleveland are not entirely unknown; and the nationwide civic service in forest-conservation of a well-known New Jersey collector may be remembered. The cases could be multiplied, perhaps to fill a whole number of the WEEKLY; but these few are typical enough to show that stamp-collecting, from childhood to old age, is a rather good diagnostic agent for showing mental ability. Now, we hope that nobody will belie the mental ability of philatelists by twisting these words to mean that those who don't collect stamps are surely stupid persons! Let it be enough to say that when you find a stamp collector you find an intelligent person.

Typewriters.—We recently had the pleasure of seeing a collection in which the pages were not made up in the usual way. The owner of it neither wrote nor lettered the titles and descriptive matter. He had made up his sheets on a typewriter with "print-type" face. In the collection were a few sheets made on a machine with ordinary type; their inferiority in appearance and legibility to those made up with "print-type" was very marked. On inquiry, we found that, since the sheets for the album were too wide to go into the machine, he had simply folded under the inner edge of the sheets at the cloth hinge, to get them in. He was hoping to trade for a similar machine with a longer carriage, to avoid this. He had also tried one of those typewriters that allows of the use of various type-faces, by replacing one type-wheel with another. With this he had made up a few sheets for the album, using print-type for heading, the same for the dates, a small block type for some of the descriptive matter, and small italics for minor legends. This was interesting; but, on the whole, the pages were not so satisfactory to the collector nor so pleasing to the observer as those made up with the print-type alone. We might say that the print-type is not to be had on every make of typewriter.

Extra-illustrating.—Those of us who visited the 1913 stamp exhibition in New York may perhaps remember one collection, of a minor U. S. specialty, that attracted an undue amount of attention from the visitors, especially the non-philatelic ones and the children, because of the extra-illustrations which adorned nearly every sheet. Except to the specialist, the exhibition of sheet after sheet of stamps, without accessories of any sort other than "writing-up," is apt to become tiresome. This particular collection had such items as pictures of the men prominently connected with the phase of postal work that the collection showed; pictures of some phases of the service; maps illustrating certain services that had special stamps; and so on. If a few of the exhibitors in the 1926 exhibition will follow this example, the effect of the exhibition in making people appreciate the interest of the hobby will be much increased. For example, a collection of Belgium might well have several pictures of characteristic bits of Belgian railway doings on the pages carrying the railway parcel-post stamps. One or two to a page will certainly be enough, so that the stamps are not outweighed by the pictures; likewise, a few pictures to a page lure the observer on to the next page in the hope of seeing more. A collection of steamboat cancellations on early U. S. adhesives would gain much in interest by the addition of some pictures of the actual steamboats of the period.

What of the Cost?—Some of us are just a shade afraid that the 1926 exhibition may rather frighten off than attract persons to philately as a hobby, because of the spectacular displays of expensive stamps that are likely to figure in the exhibits. There are some few countries, however, from which highly specialized and exceedingly interesting collections can be made at comparatively little expense. This is more particularly true if the collection is limited to one period. A class for collections costing $200 or $250 downward might, we think, bring out some rather striking examples of this. Such a country, for example, as the Australian Commonwealth, with its rich diversity of interstate uses of the stamps of the constituent colonies up to 1910, and its comparatively straightforward issues since then, requires rather energy and persistence in looking through masses of low-priced stamps for varieties than the expenditure of much money. We have seen a collection of Ukraina, in which the various surchargings, the errors, and the like, were admirably shown on an expenditure of one hundred dollars, coupled with great energy in looking through dealers' stocks and a lavish expenditure of time and care in mounting. Of course, such a collection was weak on sheets and panes; but the real philatelic interest of these is not even now fully established in the minds of all collectors. The impression that philately is dominantly a rich man's hobby is quite apt to do as much harm as good; and any means to encourage advanced collecting of the less expensive material will be worth while.

Art of the Period.—Conversing with an interior decorator, we had expounded to us a condensed history of the periods of applied design as shown in furniture, wall-paper, and the like. On looking at the U. S. stamps of the various periods we noted that the same tendencies were shown at the same periods in them as in house-decoration. The curlicues and knobiness of the '60's in furniture are shown in stamp-design of that period. With the large, heavy, and at times dismal furniture of the '70's came the large, heavy, sculpturesque and partly architectural stamps of the "Bank Note Companies" series. The age of beaded latticework and cat-tails, pug-dogs and sunflowers, shows itself in the beaded designs of stamps also. The Renaissance architecture of the '90's is paralleled by the Columbian issue of stamps, and the exuberance of decoration early in the century is mirrored in the 1902 stamps. With the coming of simplicity and severity in decoration, came the Washington and Franklin series, severely simple in design; and the current series more or less continues this. A visit to other countries shows a similar agreement; the fine detail of the British stamps is quite in accord with British decoration today. The French stamps of today and of the '70's parallel the tone of building and decoration at the two periods. We suspect that in developing this point of view some interesting interpretations of stamp designs will come forward; likewise stamp-designing will take its place as part of the characteristic applied art in each period. The more connections we discover with various sides of human activity, the more interesting our hobby is likely to become.

Educational Value.—Some years ago, a well-known album for beginners had of its title-page: "Philately, an imperial aid to the study of geography." From time to time, in the WEEKLY and elsewhere there are accounts of how stamp-collecting has been of aid to the teaching of geography and history. But we need some thing further than the mere assertion of benefits and description of methods. What we need is, first of all, an experiment like the one on the use of lantern-slides and the moving-picture that Dr. C. E. Skinner, now of Oxford, Ohio, did in P. S. 10 and P. S. 171, Manhattan, for the New York school authorities in 1923. Dr. Skinner had parallel classes, chosen so as to be substantially of equal mental ability and similar school training, taught in geography in three ways; with text-book alone, with text-book and slides, and with text-book, slides, and moving pictures. He used carefully devised standardized tests to determine how much was learned in each case; he used a questionnaire to find out how the pupils reacted in liking and disliking the school work; and he tested for retention of information some months after the experiment was finished. This was done in 7th grade geography. There is a chance here for someone to find out how stamp-collecting affects school work, by similar experiments. We need some such definite information; and we need it for more studies than geography and history. There are chances in civics, chemistry, economics, among high-school subjects. Just as Dr. Skinner found that the amount of information gained was not substantially affected by the use of the moving pictures, but that the amount of it retained and the liking for and interest in geography were increased, we may find unexpected results from the effects of stamp-collecting.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—John P. Cooper of Red Bank, N. J., has just issued a wholesale price-list and we recommend it to all dealers, especially those who desire to handle the less scarce varieties of stamps. The younger dealer will find the list quite valuable.

—Montgomery Mulford, Buffalo, N. Y., believes that it would be the proper thing to get out a stamp portraying the likeness of Woodrow Wilson. He urges philatelists to agitate for such a stamp by getting into active communication with senators and representatives, and thus express our non-partisan pride in our World War executive.

—P. M. Wolsieffer has issued a very neat folder consisting of a perforation gauge and millimetre scale combined with a pocket approval card. No doubt a letter to Mr. Wolsieffer would procure one.

—S. Hyman of Chicago, Ill., sends us a clipping from the Chicago Daily News in which a department editor publishes a letter in relation to the selling of stamps and then replies to the query. The advice is given in such a manner as to indicate an acquaintance with the details of stamp dealing. Mr. Hyman also submits a New Hebrides cover with two of the provisionals described in our Sept. 22 issue.

—P. J. Drossos writes us that he has just returned to Athens from a business trip to Egypt, where he had the pleasure of making the acquaintance of Felix Cohen of Alexandria, a name quite familiar to our readers. Mr. Drossos informs us that the one pound stamp of the current King Fuad issue contains a serious error. It bears a sterling pound sign when it should have been the sterling sign with the letter "E" indicating "one Egyptian pound". When the existing stock of about 30,000 is exhausted the error will be corrected. The Egyptian government is considering having its stamps printed in Egypt instead of England. The Hedjaz stamps prepared in Cairo are an example of the work that can be done.

—The Hawkeye Stamp Co., Cedar Rapids, Iowa, have just issued a six page pricelist of bargains in United States

—We announce that Mr. J. Brace Chittenden, New York, has resumed the general practise of the law in association with Mr. Frank Harvey Field, New York City, and we certainly wish our gifted friend the success in his chosen field that he richly deserves.

—"In my progressive reading of a bundle of delayed WEEKLIES I have reached the edition of September 15th and note where you have shifted the "crown of laurel" from Mr. Charles J. Phillips to myself. I would recommend to Mr. Charles J. Phillips that he transfer his domicile from the East to the West of this country and grow up with the country. With the air mail service one would scarcely notice the difference between living on the East or West coast. This ought to be attractive to him and moreover I would be very glad to transfer to him the honors and responsibilities of a director in the American Philatelic Society and thus keep the honors in the family name believing that I have performed my full duty in building up this our Society on conservative lines with a substantial basis. On looking over the records I find that I have served now 21 years as a Director which I believe is a longer service than any other member can show."—HENRY B. PHILLIPS.

ATLAS STAMP CO. (P. C. Smith)
W. Somerville 44, Mass.

A seven weeks' visit to Europe including London, Paris, Brussels, Amsterdam, Berlin, Vienna, Prague, Venice, Rome, Milan, Lucerne and Bale certainly should produce something worth while in the way of United States issues, and on my return I hope to be able to offer to my clients an even larger stock to select from than the one I now hold.

Those who are looking for the unusual as well as those seeking the normal should drop me a line to arrive on my return December 16th.

Those having fine things to offer should communicate with me, for if I visit nine countries seeking for the almost unobtainable, I certainly am in a position to pay even more for fine properties here.

What have you for sale? Early mint blocks especially wanted.

Dates of Issue of Early Emissions.

In the American Philatelist for October, Dr. Carroll Chase and Mr. S. B. Ashbrook present a very interesting article dealing with the dates of issue of our earlier stamps and enumerate in detail the earliest used stamps seen from certain plates.

In the case of the 1c 1851 from either of the four plates, the earliest date of use so far found is a stamp from plate one, dated July 3, 1851. The variety was placed on sale two days previous. The 3c is quite well known on cover used the first day, namely July 1st. While the 5c was placed on sale January 6, 1856, the copy of the stamp in the Ackerman collection on cover dated May 5, 1856, is the earliest date of use so far found. The 10c was placed on sale May 4, 1855, but we have not as yet found a copy used earlier than May 21st. In the case of the 12c, which went on sale with the 1c and 3c on July 1, 1851, we have not found a copy of the stamp used before October 18th, over three and one-half months later.

The Franklin Carrier was supposedly issued on November 17, 1851, but the earliest use of the stamp that we now know is one in the B. K. Miller collection used on January 3, 1852. Mr. Miller also has the Eagle Carrier, issued on September 29, 1851, that was used on October 28th.

This list will be continued next week, and it is hoped that if any of our readers can supply covers used at earlier dates that we will be informed.

Bureau Plate Records.

Through the courtesy of the Post Office Department and the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, we have been furnished with a list of plates turned out by the Bureau, together with a record where the record has been available, of the date of certification as well as cancellation of the said plate. This data is now being put into such condition that the list will gradually be published from time to time for the benefit of our many readers. It is expected that a complete list will be published by one of our foremost collectors but until further details on the subject are available, I am not in a position to announce definitely as to when this publication will go to press.

3c 1857 On Cover.

Mr. Frank S. Cosby has submitted for my inspection a small attractive cover mailed from Lexington, Ky., to Spizzia, Sardinia, showing five copies of the 3c type II, 1857, on front of the cover and eight on the back, making a 39c rate. The cover shows a black dated postmark of Lexington reading November 7, 1860, in addition to French and Italian postmarks. There is also the red New York steamship marking in addition to the well known "P. D." within a rectangle. Covers of this series with such a number of stamps upon them are quite unusual and Mr. Cosby is most fortunate in finding this cover among the old papers of one of his relatives.

The view on the 2 gulden value is not designated, but is easily recognizable as the river Mottlau (a tributary of the Vistula) with the Kran Tor (Crane Gate), a picturesque structure dating back to the fifteenth century.

Both stamps are of transverse oblong format, and are inscribed "Freie Stadt Danzig" in Gothic type at foot with "1 Gulden" or "2 Gulden" at top.

Engraved and printed in recess (centres in black). Wmk. Honeycomb. Perf. 14. 1 gulden green and black, Oliva; 2 gulden purple and black, River Mottlau and Kran Tor.—Stamp Collecting.

RIP VAN POSTZEGEL-WINKEL.

By GERARD GERARDZON.

Rip, as you might guess from his name if you talked his native "taal," was a stamp-dealer. He didn't own an establishment like a jewelry store, up in the Grand Central Zone; nor did he have one of those grubby little back rooms, floor littered with cigarette-stubs and a few sets of Neurope on an improvised counter. No; he did business out in the satellite city of Butte de l'Union; his was a neat little store, with a few choice covers, two albums and a set of Holland in the window. It was right on the way home from school for most of the children, and the Secaucus trolley ran in front of the door.

Sometimes you got a bargain in Rip's little store; but more often you would find him showing sets and albums to children. Indeed, it was Rip's boast that "no child could get out of his store without buying stamps"—unless he had no money. There in that little shop on Secaucus Avenue, he kept busy, till Mrs. Van Postzegel-Winkel rolled up in the Chevy to take him home to supper.

Now it may have been the fatigue of convincing young Tony Eisenstein that he wanted to buy those Ukrainians; or it may have been the strain of getting little Sadie Lotspeech to decide between the Victoria Falls set and the Salvadors; or it may have been the visit of a drummer from Ye Stampe Shoppe Ink., of Schenectady; but at any rate, Rip fell asleep in the Chevy going home. Of course, there was the usual flurry; of course they called the doctor when he wouldn't wake up; and all the rest. But the end of the week, the end of the month, and the end of the year saw him still quietly snoring in bed

January 8th, 1936
Martha, Rip's granddaughter, whom he had never seen, went up, as usual, to see if the sleeper was all right that morning.

"Pappa! Mamma! Grandma! Come up quick! Something's the matter! Grandpa's moving and his eyes are open!"

Even old Mrs. Van Winkel, now hardly able to get about, came hurrying up the stairs.

Rip's eyes were open; he was trying to speak; he tried to rise from the bed.

"You've . . . you've let me sleep too long . . . look at the clock . . . it says half past nine . . . and I've missed the morning's business . . . and I don't feel sleepy—"

"Who's this?" he began again, as his glance fell on Martha. "Who's this girl . . . I don't want any strangers let into our house . . . what's the matter?" as Martha began to cry and he heard the rustle of the others moving about.

* * * * *

He wouldn't believe them—not even when he saw his long beard in the mirror; not even when he saw a calendar for 1936; not even when Mrs. Van Winkel insisted who she was. Nothing would do but he must start down town and be ready for the morning's trade. It seemed queer to him; he didn't think things looked right at home; why was the stairway bare, when he had put down a carpet last month? what had made them hide his old easy-chair over night? why did the front entrance seem dark instead of having the sunlight streaming through it?

but then, he must be sick, and seeing and hearing things wrong. A fine way to be on the day he was to go to Footspurn's auction to bid on those Confederate covers. And thus he went out to the front door, opened it, started to step down the familiar one step to the porch, stumbled, felt for the porch-rail, found only a wall, and suddenly saw that he was in a long vestibule with a new glass door at the further end. He leaned wearily against the wall fainted

He awoke to the smell of ammonia, to see a tall doctor, with white hair, standing over him, saying, in a familiar voice: "Welcome back, Rip!" It was the voice and the manner of young Dr. Modarelli, the specialist in Parma, who lived next door but one—but how had he gotten so old?

"Get me some food . . . I'm terribly hungry," said he hurriedly. Martha, still showing signs of weeping, ran to the kitchen; a moment later, and he was drinking milk ravenously, until the doctor stopped him.

"Rip," said the doctor, "it's true. I told them you'd wake up, and I'm glad we've all lasted to see it. They didn't tell you any stories; it is 1936; and we've kept the business going all these years, so you—"

"Did any of you go to Footspurn's auction and get those Confederate covers last ni—I mean in 1924?"

"Jane," said the doctor, addressing Mrs. Van Winkel, "do you remember?"

"Indeed I do," answered the old lady, with a liveliness and interest she had not shown in years. "I won't ever forget the day. It was the first time I had been to an auction without you, and I was scared almost stiff; and I was so worried about you being sick and asleep here, that I nearly let Sandy McKenzie buy them away. I got them for $560, and sold them to Allenstein—he lived in Paterson, but he died ten years ago—for an even thousand; and when he died Jack bought them back for only 12,000 and sold them a month later for—"

"What did you pay for those covers this time?"

"Twelve thousand, and I sold them for twenty thousand."

"Jane, are you crazy? Why, the Boscawen stamp sold for twelve thousand, and you tell me those Elyton and Mobile covers brought twenty—"

"Father," broke in Jack Van Winkel, "that's forty years ago. You used to say, when I was a kid and before you went asleep, that Mr. Gibbons once bought Cape Wood Blocks for a dollar each, in 1869, and now they were worth a thou-send dollars each. Don't you remember telling me that?"

"Yes, I told it to you only day before yesterday?"

"That was sixty years ago."

"All right, Jack," said Rip wearily, "I forget that I'm a fossil; but I want to go down to the store. Get the Chevy and take me down right now."

"We don't need the Chevy," said Jack, with a laugh, "and it's all rust now anyway. We traded it in for a Packard after Momma made her big deal in Middle Europe Confederation provisionals; but now we don't need a 'plane or a car to get to the store. Come along with me, and I'll have you there in a minute."

Jack, still called that though he was over seventy years old, was lively as if he had been only thirty; he took Rip out through the front door and the long entry, out onto a street that had changed little, except for several stores where wooden residences had been, and turned in to the door of a neat concrete store right next to the hallway out of which they had come. Rip looked up at the signs over the door. One of them was his sign from Secaucus Avenue, dull now but still the same—"R. Van Postzegel-Winkel, Stamp Dealer."—and beneath it a bright one—"R., J. and J. Van Postzegel-Winkel, The Stamp Store." He knew then how it was; he was glad; they had not taken his name out of the business, but kept it for him; for who could the two "J"'s be but Jane and Jack?

"What are these, boy," asked Rip, pausing before going in, and looking at a set of stamps curiously like the American ones of 1922?" He looked closer. "What's this country—Dominion of Judea? Where's that? And look at the money—why it's all in cents!"

"That's the new republic they started ten years ago, over in Western Asia. They got Palestine, Egypt, Hejaz, Syria, and Mesopotamia together, made each of

Fine Old Postage Stamps At Right Prices

It will pay you to look over the following list of old collections I am breaking up and let me know which of these you care to see on approval.

The stamps are all mounted in small approval books of about 20 pages each. I do not sell by any catalogue, but go by what my experience of a world's trade in stamps for 35 years has taught me of the real values. Many of my stamps are 25% under catalogue, some are 30% to 40% less than catalogue, others are full catalogue and over.

Approval Books

OF CHEAP, MEDIUM AND RARE STAMPS

OF THE 19th CENTURY

For Serious and Advanced Collectors

The following list of new approval books is being constantly added to. If you send me a note of the countries in which you are especially interested, I shall be glad to send you right selections as they are available.

Kindly state if you are especially interested in unused, used, pairs, blocks, or stamps on covers.

BARBADOS

A fine collection of first type stamps from Manchester, Eng. Four books of unused, used, pairs, blocks and stamps on covers. Very fine lot.

NEW ZEALAND

Three books of "pence" issues in superb condition, very strong in imperf. These are a combination of collections from Liverpool, Eng., Moscow, Russia, and some rarities from Ferrary collection.

COLOMBIAN REPUBLIC

1859-77. Three fine books of unused and postally used, from the collections of A. B. l'Argentere and Ferrary.

VICTORIA

1850-1876. Three books, especially strong in imperf., fine copies in singles, pairs and strips.

UNITED STATES

1847. 5c and 10c; good lot on and off covers, several pairs.

Locals. Two large albums, mostly from the Ferrary Sale in Paris, a grand lot, hundreds on covers and many rarities.

Carriers. Two books of these good old undervalued stamps on and off covers.

CONFEDERATE STATES

The finest stock of any dealer in America. The General Issues can be supplied unused, used and on covers, and in singles, pairs, blocks and panes. Also many interesting provisionals up to the greater rarities.

JAPAN

1871-1876. A fine collection made by an Australian while in Japan. Nine new approval books have been made up, large number of first issues on covers in pairs and fine strips, almost all the rare syllabics and most of the scarce varieties.

BRITISH NORTH AMERICA

I have bought several fine lots of these during my trip through Canada, also a new collection of Canadian, and can send superb selections of all early issues to 1880 and great variety of obliterations. Let me know what class of these stamps you care to see.

BRAZIL

1843. "Bull's Eyes". I have four books of these priced very moderately and a few of the scarce 180r, 300r and 600r sloping figures.

INDIA

1854-1855. Three books of these fine imperf. stamps in singles, pairs and blocks, a grand collection I recently bought and priced real low.

HONGKONG

I have bought the collection of the late Geo. H. Worthington and added many purchases from London. Four good books now priced moderately for superb copies.

SWEDEN AND NORWAY

A superb lot of the early issues in choice condition. In the first issue Norway I have a grand lot of superb copies with choice cancellations, and good varieties like the "cracked plate", "double claw on lion's foot", etc., etc.

Let me know the countries you are working on this season and I can send you selections that you will be glad to look over. No need to purchase unless you are satisfied, it costs us about 16 cents each to "look and see". It's worth it to each of us. [65&67 them a state, and have their capital at Damascus. They're one of the British republics, and so they have taken the name of Dominion. There are a lot of Americans there; about ten years after you went to sleep, the Ku Klux got so powerful that half a million clothing workers left New York and settled there. Their president, Ezra Iskovitch, is the son of Sidney Iskovitch that used to buy stamps from you. His uncle, Lionel Iskovitch, stayed here, became a good Baptist, and was mayor of Butte de l'Union in 1954 or '55. You see what they think of us; there's Woodrow Wilson's picture on the 5-cent stamp, and Calvin Coolidge, who was ambassador to Britain after he left the White House, and who got them the chance to settle there, on the 10-cent stamp."

"And what's this set?" continued Rip, as he pointed to a plain set, with large figures in the center, and the word "Malaya" conspicuous at the top of each stamp.

"Those? Why, that's the new Philippine set, just out last week. It's printed in Washington."

"Didn't the Philippines get independence? Davis and La Follette were promising it last—when I went to sleep."

"Sure, they did; in 1934, when Hoover was president. Then they got into a war with Japan; they got overrun like Belgium in the first World War; and the Japanese seized Guam and Hong Kong. The Australians declared war on Japan then, and so did we; Canada came in and Moscow and Germany; we had to gas half of Japan before they surrendered. Then we and Australia ran Japan and the Philippines for a while, till the Dutch East Indies had their rebellion; now we have made a kingdom of the Philippines and East Indies, with Indo-China, allied with us permanently. The Malaysians are settling in Japan in large numbers, and have already asked to have that country annexed to Malaya."

"Boy, let's go in; it's getting cold out here," said Rip, shivering slightly.

"I want you to see the great rarities first," said Jack, as he opened a Pyrex door safe. We keep them here; this Pyrex glass is better than steel or concrete for safety. Look at this: here is the gem of the lot: see this 5-cent red error in a full sheet of 2's, perf. 10. Silvester Isaacs McBean, the steel magnate from Ensley, offered me a hundred thousand for the sheet, but we can't let it go under two hundred thousand. Then here is the Latvia provisional of 1944, when the Middle Europe Federation—that was what they changed the name of the League of Nations to—became a government—they took in every country from France to Esthonia. They are very scarce, I don't know of more than one other copy of the 5 lat stamp. Here's another rare one—"

"Why, I know that. That's Hungary, 1920. Very common—10 for a cent."

"Yes; but the paper was so brittle that most of the specimens have crumbled to dust; this one has been sealed up between those glass plates for thirty years, in a space filled with nitrogen, and even at that it cracked one day when the case was set down hard."

"But what about the boy collectors? I always used to deal with them a lot."

"Look at them, father." And Jack led Rip round through a door into a separate store, where a dozen boys were poring over sheets of stamps, buying one here and there, purchasing hinges, looking at albums, and so on, as sixty years earlier. Rip looked inquisitively at one sheet of American stamps; there was the 2-cent Harding, cancelled—yes, precancelled—for 10 cents. Jack laughed.

"Everybody saved them," he explained. Precancels went out of fashion, like Match and Medicine before your time and mine; I have five million Harding stamps in bags in the back storeroom."

"But isn't 10 cents pretty high for so common a stamp?"

"Oh, no; a dime is as little now as two or three cents used to be when I was in school. Why, they can't get a man to do the simplest sort of work, pushing a vacuum cleaner or spraying paint on walls, for less than twenty dollars a day, the way money has gone down. But some desian stamps used in Southern Rhodesia after the change of government.

Outside the British Empire, there are a number of countries in which interprovincials may be looked for; but up to the time of writing I have not been able to see any from these places. Furthest back in history among these would probably be Two Sicilies. It would be surprising indeed if the stamps of Naples and Sicily should not be found interprovincially used. Closely following this, there is abundant chance for interprovincials among the Italian states at the period of unification. It is even possible, though not probable, that stamps of Lombardy-Venice may be found used in each of these provinces just after their annexation to the kingdom of Italy.

The possibility that cantonal stamps of Switzerland found some little interprovincial use should be mentioned.

With the formation of the German Empire in 1871, there was again abundant opportunity for interprovincials; but here again I have not actually seen any specimens. The collector who is interested might possibly find similar material at the formation of the North German Postal District a few years earlier.

There is a possibility that interprovincial use of the stamps of Poland, envelopes as well as adhesives, in other parts of the Russian Empire, took place immediately after the suppression of the nominally separate government of that country.

On the American continent, aside from Canada, the two possible sources of interprovincials are Mexico and the Colombian Republic. In the former, these would be found during the period in which stamps were surcharged with names of offices and districts. In the latter, the separate postal services of the various states offer possibilities. Included under the Colombian possibilities are those of Panama and the Canal Zone; it does not appear unlikely that an interchanged use of Panama stamps unsurcharged and Canal Zone stamps surcharged on Panama may have taken place at some time or other.

Doubtless other situations in other countries have existed, in which interprovincials may have been used; but it is hardly necessary to search these out in detail.

Section 3.

The collector who wishes to work with interprovincials needs certain aids beyond those usually at hand. Above all else, a postal guide or gazetteer of the country is essential, unless he knows the country well from extensive travel in it. Even then, the guide will help. An indexed map is hardly a sufficient guide, as many post-offices are left out; let the reader, for example, try to find, in our own country, a map that will show Petrey, W. Va.; or Foreign Station, New York, N. Y.; or Acmar, Ala. Some of the most significant South African interprovincials that I have seen have come from little Natal offices not to be found on any map.

A collection of non-interprovincial specimens of the issues in which interprovincials are to be found is almost as necessary. Such a collection is all the better for having heavily-cancelled stamps, pairs, blocks and covers, so that the types of cancellations in use may be recognized. A similar collection of the national issues that supersede the interprovincials is of use in the same way. To cite South African material again, the Cape of Good Hope has, in many places, a distinctive type of cancellation, with thick lines, tall letters, and a small round postmark. After some little acquaintance is gained with the material, it is possible to pick out a Cape-used stamp with ease. In the case of material off cover, in which only a part of the place-name shows on the stamp, this enables a determination of place of use to be made.

The collector of interprovincials has also to acquire skill in making-out blurred or faint cancellations. This applies particularly to the dates; these are often, in South African material at any rate, far less visible than the other parts of the postmark. Until this skill is acquired, and the arrangement of data in the postmark known, mistakes are easily made. Such items as the British 2-letter abbreviations of the month (JE-June, JY-July, MY-May, etc.) must be known, and until it is known how hour, day, month and year are arranged, errors are sure to be made.

There is no particular method of mounting that is especially adapted to a collection of interprovincials. For South Africans, in which there are four provinces of use for each colony's stamps, I find that a scheme of four columns, extending continually over as many pages as needed, and with each year's stamps together, is highly convenient. It saves annoyance to have each year begin at the same place on the sheet right across the four columns, so that all the stamps of any year are close together, rather than to apportion space in each column according to the present or probable future number of stamps that fall in it.

A final word of caution is in order. Just as "cancelled-to-order" stamps and covers exist in other fields, so there exist philatelically made-to-order interprovincials. In South Africa not only are all the interprovincially used stamps valid for postage to this day, but, except for the stamps of the Orange Free State republic and the stamps of the Transvaal down to and including the V. R. I. and E. R. I. surcharges, all earlier South African stamps are still valid. To please friends, or sometimes for commercial advantage, interprovincial covers of this sort are

On my visit to the principal philatelic centres of the world I have acquired a new large and varied stock of stamps, among which rank in their completeness German Republic and Danzig, late Bavaria, etc., etc. I also purchased a very large stock of British Colonies and many countries favored by the majority of American Collectors. I have just contracted for a large advertising space in THE WEEKLY and I believe that it will pay you Mr. Dealer and Mr. Collector alike, to watch this space weekly, as I will successively bring to your attention the wonderful bargains which I am able to offer you than to my large purchases abroad.

even now made up. In 1923, the writer had occasion to need a lot of stamped addressed return-envelopes to go into letters sent to South Africa; for this purpose he bought from a wholesale dealer several hundred Orange River Colony ½d V. R. I. surcharged stamps, at slightly above face. These stamps, coming with Transvaal and Natal cancellations of 1923, are of course entirely without worth as interprovincials. Several times I have had offered to me very nice-looking covers that are equally obviously made-to-order.

In a very few cases, carelessness of postal officials or a willingness to accommodate travellers mailing letters written in trains, gives rise to pseudo-interprovincials. I have seen such a case of Transvaal stamp on a letter mailed in the Orange River Colony in 1909; likewise a cover on which Transvaal V. R. I. surcharged stamps, no longer valid, were nevertheless accepted on a letter mailed at Durban, Natal, in 1919.

SSAU STAMP CO.

6 Nassau St. New York, N. Y.

TURKS & CAICOS ISLANDS, 1909-1910.

By HARRY E. HUBER.

King Edward VII stamps, "similar in type to those of Falkland Islands, line engraved series of 1904-05", were issued at Grand Turk, on September 3, 1909.
They were printed from line engraved plates, by De La Rue & Co., Ltd., in sheets of 60 (6 horizontal by 10 vertical), with double marginal lines and cross marks in all four margins for perforating purposes, and watermarked multiple Crown CA. Colored papers were used for the 3d and 4d (yellow), 1s and 2s (green), and 3s (red). The 1/2d to 6d are perforated comb 14, and the shilling values, single line. The 3d exists with both perforations, and the 1/2d and 1s, with watermark inverted.

The design, which is most attractive, is the same for all values, and consists of the head of King Edward, facing the left, within a pearled oval. The Dependency's name is on a band conforming to the central oval, broken into at two points by the shields in the upper corners containing the figures of value—"Turks &" (at the left), "Caicos Islands" (at the top), and "Postage" (at the right). On either side of the oval, at the foot, are smaller ovals containing the Melocactus communis, and across the bottom on a ribbon, is the value in words.

This was one of the last series of postage stamps to be issued bearing the head of King Edward VII, as he died on May 6th of the following year. In 1911, plans were perfected for a superseding series in the King George type, which the authorities hoped to issue about the middle of 1912, but which the printers were not able to supply until early in 1913.

The 4d had a very short life, exhausting prior to April, 1912. By the end of the year, when Government Notice 78 was issued, the 2d, 2 1/2d and 6d had followed. The 4d and 2 1/2d are the best of the low values, and are catalogued at 10s and 5s respectively, by Stanley Gibbons (1923).

"GOVERNMENT NOTICE No. 78.

Commissioner's Office,
GRAND TURK, 27th December, 1912.

Notice is hereby given that after the 31st March 1913, such quantities of the following denominations of postage stamps of King Edward VII issue, namely, 1/2d, 1d, 3d, 1s, 2s, 3s, as remain on hand will be withdrawn, and King George V issue will then be sold concurrently with the Ship issue, until the latter is exhausted.

The following denominations of the Ship issue, of which the plates have been destroyed, are exhausted, namely 3d, 2s, 3s.

By Order,
Signed, L. LEA SMITH,
Acting Asst. Commissioner."

FARTHING, 1910.

On July 7, 1910, was issued a farthing stamp for use on local letters, in the same general design of the King Edward series, except the Turk's head cactus, from which the Turks Islands derive their name, is substituted for the head of the King. The miniature representations of this plant at the foot of the central oval, in the King Edward design, being superfluous, are omitted in the design of the farthing, and leaf ornamentation takes their place. The Turk's head cactus shown on the farthing stamp differs considerably from that on the Ship and King Edward series, and is a correct representation of this interesting plant, the star-like "head piece" on the earlier issues giving way to the "Turkish fez".

The stamp was printed from line engraved plates, in sheets of 60 stamps, surrounded by a double marginal line, which is 15mm. from the stamps at the right, top and bottom, and only 11 1/2mm.
at the left. The usual cross marks appear in all four margins, and the perforation is comb 14. Two printings were made in claret (issued July 7th and August 19th, 1910), a total of 240,000 stamps.

In 1911, two further lots of the farthing were received (April 27th and December 11th) in a different color, vermilion. One philatelic writer ventured to predict for it a short life, "as the color is exactly the same as the standard for the 1d in the color scheme, and is likely to be looked upon with disfavor by the authorities." He queried whether the brown color of the Crown Agents' color scheme could not have been adopted at once, and "further trouble saved." Cancellations do not show up well on stamps printed in brown, and the Turks Islands authorities adopted the color scheme only so far as it suited their needs. A printing received in 1916 was in dull ver-

FIRST NON-STOP OCEAN AIR MAIL.

(Clipping from Oct. 16 Phila. Ledger.)

The first air mail to come to America from Germany on a non-stop flight arrived today from Lakehurst, where it was brought yesterday on the ZR-3. The letters and cards were included among 300 pounds of mail matter consigned to persons all over the United States by friends in Germany.

Among those who received mail on the ZR-3 are Major J. A. Steinmetz, member of the firm of Janney, Steinmetz & Co., 1421 Chestnut street, and Eugene Klein, 1318 Chestnut street. Mr. Steinmetz is a former president of the Aero Club of Pennsylvania and an eminent philatelist. Mr. Klein is an authority on philatelic matters.

Major Steinmetz was present yesterday at Lakehurst when the ZR-3 arrived after her 5066-mile flight from Germany, and was on the ground when the five German air mail sacks were lowered from the big ship. He predicted daily mail service to and from European points.

Major Steinmetz has the largest and most complete collection of air mail stamps and covers in the world. His collection includes mail from every known first flight air mail, including the famous Alcock - Brown trans-Atlantic flight.

Among his letters, cards and covers are letters carried by the American world fliers on their trip around the globe. There are also parcels of mail carried by the United States air mail service from New York to San Francisco July 1st last, when the thirty-two-hour flying schedule was instituted.

The collection includes mail carried on the British dirigible, R-34, souvenirs carried by Sir Ross Smith on his flight from London to Australia and many others.

Whenever air mail fliers have ventured into new territory, setting new records, souvenirs of the occasion have been added to the collection of Major Steinmetz. Letters carried by Lieutenant Hawker when he hopped from Nova Scotia, with Scotland as his destination, dropping into the North Sea before reaching land, are included among the collection. These letters were recovered from the sea and forwarded by passing steamers.

HISTORICAL.

Although known to the Spaniards before the close of the 15th century, the Turks Islands were uninhabited until about 1678, when Bermudians first came to gather salt during the hot season. They returned to Bermuda about November, where they remained until February or March, as salt could not be raked in these months, and other industries to make year round living possible were lacking in "this land of burning sands and rugged rocks."

During the 18th century the rakers were many times dispossessed of their ponds by the French and Spaniards, who invaded the islands from nearby Haiti. In 1786 the population of the Turks Islands was 921, 805 being Bermudians whose families and properties were in Bermuda, and lived in the Turks Islands during the salt raking season.

In 1799, despite the protests of the rakers the Turks Islands were annexed to the Bahamas, and remained a part of them politically for almost a half century. Petition after petition was presented to the Home Government praying for separation from the Bahamas, setting forth that the distance between the Turks Islands and Nassau (450 miles to the northwest) made inter-communication difficult, and the conflicting interests arising out difference of products of the two groups, made common legislation impracticable. Finally, an Order in Council, dated August 11, 1848, authorised the desired separation, effective from 25th December, 1848, and with the Caicos Islands; a separate government was formed under the supervision of the Governor of Jamaica. Following the hurricane of 1866, the expense of holding this charter became so burdensome, that on February 17, 1873, the Queen was petitioned for the abrogation of the existing constitution, and annexation to Jamaica. This was granted, and an Order in Council of August 14, 1873, set forth the terms and conditions on which the Turks & Caicos Islands were annexed as a dependency of Jamaica, as from January 1, 1874.

The Caicos Islands were originally settled by loyalist refugees from the Southern States after the Revolutionary war, who obtained grants of land from the Nassau government. With them came their slaves, horses, and cattle, and cotton and sugar were cultivated. But hurricanes and insect plagues discouraged the settlers, and they soon departed, leaving the land to their slaves. It is the descendants of these slaves who still inhabit the Caicos Islands, and where quite 75% of the Dependency's population resides.

An Unusual Offering of the 90c U. S. Issues from 1857 to 1893

For more than forty years the highest denomination of regular postage issued by the United States was the stamp bearing the portrait of Commodore Perry, which retailed at 90c. The Commodore's attractive features dominated that value from first to last except for the year 1869, when he gave place to Abraham Lincoln. The government raised the price of the Perry portraits to $1.00 in 1894, but the cataloguers have been busy raising the prices for the earlier pictures steadily ever since. At that the catalogs have not travelled fast enough, for very fine used copies are seldom to be had at anything like catalog figures. Recently we have had the good fortune to acquire several large lots of 90's.

Very few of the 1857 issue, and prices on application only.
Of the 90c 1861, a score of good sound copies at just half catalog, $5.50 each, net. Some beauties at $17.50 ea.

90c 1867, 9x13 grille, some very useful copies at $17.50 each or 1/2 cat. A few very fine ones at $35.00.

90c 1869, a very few good copies at $20.00 each.
90c 1871, National print, good ones at $1.25; fine, $2.25.
90c 1873, Continental print, good ones at $2.00; fine, $4.00.
90c 1879, American print, good ones at $1.75; fine, $3.25.
90c 1890, the little chap, good ones at $.85; fine, $1.25.

Of the 90c American on soft paper we have about a dozen pane margin copies, fine but one straight edge, at $1.50 ea.

These are offered subject to prior sale, and the prices go up when our small surplus is disposed of.

THE FORUM.

By H. P. ATHERTON,
318 Main St., Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to 19th century United States postage stamps; Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

In answer to the query re earliest date on 3c 1861's Mr. A. F. Hitchcock writes The Forum that he has a cover bearing two 3c 1861's, dated August 23, 1861—not pink. This is so much earlier than any others mentioned that it stands by itself, with thanks to those who sent in other dates round September 1st.

Just a few notes about plating. To many the word may sound quite depressing, yet they may have spent hours on those old jig sawed puzzles, and this cross-word stuff that is now so popular. So don't feel unkindly toward plating, as there are all ways to do it. Here is one instance that is very amusing, and is as true a bit of plating as one could wish. Eleven receipts for legacies came to me from one source. Instead of the regular 2c U S I R stamp, the tax was in the form of a 2c black Jackson postage stamp. Most of these showed wide margin at bottom, the perfs touching the design at the tops. There was one copy with a straight edge at the right, with top guide line showing, meaning, of course, that it was from the top row, and must be No. 10 in the left pane of that plate. It was centered better at top and bottom than any of the other stamps, so the next best centered copy ought to go at the left of this copy, as there were no more with straight edges to go below this one. The perforations, roughly torn apart, were now the key to the remainder of the series.

On one copy there were two perfs torn away completely, and at a glance they were shown clinging to another stamp, fitting together perfectly as to perfs, margins, and in color, as well as having guide dots similarly arranged. Others had single wide and narrow perfs all dovetailing together. Who says it is hard to "plate"? Try this yourself sometime. If you get a lot of 3c 1851 covers in a continued correspondence, put your dates together first thing, and you may be surprised to see how nicely the irregular scissors cuts fit into their original positions.

This will apply to any stamps, revenues, foreign, imperfs—any lot that came from the same source, providing the writer did not have so much other correspondence as to ruin the continuity of the mailing.

Sometimes a stamp will be found on a cover with a portion of it torn away, when along comes another cover with that piece of torn stamp adhering to this stamp. Tough luck!

Doesn't it make you disgusted to find a nice clean fresh looking 15c 1869 "slightly off center at top and right"? Here is one grand chance for some genius to devise a method of great help to collectors—find a means of shoving that design back into the center of the paper, and it is such a small thing to do! If anyone finds the means of doing this would they please send the method to The Forum for publication, and their name will go into the Philatelic Hall of Records.

Speaking of U. S. postage stamps used as revenue stamps, do you save pencancelled stamps of the different issues? This does not mean the stamps which are destroyed by a few cutting pen strokes; but some real penmarks with a meaning to them. Have you ever seen 3c 1851's cancelled in mss. with what appears to be the letter "S" with two vertical lines thro it? Looking like the $ mark; but probably intended as the monogram "US", they are often met with, and many save them for amusement, figuring that they will be of more value some day than they now are, probably rightly, as we are all out for perfect copies today.

Bank notes carried a revenue tax of one-tenth of one percent after the Civil War revenue started. Then there were apparently fixed amounts for certain small amounts collectible. Have you any postage stamps used on documents for revenue? What is the highest amount of postage stamps you have "used for revenue"? That is the week's question, and doubtless many readers are interested in this question.

ACKERMAN RE-ELECTED.

Hon. Ernest R. Ackerman, the well-known philatelist, was re-elected to Congress from the 5th New Jersey District in a veritable landslide. He carried his home county, Union, with a majority of over 25,000 votes and the entire district gave him a majority of more than 60,000. It is interesting to note that Plainfield, the home city of Senator Ackerman, gave him a majority of 4,500 in a total of 7,800 votes. The congratulations of a host of our readers go to Mr. Ackerman in his success.

—One of our subscribers, J. Rausch, of San Francisco, Calif., wrote the P. O. Department suggesting a 12c stamped envelope for registered mail. Mr. Glover replied, stating that the matter is being considered by the department.

Congo Free State

Practically all of the stamps of this African colony of Belgium are beautiful in design and fine examples of the engraver's art. Always popular and fast sellers, few dealers seem to have any variety of them and we have been to considerable trouble to get this offering together. Anything you require which is not offered give us a want list of and perhaps we can supply it.

UPPER SILESIA AND ITS STAMPS.

By REV. J. S. DALLMANN, 2509 Nueces St., Austin, Texas.

In the beginning of April, 1920, the second edition of the stamps of Upper Silesia made their appearance. These are the stamps Nos. 15-31, in Scott's catalogue. These stamps, too, were printed in Paris, and were issued in sheets of 150 in the lower values (2½-40pf) and of 75 in the higher values (50pf-5Mk). These stamps were issued on thin and thick paper and without an exception in different shades. The latter is due to the fact that all the stamps had repeatedly to be reprinted as sufficient quantities had not been provided for. In connection with this I should like to draw the attention of the reader to the fact that the first issues of these stamps had a yellow-brownish or brown-gray gum, whereas, in the later editions, it was gray-white.

On Sunday, March 20, 1921, the plebiscite was taken, which was to determine whether Upper Silesia was to stay with Germany or join the Republic of Poland. For this occasion the above stamps were surcharged: "Plébiscite 20 mars 1921." On the lower values the surcharge is in three lines, and on the higher ones, in two lines. The surcharge is red on the 25, 40 and 50pf values. On all the other values it is black. This surcharge also was made at the local printing shop at Oppeln. The writer has, in his childhood days, often been in that place, and has tried to get stamps from the owner who also had a stationery store, and kept up a rather extensive correspondence. Little did he dream at that time that nearly forty years later some of the rarest stamps would be made on those modest premises. The Plebiscite stamps of Upper Silesia are listed in Scott's catalogue from Nos. 32-42. They were issued in the following quantities: No. 32, 200,100; No. 33, 200,100; No. 34, 200,100; No. 35, 40,000; No. 36, 100,050; No. 37, 100,050; No. 38, 40,000; No. 39, 30,000; No. 40, 30,000; No. 41, 30,000; No. 42, 30,000.

These stamps were only sold on the day of issue, i. e., March 20, 1921, and only in very limited numbers. To each customer no more than either all the lower values, i. e., from 10-40pf were sold or one copy of one of the higher values. Officials of the post-office who had seen less than 25 years' service could acquire only the lower values, and such with more than 25 years' service could buy a complete set. But there were some rural post-offices where the demand was not so great for these stamps, and one can find occasionally blocks of these stamps in an unused condition. The writer owns almost a complete set of blocks of four.

As the stamps have been sorted out very carefully, there are only very few misprints known. There exists No. 35, 25pf and No. 40, 75pf with inverted surcharges. Of the former, one sheet had been surcharged inverted (150 copies, and of the latter three sheets, 225 copies). Writer also owns a double surcharge of No. 32, 10pf, one normal and one vertical. The corner of one sheet was bent, and this accounts for the double surcharge of a few stamps.

These stamps have been faked by unscrupulous dealers. More than 50% of all of these stamps are faked, and the collector is warned to get these stamps only from reliable sources. The surcharges on stamps with grayish-white gum are always forged, as the stamps Nos. 15-31 have been supplied with this kind of gum after the plebiscite.

When, in 1922, the German money began to decline, and in Upper Silesia, German currency was used, the postage rates of Upper Silesia had to be conformed to those of Germany. For this purpose new stamps had to be issued. The authorities helped themselves by issuing the Nos. 25-27 in new colors. Thus, the 60pf was issued in olive-green instead of blue, the 75pf in red instead of deep green, and the 80pf in orange instead of red brown. These stamps were surcharged 4 Marks, 10 Marks and 20 Marks respectively. They were printed in new colors to make forgeries impossible, and these new colors cannot be found without the surcharge. These stamps which are listed as Nos. 45-47 in Scott's catalogue were issued in the following quantities: 4 MM on 60pf, 600,000; 10 M on 75pf, 450,000 and 20 M on 80pf, 300,000. There is another variety of the No. 45 which has a line across the center, and which could be catalogued 45a. The remainder of all the stamps from Nos. 15-47 were destroyed after the Inter-allied Commission had left, when the stamps of Germany took their place. The extreme Eastern part of Upper Silesia was ceded to Poland, and as under a treaty the money of Germany was to be used in this part, the government of Poland had to issue special stamps for this part, which is known as Polish Upper Silesia. These stamps are listed in the catalogue from nos. 170-191 of Poland.

I have mentioned above, that during the occupation by the Inter-allied Commission, the French intimidated the German population in every way, and encouraged the Poles. The Poles who received arms and ammunition from the French, terrorized the German population to an extent that many Germans left Upper Silesia. On the other hand, irregular troops were allowed to come into Upper Silesia from the Republic of Poland. The Upper Silesians who were in favor of Upper Silesia becoming Polish, made Korfanty, a member of the Reichstag of one part of that district, their leader. Korfanty had many a conference with the members of the Polish government, and finally, on the 5th of May, 1921, a revolution broke out under his leadership in the southeastern part of Upper Silesia. Like in Mexico and other countries, the revolutionaries had issued their own stamps. These are listed as Nos. 301-307, among the stamps of Upper Silesia in Scott's catalogue. It is to be stated that a mistake has been made by the compilers of the catalogue. These stamps are called in the catalogue "Occupation Stamps," issued under Polish occupation. This is, however, wrong. They ought to be called "Insurrection Stamps," as they were issued by the insurgents, and Poland has never occupied officially any part of Upper Silesia, with the exception of the part that was ceded to her, and this was only done after the surrender of this part to her by the Allies. The stamps are, however, a proof of the fact that the insurrection had been prepared long beforehand, and this could only have been done with the assistance of the French. As mentioned already, the revolution broke out on the 5th of May, 1921, and it lasted about six or seven weeks, i. e., to the end of June of the same year. From the first day of the revolution the insurgents issued their own stamps, as these stamps had been printed in a little village by the name of Miarka. This place has almost no traffic facilities, and there is no printery there. It would have taken some time until the revolutionaries would have got all the material and machinery to print stamps, and the revolution would have been over long before the first stamp could have been issued. Moreover, all traffic and communication possibilities were cut off from the very first day of the insurrection.

The Insurrection stamps were issued both imperforate and perf. 11 1/4. They have white gum with the exception of the 60pf value, whose gum is of a yellowish color. These stamps were used for postage in the territory held by the insurgents as well as for abroad, with the exception, of course, of Germany, which country did not recognize the insurgent government.

We now come to the official stamps of Upper Silesia. As mentioned above, the Inter-allied Commission entered Oppeln on the 12th of February, 1920, while the first stamps for Upper Silesia arrived on the 20th of the same month from Paris. During this time the civilian population could use the then stamps of Germany (Germania type), while the stamps used by the Inter-allied Commission were surcharged with a hand-stamp C. I. H. S. in a circle. These stamps, being the first stamps of Upper Silesia, must necessarily be classed as official stamps. From February 20, 1920, no more stamps of Germany were accepted for postage, but people in possession of such were given time to exchange them for stamps of Upper Silesia until the end of February.

About the middle of April, 1920, the official stamps of Prussia, Scott Nos. 209-215, were also introduced into Upper Silesia. They were surcharged, however, with the following surcharge in black: C. G. H. S., i. e., Commission Gouvernement Haute Silésie. The surcharge has a shining or dull finish. This surcharge was made in the same printing shop where the other stamps were surcharged, at Erdmann Raabe's, Oppeln. There were two kinds of plates used, a horizontal and a vertical one. As these plates were not ready when the stamps arrived, the stamps were surcharged for a few days with the type being used for surcharging revenue stamps. This surcharge can easily be distinguished as it is much larger, and it is only vertical. This edition is called "Museums Ausgabe," i. e., museum edition. This edition, which has not been catalogued in Scott's catalogue, is rather scarce, and will be good property ere long.

The surcharging of these stamps was done in a very careless way. There are the following varieties of surcharges: horizontal normal, horizontal inverted, horizontal double surcharge, double surcharge, one horizontal and one vertical, vertical reading up, vertical reading down, double vertical reading up, double vertical reading down.

When later in the year the same official stamps were issued for the whole German Empire, Scott's 551-561, the official stamps of Prussia were discontinued in Upper Silesia too, and consequently the German stamps were surcharged the same way as those of Prussia were for Upper Silesia. Indeed, the same plates were being used for the surcharge. There are the following varieties: horizontal normal, vertical reading up, vertical reading down, horizontal double, horizontal inverted, vertical double reading up, vertical double reading down, horizontal and vertical. There are, of course, many minor varieties, which to enumerate would lead too far, and which are only of interest to the specialist.

Stamp collectors were sickened the last few years by the continual appearance of new stamps, many of which were indeed unwarranted. The stamps of Upper Silesia were discontinued on July 9, 1922, after the Inter-allied Commission had left that hard tried country. Here is a field for the stamp collector where he will not be bothered with new editions, and which at the same time gives him such a large field that specialization is indeed justified. There are quite a few stamps which were issued in a very limited number, and which are at the present time yet available for the moderate pocketbook. In a few years some of the stamps of Upper Silesia will be beyond the reach of the average collector.

Collectors should, however, be careful and buy these stamps, especially the higher priced ones, from reliable sources only. The writer is prepared to examine stamps of Upper Silesia at the rate of 5% of their value, but he charges not over $5.00 for the higher priced ones, postage and registration extra.

EDITORIAL.

While at the Detroit convention we had the pleasure of examining some of the choice volumes in the philatelic library of Mr. W. R. King of Grand Island, Nebraska. Mr. King was kind enough to bring to the convention for our inspection a number of works that he thought would be of interest to us. Included in this little collection was a copy of "Des Filigranes dans Les Timbres-postes," by the celebrated Dr. Magnus, the nom de plume of Pierre Mahe, published in 1867. This work was of particular interest because in the fly-leaf of the book was the autograph of J. Brander Matthews, the well known writer and educator of New York. We do not know whether inquiry has been made of Dr. Matthews as to whether he was a philatelist in the early days, but in view of the circumstances of the name in the French catalogue of watermarks that he must have been. Mr. King had Oppen catalogue of January, 1863, the Mount Brown interleaved catalogue London, 1862, which came from the library of Alfred Smith and Sons, Bath, and a copy of the first edition of Bellars and Davies' Guide, first edition of 1864. There were other interesting and valuable pieces, all of which proved that Mr. King is entitled to all credit as a philatelic literary antiquarian.

Collectors do not need to be told that the early issues of Mauritius are among the best known, and withal, fascinating stamps that are in existence; and the force of the observation is emphasized when we apply it to the famous classics, the one and two pence "Post Office" stamps of 1847. It is indeed a source of gratification to find that in the London Philatelist, "A Study of the Early Postal Issues of Mauritius" is begun. The writer is the Rev. C. S. Morton, M. A., who gives acknowledgments to the work of the late Major E. B. Evans in the preface to the article, which is assuredly one of the best considerations of its subject that has ever been attempted. The time is propitious for the appearance of an article on these early Mauritian issues, with especial attention to the first of the two stamps; and we believe that the study will bring out all the known details connected with the stamps or having bearing on them, as well as deductions concerning them. The writer says that he has spared no effort in examining all official documents that were likely to furnish any information, as well as the transitory literature of the time, to which he could gain access; and we have no hesitation in saying that he has begun a noteworthy addition to the store of stamp literature. Notwithstanding that it has been said by an authority that in an historical and philatelic sense these stamps had been thoroughly covered, we are sure that the present commentary on them will show that they have not been as fully described in all their phases as might have been thought. There are interesting sidelights in the first installment, and the quotations from official reports and periodicals of the time give an intimate view of the conditions that obtained then, together with a view of the public mind in its regard for the stamps. We find that the ball, celebrated in philatelic history, the invitations to which were paid by the "post office" stamps was on the night of September 30, 1847, and not in the month of October, as reported, but the author says that it is impossible to gain any information as to the details of the affair, except "an official notice as to where the carriages had to set down the guests. 'Sic transit gloria mundi.' As the writer philosophizes, the hostess would have regarded with dubious mind the thought that years afterwards the whole interest in the gala occasion would have been 'summed up in a square inch, unless she had reflected that 'tis on little things great adventures hang.' It is remarked that the stamps of the first colony to issue them are worthy of mention, to put it somewhat sedately. The article is a continued one; and it is most welcome.

A clipping from a San Francisco paper says that the postmaster of that city was under the necessity of seeking counsel from Washington, when in the regular order of business he was confronted with the problem of deciding upon an application for transportation as mail of Chester N. Weaver of San Francisco, weight 184 pounds, who wished to be sent by air to New York at prevailing air rates, amounting to $718.08. The postmaster is at his wits' ends as to know what to do, and already his active mind is puzzled by the question of what kind of stamps to affix on Weaver and "whether they would have to put him through the cancelling machine and whether he should be regarded as first or second class matter. This latter was a diplomatic question, also did the air service provide for the feeding of hungry mail". It is said that legally Weaver's request is within his rights, "for the law obligates the acceptance of all offers of mails." We do not know what the postmaster thinks about it, but we say that Weaver is one of the best advertisers that ever came within our ken and that we wish he were on one of the philatelic publicity committees.

* * *

The following quotation from an interesting book by Muriel O. Davis, "Outlines of European History" (Clarendon Press, Oxford, 1922), contains many illustrations of stamps as a means of providing pictures of European rulers, etc., as for example, Gustavus Adolphus, Sweden, last issue. Peter the Great or Catherine, Russia, Romanoff issue. Three issues of Belgian stamps with heads of the three kings. Imperial and Republican stamps from France. German stamps two and five marks, stressing unity. Map stamp of Canada—typifying imperialism. U. S. A. Columbian issue three cent, to cover discovery of New World; parcel post U. S. five and twenty cent, mechanical progress. Greece Olympic Games stamps, "the glory that was Greece", Tunis issue with Carthaginian galley, one time greatness of North Africa. The idea is a clever one and should attract favorable attention.

THE AMUNDSON POLAR FLIGHT.

By BEVERLY S. KING.

I had the pleasure the other night of dining informally at my club in New York with Captain Roald Amundsen.

During the course of a most interesting evening I murmured to the Captain that I and possibly a number of others had sent a postal card toward the North Pole in the hopes that it would make the trip with him by airplane and asked whether I might consider it "lost" or "delayed in transit."

"Well," said the Captain, "should you send a letter to San Francisco in the usual way and the mail train was held up in the Rocky Mountains by a severe snow storm, that would be 'delayed in transit'—you may consider this a similar case. 'All of the postal cards sent are being held at Christiania and I will take them over the Pole next June.'"

Captain Amundsen admitted being a "stamp fiend" when he was a boy, but in later years he had neglected the hobby, possibly due to the fact that his journeys North and South had taken him to countries where there was little opportunity for the "under-paid letter carrier" to wear out his legs.

DEATH OF A. E. LANDVATTER.

It is with sincere regret that we are compelled to announce the death of Joseph E. Landvatter, secretary-treasurer of the firm of V. Mozian, Inc., N. City, which occurred Wednesday, October 22, at the Paterson, N. J., General Hospital, following a serious operation. The funeral services were held Friday, October 24, from his late residence, 58 Irving Pl., Passaic, N. J. In the Passaic Daily News appeared a lengthy account of Mr. Landvatter's career. From the fraternal standpoint he was also a member of the A. P. S. and the S. P. A., and president of the Passaic Stamp Club. He was also a member of the Collectors Club of New York. We reprint a portion of the article which appeared in the Passaic paper:—"Mr. Landvatter, a resident of this city for the past fifteen years, was born in Heilbronn, Germany, fifty-five years ago, on July 9. At the age of sixteen he came to this country for a few years served as a nurse at the Bellevue Hospital in New York City. He was later employed at the Stomach House, New York, where he remained for a period of ten years. For the past three years, he was secretary and treasurer of V. Mozian, Inc., New York, stamp concern. Before coming to this city Mr. Landvatter resided in New York for two years.

Mr. Landvatter was of a very quiet, reserved nature. His pleasant personality won for him friends wherever he went.

On October 7th he was planning to attend a wedding of one of his relatives, but instead went to bed with illness from which he never recovered."

Dates of Issue of Early Emissions.

In this column for last week, we enumerated the earliest known use of stamps of the 1851 issue, and we have pleasure in informing our readers this week of similar stamps of the 1857 varieties.

In the case of the 1c the earliest use of the stamp from any of the twelve plates is a copy used July 30, 1857. The common type V is not known previous to December 3, 1857. In the case of the 3c type I, which was supposedly issued on February 24, 1857, a copy has been found used March 4th of the same year. The earliest type II was used July 20, 1857. In the case of the 5c variety, the earliest brick red so far located was used November 2, 1858. The earliest red brown, April 13, 1858, and the earliest brown of the type I variety was used on August 20, 1859. In the case of the type II, a copy has been located used June 6, 1860.

The earliest date of the 10c type I is August 8, 1857 and of type II May 27, 1859. The earliest 12c, August 24, 1857, and in the case of the 24c, July 14, 1860. One, however, has been seen that reached Dublin July 21st, and which no doubt was used previously to July 14th. The 30c, which was supposedly issued on August 12th has not been found in a used condition previous to August 29th, although an auction catalog describes a copy cancelled August 19th. The 90c stamp was issued on the following day, August 13, 1860, and this has not been located used previously to January 26th of the following year, but of course it must be realized that this stamp is exceedingly rare on cover so that it is difficult to find them definitely used at a certain time.

BELGIUM.—Mr. Henry Hooreman sends us copies of the 10c postage due stamp. The color is now green and not yellow green as before.

CHINA.—Mr. R. Roberts advises that he has received the $5 re-engraved stamp, same type as the $1 but in new color. The shades are red and black and the printing is done by the Chinese Bureau of Engraving.

FALKLAND ISLANDS.—The Economist Stamp Co. call our attention to the 1d which is now being issued on script watermarked paper.

FRANCE.—The Economist Stamp Co. send the 65c, in the Sower type, in a rose red shade.

GERMANY.—The Economist Stamp Co. send for chronicle two more values of the stamp bearing the likeness of H. Von Stephan. They are the 10pf green and 20pf blue.

MAURITIUS.—The 1R black on green, script watermark, has been issued. Mr. R. Roberts submits a copy for inspection.

MONACO.—The Economist Stamp Co. inform us that the 5fr value, design of the 1922 series, has been issued in a dark green color.

SEYCHELLES.—The Economist Stamp Co. and Mr. R. Roberts have shown us copies of the 18c purple on yellow, script watermark. Mr. Roberts also adds copies of the 75c black on green and R1.50c purple and blue on blue on the same watermarked paper.

NETHERLANDS.—The Exhibition stamps referred to last month turn out to be of the same design as the ordinary issue, but printed in different colours. The number printed was 60,000 sets, and all were sold out by September 15th.

Two stamps have also been issued to commemorate the centenary of the Royal Dutch Lifeboat Society, which was established in 1824. The designs are futuristic and it is necessary to explain that the two cents stamp represents two ships in distress, on the point of sinking, and the ten cents shows a lifeboat being launched to the rescue of the crews. All the above stamps are available for international postage.

Some journals have chronicled provisional Postage Dues of 1c on 1c, 2½c on 2c, 3c on 2½c and 5c on 4c. The Postmaster of The Hague informs us that no such stamps have been issued.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Bulletin.

A seven weeks' visit to Europe including London, Paris, Brussels, Amsterdam, Berlin, Vienna, Prague, Venice, Rome, Milan, Lucerne and Bale certainly should produce something worth while in the way of United States issues, and on my return I hope to be able to offer to my clients an even larger stock to select from than the one I now hold.

Those who are looking for the unusual as well as those seeking the normal should drop me a line to arrive on my return December 16th.

Those having fine things to offer should communicate with me, for if I visit nine countries seeking for the almost unobtainable, I certainly am in a position to pay even more for fine properties here.

What have you for sale? Early mint blocks especially wanted.

OHLMAN'S 100TH SALE.
M. Ohlman, the New York City auction dealer, is priding himself upon his 100th auction sale, held November 22, at office in the Morton Bldg. We received the catalog of the sale too late to participate in promoting the sale but desire to mention the fine catalog issued. It is handsomely printed in gold and blue, and the contents of the sale were of a high order. Out ninety percent of the lots were 19th century, and Mr. Ohlman felt warranted in calling this a "de luxe" sale.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—There is a letter at this office for G. M. Staplin.

—Jas E. Scott, of Detroit, Mich., for many years treasurer of the A. P. S., is mourning the loss of his daughter, Miss Lucille Scott, who came to her death in an automobile accident, November 2, near Windsor. Mr. Scott will have the sympathy of a large circle of friends in his bereavement.

—We are indebted to S. Hyman of Chicago, Ill., for specimens of the 45c carmine Pasteur and 75c blue Ronsard stamps.

—The Saturday Afternoon Stamp Club of N. Y. City, at its last meeting decided to become a clearing house of duplicate stamps designed for shut-ins at the Christmas season. W. O. Staeb, 89 Feronia Way, Rutherford, N. J., who is active in the affairs of the club, would

In the November issue of Current Opinion on page 584 you will see an article on the new issue of stamps for Greece. The stamp is illustrated in full. It has no lines thru the design like the law requires.—ELMER NELSON.

—We are indebted to Charles Lathrop Pack for a handsome full length photograph neatly framed, which will adorn the WEEKLY office in the future. The picture is a splendid likeness of this famous collector and we are grateful for the courtesy extended.

20th Century Offers

SETS, DESIRABLE SINGLE STAMPS, ETC.

In this list we offer you hundreds of varieties of 20th century stamps, sets, scarce single stamps, etc. Something for most any general collector. We regret space does not permit us to offer more here. Others will be advertised later. Anything you do not see offered, tell us what it is. Everything in first class shape and goods not satisfactory are returnable. We have tried to offer only items of which we have a sufficient stock to meet ordinary demands, but would appreciate a small second choice order, when possible, to be used in case anything becomes sold out.

These are getting scarce and hard to get. We lack correct information as to the quantity of issues, and even now after over 10 months since ARMENIA has ceased to issue any stamps, very often one sees many new varieties reported in Scott's "Monthly Journal."

Azerbaijan

This young country of "HAMSHARY" on the border of Caspian Sea, and rich with "oil", not banana but pure "kerosine", has not issued as many stamps as other border countries did and is bound to fluctuate in prices. Seldom offered on the market in any noticeable quantity. Of the first issue here exist dangerous counterfeits (product of Italy) and again some "Recounterfeits" in Germany from the "Italian" counterfeits. In this column we offer some scarce items. Scott has removed Nos. 211-214, which never existed. We still hope that the Scott Cat. will exclude from 1926 edition Nos. 201-217, now authoritatively known to be "clever" speculators' printed labels to become "quick rich Wallingford."

ADLETS.

Minimum two lines.

This column is for the use of our patrons who desire only a few lines of space. If you want to buy, sell, exchange, it is without doubt the best advertising medium in the world. It is impossible to guarantee advertisers in this department, and patrons must satisfy themselves as to the reliability of the parties with whom they desire to engage in business relations.

RATE.—30c per line, cash in advance. No display allowed. Six words (32 letters) to the line, including address. We offer 50 lines for $12.50, where cash is paid in advance. This space can be used at such times and in such quantities as may be desired.

TO LONDON AND WATERHOUSE SALE.

By PHILIP H. WARD, Jr.

Promptly at 11 A. M. on Saturday, November 1st, the White Star Line S. S. "Homeric" sailed from New York with Edward Stern, Herrman Toasperm and "yours truly," enroute to Southampton and the Waterhouse Sale.

Through the thoughtfulness of Mr. Alexander Holland, our fellow philatelist, who counts among his friends the President of the Steamship Company, we were given special accommodations. Thanks! Mr. Holland. You made the trip more enjoyable.

We had wonderful weather the entire way and with the exception of one evening when one side of the boat tried to reach the other, the trip was smooth. Plenty to eat and drink.

On Friday evening, November 7th, we had a special banquet and all other trimmings in honor of Eddy's birthday—Eddy is ? but he does not look that old.

We reached Southampton Saturday evening and were in London by night. That good scout, Frank Godden (and there is no better on either side of the water), a real English Yankee, met us at the hotel, having made all arrangements for our accommodations. I have much to tell you about him and the other London dealers but that will be covered in another story, for the first session of the Waterhouse Sale has taken place and I want these notes to reach America as soon as possible.

The first session of 233 lots was sold today (November 11th), and brought in the neighborhood of £5,633 (exchange rate on pound today is $4.62), and of this amount your editor was fortunate in getting in excess of £1,000. About fifty were present at the sale, including Stern, Toasperm, Paulson, Tittman and Ward from America.

The finest thing in today's session and no doubt in the entire sale was a magnificent block of eight of the 5c 1847, with large margins on all four sides, beautiful deep color, bright red cancellation and stitch watermark. Frank Godden sold this to Sir Nicholas only a few years ago at £60 and today I paid £760 ($3,500.00) for it. It is the largest used block known and in my estimation one of the finest U. S. pieces in existence.

This day's sale was devoted entirely to the New York, Providence and St. Louis postmasters, together with the 5c and 10c 1847.

Stern was one of the largest buyers of the 5c black New Yorks, he having purchased no less than thirty-one copies. Singles sold well, bringing from £9 to £24, depending upon the plate position and cancellation. A perfection horizontal pair with "PAID" cancellation, one showing double line at bottom sold at £100; a strip of three, fine condition from Crawford Collection, sold at £76.

Another strip not so fine sold at £50. The reconstructed sheet which certainly could not be considered fine sold at £350 to a Mr. James. Mr. Armitage paid £30 for a very beautiful horizontal pair, while a fine vertical pair showing the double line variety with "PAID" cancellation sold at £90. One on cover to Sardinia per Cambria, a really fine piece was bought by Stern at £14, one on the cover to London was bought by Mr. King at £15. Three copies of the originals were classified as reprints and it is surprising that they were not noticed by more collectors.

A 5c Providence on cover to Sheffield, very unusual used abroad, was bought by Godden at £135. Mr. Butler bought a complete sheet at £17, while the reprint sheet, early first reprint, sold at £2. Toasperm and Godden each paid £26 for a 10c greenish St. Louis on grey paper, while Stern paid £56 for a 5c on pelure. He paid £58 for a beautiful 10c with red town cancellation.

In the 1847 issues prices ruled strong for these deservedly popular stamps. Copies of the 5c off cover sold up to £12 per stamp, this price being paid by the writer for a wonderful copy, sharp impression showing two "STEAM" cancellations. A pair with "STEAM" postmark was purchased by Mr. Logan at £22, this being of another type. Paulson picked up some nice copies, including a magenta, described as violet grid at £7. The block of eight previously described, sold at £760, while a block of four, creased on face of cover, sold at £150. Four single copies on cover postmarked Philadelphia with numeral "20" was purchased by Mr. Seeley at £34. The earliest dated cover, "10 July" 1847 was purchased by Mr. Godden for an American client at £27. I can guess the collection this will rest in.

The 10c value went well, all fine single copies selling at good figures. Paulson paid £56 for a vertical pair on cover addressed to Quebec; Godden, £120 for a wonderful pair off cover cancelled "19"; while the choice piece, namely, the cover with a strip of three 10c and a single 5c addressed to Belgium will come to America at £175. Four singles on cover, one copy with double line at bottom will reach the same destination at £70. Two copies of the 10c and one 5c on small piece was purchased by Stern at £17. A fine single used on the Blood's envelope sold at £31. A sheet of fifty described as a "reprint" but undoubtedly a gummed proof of some type, in lovely condition sold at £75.

Taken all in all, the Americans present did well at the first sessions and as a result many of the wonderful items from the collection of Sir Nicholas Waterhouse will rest in American collections.

We want, in the worst kind of a way, to buy an unused copy of a Hayti stamp—

OUR REVIEW.

We have received from Sefi, Pemberton & Co., Ltd., London, England, a set of philatelic works that impresses us deeply. We have for consideration the "Stamps of Norway," "Chile: Notes on the Gillett Lithographs of 1854," "Priced Descriptive Catalogue of the Stamps of Greece" and the "Stamps of the first issue of Brazil," and even though we are making belated mention of these worthy productions, we shall endeavor to give the credit deserved to each member of the quartet. The "Stamps of Norway" is divided into two parts, part one being "A Contribution towards the Study of the Issues of 1877-78" (shaded posthorn), by Justis Anderssen, while part two is devoted to a discussion of the "Plate Variations of the Issues 1894-99," by Justis Anderssen and Gunnar Kjos, translated by Benjamin Goodfellow, F. R.P.S.L. The stamps of Norway are particularly attractive to a large number of collectors on this side, and information concerning shaded posthorns has always been in demand. With the plates of illustrations, it becomes a pleasure to follow distinctions almost impossible to reflect accurately in text, while the different types shown of the thirty-five, fifty and sixty ore are enlarged sufficiently to admit of ready comparison. All in all the history of the shaded posthorn of the 1877-78 issue is carefully presented, and no one with an eye for the under-lying details of stamps could read the account from first to last without philatelic improvement. The second part gives an exhaustive review of the variations to be found in the 1894-1900 issues with information statistical and scientific as to the smaller aspects of the stamps in a manner significant to philatelists. The price of the stamps of Norway with four loose plates is four shillings and six pence net; publishers, Sefi, Pemberton and Co., Ltd., 12 South Moulton Street, London, W.1, England.

We have a work that in picture and by text covers the subject of the lithograph 5c of Chile first issue in a most thorough manner. The book is: "Chile. Notes on the Gillett Lithographs of 1854," by Fred D. Walters. There are eight pages of printed description and seven full page plates of stamps that in the aggregate show every conceivable variation that could be imagined on these interesting stamps. The writer explains that it is not an easy task to get enough specimens of the stamp together for extended study, but he is entitled to assume that his holding of about 100 lithographs affords a foundation for his estimates. We remember when this lithographed stamp was first discovered about twenty-five years ago, and at the time we said that collectors had no particular reason to feel chagrined that they had not discovered this lithographed stamp before. Mr. Walters says that it is not any too easy to distinguish the lithographed stamp from its finely engraved fellows, even though the accepted differences possessed by the lithographed, such as the appearance of flatness and the smoothness of paper to the touch are kept in mind. After mentioning clues afforded by "Colon" and "Chile," he says that he considers the tinfoil test to be final. That is, if a piece of tinfoil when pressed on the stamp gives no impression of the design, then assuredly the stamp is a lithograph. The author mentions nine shades, four of which he calls "the more usual shades," while five shades are described as "all scarce." The specialization concerns itself with three sections enumerated as follows: "distorted letters and numerals," "inset corners and broken frames." Thus, with the stage all set by Mr. Walters, the serious collector of the early Chileans, of whom there is a good number, has every opportunity for the play of research in a most interesting phase. We are speaking for many collectors when we say that this work on the lithographed stamp in question is a practical as well as an artistic monograph. Chile: price 7s6d. Sefi, Pemberton & Co., Ltd., London, England.

One of the most instructive little works that we have seen for some time is the "Priced Descriptive Catalogue of the Stamps of Greece," by P. L. Pemberton. The classification adopted by Mr. Pemberton is a new one and has the merit of logical sequence. Before the stamps are considered in detail an introduction tells of the general history and production of the earlier stamps which from the beginning of philatelic time have occasioned no little difficulty on the part of those who would discriminate between the printings. With the illustrations and notes the reader will get a very good idea of the outstanding differences between the issues, and if he will study the pictures and text carefully, it will not be long before he will be graduated into the enviable class of those who can really feel at home among the complexities of the stamps of Greece. It is needless to say that the pricing of these stamps by the competent authority of Mr. Pemberton adds to the value of the book, if for no other reason than to afford a basis for comparison. Price, one shilling.

One of the most significant works on stamps ever published is "The Stamps of the First Issue of Brazil" by Lieutenant-Colonel G. S. F. Napier, in a limited edition of two hundred copies. An idea of the splendid range of this book of well over one hundred broad pages may be gained by the fact that there are forty plates of illustrations of the three stamps comprising the first set of one of the pioneer stamp issuing countries of the world. Lieutenant-Colonel Napier in his introduction tells how he gathered material through his own efforts and those of a number of American collectors, as well as Charles J. Phillips. After calling attention to the dearth of records of these stamps, he mentions discoveries made latterly, after he had concentrated his interest on the issue; and as one follows the story of the stamps, one realizes the great enthusiasm and philatelic acumen that the author has for his favored objects. Chapter two tells of the production of the plates and it seems as though the credit for their existence should be bestowed on some unknown engraver in the United States. Then, Lieutenant-Colonel Napier proceeds with paper and other details to the main body of the book, the plating of the three stamps. Here it is impossible to do justice to the immense amount of detail work that is to be found in the descriptions first to last. We are certain that for scholarly attainment in a philatelic sense, the author has placed his name high on the scroll of achievement; and it would be futile for us to attempt to peck here and there at the subject that has compassed so well. The chapter on "Obliterations" with its illustrations of postal markings is of particular interest and gives information that is indispensable to the collector who would understand the underlying postal significance of the stamps, and the "Appendices" are in themselves of historical value and philatelic worth. The book is a monument to the creator of it, Lieutenant-Colonel Napier, as well as to the publishers.

This book on Brazil has been received with deserved favor abroad and has gained marks of distinction, such as a gold medal at the London exposition and similar awards elsewhere. The price is fifty shillings and the book is cloth bound with forty plates in a loose case. It may be mentioned that the plates were produced by a new collotype process which shows every detail of the original design undistorted in any way. Published by Sefi, Pemberton & Company, Ltd., 1 S. This cover has been sent me by Mr. Hitchcock. It is remarkable in that it comes from a small town, the well-known town of Alexandria, Va., dated Aug. 23rd distinctly on each of the two copies, for it is a double rate letter.

Earliest Dated 3c 1861, PINK.

Dr. R. F. Chambers has sent record of the earliest Pink, it being dated Aug. 24, 1861, from St. Louis, Mo. His earliest cover with the 3c rose being from Philadelphia, Aug. 28, 1861, which is perhaps the record date from that town.

Mr. S. W. Richey has a cover bearing 3c 1851 dated July 1st from Boston, Mass. This is the first one so noted, from Boston, and is a particularly fine item, as in the letter the sender makes mention by a "P.S." that he is using the new stamp on the first day of issue. Mr. Richey also mentions having found a series of letters from a small town in No. Carolina, the town, month and day, with the year (1851), all being carefully written across the top of each envelope and stamp. They had no cancelling device, they did the next best thing. Here is something for collectors who spurn pre-cancelled copies to give more than a passing thought!

Shades of 3c 1861s.

About twenty years ago many lots of these stamps came to me on original covers. You have noted a wonderful range of shades, and colors, not counting those affected by oxidation, which have become brownish, an unnatural tone.

Of all these colors one stood out most prominently, this being the true pink, always carrying its illusive violet overcast, akin to the blush of a peach, as an Old-timer expressed it. From him the Salmon Pink was first brought to my attention. It is an indescribable color, and more rare than the true pink. Not over a dozen have ever crossed my path. The salmon color carries strongly; the stamp has all the appearance of a slightly worn plate, tho all detail stands out clear and distinct.

You will see 1c 1861s with this same worn plate appearance, where the white inside the color portion of the stamp has a dazzling prominence, quite unlike the regular printings. Both the 1c and 3c worn plate printings are beautiful, and rather uncommon.

Have you yet tried to make a page of 3c 1861s, each stamp well centered, lightly and prettily cancelled, and in the full range of shades? Take your time, and you can make a wonderfully pretty page. First you get for your lightest true color a stamp printed on a thick greasy feeling paper, they are always on this paper, and the color possibly failed to "take" properly. These are all shades of brown, light shades to be true, running into the dull rose. Then we have the whole range of in-between shades, Dull Rose, Bright Rose, Pink, Dark Rose, and the Brown shades, as per Scott Specialized.

There is a rich dark purple rose, as tho a bit of mulberry juice had been added to the printing ink, scarce and beautiful, and lastly comes the color approaching lake. In a lot of some 5,000 covers, mostly 3c 1861s, bought many years ago, I found sixteen covers all from Cincinnati, the postmarks in a dark blue, the stamp being hit with the heavy bar grid with the hole in the center, which you have perhaps noticed. These postmarks ran a bit over a month in this lot, being a series of business letters, and all were this same color, a near lake. It is not a particularly rare color, the reason Cincinnati is mentioned, being that blue was their cancellation color. Blue on a stamp is peculiar. It makes a True Pink look the part, while the same stamp with a smeary black cancel has no pep, you might even pass it by as not being pink.
Portland, Me., used a small neat double ring pmk. They were nicely applied, not jabbed on at a crazy angle, showing "PORT" in letters that skidded into black blots, and no "LAND" in sight. This is fortunate, as they had their full share of the True Pinks. Also their pmk. included the Year Date.
Some towns seemed to be favored with beautiful colors in this 1861 issue. I recall such as Unadilla, N. Y., a rich rose red. New Orleans after Federal occupancy, well centered deep rose shades. Boston early stamps of the issue, a range of dull rose shades, each with its little PAID in the rectangle, which make a beautiful page in any album. Nashua, N. H., with a range of the browns, and dark shades of red browns, etc., etc. Watch your shades, there are enough to make a full page, each in a different shade.

Query for this week:
What is your earliest 3c 1867 Grilled?

Congo Free State

Practically all of the stamps of this African colony of Belgium are beautiful in design and fine examples of the engraver's art. Always popular and fast sellers, few dealers seem to have any variety of them and we have been to considerable trouble to get this offering together. Anything you require which is not offered give us a want list of and perhaps we can supply it.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—"The Stamp Hinge" is the title of a house organ published by the Fellowship Stamp Agency, 940 Van Ness Av., Fresno, Calif. Sample copy will be sent on request.

—Ernest Slinger of Grenville, Grenada, suggests that it would be well for us to advise our readers that the postage to Grenada and other islands in the British West Indies is two cents and not five cents.

—Arthur H. Robertson of Chase City, Va., sends us a clipping from the Richmond Times-Despatch, in which a surety company official gives some interesting reasons for his belief that men with hobbies, the fat, and the very profane, make good risks. He declares that the man with a hobby is too busy to take other people's money, the fat man centers his thoughts on eating rather than dishonesty, while the violently profane man takes out his peevishness in swearing rather than stealing. Mr. Robertson writes us a personal word in which he states that he appreciates the compliment, being cashier of the First National Bank at Chase City and having several if not all of the attainments to which the surety company official refers.

—We are indebted to P. Short, Detroit, Mich., for two clippings from the Detroit Free Press, one of which is a picture of air mail pilot C. K. Vance with a parcel of auto parts shipped from Detroit to San Francisco and upon which the postage was $84.40. Mr. Short counted eighty-six stamps upon the parcel. Several of our subscribers have sent us this clipping.

—The Mail Bag for November contained an interesting article by Harry P. Bridge Jr. dealing with postage stamps as advertising. The article was nicely illustrated with pictorial stamps.

—The Y. Souren Co. has sent us a catalog of their 9th auction sale, to be held Friday, December 12th, at 4 P. M. at 145 Nassau St., N. Y. City. The catalog is a substantial book of 38 pages, describing in detail 641 lots of varied nature. The catalog will be sent free on request.

—Frank Godden's collection of stamps as displayed at the Wembley Exhibition will be shown at "Ye Mecca," Ludgate Hill, Nov. 20th, under the auspices of the London Stamp Club. Mr. Godden sends us a card of admission with the inscription "We expect you to ZEPP over," but as the invitation arrived upon the 17th there was insufficient time for us to comply with the kind invitation.

—Volume I, Number 1, of the Southern Philatelist, Richmond, Va., is at hand. It is published by the Dietz Printing Co., $2.00 per year, single copy 20c. Anything which appears from the Dietz Print Shop is a superb production from a typographical standpoint and this 32-page magazine is in keeping with the reputation of the house. The leading article deals with Confederate Stamps. While considerable attention will be paid to these issues, we are promised that the contents of the magazine month by month will be of a varied character.

—Our former advertiser, C. Lee Tubbs of San Diego, Calif., has entered into a co-partnership with P. A. Coppard and the firm will hereafter be regularly represented in our columns. A local downtown store has been secured and elsewhere in this issue will be found the initial advertisement of the new firm. Both partners are members of the important philatelic societies and Mr. Tubbs has been a member of the A. S. D. A. for several years.

—C. C. M.—In reply to your post card request for information we beg to say that the address of the firm in question is Ipswich, England. When a personal reply is desired, a stamped envelope should be supplied.

—We have received a clipping from H. R. Cruikshank taken from the St. Louis Post-Despatch. It announces a lecture by H. A. Diamant at the Sheldon Memorial on "What Stamp Collecting Teaches." To all who attend a package of stamps and a small album will be presented.

—Wendover Neefus, Hudson, N. Y., has just issued a handsomely printed pamphlet listing stamps of United States and Colonies in both fine and good condition. It will be sent to any address upon request.

—"You might inform that 'Early Collector' who is interested in knowing what has become of the noted eight prominent 'Early Collectors' mentioned, that one of these, Henry Hechler of Halifax, is still interested in matters philatelic, and is a member of the Nova Scotia Stamp Club, and in fact, official auctioneer thereof. Physically, he looks, one would judge, to be good for many years yet."—E. A. SMITH.

—The New York Times continues its good work in giving publicity to the stamp news, and it reviews recent auction sales in New York, giving prices of many of the interesting lots. We cannot impress too often upon our readers the fact that the Times is doing much for our cause by its able and generous treatment of our hobby.

—H. C. Meyer calls our attention to the fact that it is a bad practice for any firm to advertise at a low figure a stamp

METROPOLITAN STAMP CO., 7 W. 42nd St., N. Y. C.

A NEW YORK AUCTION SALE.

Postage stamp collecting has its surprises and romances and both played an interesting part in the auction sale conducted last week by J. C. Morgenthau in the rooms of the Collectors Club, 120 West Forty-ninth Street. Among the United States stamps was a choice lot of issues of the year 1857, which were purchased at face value sixty-seven years ago in a little Michigan Post Office by one of the pioneer settlers who is now more than 80 years of age. Among them was a fine unused block of four of the 5 cents, brown, which cost the owner 20 cents. A collector at the sale paid $490 for them and for a block of four of the 90 cents, of the same year, $510 was paid. A block of four of the 10 cents, the second type variety, brought $36.50 and an unused pair of the 24 cents sold for $33.50.

Mr. Morgenthau did not feel at liberty to give the former owner's name, but he stated that the old Michigan settler brought them to his Nassau Street office several weeks ago, saying that his boyhood collecting days were over and he wished to sell the stamps. They had been pasted down flat in an old book, something that advanced philatelists would not think of doing today, thereby erasing most of the gum on the backs of the stamps, and to specialized philatelists original gum means so much more financial value. If the original gum had been retained they would doubtless have brought slightly higher prices, but as it was, some of them sold for more than standard catalogue values and netted the owner a handsome profit on his early purchases.

The highest price of the sale was $810, paid for the $20 State Department stamp overprinted with the word "Specimen." Only seven copies of this type were issued. For the $10 State Department, similarly overprinted, of which only eight were issued, $650 was paid, and for the $5 State of the same type, of which twelve were issued, $260 was paid.

Another unusual feature of the sale was a consignment of several rare provisional issues of the Confederate States which had been discovered among the correspondence of a former Confederate officer. A splendid copy of the Nashville 10 cents, green, on a piece of the original envelope, used July 27, 1861, sold for $250. A Memphis five-cent stamp on the entire envelope sold for $65, and $50 was paid for a horizontal pair of the 5 cents, New Orleans, lightly cancelled. The high price of $72 was paid for a fine copy of the 10 cents, Confederate States being the first Government issue on the original envelope. The price was due to the exceptional cancellation, in one corner being the words, "American Letter Express Co., Nashville, Tenn." The letter was mailed in Nashville on Aug. 13, 1861, and the cancellation showed that it arrived at its destination, Richmond, Va., on Aug. 23rd. Another copy of the same stamp on the envelope sold for $35 and a pair of five-cent stamps of the same issue, on a patriotic envelope, sold for $27.

Good prices were also paid for rare foreign stamps, $145 being paid for a lightly cancelled copy of Madagascar stamp, 15 centimes surcharged on a 1 franc stamp, in 1895, being known as the Majunga issue, and $56 was paid for an early Mauritius stamp, 2 pence, 1859, which was $16 above the standard catalogue value.

The initial competition of the season arranged by the Collectors Club will be held on Wednesday evening at 120 West Forty-ninth Street. More than a score of members are preparing to exhibit several of the rarest stamps from their collections.—N. Y. Times.

BRITAIN BOOSTS THE EXHIBITION.

The English press is already giving the New York Exhibition of 1926 much publicity, and to Stamp Collecting belongs the credit of issuing a special number devoted to Anglo-American philately. The issue is filled with interesting matter, much of it dealing with the Exhibition and U. S. stamps, and our appreciation of this loyal support can best be shown by using with proper credit some of the articles found in the number that lies before us. Surely our English cousins are going to do their part in making this great Exhibition a success.

The Gibbons Catalogues list and price more varieties than any other catalogues in general use, placing the "Gibbons" user in a position of advantage in all philatelic transactions and enabling him to pick up many bargains, which will pay for the catalogue many times over in the course of the year.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11.—After he had been decorated with $718.08 worth of air mail stamps in anticipation of an air mail trip to New York, Chester N. Weaver, a San Francisco automobile dealer, was "barred from the mails" today by a ruling from Paul Henderson, Second Assistant Postmaster General.

Mr. Weaver was rejected as a piece of human mail when a telegram was received from the Second Assistant Postmaster General saying that "nobody is to ride in air mail except department officials." The telegram added that "sooner or later" it may be possible to carry passengers as part of the air mail service.—N. Y. Herald-Tribune.

EDITORIAL.

The Australian Stamp Journal says that in October, 1923, the landing of the first shipload of immigrants to the United States from Norway is to be commemorated in a manner to accord with the precedent established by the recent Huguenot-Walloon set. Without cracking a smile our esteemed contemporary adds: "The people of the United States have an extensive and varied ancestry, and if all of them are to be commemorated in this way, we anticipate that the Philatelic Bureau lately established in the United States will be kept busy for some years to come." We must admit that the prospect is not one that may be considered without a little catch of the breath. While we are all brothers in this country, we sometimes take undue advantage of the privilege that brothers have, to fight spiritedly among themselves, and if one nationality complains that another nationality has been honored with a postage stamp, the other nationality will make the welkin ring if denied similar distinction. However, the times are swift, and it may be that any day now, something will supplant stamps as the fashionable means of commemoration.

In looking over the circular showing international parcel post rates in connection with the different countries, we find that countries which were once so remote as to be almost only imaginary in our youthful minds are now within arm's reach through the magic of the postage stamp. Looking for high rates, there is little that calls for comment. We see that a package up to one pound may be sent to dear old Ascension Isle for 42c and a package of the same weight consigned to Kenya, Africa, costs but 66c, while Iraq or Mesopotamia requires 84c for a pound. Sierra Leone has a charge of 54c but the Solomon Islands are almost too moderate in its rate of 16c for the same service, when Uganda is in the 66c class. The highest rate for one pound is held by Tanganyika Territory, Langenburg and Songea, which is $1.08.

The collectors of air mail covers have called our attention to the fact that the government not only allows but recommends the use of special envelopes for enclosing matter sent by air. The envelopes to be used must be white, and their distinctive feature will consist of a band of red and blue across the face. We quote, "The stripes must not exceed approximately one-fourth inch in width and should extend entirely across the length of the envelope. The red strip must not be less than one and one-eighth inches below the top of the envelope in order that clear space may be left for the necessary postage stamps and post marks. The white space between the red and blue stripes should be approximately one-fourth inch in width so that the three stripes will not cover more than approximately three-fourths inch in all." The envelopes are not to be furnished by the department and they are to be available only for airplane carriage. We trust that some enterprising advertiser will be early with his offer of these special envelopes for the use of airmail cover collectors.

We are gratified to see that one of the largest department stores in St. Louis has been filling high-priced space in the local newspapers with ads wholly devoted to philately. One of these advertisements occupying ten inches is headed, "For the Stamp Collector," and offers packets of foreign stamps, albums and the catalogue in the book shop of Scruggs-Vandervoort-Barney. As Mr. R. H. Eilers says, the recent stamp lecture given in St. Louis was the means of showing the astute salesmen of the big stores that there is a strong philatelic demand. The talk or lecture that is referred to was given by Mr. Henry A. Diamant at Sheldon Memorial Hall on November 13, when the hall was filled to capacity and several thousand were unable to gain admission. We have it from a disinterested source that it was probably the largest audience that ever assembled at a stamp lecture at any time heretofore. It was demonstrated that there is a strong under-current of interest in philately that may be drawn easily to the surface. There were perhaps two boys and girls to every mother and father in the crowd. Mr. Diamant talked for over one hour and covered the subject in an interesting way, emphasizing as he did the practical application of philately as well as its pleasurable side. The human interest suggestions were made to advantage, and a big point was made of several drawings that had been prepared and thrown on the screen, showing the home life of collectors compared with the street life of non-collectors. The cost of the entertainment, including the packets, stamps and albums that were distributed, is approximately $250. The results of the activity shown by Mr. Diamant are worthy of commendation and we trust that we may soon be able to report that some other city has followed the lead of St. Louis.

In the Chicago Daily News of October 27, 1924, in the department of business advice which is conducted by Mary Elizabeth Allen and Harland H. Allen, the inquiry as follows was discussed: "Dear Mrs. Allen: I have been a stamp collector ever since boyhood. Now I should like to start a little stamp business to give me some income aside from my regular work. How should I go about it? Frank L." We are somewhat surprised to read the advice that is given the prospective dealer, and it is patent that the subject of commercial philately has been well considered by the one who gives the information. Beginning with the statement that much of the returns of the stamp dealer comes from the approval sheet trade, the inquirer is taken through the questions of source of stamp supply and ultimately, disposal, in a way to command respect; and the concluding remark that "Between approval sheets, small sets, and later an unpretentious sales room, perhaps as a department of the local bookstore, you may lay the foundations for a side-line which will bring you a comfortable living," is one to be advanced without fear of contradiction. We are pleased to see that the stamp business is known well enough to these counsellors to allow them to return an answer that is about technically correct.

MR. YOHANNESSANTZ AT BOSTON.

On Saturday, November 15, Mr. Yohannessantz of the Y. Souren Co., N. Y. City, made a visit to Boston and in connection with it visited Beverly. Mention of this visit is made elsewhere in this issue. This firm, of which our friend is the proprietor, has contracted for 5,000 lines of space to be used during the coming year and the full page advertisement of last week, coupled with this week's page advertisement, is an indication of what the firm proposes to do in coming issues.

K. N. Woodward, who is the auction manager of the Souren firm, attended the Winnipeg Stamp Exhibition and brought back with him a cup won in a contest calling for the ten best pages of any countries, beautiful and unique mounting of stamps to be the winning feature.

AMERICA IN MOTION.

Stirring up Public Interest in the World-Wide Exhibition.

By FRED J. MELVILLE.

By 1926 we shall probably be taking off our hats to America, we publicists and extensioners in the philatelic arena on this side of the Pond. Having decided to have an exhibition—I should say The Exhibition—no time has been lost in getting the boosters on the boost.

In the heat of mid-August the largest Convention ever held of the American Philatelic Society at Detroit proclaimed the unanimous support that American philatelists intend to give the exhibition, and the Detroit papers indulged in columns of "dope" explaining the "philatelic complex" from many divers but not unfriendly points of view.

One journal warned its readers. "Don't give Sonny any thousand-dollar bills this week; he'll buy stamps." Another tells us that "the crowned heads of stamp collecting dangled before one another their crown jewels" at the display.

Another tells of "hoary veterans of philately" with their "gummed Corots and perforated Raphaels" spending four delightful days (and nights) babbling strange words, the lingo of the hobby.

Where distances are great, as in the States, it is some achievement to draw 299 members to a Convention in mid-August. But the quickening sense of big things in the air for 1926 made everyone who is anyone in American philately want to be there.

During the Convention some of the publicity schemes for the Exhibition were divulged; some were put in motion.

Reel Number One, for example, chose the seat for next year's Convention—Los Angeles.

By the time our friends get to Los Angeles, the plot will be hatched, the scene-plot will be outlined, most of the leaders will be drafted, the supers engaged, and the Stars will be well rehearsed in the delights of stamp collecting.

Reel Number Two.—During this year's Convention advantage was taken of the presence of a young genius of the film world, Jackie Coogan, to present him with a collection of stamps. Of course, the little fellow isn't always smashing windows and playing up Charlie Chaplin; sometimes he is just as homey as a kitten, and stamp collecting may prove a real joy to him, and a comforting contrast to the excitements of work for the screen.

Reel Number Three.—Philately's Appeal to Youth! Motion pictures dealing with the lure of stamps, and the fascinating things stamps have to tell, are being planned, and these are to be exhibited to the school children of New York and the environs, and will probably be extended to cities far afield. There will be a corps of speakers who will be sent out wherever the films are being exhibited to give bright and interesting addresses on the subject.

The Final Reel.—In the happy ending of our multiple reel motion story you are invited to play an active part, you and your collection. The scene will be the spacious hall of the Grand Central Palace, New York, and your collection is wanted to take its place in the triumphant Pageant of Postage Stamps in October, 1926. You are wanted there as well to join a great family gathering, that of the world-wide-family and brotherhood of Philately.

So set not only your minds but your hearts on making a joyous pilgrimage, with your stamps, to Li'l Ole New York for the International Philatelic Exhibition of 1926. It will be a happy experience that will remain with you all your days.—Stamp Collecting.

A seven weeks' visit to Europe including London, Paris, Brussels, Amsterdam, Berlin, Vienna, Prague, Venice, Rome, Milan, Lucerne and Bale certainly should produce something worth while in the way of United States issues, and on my return I hope to be able to offer to my clients an even larger stock to select from than the one I now hold.

Those who are looking for the unusual as well as those seeking the normal should drop me a line to arrive on my return December 16th.

Those having fine things to offer should communicate with me, for if I visit nine countries seeking for the almost unobtainable, I certainly am in a position to pay even more for fine properties here.

What have you for sale? Early mint blocks especially wanted.

Transfer Clerk Cancellation.

In a recent Chronicle we gave quite a little information regarding the "Transfer Clerk" cancellation which we had described in a previous letter. Mr. Robert J. Wagner, connected with the post-office department, writes me a very interesting communication, giving further details, from which I quote:

"In small offices, or rather offices where junctions are few, all the mail to be transferred from one RPO to the other is put in direct pouches and taken to the post-office, and there put in the pouches of the second road. Do I make myself clear? Suppose, for example, a letter mailed here in Fostoria, for a town not on a direct thru railway, one for which a transfer from one RPO to another is necessary. The letter is put in a pouch which is made up in the local post-office, and given to the train; in this pouch, tied up in bundles are all letters which that road can handle, both to towns direct on that line, and all which can be reached by transfer to connecting lines. Now if the letter goes to another RPO (Railway Post Office), which is connected at a small town—here I mean a town where the amount of transfer mail is small, not size or population—the first RPO puts the letter in a pouch direct for the town, and there in the post-office the pouch is opened, the mail sorted and the transfer mail is put in proper pouch, which is dispatched on the second RPO. All this work is done in the Post Office itself. In larger towns, on the more important lines, where the amount of transfer mail is so large as to warrant it, usually where a union station is used, and all trains come into the one station, in addition to the local post-office, there is operated, at the union station, what is called a transfer office. RPOs coming into these towns make up two pouches, one for the post-office, and containing direct mail—that is for delivery in the town itself—and a second for the transfer station, containing mail for transfer to the connecting lines. This mail to be transferred to other lines, is worked, or sorted there and dispatched direct from that office to the connecting lines, saving the time necessary to transport the transfer mail to the post-office, and thence back again to the station, as well as expense of such transfer.

The clerks working in such transfer offices are called transfer clerks, to distinguish them from the regular post-office clerks, whose duties are naturally different. Sometimes they backstamp registered mail, to show its time of passing thru their office, and sometimes mail given them for dispatch is cancelled with their postmark, as mail posted on board mail cars is cancelled with the RPO postmark. Different sorts of postmarks or cancellers are used there, some with the name of the town, and "Transfer Registry Division," "Trans. Sta.," "Trans. Clerk," etc. etc.

Co-operation of Public in Handling Christmas Mail.

In the Postal Bulletin for October 27th the Third Assistant Postmaster General instructs postmasters to endeavor to secure the co-operation of patrons of their offices in following certain rules and regulations in order to facilitate the prompt handling, dispatch and delivery of mail during the Christmas holidays.

Request is made that postage be fully paid, that all address matter be plainly and completely written in ink, giving street address and box number wherever possible, and that the sender's return card should be in the upper left hand corner. Articles should be packed carefully in strong durable containers but they should not be sealed unless sent as first-class matter and should be marked "Contents—merchandise, 4th Class Mail." Parcels may be marked "Do not open value of 20, 30, 50 and 60 centesimi and of 1 and 5 lire, but will be sold at one and a-half times their nominal value for the benefit of the general fund of the Committee. The design will represent the four major churches of Rome, St. John Lateran, St. Paul-outside-the-Walls, Santa Maria Maggiore, and St. Peter's and the two scenes of the opening and closing of the Jubilee Door. The Times correspondent adds that this permission is contrary to the decree issued last year forbidding such methods of commemoration, to which was due the refusal, only a few months ago, of the request of the Philatelic Society of Turin that an issue commemorative of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the death of King Charles Albert should be made.—Stamp Collecting.

MALTA.—Replying to a question in the Legislative Assembly, Dr. Mizzi stated that the suggestion that a special stamp should be issued to commemorate the Eighteenth Centenary of St. Publius, first Bishop of Malta, would be considered.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

NEW ZEALAND.—Ish imperforate.—Ewens Ltd. have shown us an imperforate pair and inform us that a sheet sold at a small town post-office was discovered to have the three top rows imperf. (36 stamps) and the fourth row top and sides imperf. but bottom perf.—Philatelic Magazine.

NORTHERN RHODESIA.—Special series ordered.—We are officially informed that a copperplate series will shortly be introduced to replace the ordinary Rhodesian stamps which have been in use in the northern territory since Southern Rhodesia was given a series of its own. The Pence values will be of ordinary size, the shilling values slightly larger, and the Revenue values larger still. The design will consist of a medallion of the King's head surrounded by details representing local fauna and flora. The values will be:—Postage and Revenue, ½d, 1d, 1½d, 2d, 3d, 4d, 6d, 8d, 10d, 1sh, 2sh, 2s6d, 5sh, 7s6d, 10sh, 20sh. Revenue only, £2, £5, £10, £30, £50. The omission of the word "Postage" from the higher values will be appreciated. Colours have not been settled, except that none are to be on coloured paper.—Philatelic Magazine.

PALESTINE.—Postage Dues.—A new series to replace the local production is on order in London. It will be printed on Script paper in the following values and official colours:

- 1 millieme, brown.
- 2 millieme, pale yellow.
- 4 millieme, light green.
- 8 millieme, red.
- 13 millieme, dark blue.
- 5 piastres, purple.

New stock of 1, 3, 5, 13m.—Fresh printings have been made of the ordinary postage stamps of these denominations, all printed from Plate 1.—Philatelic Magazine.

PERSIA.—We have received from the Economist Stamp Co. a copy of a new design of a 12ch rose red stamp. The centre of the stamp pictures one of the native rulers. At the base are the words "Postes Persanes" and just above in each corner the value.

SWITZERLAND.—Mr. R. Roberts sends us four values of a new type that were recently issued. They are all of the same design as the 90c, noted in our No. 1765 issue. The three other values are the Fr. 1 20c rose and vermillion on rose; Fr. 1 50c blue and vermillion on blue and Frs. 2 grey and vermillion on drab.

TRINIDAD.—6d on emerald.—A colour change is about to be made here. The 6d value, hitherto purple and carmine on white, is on order printed in green and red on emerald paper. Script wmk., plate 1.—Philatelic Magazine.

OUR HONOR CLUB.

Dr. J. F. Emerson, Baltimore, Md.
E. J. Newcomer, Yakima, Wash.
Harvey N. Fiske, Cranford, N. J.
S. Yohannessiantz, N. Y. City.

Our record for this week is a very gratifying one and only tends to prove our assertion that there is no stamp publication in the world like MEKEEL'S WEEKLY STAMP NEWS. Others may make large claims, but it remains for the WEEKLY to produce the goods. There is an old saying that "talk is cheap," but when words of praise are backed up by five years renewals of subscription, without premium or inducement of any kind, here is hearty endorsement.

We are very pleased to enter as a member of our Honor Club, Joseph A. Lanahan, connected with the Department of Public Welfare in New York City.

On Monday, November 17, no fewer than four applications for membership in our Honor Club. Dr. Mitchell sent his check without a word of comment, as though it were the usual thing for him to subscribe for publications for five years at a time. Dr. Mitchell's interest in philately is well known and we are pleased to add his name to our membership list.

Dr. J. F. Emerson, 829 Park Av., Baltimore, Md., collects Brazil only. He writes us that he always enjoys reading our paper and looks eagerly forward to the receipt of his weekly copy. Dr. Emerson sends us a clipping from the Christian Science Monitor, which by the way is rendering philately good service with its frequent articles on stamp collecting.

E. J. Newcomer of Yakima, Wash., is getting a bit nervous about the near expiration of his subscription and to overcome the same he sends us a check for $5, accompanied by this word:—"If my MEKEEL'S should pass altogether out of my life there would be an aching void left in me somewhere. I don't know what that disease is, but you're the doctor and it's up to you to prescribe. I enclose check for $5 which I hope will provide treatment for some time, and only wish I could scrape up the wherewithal to effect a permanent cure."

Cranford, N. J., is the home of a number of real philatelists. One of them is Harvey N. Fiske, who has decided to join the "Hall of Fame." We take the liberty of quoting a bit from his letter:—"I am getting tired and a bit jealous of seeing my next door neighbor's name, I. V. T. Hillier, appear in this select class, so concluded I must also enjoy that honor. I drop in upon Mr. Hillier occasionally of an evening and I always find him and his grandson working on their stamps. Occasionally I see my friend, L. B. Mason, and enjoy looking over his splendid collection of locals on covers." We like, and we know you will like, this chatty little missive from Mr. Fiske. It is especially welcome to us, accompanied as it is with an application for membership in the Honor Club.

During the past week we had a very interesting call from Souren Yohannessiantz of the Y. Souren Co., N. Y. City. A pleasant conversation followed, in which Mr. Yohannessiantz insisted upon paying the fee for membership in our Honor Club. Although informed that he was entitled to a voucher copy of the WEEKLY he was determined that his name should appear in our list of immortals. We have a suspicion that our New York friend was feeling kindly disposed towards the WEEKLY in view of the fact that he had just sold to a Boston collector a complete sheet of Spain No. 1 which Mr. Yohannessiantz purchased some months ago at a Gelli & Tani sale for a big sum.

KEMAL STAMPS (Turkey in Asia)

Turkey, the sick man of Europe, has been cured by Kemal Pasha from his stronghold in Turkey in Asia.

This nationalist leader had a government within a government while the nations of the World were interested spectators to see which way the cat would jump before declaring themselves.

Kemal reunited Turkey and liberated her from foreign influence, Turkey for the Turks. The stamps of Turkey in Asia show all this. Lacking funds to print stamps from plates, Kemal seized upon the stock of revenues and by means of surcharges had them do postal duty.

We believe these are among the most interesting of the war issues and find them scarce and hard to complete. We have succeeded, however, in obtaining a unique unused supply of the major listed varieties, which we offer with guarantee.

Specialists furnishing want lists will receive any of the rarer varieties that we may be able to supply, including those not as yet listed. All these we will gladly send to parties asking for same.

NIGHT MAIL BY AIR ROUTE

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—The government has blazed the trail for an eight-to nine-hour overnight air mail service between New York and Chicago, both ways, it was disclosed by Carl F. Egge, general superintendent of the Post Office Department's Air Mail Division.

Routes have been mapped; terminals, way stations and emergency fields are being acquired; machines and personnel have been assigned; and all the powerful lighting equipment for night flying is being set up.

Colonel Paul Henderson, Second Assistant Postmaster-General, has ordered the new service installed early next spring, probably in April. This, said Mr. Egge, will give the government a "double-track" air mail system between here and Chicago and, with a transcontinental service covering 2720 miles, will make a total of 1905 miles over which night flying will be continuous.

ROME TO ISSU SPECIAL STAMPS.

ROME, Nov. 26.—The Government has finally decided to grant the request of the committee in charge of the arrangements for the Holy Year, and issue a special set of six commemorative postage stamps which will be on sale and recognized as valid for ordinary postage throughout the year.

The stamps will be of the face value of 20, 30, 50 and 60 centesimi and of 1 and 5 lire, but will be sold at one-and-a-half times their nominal value for the benefit of the general fund of the committee. The designs will represent the four major churches of Rome, St. John Lateran, St. Paul-outside-the-Walls, Santa Maria Maggiore and St. Peter's, and the two scenes of the opening and closing of the Jubilee Door.

This permission is contrary to the decree issued last year forbidding such methods of commemoration to which was due the refusal, only a few months ago, of the request of the Philatelic Society of Turin that an issue commemorative of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the death of King Charles Albert should be made.

U. S. Beer Stamps

A customer has given me an almost complete collection of BEER STAMPS to dispose of. There are 141 varieties, practically all in fine condition (which is very unusual with these stamps) and the collection probably could not be duplicated today for three times the price.

First check for $150.00 takes the collection. Money refunded without question if not satisfactory in every respect.

One of the Foremost Figures in the Advance-

Mr. Phillips does not hesitate to declare his belief in the United States

ONE BIG SOCIETY.

By FRANK L. COES.

It occurred to some of our "niteowls" that some statements I wrote into a letter the other day, relative to "One Big Society" in the U. S., would bear amplification, and I have been urged to amplify some remarks.

What I really meant in writing as I did was that the fraternity would be better off, the Philatelic part of the population would be better placed financially, politically, socially and fraternally if all our Societies could be merged. I intimated that it would take another Melville to do it.

Now comes our habitual offside talker with some thinks of his own so good that I turn them to you. Seize to me,
"Take the map and set your calipers to the scale at 500 miles, use London as a center and see what you get."

In a 500 mile circle from London we get the whole of the British Isles, Belgium and a good half of France, Hamburg and part of Germany and some of Switzerland. The British Isles alone are supposed to hold an estimated population of 40 odd millions.

12d BLACK CANADA IMPERFORATE PAIR.

In a recent issue of the WEEKLY we gave some of the particulars of the discovery and sale of a very fine imperforate pair of the 12d black Canada. It changed hands through Ronald M. Angus of Victoria, B. C. Mr. Angus amongst other things writes us as follows:—

"With regard to the owner 'Walsh' for whom I sold it, he is not of any great material interest to the story of the stamp. He is a man of a very retiring disposition and shuns publicity of any kind. Suffice it to say that his father was employed in the postal department at Ottawa at the time of the issue of the stamp in 1851 and apparently had an idea that they would be worth something some day. With this idea in mind he cut two singles and one pair from three sheets, selecting with great discrimination the left-hand bottom corner copies in each case with full sheet margin attached. The disposition of these four stamps makes an interesting story. He and set the calipers for 500 miles. Use San Francisco and New York for your first two circles. Make three more with Denver, Dallas and St. Louis for centers, and note that the Dallas circle radius hardly reached St. Louis or Mexico, the Denver circle does not lap the Dallas area enough to cover any very large stamp centers, and the St. Louis circle, while it takes the bulk of the Mississippi Valley, Chicago and Detroit, hits the New York circle a maximum of but a little over 100 miles.

"These five circles hardly cover three-fifths of the area of the U. S., which has a rated population of 120 millions (about), but any one of them has more actual land area (excepting the San Francisco circle) than the 500-mile radius drawn from London, and probably a third less population than Great Britain alone."

We are trying to administer these areas by means of a single society of collectors, whose efforts are duplicated by several smaller societies, all covering more or less the same enormous area.

If we had one big society, formed by merging the A.P.S. and the smaller ones, it would mean that the A.P.S. would have to do a little reforming and adjusting, but that in the end it would be bigger, better and busier.

Of course suggestions are like dreams and die "a bornin," but the changes sent one to a man of whom he knew nothing except that he resided in the U. S. and he never saw the stamp again or his money. This was a good many years ago. The second copy the son sold in 1921 to Dr. Gillies of Vancouver, for a comparatively small sum and it was resold in England shortly after. The pair which has just changed hands was brought to me with the request that I sell it for him on commission, which I did, and he is very well pleased at what I got for it as he is a poor man and needs the money."

Undoubtedly the owner of this fine pair of stamps will soon have his identity revealed to the philatelic public. Certainly some great exhibition will acquaint the fraternity with the name of the New York collector possessing the stamps. It is known that a pair of these stamps sold in a recent Ferrary sale at around $4,000 and it is safe to say that this pair changed hands at a similar quotation.

would not be so drastic or so radical that they would reduce either prestige, political weight or elasticity of service to members.

Probably the cry of "low dues" in the smaller outfits would and could be readily met by the increased revenue, or the numerical addition would allow administration with less per capita overhead. It is not unreasonable to suppose that there would be forced on the combination certain sectional or zone arrangements. It might be needful, in order to give prompter local service, to divide the area into three or four zones with sub-officers, sub-sales and administration offices, and to officer these zonal areas by residents. Of course these sub-agencies would be well, probably better, handled and officered if they had their own sub-conventions and their own zone elections, and their officials sent to the major convention would be sure to make things move fast, and because of the zone rivalry we would be sure to have valuable innovations, prompter sales, faster circuit motion, better protection against loss and fraud, and much other pertinent improvement.

Zoning would make the official positions in the parent body "regular jobs" with prestige and something bigger tied to them.

Zoning would in a measure remove sectional politics, personal spites and

Even with the establishment of a possible air service on a coast to coast schedule of 35 hours, the area is still too large to be as readily managed as a single system if we are to attain the popularity of the British institution of similar type.

tioned at the beginning of this letter, centered on New York. It has a local population of 40 millions, located in such close range that the work is intensive naturally. Its conventions at the most not over 450 miles away from the furthest member, get attendance which our nation wide ones cannot expect to have. The whole N. Y. circle may have 25 millions in it, but owing to our diversified population, a greater proportion of this number are valueless as possible supporters than in Great Britain's 40 millions. (These figures are purposely small and conservative; the British Isles were estimated at 46 millions in 1919.)

I intimated in that previous letter that the Moses for the movement suggested was either too busy, or playing golf. I have inside information that he is too busy improving other members' collections. That narrows the field down to a very few capable and brilliant stamp men. Such a result does not seem too Utopian or too visionary to be carefully considered.

SPECIALIZED UNITED STATES

Recent purchases of hundreds of copies of 3c '51s and '57s; scores of 10c '51s and '57s; dozens of 12c, 24c, 30c and 90c '61s; hundreds of 10c, 30c and 90c Bank Notes, from important sales in New York, Boston and London, have put the pep and vigor of youth into the specialized selections of United States stamps we send to those who are on our lists.

Of the 1847 issue we offer all listed shades of the 5c, including some very fine copies of the rare orange, the brown orange, and the deep orange brown; two best known shifts in very fine copies at $35 each; pairs in several shades at from $10 to $35; covers with both single and double rates. Of the 10c '47 some very fine singles both on and off cover, including shifts and other plate varieties.

1851, 1c, Types Ia, II, III, IIIa, IV. A number of pairs and strips; many shifts, all listed recuts, some colored cancellations, covers, etc. Probably 200 copies to choose from, at prices ranging from $1.50 to $150.00.

1851, 3c, about 2,000 picked copies in stock; more than 100 varieties of "shifts", including "Gents" on and off cover, "last three rows" of Plate III, extra and missing side lines plated complete on and off covers; "recut button", misplaced guide dot; pairs and strips showing varieties of recutting.

1851, 5c; some superb singles, a few strips of three.

1851-57, 10c, Type I. As fine a stock as exists, we believe, for it includes dozens of beautiful copies, pairs, strips, covers, all recuts, shifts, full scrolls, curl in X, curl on head, etc., and stamps whose future we so thoroughly believe in we would rather buy than sell.

12c, 1851—about the same story. Many fine copies, shifts, shades, cancellations, pairs, covers, a few on the very thin paper.

It seems useless to repeat the foregoing through the issues from 1857 to 1900. We can even offer to send selections of the 3c Vermilion or the 6c re-engraved 208a, blocks of four of either if you want them.

Collectors of cancellations are well equipped who find nothing worth having in our selections of 3c '57s, '61s, '69s, Bank Note Issues, or those hard-to-find 4c Reds and Greens, 5c Taylors or Grants.

For collectors of foreign stamps we have fine things in almost everything from Afghanistan to Zurich, but are particularly strong in early Canada, Great Britain, Holland, France, Baden, Saxony, Servia, Roumania, Cape of Good Hope, and Italian States.

For BARGAIN HUNTERS—whether you collect U. S. or foreign—our prices on ordinarily fine stamps make catalog figures seem mountainous in comparison. Tell us what you want, give us ordinary trade references, and we will do the rest.

THE FORUM.

By H. P. ATHERTON,
318 Main St., Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to 19th century United States postage stamps; Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

Before we go any further, this column is a continuation of the "Early Low Values Specialized" column, which was conducted by Mr. Bates. The word "Forum" is borrowed as it is much shorter, and it is the intention to follow the same lines as formerly. We are going to devote the space to Postage stamps, rather than to allied stamps, such as Revenues, Departments, Postage Dues, and the like, tho such items of unusual calibre will be mentioned from time to time, when they appear fanciful enough to please the Forum readers.

From letters sent me, there are some things which seem to puzzle the readers, one being "Shifts", or Double Transfers, the former name being shorter, will be used most often. For the unacquainted, a shift is some portion of the stamp which shows a confused bit of the same design being repeated in the regular design, or its margins.

This description, while not exactly technical, should catch you more easily than a purely technical definition. It is a doubling of a portion of the design, hence confusion. For example if a single transfer from the transfer roller on to the finished plate is correctly rolled in, this gives us a true and approved position in the plate—a perfect stamp being the result. Now if the workman who is rolling these into position finds that he has rolled one design into a position that is somewhat out of line with the rest of his rows, he immediately "hammers it out" (erases) of the plate, so far as he can see at a casual glance, then he adjusts his transfer roller so that this impression will line up with the rest of the work done. The portion that he has not hammered out will print exactly as it exists on the plate, along with his newly made impression. It may be so well removed that only a small bit of a line or ornament exists, yet it is a shift, and the men who apply a glass to the stamps they study, are the ones who see all these shifts. To study shifts, one should first get as clearly printed copy of the stamp as they can possibly find, and study every detail of that stamp, even so that they can see it with their eyes shut. This is the basis to work from. Lines other than those that are on the normal stamp are as a rule "Shifts". They are always in the color of the stamp. White spots and lines are never shifts on engraved stamps.

Practically all of the stamps of this African colony of Belgium are beautiful in design and fine examples of the engraver's art. Always popular and fast sellers, few dealers seem to have any variety of them and we have been to considerable trouble to get this offering together. Anything you require which is not offered give us a want list of and perhaps we can supply it.

Another thing that creates discussion, usually unnecessary discussion, is a stamp like, say the 2c red brown Washington, of the 1883 issue, printed in red! Sounds unusual; but any impetuous youngster who soaks up a mess of U. S. with a goodly sprinkling of those 2c red 1890's, and in his hurry uses hot water, or warm water, will turn out some lovely shades of almost any stamp which is alongside an 1890 2c red. This will make any stamp "blush" or if in too long,

ANGLO-AMERICAN PHILATELY.

By DEREK INGRAM.

Today, with the misty mantle of November descending on us, our hearts warm to the sentiments expressed by this number, which is humbly dedicated to the cause of Anglo-American Philately. In this, as in language, leaning, and learning, the Old World and the New are as one, and we stretch out our hands across the foggy ocean to the philatelists of the United States in fraternal salutation. We rejoice in this our common heritage; climatic conditions are forgotten in the happy knowledge that nothing can gloom our high hopes for the philatelic future of our race.

If reason be sought for the choosing of a November day for this documentary declaration of our faith, there is reason enough in the important sales which are to take place in London this month of two outstanding collections—the one of Great Britain and the other of the United States. These collections, concerning which some further notes will be found elsewhere in this number, are virtually an epitome of that searching scientific study which has occupied the faculties of stamp collectors of both countries for more than half a century.

The dispersal of the magnificent collections formed by Mr. L. O. Trivett and Sir Nicholas Waterhouse may be viewed with regret by the disinterested spectator, but the enthusiastic British or U. S. specialist hails these impending sales with something tantamount to jubilation, such are their golden opportunities.

Scientific achievement and commercial transactions are by no means the only planks in the Anglo-American philatelic platform, however. Looming ahead is the New York International Stamp Exhibition, and American philatelists are already busily engaged on their self-appointed task of making this the greatest and most successful public stamp show ever held. It is up to their British cousins to co-operate in this ideal. America has proved herself a tower of strength in the cause of philatelic exhibitions, as adequately testified to at last the recent ones in Brussels, The Hague, year's International Show in London and and Christiania. It is our duty, and it should be accepted as our pleasurable privilege, to reciprocate to the best of our ability and to extend the hand of philatelic fellowship to our brothers and sisters across the Atlantic. There are a number of ways in which we can help to ensure the success of the Exhibition of

THE WATERHOUSE SALE.

By PHILIP H. WARD, JR.

In a previous issue the first session of the Waterhouse Sale was covered. Prices ruled equally high on the second, third and fourth days but there was not such a great number of bidders in actual attendance. It seemed that a good number turned out on the first day out of curiosity. The second session brought £2,720, the third, £2,363, and the last, £2,874, which, with the first day of £5,650, gives us a grand total of £13,607, or nearly $65,000. Most of the better things are certainly coming to America and almost without exception the very fine things were purchased by those from the good old U. S. A.

On the second day, the 1851 and part of the 1857 emissions were sold. Paulson purchased most of the 1c 1851 and obtained some very choice pieces. Mr. Armitage paid £25 for a mint block, type I, a pair of the type III, used, sold at £45, a horizontal strip of three, type II, showing cracked plate comes home at £62. Sterns paid £37 for a used block of six from plate 4, three being type III and three type IIIa. A cover with a strip of type Ib went to Mr. Armitage at £75.

In the way of the 3c, Mr. Roberts paid £22 for a beautiful used block of six while a wonderful block of eight with blue postmark found a new owner at £65. Copies of the 5c sold from £3.10 up to £16, the latter being paid by Mr. Logan for a superb copy with blue Albany postmark. The pair with "Yankee Jim" cancellation went to Paulson at £55 while Godden bought the strip of three from the Crawford Collection at £88.

The 10c unused recut top and bottom went to Stern at £27, while the block of 10c showing four stamps recut comes to America at £285. The beautiful block without recuts remains in England at £82. The block of eight 10c creased and torn was sold to a French dealer at £36, while the strip of ten and two strips of three, all from the same cover, brought £56. The bisected copy on cover sold for £49.

A very fine set of 1857, including the common types went for £17, while the re-issue complete found a new home at £28. The writer purchased the mint block of 1c type I at £50, while the used block type V sold for £21. The 3c type I seemed to have had the outer lines painted in and this brought £3.10. The 5c brown, described as a block but really reconstructed, sold for £46, while Godden paid £36 for a block of the brown stamp, type II. A vertical strip of three of the 5c brick red went to Kansas City at £20. A recent article in the American Philatelist stated that the earliest known cancellation in the 5c red brown was April 13, 1858. In this sale Mr. Armitage purchased lot 455, at £19, a strip of three, showing a French postmark of April 5, 1858.

Running into the third day, a strip of four 10c type I with red Philadelphia cancellation went to the same buyer at £22, while Mr. Logan purchased a used block of four at £42. The block of eight 12c with green "Paid" postmarked reached £80, while a strip of five 24c with "Paid" grid sold for £50. I purchased a superb mint block of the 30c with complete arrow at £94, while the used block of six reached £155. The cover with three 30c and two 3c, not very nice looking, I can assure, went for £35. There was nothing of importance among the 90c. A mint pair of the 10c August brought £36, while the used pair sold at £13.10. The repaired block of the 5c buff sold for £46 while the cover with a pair and single 5c together with a 1c and 3c sold for £52. The block of four 90c 1861 sold to Paulson for £17, while Fenster paid £16 for the block of six. The mint block of 10c grill cost me £35, while I paid £78 for a magnificent block of the 90c used.

The fourth day opened with the 1869 issue, Stern paying £29 for a block of eighty of the 3c. The 15c invert, not fine, sold at £90, while I purchased the used block of the 15c type I at £44. The 24c block in similar condition went to Roberts at £46, while the 24c invert, with a little tear at top brought £75. I purchased a used lot of the 30c which included a wonderful copy cleared postmarked in "Japan"—the only one I have ever seen of this denomination. The used block of six 30c sold at £14, while the 30c invert, not fresh, sold for £195. The complete unused set of reprints brought £20.

In the 1870 grill issues, your editor purchased the 7c block at £33, while the used block of four of the 90c without grill sold at £23. The mint block of 12c National was purchased by yours truly at £58, while the set of reissues on hard paper went to Mr. Barron at £180. I also purchased the 5c Taylor special print on soft paper for which I paid £100. Most of the other soft papers went to Stern, they bring £19 for the 12c, £20 for the 24c and £33 for the 90c.

Departments all went well, in most cases bringing more than they would at home. Carriers seemed to have been the only things that went cheaply and on these there was little competition. Stern was one of the largest buyers in this class.

DECORAH, IOWA, PRECANCELED.
By E. C. BAILEY.

It develops that back in the late '90's the Decorah Posten did a lot of work for Dr. Fahrney and mailed out his stuff for him. The then deputy postmaster allowed them to cancel the stamps from Decorah, set in their own office, without getting a permit from the department. This went on for several years. The Decorah Posten, when mailing out Dr. Fahrney's advertising matter, would buy $400.00 worth of 1c stamps. Then from type set forms made in their own office, they could cancel these stamps on one of their job presses, an employee from the Decorah post-office standing by to watch the process. It was in this manner that a number of varieties occurred, and while the whole transaction was without sanction from the post-office department in Washington, the stamps were actually used and therefore must be accepted, including the "classic" 3c with Iowa on it.

This all occurred prior to 1912—probably most of it prior to 1908. The Posten was innocent of any wrong doing in the matter and nothing more than a technical "infraction" of the rules of the department really occurred, as the single aim of the local office was to eliminate unnecessary labor in cancelling out 40,000 stamps. One day in about 1912 a seedy looking individual showed up at the post-office and wanted to buy some precancels. The deputy then serving told him they had not issued any and didn't have any. At that, he pulled out several to show him that he didn't know what he was talking about. This resulted in an investigation and it was then disclosed that the Posten was still mailing out stuff on the basis of the "permit" given them by the former deputy. They were innocent in the matter and at once made application for a regular permit, which was followed by the making of an electrotype plate that has since been used.

The issues prior to 1912 were all illegal but this may make them all the more valuable in the eyes of the precancel fan. Frank P. Adams, who is here in my office, tells me he has seen the Decorah stamp. But as I point out to Mr. Gales in my reply to an inquiry, these stamps had no legal existence but were used and passed through the mails unchallenged until the tramp turned up in Decorah and wanted other values. I can understand how this may have occurred, as the Posten may have sorted this mail of Dr. Fahrney in their own office and sacked it up as they do their own paper, which has a world wide circulation of 45,000.

From recent information I suspect that Mr. Gales was the "tramp" of this story.

WARNING AGAINST FAKES.

(We have previously called attention to these fakes emanating from Central Europe and particularly from Italy. The article below is written by a well-known firm which is able to substantiate the claims made.—W. O. W.)

Collectors are warned to use care in purchasing Hungary Scott's Nos. 1001 to 1065, 1201 to 1299, 1301 to 1379, Czechoslovakia Nos. 703 to 763. Regular Hungarian stamps with fake surcharges are on the market in this country covering the above groups and probably most of the other Occupation issues of this country. The fakes are good enough to pass muster with most collectors, but should not get by a dealer with any knowledge of these stamps. Inasmuch as the set of Czechoslovakia catalogs $575 the fakers have aimed at some of the best items. However, the cheap stamps as well as the rare ones have been faked. We have seen sets of these stamps. We advise collectors to be shy of bargains (?) in these issues unless offered by parties whose guarantee means something and who know the stamps. The Hungarian Stamp Society has also issued a warning that fakes of these issues are abroad. Whether or not they are the same as those we have seen we do not know. We have also seen high values of the current Bermuda set that were fiscally used, had the fiscal cancellation washed off and some obliging P. O. clerk in Bermuda applied a regular postal cancellation on the washed stamp. These are being sold for what they are by some but of course will pass as postal used copies by anyone who wants to pass them as such. The centers on these stamps are badly washed out. Needless to say stuff of this sort practically comes under the "fake" class and should not be marketed.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

Interesting results are available following the recent intensive cultivation of St. Louis with philatelic intent. The consequences of the publicity drive are now in a shape to present to the attention of all those who have been interested in the reactions of the public to philatelic advertising. Reference has already been made to the broadcasting from St. Louis by Mr. H. A. Diamant, with some particulars of the aftermath. While the St. Louis talk was exceptionally well received, yet it was one thing to take philately literally into the homes of the radio populace and another to make the people go to some effort to come in contact with collecting. Mr. Diamant's lecture at Sheldon Memorial Hall was so well attended as to make one marvel that so many people were attracted to the hall, which was filled to overflowing. A photo has been received showing the right half of the audience, and it is impressive evidence of the appeal of the philatelic theme. Sheldon Memorial Hall on the evening of November 13, 1924, never had a more appreciative audience than on that occasion. Mr. Diamant was at his best and kept his auditors enthralled by the clever admixture of information and instruction about philately that he had at his tongue's tip. We have had a cut, somewhat reduced in size, made of the mothers and fathers and boys and girls and other folks that represented the public; and it will speak for itself. Something already has been said of the use of the highest price newspaper space by one of the St. Louis department stores, which is to be attributed to the influence of the lecture; and letters are coming to Mr. Diamant of which the following is typical: "My Dear Mr. Diamant: I want to tell you how much I enjoyed your lecture last Thursday night. I stood in a crowd, upstairs, the entire time, and I wasn't waiting for the gift of stamps either, although, of course, I would have appreciated them. After I came home, I got out my little collection and discovered that another of the Columbian stamps portrays a beardless Columbus. There is a question I would like to ask (it will probably seem stupid to you), and that is WHY a stamp is more valuable if left on the envelope. I suppose this applies to the old U. S. Stamps only. I should think the stamp could easily be identified, without any possible date printed on the envelope. I hope that the next time you lecture on stamps, you will choose the Coliseum. Thanking you in advance for a reply, I am, Very sincerely, (Signed) (Miss) A. L. Hedges."

The St. Louis plan seems to strike a responsive chord, and it is offered to other cities that may be anxious to try some philatelic tilling; and while we cannot anticipate results that could match those that have followed St. Louis' venture, yet some good must come from all similar attempts. Briefly, the publicity plan was evolved as follows: first, the radio talk and then the lecture at which stamps were distributed to those in attendance. Mr. Diamant is willing to go into detail showing each step of the work for the benefit of those local clubs that would care to copy the St. Louis program. Another stroke of enterprise on the part of Mr. Diamant may be summed up in the news that he expects to exhibit his patriotic envelopes, including a few Confederates, in the St. Louis post-office. The postal authorities at Washington have given their consent to having the frame placed in the post-office lobby. Further attention is being called through the newspapers to the local stamp society in St. Louis in the hope of interesting the teachers in the high schools to permit the boys to meet in the class rooms after school hours.

Philately has some very good friends among the scoutmasters, and in the North Shore News, Rogers Park, Chicago, of November 21st, we find the heading, "Philately Invades Boy Scout-ing." The article is by Edward A. Bangs, former secretary of the North Shore Scoutleaders' Association, an eight-year veteran scout service official. The introductory sentence is "Philately is invading the Boy Scouts!" A sort of tribute is paid to stamp collecting by the writer who says that the only serious competition ever given the Boy Scouts, in part, was the result of interest of many of the Scouts in philately with the attending correspondence and the desire of organization. It is said then that the thing to do is to effect a merger of scouting and collecting, it being admitted that each branch may learn from the other. While philately is to be classed as an indoor sport and as such has been neglected by the Boy Scouts because of their outdoor program, the World Brotherhood Leaders are said to recognize collecting as a beneficial angle to the Scout movement in its broadest sense. We read: "The Scouts, under the leadership of Assistant Scoutmaster Fischer, 1643 Lunt Ave., are now using it as a basis of a good turn project. A large portion of the stamps of a collection in the possession of a Y. M. C. A. instructor have been secured and are being offered for sale, the proceeds going to a designated charity fund. The troop meets Friday evenings at the Rogers Park Presbyterian Church, Greenleaf and Greenview Avenues, where interested fans are welcome."

There has been a press of matter in our columns for several weeks past, and some of our news is not so hot off the press as to require a fire extinguisher. For instance, the San Francisco postmaster who had accepted a solid citizen of his city as mail matter for aerial transportation has been refused permission by Washington to send the "human freight," even though the postmaster aforesaid "had accepted" him, weighed him in and handed him $718.08 worth of stamps, the cost of the applicant's 184 pounds." A picture in one of the papers shows that everybody concerned in the novel suggestion was by no means downhearted by the refusal of the government.

For some time past we have been noticing the flourishing condition of Stamp Trade, the official journal of the Stamp Trade Protective Association, Ltd., London, a publication intended for the trade only. While much of the space of the publication is devoted to news of the workings of the association, yet there are notes of interest to those chiefly concerned in the commercial side of the pursuit. publication we find a full page cut of the convention group of the American Stamp Dealers' Association at the recent Detroit convention. In this country, the second number of Stamp Dealing, which is addressed to the trade, has been received. We are much taken with the manner, which the news, appertaining to the selling side of stamps is presented, to something of the interesting character of it. The ads, while much like those of stamp papers ordinarily, will become more directly addressed to the dealers as this paper becomes the better known, as it is a satisfaction to say that the publication is fully deserving of notice. It is not to be gainsaid that there should be dealers' journals, as well as collector publications, and the mere fact that this country, in the past, support in sufficient volume was not given to merit serious periodicals for the dealers, showing that dealing was more unsystematized in the sense of organization than in other countries where there is a good chance for a publication for dealers to make a separate berth for itself.

We do not become as enthusiastic over those imaginative sort of games as many members of the human family seem to be. For instance, when the death stamps of Serbia first came out we had our troubles each time to exactly locate the gruesome picture, and it was until long practice made it impossible to miss it that the grisly scene was immediately identified. However, if in our obtuseness we can see reason in the contention of Mr. A. W. Winne, Richmond, Virginia, that a bird of prey is nesting in the locks of Ben Franklin on the obverse of the current issue, we are certainly that the bright-eyed folks will have no difficulty in their quest. Mr. Winne writes, "Some time ago I noted that one of your readers had located Uncle Sam's portrait looking downward from George Washington's wig on the present issue 2c. It also occurs on the Washington head 1c of last issue. But what I am writing about here is a fancied Owl Head, one can almost imagine an entire owl, in the Franklin head of the present 1c. Has any reader's imagination been reported as having gotten him to 'seeing things' in Franklin's lower locks? I believe that Franklin was accounted wise in his day, but had supposed that all his wisdom was within his head, yet this symbol of wisdom at least has been brought outside by the engraver. To locate the fancied owl head, invert the stamp and take the prominent little white circle in lower locks—about on a level with Franklin's mouth—as the owl's right eye. Just to the right of this will be found a curved beak, and a dimmed left eye. The 'ears' of the owl, or 'horns,' are fairly plain. He seems to be looking out into space, not directly at one and not in any particular direction on the stamp, but in the general direction of Franklin's profile."

STAMP THRILLS IN EUROPE.

By LOUIS McLOUTH.

Searching through little side streets in Paris for an obscure stamp shop or running down some out-of-the-way dealer in one of the Swiss stamp centers in the hopes that he has been missed by the other stamp hunters furnished most of the excitement for the writer on a recent short visit to England, France, Switzerland and Italy, but the greatest single thrill probably was when I looked through the albums containing the famous collection of 19th century U. S. stamps formed by Sir Nicholas Waterhouse, of London.

When I saw this wonderful collection it had just been placed in the hands of Puttick and Simpson, the well-known firm of London auctioneers, to be disposed of at auction in November. Through the kindness of Mr. Frank Godden of Frank Godden, Ltd., who communicated my request to his client, Sir Nicholas, I was privileged to view the collection in its finest setting—the original albums. The transferring of the stamps from the albums to the auction sheets had just started, a few of the early gems having been removed for photographing but the collection was virtually intact.

The greatest glory of the collection is centered in the imperforate issues; and the showing of the New York Postmaster 5c is particularly impressive. There are some 200 copies of the New York stamp, including strips and numerous pairs on and off cover and a fine reconstructed plate of 40 stamps.

The 5c 1847 is present in a fine range of shades, singles and pairs on cover with unusual cancellations, and two exceptional items—a used block of eight and a block of four used on cover. The 10c 1847 is also well represented, including a superb strip of three used with a 5c on entire, three or four superb pairs and a splendid example of the "Big Shift."

The item over which I lingered longest was a beautiful horizontal block of six of the 1851 10c with a red town cancellation. Four of the six stamps were "recuts"; two recut bottom only, one recut top only and one recut top and bottom. The owner's notation below, indicating that this remarkable piece had cost him only a few dollars in 1903, reminded me of the rewards that come to the philatelist who recognizes "good things" in advance of his fellows.

There are many nice pieces in the 1c, 3c, 5c and 12c imperforates, including pairs, strips and blocks and interesting entire. An unusual item is a strip of the 12c representing a complete row of one pane, but it is not in perfect condition.

The perforated issues seemed to me somewhat neglected in comparison with the imperforates, although there were still plenty of attractive things in the 1857, 1861, 1869, and Bank Note issues, such as a used block of six of the 1857 30c, blocks of four of the 1869 15c, 24c and 30c and fine specimens of the three 1869 "inverts". Several volumes were also devoted to Officials and Carriers but I did not have time to look at these.

All in all, it was the finest display of U. S. stamps I have ever seen and it is easy to believe that the owner spent the better part of 25 years in bringing it together.

A seven weeks' visit to Europe including London, Paris, Brussels, Amsterdam, Berlin, Vienna, Prague, Venice, Rome, Milan, Lucerne and Bale certainly should produce something worth while in the way of United States issues, and on my return I hope to be able to offer to my clients an even larger stock to select from than the one I now hold.

Those who are looking for the unusual as well as those seeking the normal should drop me a line to arrive on my return December 16th.

Those having fine things to offer should communicate with me, for if I visit nine countries seeking for the almost unobtainable, I certainly am in a position to pay even more for fine properties here.

What have you for sale? Early mint blocks especially wanted.

A Desirable Stamp Business For Sale

The indications are that this season is going to be one of the best, if not the best stamp season we have ever experienced. Old buyers who have neglected their collections for the last few years are coming back to their "hobby" again, also new collectors as well as new dealers are coming on the "state of action". We are now engaged in making up a stock for a new dealer, who will, no doubt make himself known in the near future. This new party has told us he can invest about $5000, as a first investment, which will, of course, be followed by other purchases. We have parties who come from long distances to buy from us. These include dealers of long standing. We are serving such, and they are apparently pleased, and find it pays to deal with us. I am known, of course, by many dealers, as well as collectors. Many kind words have been said in regard to our fair and square dealing, and it is with a bit of sadness, and a lot of reluctance, that I even mention giving up the stamp business. Nearly half a century in one business is a long time. I have found a lot of pleasure in my long experience, I have made a lot of friends, too. However, the end must come to all things, good or bad, and because of ill health I think it will be best for me to give up the business entirely, or at least dispose of the greater amount of my stock, and do a little approval business. My stock is large, and consists of many varieties, both for the dealer as well as the collector. There are about 50 large Stock Books, and many small ones, containing a very nice retail stock, including many fine items of both 19th and 20th Century stamps, British Colonies, French Colonies, etc., are in great variety. There are a nice line of sets, too, and there are U. S. stamps as well. From our wholesale stock we could make many small stocks for dealers. We have thousands of sets and single stamps in large quantities, suitable for the approval trade. We invite dealers from far and near to get in touch with us. Write us, or come to our office on appointment. See what we have, get our prices, etc., and if you do not buy the entire stock, buy what you please. We will sell our sets, a big item, separate, if you wish. We will sell our British Colonies, a big item too. We will sell your collections. We will sell single stamps in big lots, or small lots, as you please. We are sure of this, if you are interested in stamps as a dealer, or as a collector, you should come to our office or write for further information at once.

As A Little Inducement To Dealers

Right here, I offer a special packet of 500 stamps, 20 varieties, equal number of each, will catalogue over $6.00, for $1.00; 1000 of same, $1.80. The stamps are cancelled and uncanceled, no New Europe. Order at once and be pleased.

United States.United States Proofs and Essays.

The collection of proofs and essays, the property of Mr. C. Eeltjes of Leiden, Holland, sold at auction by the Scott Stamp and Coin Co. on October 31st, was possibly the finest lot offered at public sale that has reached the collector since the dispersment of the Eagle holdings, some months back. This collection included an unusually attractive number, among them being many proofs surcharged "Specimen" that I have not seen heretofore.

Proofs of the 5c New York, on bond paper in black, green, red, blue, brown and rose red sold at prices varying from $3.25 to $7.10. Proofs of the 1847 sold from $1.30 to $8.20, the latter price being paid for a 5c in green on India paper. The 1851, 5c on bond in orange, olive brown, purple brown and olive green changed hands at $5.00, $4.75, $3.75 and $4.00 respectively. The 24c in different colors, from $2.00 to $9.25; the 30c in black on bond at $9.00, while the 90c went from $7.00 to $10.00, the latter price being paid for the proof in vermilion. Complete sets from 1c to 90c in pairs on India paper found a new owner at $18.50, while single copies on card sold at $5.50. There was also a set of the card proofs surcharged "Specimen" and these reached $6.50.

Proofs of most of the August, 1861, issue were present, the choice pieces being pairs of the 1c, 12c and 90c and these brought $6.00, $7.25 and $7.00 respectively. The September issue complete in pairs on India sold at $10.50. The 1869 in similar condition brought $14.50, while a block of ten of the 90c sold for $15.00. Horizontal pairs on India paper of the 1870 series changed hands at $17.00; the 1873 1c to 15c, including the 2c and 5c, all in pairs, brought $12.50, while pairs of the 1890 complete sold at $14.50. The pairs of Columbians reached $16.75 and the Omaha issue in two colors on India at $8.25, same mounted on card $6.00.

The department proofs were a grand lot, each series being present, generally in black, green, vermilion, blue and brown as well as in the normal color. The Agriculture sold from $2.75 to $8.00; the Executive from $2.40 to $7.25; Interior, $2.85 to $7.25; Justice, $2.00 to $12.50; Navy, $2.75 to $8.00; Post Office, $2.00 to $8.75; State, $3.20 to $6.25 with pairs through the $20.00 going to $28.00; Treasury, $1.50 to $7.20 and War, $1.60 to $8.10, the higher price in each case generally being paid for pairs in normal color on India paper. There were sets from each department surcharged, "Specimen" and the Franklin and Eagle Carriers with similar overprint, items that I have not seen before.

There was an unusually large lot of essays and these brought from $1.60 to $42.00 a lot, depending on number and variety. The price of $42.00 was paid for the Post Office Dept., types 136, 137, 138 and 140 with designs similar to the adopted sets for other departments, and included die proofs on India 1c, 2c, 3c and 90c each in five colors.

ARGENTINE REPUBLIC.—Reverting to our previous reference to this country, we are informed that all the centavo values of the current series (1/2 to 30c) have appeared without stop to the "c" beside the figure of denomination.—Stamp Collecting.

BARBADOS.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Bulletin announce that as to the 1sh stamps on emerald paper issued last September, their agent as soon as he heard that the stamps had been placed on sale went to the Post Office and was informed that the whole issue of 6,000 stamps had already been bought up by local speculators. Regarding another printing they feel that this is improbable as the new combined "Postage and Revenue" set will be issued early in 1925.

BRAZIL.—A new watermark has been adopted, consisting of a large five-pointed Star over the letter "A." Mr. Denton Hepworth shows us a used pair of the current 100r orange ("Avicao") with this watermark sideways.—Stamp Collecting.

BRITISH HONDURAS.—Whitfield King & Co.'s Bulletin report that in a supply of the 25c emerald (Nyasaland type) on script watermarked paper they have found a few sheets of a variety that are blue-green on the back instead of the yellow green. They are of the opinion that these stamps must be from an early printing as the black is not so intense as on the normal emerald paper.

GREAT BRITAIN.—Mr. R. Roberts reports the 2s6d stamp in the postage due type, brown on yellow, new watermark, inscribed "To Pay" in the place of the words "Postage Due" and "Half Crown" in words in the value tablet.

This stamp is issued to obviate the use of large blocks of the 1sh post dues, and is used to collect deficient postage in conjunction with custom duties on parcels from abroad. It might, I understand, be used entirely for postage purposes or entirely for fiscal purposes, or postal and fiscal combined, I cannot therefore exclude it from my new issues of postage stamps.

Mr. Roberts also sends us the 2 1/2d blue and 3d violet, both with the new watermark and also advises that the 4d postage due, new watermark, has been placed on sale.

PORTUGAL.—We have received from Mr. R. Roberts the following new items: 32c green, Assistencia, "15 ctvs" on 1c red and "30 ctvs" on 2c claret. Both the overprints are in black and of two lines.

SALVADOR.—Mr. Emil J. Rall submits for chronicle a copy of the 5c orange of the 1921 issue bearing the surcharge of TRANSJORDANIA.—Mr. R. Roberts has shown us several values of Hedjaz with a new overprint which is of a different type and setting than heretofore. The following bear this new surcharge: 1/8p red brown, 1/4p green, 1/2p rose, 2p orange, 3p red brown, 5p olive bistre. Mr. Roberts adds that the 1/4p has an interesting variety, the two middle rows of the sheet being tete-beche, both as regards the stamp itself and the overprint.

MILWAUKEE'S ANNIVERSARY.

The Milwaukee Philatelic Society celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary at a dinner at the Hotel Blatz, Tuesday evening, November 18th. Mr. Carl Jungman, the sole living charter member of the society, spoke of the early collecting days when 5c 1847's passed over the tables at a quarter each. Dr. F. A. Kraft, the postmaster, called upon the older members, Mr. H. J. Stirn, C. Steinmetz, Fred Brinkman, Wm. J. Uihlein, W. O. Staab to speak reminiscently upon philately in years past, supplementing their remarks by such tales as made all younger members and visitors better and wiser collectors than ever before. Milwaukee's public stamp exhibit was commended for the interest it had created, and it was decided to prolong the exhibit until January first. The hosts of visitors who attend their time before the collections indicate that there are many philatelists who only need a beckoning to join the ranks of organized philately.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—We are late in calling attention to the recent activities in Milwaukee, where the Milwaukee Philatelic Society has opened a display of stamps at the public museum. The exhibition will continue until January 1, and we have been informed by Mr. W. O. Staab that the exhibition is attracting no little attention, it having been advertised by means of placards distributed in different parts of the city. Milwaukee has been to the fore in its philatelic publicity endeavors for some time past, and the record of the past will be broken in the future, we feel safe in saying.

—Number three of The Stamp Hunter is before us, and we find that Mr. W. W. MacLaren, who publishes it as his personal journal, is filling it with human interest in a way to make friends with all. We are pleased to see that although a keen stamp hunter, Mr. MacLaren is always willing to be sportsmanlike and give the game a fair deal.

—An interesting picture in the newspaper supplements recently was that headed: "Sells Postage Stamps to King George". Behind a wicket a man stands, tongs in hand, holding a strip of stamps which evidently he is selecting for the gentleman who stands in front of the window. Below is the text: "Best Authority on Rare Stamps—The King of England does not come in person like the man in this photograph, but his secretary or someone writes to Howard A. Mount of Washington, D. C., for rare stamps which the King collects. Mount is the official salesman for the United States Government."

—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal for November contains the first installment of an article on, "The First Issue of Sierra Leone and Its Post Office," in which the first six pence imperforate is re-introduced on the stage. It will be remembered that this imperforate stamp in the old catalogues was given place as the first issue of Sierra Leone, but later it was proved decisively that the imperforate stamp was only an essay or more properly a proof. No attempt will be made by the writer to rescue the stamp for cataloguing again, but he will show that the first six penny perforated was issued in 1859 and not in 1860 as the catalogues have it.

—An interesting clipping has been received from Mr. Henry C. Needham, New York, telling of the Old Boston mail which was fourteen days in going to

New York. The methods employed in the good old days were not exactly calculated for comfort and certainly were not for speed. The postmaster in 1672 would collect a small fee, and affix some curious "post paid figures and designs" and sort the letters, according to their various destinations.

—Under date of Nov. 22 we have a brief note from Edwin P. Seebohm from Boston en route to San Francisco. As is known to our readers, Mr. Seebohm has been on an extended trip abroad and is now returning home with his aged mother. He writes that he has had a wonderful time in Europe and has picked up numerous fine things in the stamp line.

—Our attention has been called to the death of F. Noyes of Alice, Texas, which occurred Nov. 14th. Mr. Noyes will be remembered by many dealers and collectors as a longtime and reliable stamp dealer. He was represented in our columns for years. The fraternity will be interested in knowing that this was a trade name only and that the real name of Mr. Noyes was Frederick Bernard Nayer.

—Live, active collectors who live in or around New York City are welcome at Branch No. 1, New York Society of Philatelic Americans, meetings held at Silver's, 136 W 42nd St., New York, second and fourth Thursday of the month. Over 40 members have joined in three meetings. Future attractions will include exhibits, lectures, talks, auctions, exchanges, etc., etc. Dues are $1.00 per year. Further information from the Secretary, F. F. Greeley, 1087 East Fourth St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

OFFSET PRECANCELS

Offsets are purely a War product. In the early months of 1917, the Post Office Department was much concerned over the rapidity with which the engraved plates of the 1, 2 and 3 cent values were being used. To remedy this situation, instructions were issued in March, 1917, to manufacture postage stamps of these values from surface printing plates. After the war, this type of printing our stamps was discontinued and the offset stamps are now obsolete. The 3 cent value is the commonest, with the 1 cent value in second position. We are offering numerous items of these interesting stamps, stamps which cannot be excelled in beauty and attractiveness.

OUR REVIEW.

We have received a most welcome addition to our library in the shape of a copy of the Standard Precancel Stamp Catalog for 1925 from the Rotnem Stamp Co., of Minneapolis, Minn. An idea of the magnitude of this work may be gained from the fact that it contains nearly five hundred pages, each of three column width. The present or tenth edition of this work is seemingly a complete compendium of the interesting subject of precancel stamps, and from the introduction we gather that over 150,000 items have been listed. The catalogue is based on the compilation of Mr. Bushnell, and is amplified by the efforts of Messrs. Rotnem and Allen, together with a corps of specialists who long have been identified with this form of collecting. Mr. Howard S. Wheeler has attended to the Aeroplane, Victory and Pilgrim issues. The serious problem of pricing has been considered at length, and the experience of the publishers has stood in good stead in arriving at estimates of value. Properly, the work is the result of the co-operation of many of the leaders in the field, and we have no doubt but they have accomplished their end with an accuracy that is to be commended. It is likely that here and there an omission will be found, and the compilers ask all those who have unlisted varieties to notify them of the existence of such stamps. What is called the Universal Style System is used in treating the stamps, and these groups comprise the over-prints from electrolates or rubber hand stamps supplied by the post-office department to the various post-offices. In the several pages of information for collectors, the precancel in all its phases is considered, and one really obtains a good general idea of the subject and will be enabled to follow the catalogue intelligently. The listing is done alphabetically according to states, and the varieties are then considered chronologically as to date of issue of the stamp itself. We believe from the interest shown in precancel stamps that the demand for this book will be progressive, and we are sure that the workers deserve the thanks of collectors for charting the issues in a way to give a compactness to the subject, thereby making a systematized method of collecting. We realize that the work in producing a book of this kind is arduous and exacting, and the compilers and publishers are entitled to the good will of collectors for so ably performing their task. Standard Precancel Stamp Catalog, 1925: Rotnem Stamp Co., Minneapolis, Minn. Price, paper bound $2.10, cloth bound $3.10, postpaid.

The first annual number of Aero-Newsletter published by the Aero Philatelic Society of America is a production that will gladden the eye of the collector who gives attention particularly to air mail issues. An illustrated cover holds twenty-four neatly mimeographed pages that reflect the activity of the society and encloses page after page of well selected matter for the air mail enthusiasts. Much of the information has a strong historical appeal, and in that fact may be cited a decided advantage in collecting these issues. Some of the early details

There are not a few illustrations to set off the text, and the members of this society may feel that they have contributed to philatelic literature in a manner worthy of praise in issuing a book of this kind which has an appeal that is not limited to the members of the growing Aero Philatelic Society of America. FOR SMALL DEALERS

We are making this experiment to see if we can lighten up some of our holdings. These stamps are all XIX Century and mostly used. They constitute our surplus stock, which we are reducing for lack of safe room and high overheads here in New York. We count unused and used as two varieties and the list price is that of last year's catalogue.

Inasmuch as this is one of the oldest stocks in existence, it gives the smaller dealer a chance to acquire stock never offered by wholesalers, who chiefly offer New Europe, Liberia, Nyassa and such like mediocre stuff. Remember carefully, no Twentieth Century at all. We are not going to ship on approval but will refund on any order that does not come up to your expectation. This chance comes about once in 20 years, so no doubt you will order quickly. Only one lot of each kind. Cash with the order:—

THE FORUM.

they will turn "red as a beet". I did that once on a cold winter night. The large percentage of stamps soaked were the 2c red 1890's with "caps". The poor 3c 1869 locomotives came out red, smoke and all!

An odd experience recently told me: a friend soaked off a few thousand of those same 2c red 1890's (they were popular in the '90's for the "Caps"). He had segregated the "Caps". It was a cold winter night, and he laid thicknesses of newspapers along the back of the stove—yes, the stove was pretty hot, too! Then he laid little dabs of 2c red with the now loosened paper all over his newspapers, and forgot them for a while. When he came to get them, they had all turned to a uniform lake, the color in which this 2c 1890 was first printed.

Green to blue is a common occurrence. Foreign do this readily. I have often seen our 3c green in a very decent range of blues. Salt water will do this. Many colors change easily.

Imperforated and part perforated varieties. Reckon you've saved up a few stamps that have wide margins, in fact, so wide that "someone" must have trimmed them and made them into "Imperforates"! When collecting back around 1895, all of us boys had very decent copies of "Imperforates", and I still have some of those 3c greens that way, have of course forgotten whether I made them or my alibi, the boy next door! Needless to say, however, they did not go well as traders, for everyone had them. In a lot of covers found the past summer, there was a cover with an "Imperi" 7c vermilion so near Imperf as to actually look it. Yet there was a trace of a perf at the bottom. Many of the "Soft Paper" stamps have wide margins, suitable to trimming into so called Imperfs. They have no value at all, and are far prettier with their true wide beautiful fringed frames, and really are uncommon with wide well centered margins on all four sides. No single Imperf of the '70's interests me, but a pair would, you bet.

Will someone kindly submit some questions that they wish the Forum readers to answer? That is the Question for this number.

best interest of philately, and is not fair to those who have purchased stamps as an investment while they were on sale at Post Offices.

2. That the issue by the Government of unnecessary stamps for which there is no legitimate use, such as imperforate issues, is detrimental to philately and is likely in the end to prove detrimental to the country which issues them.

3. That the sale of stamps having no value nor any postal use, such as "officially sealed" stamps, should be discontinued.

4. That any balance of an issue, commonly known as "remainder" called in by the government, should be destroyed or should be left in the local post-office for sale.

5. That the duty of the Philatelic Agency should be to furnish perfect copies at face values. Stamps sold now are not always good copies.

6. That the establishment of the Philatelic Agency is a boon to Philately and if conducted with the object of encouraging philately is likely to prove of great benefit, but if misused it is likely to lead to the disrepute of Canadian postage stamps among collectors and may conceivably cause collectors to discontinue collecting Canadian stamps, with consequent loss of revenue to the government, as has happened in the case of many foreign countries whose stamps are not now in demand among collectors, chiefly for the reasons above set forth. The stamps of Great Britain and of its colonies and dominions have always been highly regarded among philatelists and it is strongly felt that practices such as those above mentioned do not tend to maintain the standard which has caused that high regard.

7. That any of the above practices objected to are derogatory of the dignity of our country and government.

ESSAYS of the old CLASSICAL STAMPS of the EARLY ISSUES of SPAIN up to the so called DON CARLOS STAMPS which are included

WE ARE KEEPING OF THE SAME

The Finest Collection Existing in the World

The said ESSAYS, which I could acquire only by chance, belonged to Mr. Moens, the oldest stamp dealer of the world, who no doubt may be considered as the symbol of the philately.

There are many ESSAYS which are lacking in the biggest specialised collections, some items are quite unique. Many in different colours and designs which are unknown since they were not adopted at the time. There are essays in lithography, engraving, typography, copper-print, embossed—printing, etc., misprints in most interesting executions. Further, the early stamps of the Deputy Chamber and the Senate, things of Andalusia, etc.

The Colonies are also represented profusely. The forgeries are especially interesting, more particularly those of the classical issues which were made with a view only to do prejudice to the Postal administration. There are many used items, some were produced in a very sly way. In most cases the Postal administration did not notice the forgeries.

As we have stated already, the collection contains many unique pieces of which there exist but one or two copies altogether. Remarkable among the unknown proofs are the marvelous designs and colours, the fiscal, police and commercial stamps in all possible colours, including essays of the latter. The collection is of the highest interest and of an inestimable value. It contains, moreover, scarce telegraph stamps, as well as essays of the same Brief. You are offered here a unique collection really fit for purposes, containing hundreds and hundreds of different kinds. A specialist in Spanish stamps cannot do without such a collection; he must have it.

I am ready to send the collection out for examination upon request against postage should it not be possible to come to business.

Perhaps it would be possible for me to retail in the case of a considerable purchase.

SPECIALISTS, don't miss this opportunity which will not occur again by asking us at once for particulars.

COLORING CANCELLATIONS.

By E. ALLEN DEXTER.

Enclosed with this communication is a 2c carmine current issue with a colored cancellation. I supposed that the P. O. Department had issued orders against colored cancellations but I am picking them up quite often. In fact, I am making a specialty of 20th century cancellations and find it a very interesting sideline. I have several Hardings and Walloons with colored cancellations also with battleship cancellations. Also these slogans and other cancels give us a myriad of interesting designs to pick from.

The battleship cancels are especially interesting. I have one before me cancelled C. Z., for Canal Zone, postmarked U. S. S. Birmingham. Another, the U. S. S. Texas, cancelled Port Angeles. The U. S. S. Oklahoma marked Guatanaman, and many others. Among them a red U. S. S. Submarine, Number Five, on the 1917-19 2c.

It would be very interesting to me to read a first class article by one of your good writers who has made a study of present-day cancellations, if you have knowledge of one interested enough to do the subject justice.

DISTINCTIVE AIR MAIL MARKING.

J. A. Steinmetz mails us a cover, sent from Springfield, Ill., to Philadelphia, Pa., by air mail. The peculiarity about the cover is that it shows a wide band of red and blue separated by a white space of similar width running entirely across the horizontal face of the envelope. Mr. Steinmetz writes:—"The P. O. Department has had a difficult time in sorting out mail for air service, and this red, white and blue band will help the clerks at the facing tables." No particulars are given as to the manner in which these envelopes are furnished, but it is possible that individuals using the air mail service will be privileged to print up supplies of envelopes in the form indicated.

NANKING, CHINA, AGAIN.

By WARREN A. SEAGER.

The first meeting of the season of the Nanking Philatelic Society was held on Tuesday, October 14th, just one month later than planned, on account of the little military mix-up that has upset this part of China for the past two months. Owing to various reasons a number of the members were unable to be present at this opening gathering, but the eight who did find it possible to attend made up in enthusiasm what the meeting lacked in numbers. After a splendid dinner provided by the host of the evening, Mr. S. J. Mills, the members of the Society felt fortified even for the transaction of a good deal of routine business.

After the business had been cleared away those present enjoyed a real treat in the form of a talk on Air Post Stamps, by our President, Rev. L. S. Ruland, who backed up his remarks with a very complete collection of these stamps in which he specializes. Mr. Ruland dwelt upon the fact that at present it is still a comparatively cheap and easy process to secure an almost complete collection of air mail stamps. New air services are being established in many parts of the world and there is good prospect of many interesting issues in the future, as well as the outlook for a substantial rise in value of the legitimate stamps which have appeared during the past few years. The speaker knew his stamps thoroughly and gave brief and interesting accounts of the history of the various issues represented in his collection.

The Nanking Philatelic Society would like to get into touch with reliable local stamp clubs in the U. S. which desire exchange, and shall be very glad to swap references with any clubs that prefer this formality before entering into exchange relations with a philatelic organization located so far away. As a matter of fact Nanking is not as far away as it sounds. Letters have been known to reach here from New York in 19 days before the U. S. air mail service was established. If good steamer connections are made the average time for mail to reach us from the East Coast of the U. S. is from 23 to 25 days, and naturally this time would be reduced from the West.

The following officers were elected: President and Secretary, Rev. L. S. Ruland; Treasurer, Mr. A. N. Steward; Sales Dept., Dr. F. W. Wilmut; Exchange Dept., Mr. S. J. Mills.

ADVANTAGES OF TACT AND SUGGESTIONS TO ENCOURAGE AND FOSTER HIGH ETHICAL STANDARDS IN OUR BUSINESS.

By CHARLES J. PHILLIPS.

"Tact" is defined as follows:—
I. Adroitness in managing the feelings of persons dealt with.
II. Nice perception in seeing and doing exactly what is best in the circumstances.

During years of travelling on business in many parts of the world I have constantly come across statements to the detriment of this or that dealer, some of a trivial nature and others again making really serious imputations against the honor and integrity of the person in question.

I have tried to trace out the origin of many of these statements, to find out what has caused this feeling of ill-will, and to endeavor to discover what is really at the bottom of it all.

I am forced to the opinion that many, if not most of these causes of friction between the buyer and the seller, are caused by want of "tact" on the part of the vendor, and I think that a little public discussion on this subject may be for the good of all concerned.

In any business the knowledge of the right way to handle a client is one of the essentials of good salesmanship, and nowhere is this more necessary than in the stamp trade.

This subject of business tact is one to which all dealers who wish to become successful salesmen should devote more attention.

The Golden Rule should always be borne in mind and if it is acted upon, business relations will be established upon the broadest and soundest foundations.

In the creation of good business relations between buyer and seller, the first consideration is to establish confidence, and the second is to prove to the buyer that his interests are protected through the knowledge of the seller—that is, that the seller knows his business thoroughly and is both willing and competent to advise his client.

These are what I should term the Essential Ethics of sound business relations between buyer and seller.

Let us consider a few of the many cases that we all hear so often, and endeavor to form a clear idea of the reaction they are most likely to cause.

Take the case of a collector who shows his collection to a dealer and asks his opinion. Does it not often occur that the dealer first asks "Who did you buy these from?" and having found out he proceeds to run down the collection, looking for the slightest faults, and then insinuating in more or less ambiguous terms that the collector would have done far better to have bought all his stamps from the speaker.

What is the result? Generally he creates a feeling of distrust, the collector sees through such tactics and the usual result is that he gets disgusted with the dealer and through his lack of tact he loses a potential client.

Take the following case, which I was told of recently. A dealer sells a parcel of U. S. 1851, 1 cent blue, among them one or two copies supposed to be the rare type I. Some time after the buyer finds that the lower scrolls are painted in, that they are not type I and he takes them back to the vendor, who thereupon remarks "Well, Mr. Blank, never mind, you bought the lot cheap enough" and makes no offer to refund for the fakes he sold. Result—through his lack of tact he lost a valuable customer, as the collector was so surprised at this method of doing business that he walked right out of his office and when he told me about this he said he would never enter it again.

The following is, I think, a glaring example of want of tact.

A new and rich collector starting to specialize in a few countries, was in the habit of consulting a well-posted friend in his city about his more important purchases. A short time ago he happened to be travelling and met a dealer with whom he had done a little business. The dealer said, "Well, Mr. Blank, are you doing anything in stamps?" Mr. Blank said, "Yes, I have been travelling some four months and bought a few thousand dollars worth of stamps." The dealer said, "How could you do that without Mr. — to advise you!"

Result—Through his lack of tact, to say the least of it, he has lost a client that might have been of considerable importance to him in the future.

Another form of want of tact is what is known as a "knocker." I do not quite know the origin of this term; it is, however, one in common use, and seems to be applied to a person who endeavors to knock down the reputation of an opponent. This is done both directly and indirectly by all kinds of suggestions and insinuations, and often, to my own knowledge, by downright inventions. I could give some very curious instances of cases that have occurred lately, but could hardly do so without fitting the cap to the right head, and as I only want to write generally in this article without any personalities, it will be most tactful to avoid stating cases, many of which, I am sure, are known to my readers.

What I do want to make clear is that in my opinion the "knocker" very often gets blown up with the bomb he has endeavored to have exploded to the destruction of a rival.

I could mention scores of cases where want of "tact" in business is one of the greatest causes of loss of business.

As a Rotarian I now want to make a few suggestions to try and encourage and foster Higher Ethical Standards in our business relations with our clients.

I quote a few pertinent points from the Codes of Standards of Correct Practice recently issued by Guy Gundaker, Past President of Rotary International:

1. The Dealer shall establish and maintain intimate, cordial and friendly relations with other Dealers.

2. The Dealer shall practice clean and honorable competition and co-operate with fellow-dealers for the benefit of each and all.

3. The Dealer shall not make false or disparaging statements, either written or oral, or circulate harmful rumors respecting a competitor's stock, his selling prices, or his business, financial or personal standing.

4. When a new business is established, those in the trade shall welcome such new competitor, proffer him information or advice, if he so desires, and exhibit the same good-fellowship to him they extend to others of the craft.

5. There shall be one price for all.

6. In the matter of customer's complaints, the Dealer shall frankly admit errors, make adjustments cheerfully and give the customer the benefit of any doubt.

7. The Dealer shall take advantage of no man's ignorance, and shall see that employees are truthful and straightforward; and that they do not misrepresent or overcharge the confiding. Treat the keen and confiding buyer alike.

8. Advertisements which are false, or which have a tendency to mislead or which do not convey the whole truth, or which do not conform to business integrity are unethical.

There are three steps in every achievement:—

*"Knowledge—Knowing what to do.""Skill—Knowing how to do it.""Virtue—Doing it."A CHRISTMAS PRESENT.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

THE FORUM.

By H. P. ATHERTON,
 318 Main St., Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to 19th century United States postage stamps; Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

Have overlooked mention that was made by Mr. Bates some time past. This column is merely a continuation of the "Early Low Values Specialized" column as conducted by Mr. Bates, who unfortunately had to discontinue, owing to pressure of business.

The name "Forum" was chosen as it was shorter, and the word is intended to convey the meaning that articles are welcomed from its readers to its readers. Let them come.

A collector from Cape Cod paid the "Forum" a visit recently. He gave a description of an interesting item in his collection, which is on a bit of the cover. It is a 3c 1861 stamp cancelled in blue, Vera Cruz. "Vera" is above, and "Cruz" below, the two words being separated by a blue horizontal line, giving somewhat the appearance of a modern Precancel. Nice item, that.

Mr. R. A. Wagner has sent copies of the 2c 1890, cancelled in "Ticket Sellers Blue." One reads in a rectangle measuring 3/4"x1 1/4" "May 1, 1894, Lathrop, Mich.", while another shows "O. & N. W. R. (R)" in the same color. Mr. Wagner writes of these Railroad Ticket Office cancellations as follows:—"The mail was brought to the station of the C. & St. P. Minn. & M. Ry. and left unlocked, the Station Agent cancelled mail left at the Station with his ticket stamp, put the mail in the sack and locked it before putting on the train. This saved walking to the Post Office which was at some distance". So now you may have a solution as to what those porous blue letters are on some of your 2c 1890's, etc. The letters show a clothlike texture, as on your tickets of today.

A Cover! Mr. S. B. Ashbrook has shown me a cover with 90c 1860. With it, making a horizontal chain are a pair of 1c Type V, a 10c Type II, and a 30c, all of the "1857" issue, the 90c appearing in 1860 perforated. This cover is mailed from Boston (the "PAID" in large circle with three lines above, and three lines below, in black, being the current obliterator at the time), three times this hit the row of five stamps, lightly. The destination is "Port Elizabeth C. G. H." via England, per Persia. The red London transit mark is dated "JY 27 61", while in colored pencil is "1.12". If you were offered your "pick" of ten cancelled copies, you'd probably take this one, it is that fine, and this cover answers the Query of Nov. 10th beautifully.

Mr. Ashbrook also shows some "combination" covers. Combinations are always interesting. These consist of the U. S. 3c 1861 stamp, and the 10c Confederate, indicating that they passed "through the lines". One cover shows the 10c engraved Confederate, Archer & Daly Incomplete Die, at the right upper corner of the cover, covered by the postmark—"Ansonville, N. C." The 3c 1861 longside is obliterated by a circular cut off device of four cross cuts, giving fine blocks and the "Old Point Comfort Apr 4" in black is with the obliterator. "Old Point" was one of the transfer points from the South to the North. This cover did not run the Blockade. It is directed to the Point Lookout, Md., Prison Camp, the name of the man addressed being followed by "Prisoner of War". Without thought of the contents of these letters, probably from a group of sufferers at home to the sufferer at Point Lookout, we find a complex postal situation. In these various Hospital and Detention Camps, both North and South, the question of what was contraband, what was permissible, letters, packages, etc., there is much postal history as yet untold.

Again for the Question:—"Will you please submit a question for the readers of the 'Forum' to answer? Will you?"

Specialized United States

Recent purchases of hundreds of copies of 3c '51s and '57s; scores of 10c '51s and '57s; dozens of 12c, 24c, 30c and 90c '61s; hundreds of 10c, 30c and 90c Bank Notes, from important sales in New York, Boston and London, have put the pep and vigor of youth into the specialized selections of United States stamps we send to those who are on our lists.

1847 ISSUE

Of the 1847 issue we offer all listed shades of the 5c, including some very fine copies of the rare orange, the brown orange, and the deep orange brown; two best known shifts in very fine copies at $35 each; pairs in several shades at from $10 to $35; covers with both single and double rates. Of the 10c '47 some very fine singles both on and off cover, including shifts and other plate varieties.

1851 1c

Types Ia, II, III, IIIa, IV. A number of pairs and strips; many shifts, all listed recuts, some colored cancellations, covers, etc. Probably 200 copies to choose from, at prices ranging from $1.50 to $150.

1851 3c

About 2,000 picked copies in stock; more than 100 varieties of "shifts", including "Gents" on and off cover, "Last three rows" of Plate III, extra and missing side lines plated complete on and off covers; "recut button", misplaced guide dot; pairs and strips showing varieties of recutting.

1851 5c

Some superb singles, a few strips of three.

1851-57, 10c TYPE I

As fine a stock as exists, we believe, for it includes dozens of beautiful copies, pairs, strips, covers, all recuts, shifts, full scrolls, curl in X, curl on head, etc., and stamps whose future we so thoroughly believe in we would rather buy than sell.

12c 1851

About the same story. Many fine copies, shifts, shades, cancellations, pairs, covers, a few on the very thin paper.

It seems useless to repeat the foregoing through the issues from 1857 to 1900. We can even offer to send selections of the 3c Vermilion or the 6c re-engraved 208a, blocks of four of either if you want them.

COLLECTORS OF CANCELLATIONS

Are well equipped who find nothing worth having in our selections of 3c '57s, '61s, '69s, Bank Note Issues, or those hard-to-find 4c Reds and Greens, 5c Taylors or Grants.

FINE THINGS IN FOREIGN STAMPS

For collectors of foreign stamps we have fine things in almost everything from Afghanistan to Zurich, but are particularly strong in early Canada, Great Britain, Holland, France, Baden, Saxony, Servia, Roumania, Cape of Good Hope, and Italian States.

FOR BARGAIN HUNTERS

Whether you collect U. S. or foreign—our prices on ordinarily fine stamps make catalog figures seem mountainous in comparison. Tell us what you want, give us ordinary trade references, and we will do the rest.

Congo Free State

Practically all of the stamps of this African colony of Belgium are beautiful in design and fine examples of the engraver's art. Always popular and fast sellers, few dealers seem to have any variety of them and we have been to considerable trouble to get this offering together. Anything you require which is not offered give us a want list of and perhaps we can supply it.

DEATH OF H. B. PHILLIPS.

The sad news of the death of H. B. Phillips of Berkeley, Calif., has been conveyed to us by P. M. Wolsieffer. No adequate biography of Mr. Phillips' philatelic career is at hand, but a subsequent number of the WEEKLY will give the facts concerning his activities. Mr. Phillips at the time of his death was a director of the A. P. S., in fact, his membership in that organization is evidenced by the fact that his number was 19. He was also a F. R. P. S. L. He specialized in franked envelopes of U. S. and Mexico and published a checklist in the old Philatelic Journal of America.

STAMP AUCTIONS.

By CUI BONO.

When one begins to discuss the utility of stamp auctions, it soon appears that there are at least two view points in diametrical opposition. It may be of interest to analyze these opinions. Let us first of all consider the view points of those in favor of stamp auctions.

(1.) They establish confidence in stamps as an investment. Now that large sums of money are being put in one's collections, it behooves all of us not only to see that our investment has been well made, but even more necessary is it for us to know that our property will not be unduly sacrificed in case of our death.

Take the case of executors who find a stamp collection in the goods they have to dispose of—probably in nine times out of ten these executors know nothing about selling stamps, but they do know that by going to a public auction to dispose of their trust goods, they are protecting themselves and probably the best interests of their clients.

In the cases of a collector dying without making a will, or not leaving any specific instructions how to dispose of his collection, the auctions offer the best means of disposing of such trust goods.

(2.) Auctions as a means of raising funds for emergency. Cases frequently arise where a collector requires a sum of money in a hurry and when his available sources of supply are all tied up. Here the stamp auctioneer fulfills a real want, for he will advance a reasonable amount of cash pending the sale of the collection. In this country where stamp collections are not usually considered as collateral securities, such cash advances by auctioneers are often of real aid in an emergency.

(3.) Auctions from the view-point of the dealer. I am aware that stamp dealers hold very diverse opinions on the stamp auctions, but there is, I think, one point of view where we are all, more or less, in accord.

The auctions offer all of us in the trade constant opportunities for filling up our stocks with just those items we are short of, without the necessity of buying whole collections and thus stocking a lot of goods with which we are already well supplied.

(4.) Auctions establish prices for unlisted varieties. I think a very important function of the stamp auction is to establish prices for all kinds of uncatalogued varieties. For instance, United States cancellations would not be in one-tenth the demand they are today, unless their values had been, more or less, ascertained by numerous auction sales.

This applies to many other classes and groups of stamps, such as stamps on original covers, pairs, blocks, etc., etc.

(5.) Auctions offer the means of selling goods of which the owners do not know the value. Many cases occur in which a man has stamps of which he knows nothing whatever of the value, in such cases as a non-collector inheriting a collection, or a non-collector making a find of old stamps, in such cases the ability to dispose of stamps at public auction is of great utility to him.

Let us now consider the view-points of those who are opposed to stamp auctions.

(1.) Collectors are afraid of "rings" or "combines." I have often heard this discussed in Europe but, in my opinion there is very little, or anything to fear in this respect. Auctioneers send out thousands of catalogues, and usually hundreds of bids are sent to them or to local agents from all parts of the country, then there are the large attendance of buyers "on the floor" many of whom are unknown to one another.

I know personally of some cases in very important sales, such as the "Ferrary", where a few great buyers have agreed not to oppose one another for their special wants, but such cases are very rare, and have usually ended in disagreements among the parties concerned. I think this "bugbear" can be quite ignored.

(2.) Collectors who sell at auction are afraid that many of their stamps will be sacrificed. Here, of course, is the great danger of auctions, and it is what all vendors are likely to suffer from at one time or another. There are many things that adversely affect the auction sale, the weather, the attendance, the description of the lots, and the quality of the goods. As far as my experience goes, old issues, especially imperf. stamps, stamps on covers, and cancelled stamps of old issues with nice postmarks bring good prices, but generally speaking stamps of the twentieth century of the better class bring about half catalogue, which common and poorer class of goods may bring from a quarter to a sixth of catalogue, or even less for some of the cheap war and post-war issues of the past ten years.

Summing up and speaking very generally, I am of the opinion that living owners of collections, who have the time, can do better to dispose of their stamps through the trade, but in the case of executors dealing with goods with which they are not acquainted or of non-collectors acquiring stamps, they will probably be well advised to sell their property through the stamp auctions.

NEWS GLEANINGS.
—Excerpt from a letter from Mark S. Woodin, Esq., Olympia, Washington:—
(Such a letter as this repays one for a whole lot of the hard work and occasional unpleasantness of stamp dealing.)
.....I have really had very little trouble in answering philatelic advertisements and cases of dishonesty have been very rare in my stamp collecting experience. I believe that stamp collectors and dealers on the whole, form an exceptionally honest class of people."—FREDERICK S. EATON.

—The New York Times of November 10 covered the Sir Nicholas Waterhouse sale in a readable way and made a feature of the price of over $3,500 for the block of eight used five cent stamps of 1847. In the same issue there is an interesting article headed, "Demand for War Stamps", in which it is shown that the great accession of new issues here are not a few of the recent stamps that have become scarce.

—The St. Lawrence Stamp Co., formerly made up of E. W. and S. N. Oughtred, consists now of a partnership of S. N. Oughtred with G. H. Wilson at Montreal, Canada. The firm has a comfortable office in the Drummond Bldg., which is expected to become a meeting place for the stamp collectors of the city.

—A. A. Leve, Syracuse, N. Y., would like to hear from anyone who has offered him for purchase any imperforate U. S. revenues, singles, blocks and pairs. November 1 a registered letter containing stamps of this character was stolen from a desk at a Skaneateles, N. Y. school, the property of Mr. Leve.

DEFECTS IN STAMPS.

By PHILOLOGOS.

On several occasions I have been asked which are the most serious defects in a stamp and which is the order of the more important defects that one commonly meets with.

I do not suppose that we shall find many collectors who would group defects in the same order; some will think that a certain defect is more important and more of a deterrent than others would group it, but it may be of interest to vent one's opinions and see what others have to say on this subject.

Personally I am of the opinion that the usual defects in a stamp should be grouped in the following order, placing the most serious ones first:—

I. Mended or Repaired Stamps.

I consider that a stamp that has been repaired by having a portion added or that in the case of a perforated stamp has had one or more sides perforated is the worst defect. With such a stamp one is never very sure how much is good and how much is bad. In the case of a great rarity, some collectors have this photographed in its original damaged condition and then repaired and this seems a good plan to adopt.

The value of a repaired stamp is very much reduced, it may be to only a quarter, or even a less amount, of its original value.

II. Stamps Badly Centered.

I class this as the second most serious defect. Say a stamp perfectly centered is worth $25.00, if this is badly centered with the design cut right into on top or bottom and on one side, such a stamp is hard to sell at $10.00. In fact a badly centered stamp is a serious defect and reduces the value materially.

III. Heavy Cancellation.

This, of course, is a question of degree. A stamp lightly cancelled, especially one with the centre of the stamp clear and legible, is always saleable, but a really heavy cancellation is usually a serious defect. An exception to this is in the case where a collection is being built up specially of cancellations. In such cases stamps that are quite heavily obliterated are acceptable as these show the desired details. In general collections, however, it is very advisable to seek for lightly cancelled copies.

IV. Thin Spots, or Skinned Stamps.

A thin spot seems to be anathema to many collectors, and I think I know several who would place this as the most serious defect in a stamp, a view with which I do not agree in the slightest. In my opinion the appearance of the face of the stamp is by far the most important fact, and I would accept many early issues with thin spots far sooner than the same stamps mended, badly centered or heavily cancelled. I am not for a moment advocating the collecting of badly skinned stamps, but am referring to the very common case where a collector rejects an otherwise fine copy because it has a minute thin spot. I think this is both foolish and unnecessary.

One must consider, somewhat, each case on its merits. Take the case of the first of the General Issues of the Confederate States. These stamps had to be printed on any paper that could be obtained in the stress and turmoil of war, and they are usually printed on a soft porous paper which almost always tears when one tries to peel them off covers, as was usually done in earlier days. I have seen considerable lots of these stamps lately and I am sure that not ten per cent of them are without thin spots, otherwise many of them are fine copies and suitable for inclusion in any collection. More especially do I consider that stamps with thin spots may and should be used when reconstructing the different plates.

V. Discolored Stamps.

Stamps that are faded or discolored by exposure to light or by soaking or by treatment with chemicals may be slightly damaged, or almost entirely spoilt, if the ill-treatment has been long continued, such for instance as stamps exposed to strong light in shop windows or dealers' show cases. Many stamps so exposed are printed in fugitive colors and lose almost all their value to a real collector.

VI. No Gum.

This, of course, only applies to unused stamps. I class it last of the greater defects in stamps. I agree with my friend, Eustace Power, in thinking that according to some collectors, gum must be worth about a million dollars a pint!

No doubt an unused stamp in full mint state (why do we all say "mint" state, a stamp does not come from the "mint"—that only applies to coins and medals—it seems to me that a far more correct term would be to say "Post-office" state, that is, as it came from the P. O., with full gum and in perfect fresh condition), is better than one without gum, but I am quite certain that very many old stamps, especially those of the United States, that are offered as "mint" have had the gum added, long after they have been printed. Let us look for stamps well centered, good colors, bright and fresh in appearance, but not stick out for original gum on all our old issues which we certainly do not always get.

WANTED—10,000 LINES DURING 1925.

CORRESPONDENCE PASSED BETWEEN "HOME OF THE POSTAGE STAMP" AND OUR PUBLICATION.

DEAR MR. WYLIE:—

We have contracted to use 5,000 lines of advertising in the WEEKLY during the current year. We over-ran this contract in September and the indications are that we shall pay nearly if not quite $200.00 more than our contract calls for. As you are well aware, the Home of the Postage Stamp is one of the few firms whose advertising is solely and entirely centered in the WEEKLY. Since last March, when we extended our contract to 5,000 lines, no other stamp journal of any shape or description has carried a line of advertising for us. Our prosperity is then solely the result of advertisements in the WEEKLY coupled with our own direct methods.

The question now arises, "What is to be the nature of our contract with the Severn-Wylie-Jewett Co., during 1925?" We realize that you do not make mention of a contract larger than 5,000 lines—is there any reason why you would not be willing to write a larger contract at a more favorable rate? During the coming year we expect to use 10,000 lines of advertising space and we want to know the most favorable rate that you can quote—how much less than 10c per line? We are planning some new things in advertising for the coming year and these features will have a prominent place in our announcements.

HOME OF THE POSTAGE STAMP,
Joseph V. K. Wells.

DEAR MR. WELLS:—

The WEEKLY certainly appreciates your letter of Nov. 29. It is the sincerest form of flattery in that you present a tangible proposition for our consideration. Your firm is not the first one to ask for a 10,000-line contract, and our answer has been the same in each instance, viz.:—

(a) The cost of publishing the WEEKLY is so great that we cannot afford to consider the selling of advertising space at less than 12½c per line, or $1.50 per inch.

(b) To use 10,000 lines in the course of a year an advertiser must take at least sixteen inches per week upon an average, but of course many advertisements would be considerably larger in view of the inevitable summer dullness. There is a disadvantage in such a large contract as this, because advertisers using small space feel that their announcements do not receive fair consideration.

A 5,000-line contract (eight inches per week) is as large a contract as we desire, though we cannot complain in case an advertiser uses more than that amount at the same rate.

We feel, as no doubt you do, that the next two years will prove a very prosperous period in American philately and we hope that you will decide to take out a similar contract to the one you have used during the past year.

THE COLLECTORS CLUB, NEW YORK.

THE 1924-1925 PROGRAM.

In planning the program of the Collectors Club for the present season, the Governors have decided to continue the scheme that proved so successful last season, of asking philatelists in other cities to show at our Club, and, at the same time, expressing the willingness of the membership of the Club to reciprocate by giving displays in these cities, if so desired.

The Governors have also decided to extend the "Competition" evenings, as this feature has proven itself popular.

We are anxious to have as many of our members as possible enter in these competitions as they are so arranged as to put all collectors on a par. Silver and bronze medals will be awarded in these competitions, at the discretion of the Judges.

Last season it was very gratifying to note the attendance of local members at our meetings, particularly when visiting philatelists exhibited. To those of the members who missed these displays, we suggest a special effort on their part, to attend them during the coming season.

One and all of us should bear in mind the old and true saying that "knowledge is power," and none of us are so well-informed that we cannot learn and profit by the displays and talks that are planned for our mutual benefit.

The meetings will be held as usual, at 8 P. M., on the first and third Wednesday in the month.

Try to keep these dates open.

December 17.—Alfred F. Lichtenstein, New York. Exhibit: Switzerland, Cantonal and silk thread issues.

January 7.—The exhibit for this date has not yet been arranged.

January 14.—Annual Meeting, and Dinner and Competition No. 2. A collection not exceeding fifty pages from one country, at 3 P. M. in the Club Rooms.

February 4.—H. S. Redfield, Hartford, Conn. Exhibit: United States, Postage and Revenue.

February 18.—H. C. Needham, Brooklyn, N. Y. Exhibit: United States Locals.

March 4.—A. H. Lamborn, Montclair, N. J. Exhibit: United States 1894, to 1900, inclusive.

March 18.—Charles Lathrop Pack, Lakewood, N. J. Exhibit: Victoria, early issues and Presentation of The Collectors Club Medal.

April 1.—Competition No. 3. A collection not exceeding fifty pages from various countries. Mr. J. Insley Blair, Tuxedo Park, N. Y. Exhibit: Some volumes of his general collection, including the United States.

April 15.—F. R. V. Williams, Baltimore, Md. Exhibit: Twentieth Century British Colonials, practically complete in all varieties.

May 6.—Aug. Dietz, Richmond, Va. A talk on "The various processes of the Graphic Arts as employed in the production of the Postage Stamps of the Confederate States of America," together with an exhibit of designs submitted to the Confederate Treasury Department, trial and printing plates, and other items of interest to the student.

May 20.—Robert P. Levis, New York. Exhibit: War Issues of the British Colonies and Possessions.

June 3.—Major J. A. Steinmetz, Philadelphia. Exhibit: One hundred covers, tragic, dramatic and romantic souvenirs of early stamp days.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—The Martauco Stamp Co., 537 Fifth Ave., N. Y. City, has just issued a whole-sale bulletin, advertising a clearance sale of single stamps. Dealers will do well to procure a copy.

—H. P. Atherton informs us that a new used block of four black Jacksons fetched the remarkable price of $70 at the last Drew sale.

—The Y. Souren Co., 145 Nassau St., N. Y. City, has just issued a very complete check list of Ukraina and the firm will doubtless advertise this list in an early number of the WEEKLY.

—The Atlas Stamp Co. has removed from 40 Packard Av., to 75 Electric Av., West Somerville, Mass., where the firm has a more modern house with much better equipment.

—Victor Weiskopf, Box 298, G. C. Station, N. Y. City, is sending out a wholesale pricelist of German stamps, which is remarkable in its completeness. 11 of the numbers from 80 to 321 are with few exceptions priced per one and ten, and nearly all the lots per hundred. Mr. Weiskopf has just returned from an extended tour through Europe and brought with him an enormous stock of German stamps. Any dealer can procure copy on request.

—C. A. L.—We know of no insurance company which will insure postage stamps.

—Precancelled stamp collectors residing in New York and vicinity who are desirous of forming a local club will please communicate with Francis F. Feeley, 1087 E. 4th St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

—Last winter the Burt McCann Co., of Minneapolis gave talks over the radio, advertised in the school papers, and followed up both lines of publicity with gratifying results. The firm is much pleased at the fact that the North High School of Minneapolis has asked them to send a speaker from time to time during the winter. We quote with our highest approval the following extract from the firm's letter:—

"We have been interested lately in the Boys Clubs. North High School, Minneapolis, called us up last week and wanted us to furnish them a speaker to talk on stamps for thirty minutes. We were pleased that we were able to get Mr. Gerald Burgess, who is a member of the Twin City Philatelic Club, to go up to the school auditorium and address them. He gave them a very instructive talk; all of the history teachers in the building took the trouble to attend and expressed themselves as very much in favor of such talks, and thought stamps were a great incentive to the study of history and geography. Mr. Burgess brought his collection with him and the boys were simply wild with enthusiasm. In fact, it was almost impossible to break up the assembly."

—A few weeks ago there appeared in the WEEKLY an article on counterfeit Belgian Charity stamps and in the same issue appeared the advertisement of a British dealer advertising the stamps. One of our subscribers, Allen Burgan, wrote the dealer for a set of the stamps providing they were the genuine article. The order was filled and the dealer wrote as follows:—

"As the overprints on the 1c and 2c corresponded to the so-called counterfeits described in the article you send I have gone into this matter with the official source from which I obtained my stamps. In fact, they came from the Belgian government. The solution is that the overprints on the 1c and 2c values were always in a different type than on the 5c and 10c values, and in fact, in the well known French Catalog of Yvert & Tellier, the two different types of overprints '1911' are illustrated."

—The Philatelist's International Finance Corporation of New York City is inviting financial support in its desire to capitalize for three millions of dollars. It is the intention of the corporation to have branches in many of the larger cities of the country, and according to the prospectus, the chief business of the concern will be the loaning of money on stamp collections.

TIME LIMIT ON PAYMENT OF BILLS.

Our advertising bills are payable on presentation and this rule is generally observed. Of course, "presentation" is an elastic term to some people and we feel compelled to announce that the 18th of the month will hereafter be the limit.

This rule is made to aid us in making up the forms of the first issue of the following month and hereafter no advertising will appear in that issue unless the previous month's bill has been paid.

We pay our bills on presentation and expect our patrons to do likewise by us.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EDITORIAL.

An Acknowledgment.

An editor appears to be an anomaly in grammar as being one person, but writing of himself by the use of the plural "we". In these paragraphs we propose to adopt the established custom. First we wish to thank our dear friends Charlie Severn and Willard O. Wylie for stepping out of the editorial chair and allowing us to occupy it on this special occasion.

The invitation to edit the famous stamp journal we are in charge of this week, was an honor that we greatly appreciate as it affords us an opportunity of placing before the largest group of American Philatelists that anyone publication can reach, our personal views on a number of subjects, some of which, we trust, will lead to friendly discussion, in the pages of this paper.

We know that in many cases we hold opinions on various points of interest to the stamp trade, that are not held by others, and we shall be glad to have correspondence pro and con on any of the subjects that we have started.

Collectors Club Annual Dinner.

The Annual Dinner of The Collectors Club, New York, will be held at the Astor Hotel on Wednesday, January 14th next.

It is hoped that a very large attendance of the members and their friends will be present. All out-of-town members, who are planning a visit to New York after the New Year should try and arrange to be there on January 14th.

Arrangements should be made as early as possible so that the dinner committee can secure a room of the best size for the number expected.

Dinner tickets will be six dollars each and can be secured from Mr. Charles M. Ams, 101 Park Avenue, New York.

Competition at the Club.

On the occasion of the annual dinner on January 14th, a special meeting will be held at the club rooms, 120 West 49th St., New York, at 3 p. m., at which members are asked to show fifty pages from any one country of their collections.

The "Competition" meetings seem very popular and draw a number of entries and a large attendance. The governors hope that a large number of members will show interesting pages of their favorite country. Prizes of silver and bronze medals will be awarded and even the non-winners can give useful information to their fellow members by showing us groups of stamps they have studied.

The Greatest Philatelic Centre.

When we sold out our controlling interest in Stanley Gibbons, Ltd., a little over two years ago, we had to consider where to spend the balance of our days to our greatest advantage from all points of view.

After very careful consideration we decided that the United States offered advantages far outweighing those of any other country and since we settled here we find our choice far more than justified. The growth of Philately in the United States has been very great in the last ten years.

Some fifty years ago France was a centre of stamp collecting, and many famous old collections were formed in that country.

Gradually Great Britain ousted France and for many years held first place, but before the great war of 1914 Germany had become a very serious competitor, and was the home and centre of a very great mass of collectors.

During and since the war the United States has become the richest country in the world, and for the last ten years Europe has been drained of very many of its artistic treasures which have come here to form an enormous number of great collections in all branches of the collecting field.

Among these stamps have had an important position. Today I have no hesitation in saying that the United States has more and greater active great stamp collectors than any other country in the whole world.

The Future of Philately in the U. S.

In considering what is the probable future of philately in this country there are several things to be taken into account, a few of which we will discuss briefly.

Considering the population of this great country we do not think that philately is one quarter as general as it might be in, say, ten years' time, if general and intelligent means are taken to foster its growth.

Steps in the right direction have been taken by Mr. E. B. Power in conjunction with the Scott Stamp & Coin Co., by an interesting series of talks over the radio-broadcasting stations, and by the issue of thousands of small albums and sets of stamps. Mr. Power tells us that nearly 20,000 letters were received in answer to his talks.

In St. Louis the good work has been taken up by Mr. H. A. Diamant, who has given radio talks and also addressed large audiences in the Sheldon Memorial Hall.

These good friends have done excellent propaganda work, but this costs money and such work should not be thrown on individuals or firms.

It seems to us that this is a fine work for our great American Philatelic Society to take up. This society has over 3,200 members, it is growing rapidly and it has good funds in hand.

In its recruiting folders it has a heading:—

"Shall we place our shoulders together to advance philately?"

We certainly should, and all A. P. S. members should urge this on the officials of that organization, and should see that this subject is well thrashed out at the next convention in Los Angeles.

The next point to which we wish to draw attention is the necessity of establishing confidence and good feeling between the collector and the dealer. We deal with this in a separate article in this number.

Show Willingness to Help Others.

Be a good mixer, get about and visit all the conventions, stamp societies and clubs that you can take in, and everywhere you go do something for philatelic propaganda.

We, in New York, of the Collectors Club, love to have visitors from other cities to show us their treasures, give us interesting talks and to meet in social intercourse. In return many of our members are very willing to visit out-of-town clubs and give displays and talks where so desired.

To show what we mean we might mention that within the past six months we have shown and spoken at Toronto, Winnipeg, St. Paul, Milwaukee, Chicago,

THE MARK CLIMAX SPECIAL

Including a BLOCK OF THE 2 MARK "Red, white and blue" No. 131. We retail this block at 85c all the time. We got a few blocks especially cheap from a chap who had kept them a long time and then wanted money in a hurry. There are also BLOCKS of the Castle and Cathedral, the 50Mird, and the Tausend and Milliarden Provisionals are practically complete. Guaranteed to catalog $12.00 by 1925 Cat.

THE MAGYAR CROWD

Never before has Hungary been represented with a collection like this. The issues of the Republic are practically complete—including the BOLSHIEVSKI. The catalog value is about $12.00 and we know you never bought a better bargain.

MUCH MORE CLUTTER

Here is a lot to make your heart rejoice. No dealer ever worked harder to get a lot together than we did to find the stock for this "M.C." We wanted QUALITY as well as QUANTITY and that's a hard combination to get in Danzig. The 250Mk No. 108 cat. 40c is included and the 1923 Air Post is Complete. That's only a sample of the good things in THE MUCH MORE CLUTTER.

GOOD FELLOWSHIP.

By CHARLES J. PHILLIPS.

The English language as spoken and as spelt in England and in America is very different in several respects and contains many pitfalls for the unsophisticated visitor, but while this is one of the things we find out soon after our arrival in this great country, there are others that only come home to us when we have resided here for some time.

In England the leading collectors and dealers used to get together in social life and in good fellowship much more than seems to be the case over here. Among men known internationally in stamp circles like M. P. Castle, L. L. R. Hausburg, T. W. Hall, E. D. Bacon, R. B. Yardley, W. T. Wilson, W. H. Peckitt, Hugo Griebert, Hamilton-Smith and many others, it was a common occurrence to visit at one another's homes for week-ends, and to have dinner and theatre parties and social engagements, when we all got well acquainted and found what a darned good chap the other fellow was.

There are, of course, many reasons that make social habits different in our two countries.

In England we were all close together, distances were small and visits were easy to arrange.

Personally I have travelled some six thousand miles during this summer and autumn and have been received throughout Canada and the United States with the greatest kindness, hospitality and courtesy in every town I have visited. The object I have at heart in this short article is to see if I cannot do a little to increase and foster the Good Fellowship that I see growing up in America between collectors and dealers in all our big towns and cities.

Speaking as a Governor of the Collectors Club of New York, I am sure I am voicing the opinion of all the officers of that Club, when I invite every Philatelist who comes to New York to call at our Club rooms at 120 West 49th St., New York, and especially to visit us on our bi-monthly meeting nights, the first and third Wednesday in each month.

In the case of cities within a few hours by rail of New York, there are many members of the Collectors Club very willing to visit other stamp Clubs and give the members a show and a talk and thus help us all to get acquainted.

I sincerely hope that this season we shall see a considerable development in the social side of our hobby and we should all do as much as lies in our power to develop and encourage Good Fellowship among Philatelists.

SUBSCRIPTION RENEWALS.

Some of our subscribers need to know our rule regarding discontinuances. We discontinue all subscriptions in arrears promptly the second issue of each month. This means that your subscription should be renewed prior to expiration. The expiration number can be ascertained by consulting your wrapper. No free copies of the WEEKLY are sent out and this rule is as fixed as the laws of the M. and P. Our older subscribers understand our rule and the newer subscribers should get acquainted with it.

A seven weeks' visit to Europe including London, Paris, Brussels, Amsterdam, Berlin, Vienna, Prague, Venice, Rome, Milan, Lucerne and Bale certainly should produce something worth while in the way of United States issues, and on my return I hope to be able to offer to my clients an even larger stock to select from than the one I now hold.

Those who are looking for the unusual as well as those seeking the normal should drop me a line to arrive on my return December 16th.

Those having fine things to offer should communicate with me, for if I visit nine countries seeking for the almost unobtainable, I certainly am in a position to pay even more for fine properties here.

What have you for sale? Early mint blocks especially wanted.

AUSTRIA.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal lists a series of Charity stamps all perf. 12½ and of different designs. The values and shades are as follows: 100x300kr green, 300x900kr red brown and 500x1500kr brown-purple, 600x1800kr greenish blue and 1000x3000kr brown orange.

BELGIUM.—The handsome new series commemorating the seventy-fifth anniversary of the introduction of postage stamps into Belgium (foreshadowed in these columns some months ago) was due for issue on Saturday last, comprising a whole range of denominations, from 10 centimes to 10 francs. It will be remembered that these stamps were to have been issued in May last, during the Brussels International Stamp Exhibition, but difficulties were encountered in the engraving and printing processes, and production was unavoidably deferred. The actual anniversary commemorated occurred on July 1st.

In the meantime our Brussels correspondent, Mr. H. Hooreman, sends us the 10c value of the current Postage Due BRAZIL.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal chronicles the following values in the current types, watermarked "Casa da Moeda" between rows of stars, repeated in sheet: 10r dull violet, 20r olive grey, 100r orange and 400r dull blue.

BRITISH HONDURAS.—We have received from Mr. R. Roberts the 25c on script watermarked paper. Also the $5 black on red on old multiple CA paper.

FRENCH EQUATORIAL AFRICA.—The stamps of Middle Congo and of Tchad, overprinted for this territory, have now been followed by similar provisionals on the adhesives of Oubangui-Chari. Messrs. Whitfield King & Co. send us the 1c of this series and inform us that they have received all values of it, from 1c to 5fr, overprinted "AFRIQUE EQUATORIALE FRANCAISE" (on stamps of Middle Congo already overprinted "OUBANGUI-CHARI." Presumably the Gaboon stamps will also be subjected to this earmark.—Stamp Collecting.

GERMANY.—Mr. M. A. Woodbury writes that sometime ago he came upon a copy of the 5mk brown orange, type A31, unwatermarked. He adds that he has recently noticed a growing tendency among collectors to secure these minor varieties which heretofore have been considered of no importance.

GREAT BRITAIN.—Regarding the new "To Pay" series the Philatelic Magazine states:

"It is not improbable, therefore, that the Post Office will adopt this shorter inscription on the other values of the Postage Due series, for the sake of uniformity. The size and design is in all other respects identical to the other Postage

Due values. The need for a higher value occurs, owing to the practice of collecting postage due from large mail order houses in bulk, i.e., instead of putting 30 separate 1d, or 60 separate ½d, stamps on single items returned, they are bundled, and the total amount to be collected is indicated, with as few stamps as possible, on the top letter. The need for a higher value than 1sh, which has been the highest value hitherto, has become pressing, and we should not be surprised if a 5sh value were also introduced.

Another new watermark.—The Philatelic Magazine is able to state that the British Post Office is at present experimenting with a new paper, which has a closer arrangement of the block-letter "G v R and Crown" watermark. Printings have, according to our information, been confined at present to the 1d and 1½d values. Supplies of these have been sent to the larger centres, with instructions to distribute them and to watch for and report any complaints which may be received as to the quality of the paper, liability to tear, and so on, and to report upon them to headquarters.

Specimens of both old and new 1d and 1½d values are before us. The experimental printings of both values have Control B24. The watermark has a thicker appearance, but this is probably due to the inferior quality of the paper. Its main difference is that in the experimental paper, the watermarks are much closer together. The difference may perhaps best be indicated by measuring the spaces between the separate watermarks, both vertically and horizontally.—Stamp Collecting.

NICARAGUA.—Mr. A. A. Wasserscheid sends us a postal card received by him which is franked with a copy of the 1c violet, type of the 1914 issue, surcharged "R. de C., 1924" in blue and a 2c carmine rose of the same type bisected. Mr. Wasserscheid advises that he took the matter up with Scott, asking whether they intended listing the bisected 2c, and they stated that they had no information that the bisect was authorized and therefore did not make a practice of listing anything of this kind, excepting the regularly authorized varieties. Upon communicating with the Nicaraguan Consul in New York, he advised that the bisecting of stamps as on the card was regular and official.

NYASALAND.—Mr. R. Roberts sends us a copy of the 256d on the script watermark paper and advises that these are printed in sheets of 60 (12x5).

POLAND.—A few days ago there was a big shipment of British-minted silver coinage to Poland and, as if to mark the occasion, we have from our Ipswich friends the first value of what we presume to be a new series of postage stamps for that Republic. It is of the denomination of 1 zloty and has the portrait of the President on a solid background of brilliant red with inscription "POCZTA POLSKA" in uncoloured capitals at top and "1 ZLOTY 1" in red in a band beneath the portrait.—Stamp Collecting.

"DX STAMPS" ARE NOW SOUGHT.

Radio has made more liars than fishing, it is said, and no conversation is complete without the ravings of the "DX" fan, who hears the coast on one tube almost every night. The principal broadcasting stations in the country have launched a plan that promises to furnish a new hobby to the radio public and the "DX" fan. Each station has a supply of steel engraved stamps, printed in different colors for the stations on different wave lengths.

To receive one of the stamps the fan must write to the station giving the time it was heard and the numbers heard. The station staff will then check back on their records to verify the numbers heard. If the report is correct the station will then mail a stamp carrying the call letters of the station.

The idea originated from a combination of two hobbies, that of stamp collecting and the applause card used in writing to a station in expression of thanks for their programs. It is estimated that there are over three million stamp collectors in the country today, and the letters of appreciation that pour into the various broadcasting stations indicate that there must be several million radio fans who write to their favorite broadcasting stations. The popularity of the radio stamp collections promises to increase this number even further.

An album has been arranged for the radio stamp collector. It contains ninety-two pages, with spaces for the stamps of all of the recognized stations in the United States and Canada, arranged alphabetically by States and call letters. It also contains a complete list of stations arranged alphabetically according to call letters, geographically according to stations and town and numerically according to wave length with ample dialading blanks for logging stations. In addition there is a large map of the United States drawn to scale, and a radio log sufficient to accommodate 240 stations.

The stamps are printed on bond paper, in different colors for the various wave lengths, thus making a very artistic arrangement of the page of the album. The stamps show a huge American eagle, the king of the air, standing between two radio towers. The call letters of the station are in a different color from the background so as to stand out prominently. Below the call letters is printed, "Verification of reception." A uniform charge of ten cents is being made by all of the stations.—N. Y. Sun.

THE COLLECTORS CLUB, NEW YORK.

Report by CHAS. J. PHILLIPS.

The second meeting of the season was held at the Club rooms, 120 West 49th St., on Wednesday, November 5th, at 8 p. m. The Exhibit of the evening was Early Issues of New South Wales, by Theo. E. Steinway. Among those present I noted Mr. C. L. Pack, who was able to give us some useful information on this, one of his favorite countries.

Mr. Steinway, in the course of his chatty remarks, gave us an interesting brief outline of early Australian history and showed from an old history from his library one of the earliest lists of the people who were sent to Botany Bay when it was a penal settlement. This "Social Register" was examined with keen interest.

Mr. Steinway then showed two volumes of his stamps. I was only able to make a few brief notes of the many interesting items it contained.

The first page shown included a lithographic impression of essays for the 1d and 3d Sydneys with the errors in the spelling of the Latin motto which reads "SIC PORTIS ETTURIA CREVIT" for "SIC FOR-TIS ETTURIA-CREVIT."

There is also a very fine block of eight of the Clayton 1d lithographed essays on India paper. In the fine pages of Sydney Views I draw attention to the following:

1d, Plate I. Used block of four on bluish paper, seven pairs and plate of 23 out of the 25 types.

1d, Plate II. Three pairs and reconstructed plate complete except two types.

2d, Plate I. Some superb early impressions and 21 of the 24 varieties.

2d, Plate I. The "retouched" lower row of 12 complete. Mr. Pack drew our attention to the possibility of some retouching having been done in the upper row.

2d, Plate II. Complete all but one type.

2d, Plate III. Complete all but two types.

2d, Plate IV. Complete all but three types.

2d, Plate IV. On laid paper with 5 types short.

2d, Plate V. Complete except 2 types. In the 3d green Sydneys, Mr. Steinway showed partially reconstructed plates on the yellowish and bluish papers, including a strip of four and several pairs. In the Sydneys I also noted several 2d and 3d on covers.

In the Laureated no wmk. issue all values are shown plated except the 8d orange. He drew attention to the 2d Stars in corners and considered that a separate variety should be catalogued "on blue paper", which is several times as rare as the yellowish paper. The 3d plate was complete and exceptionally fine as it included two blocks of six, five blocks of four and four pairs.

Mr. Steinway is exceptionally strong in the 6d brown. In Plate I he shows complete separate plates in brown and gray-brown; and in Plate II, also two plates of distinct colors complete all but one or two types. He also drew attention to the 6d laureated on covers used with a 2d stamp and stated that these 6d's were used for the "Registration" fee prior to the introduction of the imperf. red and blue registration stamp.

In the 8d I noted one used on cover in conjunction with a 1d red and some ten used copies.

In the "Laureated" issue with watermark, there are two of the scarce 3d green error wmk. "2". In the "Diademed" issue a fine piece is a block of 8 of the 3d green used on cover.

The large square stamps imperf. are a fine lot and I specially noted two fine shades of the 8d used on covers, one dated "4 JA. 1859", the other, "14 JY. 1859".

In the Diademed issue there is a fine 2d really lithographed with certificate of the R. P. S. L., also a fine lot of "Retouches" on the 2d, both imperf. and perforated.

The third meeting of the season was held on Wednesday, November 19th. This was a Competition evening, the subject being: "From twelve to twenty of the most interesting items from your collection with reasons written under each one why you so consider them."

Some very interesting exhibits were shown, among them I am only able to note a few of the more uncommon items:—

ALFRED F. LICHTENSTEIN.

New Brunswick—6d yellow and quarter of 6d used for the 7½d rate. This is one of the rarest bisections of New Brunswick.

Switzerland—Silk thread issue, 5 rapen, error of color, blue instead of brown. This is the true rare error and not one of the color proofs. It is in a pale milky blue color used on cover postmarked "Basel 26 June, 1855." Zurich, 4rp and half of 4rp used on cover for the 6rp rate, one of the greatest rarities of this country.

Newfoundland—A very important of-Germany.

There were a number of other very interesting exhibits, but the space at my command is not sufficient to describe them. I think all members of the Club will admit that the inspection of such uncommon items, and the talks upon them by the owners, are worth, to them, far more than the very nominal amount we are paying annually as members of the Collectors Club.

FOOT STAMPS.

An old negro woman lately gave a letter to the mail agent on the Carolina train at the station near Branchville, United States, and asked him to send it to her. The agent said the letter must be stamped.

The old woman became indignant, said the darkies were free, and "Whar war de use of freeing the culled pussons ef you didn't free de letters too?" and finally yelled out, "How many stamps he want eh?"

The mail agent said, "Three."
Down went the letter, and down went the old woman's heel.

"Dar, dar, dar! Dar's three stamps Dat enuff, eh?"

She was in angry earnest, and the bystanders were amused accordingly. The agent saw the joke, volunteered to pay the money for the stamp, and thus doubly stamped, the letter was sent to its destination.—*Mason's Stamp Collector's

A POST OFFICE INCIDENT.

The following incident, said to have taken place in Paris, is so good, and contains such a capital moral for the edification of people prone to find fault with the postmasters, that we translate it with pleasure.

The widow Richard is an old lady addicted to making "bulls," and is of a piece with a good woman who poured out the coffee to feast upon the grounds. It was a blunder something of this character she had just committed, and for which she had come to answer at the post-office.

The cause of the hubbub occurred in one of the city post-offices of Paris, where the clerk whose duty it was to attend to unpaid letters was suddenly accosted by a woman, who rushed in in great trepidation. The woman was the widow Richard.

"Sir," she exclaimed, in a voice trembling with anger, "how does it happen, I should like to know, that when one has prepaid the postage on a letter, the person to whom it is sent is made to pay for it again?"

"How it happens, madam?" cried the clerk. "Why, it don't happen at all."

"Well, I say that it does happen; and what's more, that it happened today. There!"

"And I tell you again that it is impossible that it should be so."

"But it is a person of my acquaintance to whom I wrote yesterday, and whose letter I prepaid, who says she had to pay for it too. She was furious about it, and I don't wonder she was, for I wrote her concerning my own affairs, and she had to pay the postage. It's downright robbery, I say!"

Thereupon the widow kicked up such a rumpus that it was found necessary to call in a policeman and take her before a magistrate. Instead of pacifying Madam Richard, this proceeding nearly threw her into the last degree of exasper-

803 WASHINGTON AVE. S. E.,

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

ation. Although the officer requested her to assume a proper line of conduct, the widow persisted in her fury, and stamped and screamed most uproariously.

"To be told, too, that I don't know what I done with it!" she cried.

"Done with what?" inquired the magistrate.

"The receipt," answered the widow; "the receipt which proves that I prepaid the letter." So saying, she fumbled in all her pockets.

"There!" she exclaimed suddenly, "I've got it! Here it is!"

And she exhibited triumphantly to the magistrate—what do you imagine? A Postage Stamp! The poor lady had taken it as a receipt for the money she had paid to the clerk, and had treasured it sacredly, instead of sticking it on the letter.

The blunder was duly explained to her amid the laughter of the spectators. She promptly acknowledged her fault, and regretting she had given way to her anger, begged the court to deal leniently with her, pleading her ignorance as the cause of the storming and abuse of which she stood convicted.

The court took the culprit's general good conduct into consideration, as well as her contrition, and fined her sixteen francs only. — Stamp Collector's Gazette.

POSTAL CURIOSITIES.

The following curious addresses to letters were quoted in the A. J. of P. of October, 1870, but probably will be new to most of our readers of 54 years later.

Mr. —, Traveling Band, one of the four playing in the street, Persha (Pershire), Worcestershire.

Please to find him if possible.

E. R. —, a cook as lived tempery with a Mrs. L. —, or some such name, a shoemaker in Castle-street about No. — Hobern in 1851; try to make this out. She is a Welch person about five feet stoutish. Lives in service some ware in London or naboured. London.

This is for her that "maks" dresses for ladies, that livs at tother side of road to James Brocklig, Edensover, Chesterfield.

This is for the young girl that wears spectacles, who minds "two babies," 30 Sherriff Street, off Prince Edwin Street, Liverpool.

There is a letter addressed:—

The biggest fool in the world, Tunbridge.

This is drily endorsed by the Postmaster, to the effect that it cannot be delivered, as he does not know the writer.

15c 1869 INVERT BRINGS $335.

One of the few error United States postage stamps was sold at auction recently for $335. It was a lightly cancelled copy of the 15 cents issue of 1869, printed in two colors but by a mistaken placement of the plate, the central figure was inverted. The catalogue value of this error is $750, but the copy sold was marred by having a tiny pin hole.

This stamp was one of more than 500 lots, including an exceptionally fine assortment of United States and foreign stamps accumulated by M. Ohlman to celebrate his one hundredth auction sale, which was held at 116 Nassau Street. Walter Scott was the auctioneer, and most of the prominent dealers and many well known collectors were present.

The second highest price was $169.50, paid for a very fine penny 1848 issue of Mauritius. An early Natal, the 6-penny embossed stamp of 1857, on a small piece of the original envelope, sold for $45, and $45.50 was paid for an excellent copy of the scarce 8-penny stamp of Ceylon, 1857. A copy of an old British Guiana stamp, the 1-cent issue of 1853-59, with the ship design, sold for $33, and a proof copy on gummed paper of the Canadian 12-penny stamp, 1851, sold for $30.

Good prices were paid for all of the early United States stamps and there was spirited bidding for some copies with odd cancellations. A 13-cent stamp of the 1909 issue, printed on bluish paper and lightly cancelled, sold for $33, and $28.50 was paid for an unused 90-cent copy of the 1869 reissue. A perfect copy of the 3-cent Executive Department, unused, sold for $20.50 more than the standard catalogue price. A United States $2 stamp, 1919, surcharged on the $1 stamp, for use in Shanghai, sold for $41, the high price being due to the fact that the new value had been over-printed twice. A cancelled pair of the 10-cent issue, 1851, sold for $29.75, and $24.75 was paid for a fine copy of the 90-cent stamp, 1861 issue.—N. Y. Times.

Inadvertently the address of the J. O. Moore Company was recently omitted from two advertisements of this firm, which has been using regular space upon page 3 for an indefinite period. We gladly publish this apology and hope that this reading notice will atone at least in a measure for our mistake.

EDWARD LOCHER

TEGNA near Locarno (Switzerland)

HOW A DRUNKARD WAS REFORMED.

Reforms are wrought in many and curious ways, but seldom in a stranger manner than that in which a certain drunkard was sobered. This man had wandered at midnight into a low public house. He gave his order, and then leaned against the bar for support. A man standing near by took from one pocket an addressed envelope, and from another a stamp, which he moistened with his tongue. Instead of adhering to the envelope, as the man intended, the stamp slipped from his fingers and fluttered to the floor. The tippler saw it fall, and staggered forward to pick it up. Just as he was about to grasp it, the stamp darted in a zigzag course toward the side wall like a scared thing. Filled with astonishment, the drunkard drew back and intently watched the bit of paper, which upon reaching the wall, began to ascend. As it ascended the tippler's face grew more intent, his body more rigid. He saw nothing but the mysterious moving thing. His mind was affected by years of ceaseless drinking. He thought that the animated stamp was a warning. At the top of the wainscoting the stamp stopped, squatted as if for a moment's rest before ascending higher, and then made a dart towards the tippler's haggard face. The trembling sot saw it stop, saw it hesitate, and leap. He was unquestionably doomed if he continued longer to drink to excess; the stamp had been given life to warn him. So it seemed to him. With a pitiful yell of fear he rushed from the bar-room. From that eventful night until he died in prosperous circumstances, recently, the man never swallowed a drop of liquor. The moistened stamp had fallen upon a cockroach's back and stuck there.

OVERSEA AIR MAIL.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—The establishment of a transatlantic air mail service is now under consideration by the American postal authorities, but no decision has been reached as to just when it will be put in operation.

Indications are that the appropriation that would be needed to establish an air mail route between the United States and Europe will not be asked for until December, 1925. It may be stated upon authority that no estimate for this purpose will be included in the budget to be submitted to Congress next week.

Following the arrival in New York of the German ZR-3, recently christened the "Los Angeles," postal authorities discussed the practicability of using the ship on an air route between New York and one of the English ports. It was agreed that, in view of the exploit of the ZR-3 in crossing the ocean without trouble, the plan was entirely feasible.

Under the contract by which the United States acquired the Los Angeles from Germany, the airship cannot be used in military service. Post-office authorities are hopeful that when the navy has completed the long series of experiments that are about to be made with the Los Angeles in the training of officers and crews in airship navigation, the Zeppelin will be turned over to them.

The attention of postal officials was directed today to reports from Berlin that Dr. Ecknor, who was in command of the ZR-3 on its journey from Germany to this country, had announced that a transatlantic air mail service would shortly be in operation. The officials said Dr. Ecknor was in error if he meant to convey the impression that the United States was about to start such a service.

RUSSIAN STAMP MONOPOLY.

In our issue for September 27th we published an article on "Philatelic Conditions in Russia." In this connexion we have a long report from Mr. George H. Jaeger, which the Riga correspondent of the Daily Mail summarized in that paper last week as follows:—"Red Stamp Swindle.—Government Monopoly to Trick Collectors.—'Stamp collectors, beware!' This is the warning of Mr. George H. Jaeger, the stamp sage of the Baltic, who lives in Libau, Latvia. Mr. Jaeger has received information from Moscow that the Bolshevik Government has formed a stamp monopoly which will seek to provide British and other collectors with endless issues of 'rare and limited issues of Bolshevik stamps.' Mr. Jaeger reports that the stamp monopoly considers England and the United States the best markets for these issues, and that shortly offices will be opened in London, New York and Paris. It is anticipated that the Government will derive a large income from this monopoly swindle. Eight new issues are now being prepared. The stamps are also considered by the Government as being an excellent means for Communist propaganda."—Stamp Collecting.

THE WORLD'S LEADING COLLECTORS.

MILLIONS OF DOLLARS EXPENDED IN AMASSING GREAT PHILATELIC POSSESSIONS.

One stamp collector has gathered up 95 per cent of all the different postage stamps ever issued in the world, believed to be a new record in this fascinating pursuit, Arthur H. Lamborn, who is even better known as a New York sugar broker than a philatelist, is the name. Beginning forty years ago as a boy, he has ransacked every continent for his stamps, and through agents here and in Boston, Washington, London, Paris, Berlin, Rome and Constantinople he has acquired an extraordinary collection, which now fills more than 200 volumes and which has cost him more than $300,000. After the stress of a Wall Street day, Mr. Lamborn confesses that he would not be able to sleep unless he spent an hour or two with his stamps before going to bed.

On his way to Europe last summer Mr. Lamborn overheard two Englishmen in the smoking room of a Cunarder discussing the number and location of the British colonies. Both were confident that they could name all the British possessions until Mr. Lamborn offered to wager them a pound each that he could name ten more colonies than they could. Their skepticism led Mr. Lamborn to double the wager, and the result was that he named twenty-seven more colonies than the combined geographical and historical efforts of the two Britons could assemble.

Mr. Lamborn's apology for his stamp "complex" is that stamps "teach not only geography, flora, fauna, landscapes, the names of great statesmen, architecture, but also vital and dramatic points of the country represented by its stamp."

AMERICA'S LEADING COLLECTORS.

Probably the majority of collectors, of whom Mr. Lamborn is a conspicuous example, exercise their hobby as an avocation, but a notable exception is Charles J. Phillips, an international authority and formerly managing director of Stanley Gibbons & Co. of London, the largest stamp dealers in the world. Two years ago Mr. Phillips came to New York to handle the famous Duveen collection, valued at $1,500,000, about half of which he has sold to collectors in this country. As to the buyers, Mr. Phillips has this to say:

"The greatest collector today in America is Arthur Hind, President of the Clark Mills, Utica, N. Y. Mr. Hind came into the market at the right time, when two of the most famous collections of the world were being broken up by the death of their owners, and he had the foresight to purchase the finest gems of both these collections, many of which are unique and which are constantly rising in value. Mr. Hind was the buyer of the unique British Guiana error, the one cent of 1856 printed in the color of the four cents. For this he paid $32,500.

"Charles Lathrop Pack of Lakewood, N. J., the authority on American afforestation, is recognized as the greatest student of philately in America and one of the foremost in the world. He is a specialist, that is, one who takes up a few countries and studies their stamps thoroughly and then publishes his researches for the benefit of others. For some years Mr. Pack made a close study of the early issues of Victoria, Australia, and recently published a superbly illustrated volume on these rare stamps, through the Collectors Club, New York.

"Another great collector in America is Colonel E. H. R. Green, the son of Mrs. Hetty Green. Colonel Green has only collected for a few years, but probably has a collection worth well on toward the two-million-dollar mark, as he has purchased a large number of fine and valuable collections to combine with his own.

"In the West, one of the best known is William H. Crocker, the head of the Crocker National Bank, San Francisco. He has been a collector more than twenty years and has an especially fine lot of early United States and Hawaiian stamps.

KING GEORGE AN ENTHUSIAST.

"In Great Britain King George is the leading philatelist and has been one since the days when he was a midshipman on board the Bacchante. He usually devotes at least one afternoon a week to his stamps and has done this for many years. He has written papers and made frequent exhibits of his treasures before the members of the Royal Philatelic Society of London. Last May, on the occasion of the stamp exhibition there, King George displayed about 200 volumes of his collection at Buckingham Palace and invited a number of philatelists to the palace and spent an afternoon with them, showing and explaining his collection. Among these were a number of prominent American collectors who were amazed at his philatelic knowledge. He swapped anecdotes with several of these and regretted that they often beat him in the market when they were after noted rarities.

"King Alfonso of Spain has a wonderful collection of Spain and the Spanish colonies, but recently in the Ferrary auctions in Paris was beaten in the auction room competition by Arthur Hind of Utica, who happened to have a special love for rare Spanish stamps.

"King Ahmed Fuad of Egypt has been a great stamp collector for years. A short time back he purchased one of the finest collections of the stamps of the Confederate States that has been formed in this country, that of Gerald S. Curtis of Garrison-on-Hudson.

H. F. COLMAN,

509 7th Street N. W.,

Washington, D. C.

"Prince Oscar of Sweden specializes in the interesting stamps of Scandinavia. He attends many of the meetings of the Swedish Philatelic Society, held in magnificent clubrooms in Stockholm, and takes great interest in the collection he has formed.

"In Austria probably the most noted philatelist is Prince Hohenlohe. He was for some years in the diplomatic service in South America and specialized in these old stamps which are now so popular. He is a real student and has done much to advance the proper study of the old stamps of Chile. Prince Fushimi of Japan and Prince Dammrong of Siam are two of the more noted philatelists of the Far East.

"The Earl of Crawford has formed the finest collection of American stamps extant, filling nearly fifty volumes with his United States stamps alone. Each of these books was personally written up with all historical and statistical information that he could obtain.

"The Marquis of Bute, one of the richest peers of England, is forming a collection of the stamps that came into existence during and since the great war. On this he has spent some $300,000 and is constantly adding to it. This will be of great historical importance in the future and could not be duplicated today. Other British peers who have formed famous collections have been the Earl of Kintore, the Earl of Kingston and Lord Ranfurly, late Governor of New Zealand.

"I doubt if there is any other hobby in which so many 'finds' of treasures are being constantly made as in stamp collecting. The demand for the provisional stamps issued in the early days in the United States and for the numerous issues of the Civil War is increasing by leaps and bounds and the number of stamps wanted by collectors is many times the supply, hence the prices of these old historical labels are advancing all the time.

"Many a 'treasure trove' still remains to be unearthed in this country. Many a woman has burnt a small fortune when she made a bonfire in the back garden of the old correspondence found in the attic. Many an old-established firm has sent accumulated old papers to the junk shop and so destroyed thousands of dollars' worth of valuable and saleable old stamps.

"In Philadelphia a short time back an accumulation of old papers was secured by a man who knew his subject. He got them for a song; now he is richer by over $50,000, as not only did he get valuable early stamps in quantity, but also a very important lot of early American historical letters and autographs.

"Many years ago Stanley Gibbons of London, bought a sackful of triangular Cape of Good Hope stamps from two sailors who had won them in a bazaar raffle in Cape Town. Mr. Gibbons paid $25 for his haul and told me he realized more than $3,000. Today that sack of stamps would be any one's bargain at ten times that price.

"An old gentleman in a London suburb found his schoolboy collection in his library after he had lost sight of it for over fifty years. He was going to give it to a grandson, but first took expert advice, and one great rarity was found in it. This was a Mauritius stamp of 1847 with the inscription 'post-office' on the left side in place of the commoner 'post paid.' He sold this 'treasure trove' to King George V. for $7,250.

"In Demerara, British Guiana, an old lady, a Miss Rose, found a pair of the 1850 British Guiana stamps, at 2 cents rose. She gave them to her vicar to sell for the benefit of the local church funds; since then the stamps have passed through various hands, and a few months ago were bought by Arthur Hind for $15,000."—N. Y. Times.

TWO GUIDES FOR BEGINNERS.

It seems a little singular that in the same mail we should receive two guides for the beginner in stamp collecting, and both from London. One is the "B. O. P. Stamp Book," written by Raymond Raife and the other is "Stamp Collecting for All" by Stanley Phillips. The two books are along similar lines, though the former is printed with a stiff cover at 2sh6d and the latter is paper covered at 1sh.

The "B. O. P. Stamp Book" is a handsome production, well printed and finely illustrated. Scattered through its pages is an excellent treatment of the various features that call for explanation. Mr. Raife handles his subject in an excellent manner and we can commend the book to the average collector as a useful book. It is published by the Boy's Own Paper Office, 4 Bouverie St., London, E. C. 4, England. The author of the book is a department editor of this publication. There are twenty full page plates and other illustrations.

The guide by Stanley Phillips while not as pretentious as a book as the one already reviewed will nevertheless be an excellent missioner for stamp collecting. Mr. Phillips is author of "The Fascination of Stamp Collecting" and co-editor of Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal, facts which show his qualifications for his present contribution to philatelic literature. This book may be obtained from Stanley Gibbons, 391 Strand, London, England.

APPRECIATION (?)

By M. T. DOME.

A collector of stamps showed a friend all his stamps from beginning to end. There were red, green and blue, Every size, shape and hue,—
"Got some 'trading-stamps', too?", asked the friend.
—But maybe he meant 'duplicates' at that.

(If you don't like that last line just substitute, "A few torn ones he said he would mend", or, "And quite valuable, you can depend", or, best of all,—write your own last line, send it in, and let us all see how you think this exhibition should have ended. Or, write a whole new limerick.

THE MANAGING EDITOR.

EPICUREAN MORSELS

Here are a few random offerings of tid-bits almost any collector might like to have.
10c 1847, strip of three on cover from Panama frigate to the old Kentucky home. Very ragged margins and pencancelled, but the cover fine and postmarked STEAM SHIP in two lines. Valuable postal history if not philatelically great.

10c 1851, three fine copies on one cover, all fine, one recut.
10c 1857, the most interesting vertical strip in the plate (?), for the top stamp is the recut 65L, Pl. 1, while the bottom stamp of course is the variety "curl on head", No. 85L.

5c buff, 1861, a very nice fresh pair, better centered than usual and cancelled to order.

24c August, 1861, beautiful deep shade, well centered, cancelled PAID in large caps. 90c American, a nice fresh block of four, used.

HOLLAND, No. 6; a strip of five on original cover.

SAXONY, beautiful, mint o.g. strip of 3 10 Gr. Rest of the set in equally fine condition.

SPAIN, many mint pairs, strips, blocks, full o.g., never hinged before, among them a superb pair of the 19 brown and rose, imperf.

PANAMA, 1st issue, 1/2 of the 10c blue, Scott's No. 2a; on small piece cancellation covering the cut; 1/4 of the 20 rose red also used on piece of cover, cancellation covering cut, not listed.

Monaco, 5 Fr. rose on green, o.g., with imprint.

While we prefer to play with the minor varieties, cancellations, etc., of 19th century United States, we have a nice lot of foreign stamps and are glad to make up approval selections for those who care to spend so little as $5. Trade references preferred.

HAPPY NEW YEAR! This message is sent you by Mr. H. R. Blanque. It is boldly cut into a cork obliterator measuring 22mm in diameter, each of the three words being clear and distinctly printed, "Happy" and "Year" being curved, with "New" in a straight line thro the middle of this neat little greeting. It is a most pleasing item, falling on a 6c Continental, which is in A1 condition. Mr. Blanque encloses also a most beautiful 3c green, re-engraved, on a neat little cover addressed to Rouse's Point, N. Y., postmarked in gray black "Logan Oct. 25, 1882, Iowa", the obliterator being our old friend the "poison" device—skull and bones, also in gray black falling across both stamp and cover. The skull, of the bald headed variety, shows beautiful pearly incisors in the lower maxillary (my office is next door to a dentist) while the crossed bones are of different size and shape, possibly tibia and fibula, cannabistically cleaned. You may now tell if your skull and bones is from Logan, or from "whereabouts unknown" to borrow an old postal expression. Mr. Blanque roves the line between Canada and the U. S. He is a true lover of old covers, and his stories of "finds" remind one of the Old Hudson Bay days, for he will barter and exchange buffalo robes, shot guns, and the kind of dogs wanted, hunters, setters, or bull pups, for these old covers lying valueless in the North Woods, where many a philatelic treasure blooms unseen—till Mr. B. comes along. That is real sport, the finding of them.

In scouting round for items for the Forum (and myself) I have found promise of many interesting items. One that interests me most, because I cannot fathom the answer, is, "The Shrunken Pair"! This will appear in an early issue.

Several documents have been sent to me treating at length of various postal subjects. One that I prize most highly is a pamphlet giving the amounts of postage paid into all towns, villages, and cities of the U. S., in the "First Gov't Postal Report." This was issued in 1836. Times sure do change, that whole big state of Texas is not in it at all, and many big cities now were small burghs then. Some towns did a big postal business then, and are now off the map, or have changed their names.

Another pamphlet is, "Cheap Ocean Postage". The subject is wonderfully presented by Hon. Abbott Lawrence and Hon. Daniel Webster. You have probably seen some of these early envelopes headed with above caption in a flowery scroll, and ships 'n things all round.

They were distributed both in the United States, and in Great Britain, on buff paper in U. S. and white paper from Great Britain. Some bore the 3c 1851 stamps, and make pretty covers. As an example of the rates round in the fifties—from France to the U. S. A. the amount seems to be normally 1 franc 30 centimes. The other day a cover came in bearing 1 franc 50 centimes, from France to Boston, "By the steamer" in manuscript added to the cover under the address.

To quote from "Cheap Ocean Postage" abbreviated, it reads, "The postage on a single letter sent by mail steamer to Great Britain is 24 cents if it weighs over half an ounce, and under an ounce. If conveyed by a sailing vessel to Great Britain it will cost 16 cents".

So we see steam was even then at a 50% premium, as present landlords will all agree. This may help you some in deducing why your rates on old covers vary in some instances. The two Hons. were good brain workers—e. g. Our finest packet ships will carry a barrelful of flour to Liverpool weighing 200 pounds, for 45 to 50 cents; but for 200 pounds of letters by the same ship the charge will be $1,024.00! They won the argument!

Another interesting document is headed "The Unconstitutionality (dandy word for a Cross Word Puzzle!) of the Laws of Congress, prohibiting Private Mails", by Lysander Spooner. Printed for the American Letter Mail Company. This was brought out in 1844, and a powerful lot is said on both sides of this question. The argument probably saved their lives for the time being, otherwise you'd seldom see any of those neat little U. S. Local stamps, including the nice little Eagles besmeared with ink, the blackest of black.

This week's Query will duplicate last week—in other words, you name the Query.

PITTSBURGH BANQUET.

On December 2nd the Philatelic Society of Pittsburgh held its 36th annual banquet at Hotel Henry. The club was greatly honored by the presence of Mr. Chas. J. Phillips of New York, who gave a most delightful and interesting resumé of early stamp history, interspersed with numerous anecdotes and reminiscences of his associations with many of the world's great philatelists.

Congo Free State

Practically all of the stamps of this African colony of Belgium are beautiful in design and fine examples of the engraver's art. Always popular and fast sellers, few dealers seem to have any variety of them and we have been to considerable trouble to get this offering together. Anything you require which is not offered give us a want list of and perhaps we can supply it.

Mr. Phillips felt very much at home in our "Smokey City" as he himself was a native of Birmingham, England. During the evening he showed his collection of U. S. Department stamps to the great interest of all those present.

After dinner the annual election of officers was held, the following being selected: Pres., Isaiah Rudy; 1st Vice Pres., Arno Kiessling; 2nd Vice Pres., L. Gerald Firth; Treas., W. B. Hartman; Sec., F. M. McGuire; Cor. Sec., Dr. K. M. Day.

A handsome gift was presented to our retiring President, Mr. Justus M. Stahn, in appreciation of his untiring efforts for the advancement of Philately. All communications to the club should be addressed to the Corresponding Secretary, Dr. Kenneth M. Day, 1239 N. Highland Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa.

OUR CROSS-WORD PUZZLE.

By WILL O. W. (1880-1890).

Out of compliment to the A. P. S. and in acknowledgment of the popular fancy we present our readers this week with a crossword puzzle. We shall be very glad to receive solutions and will publish the names of those who succeed in solving it. The range of philatelic terms was not sufficiently broad to enable us to make it a strictly philatelic puzzle. No doubt some of our readers may favor us with one. Replies must reach this office not later than January 5.

If there be any who are unacquainted with the method of solving this kind of puzzle we might say that black squares on horizontal and vertical lines mark the beginning and ending of words. The numbers given are used in the definitions listed below:—

Horizontal.

1. A term used in the print shop.
5. An indefinite article.
6. A pronoun.
7. A fairy.
9. A minute organism.
13. Well then.
14. A French article.
15. Destitute of merit.

Vertical.

1. A measure of time.
2. A kind of fish.
3. Tenseness.
4. Inert.
8. Across.
9. A person.
10. Indebted to.
11. A Latin diphthong.
12. Abb. for Deputy Lieutenant.

HAPPENINGS IN CAMEROONS.

By DONALD E. DICKASON.

You may be interested in an extract from a letter which I just received from a stamp collector friend of mine, the Rev. A. I. Good, of Lolodorf, Cameroun. He says:—

"There is a funny deal on in Cameroun stamps just now. I have made my inquiries at this end, and have found out how some things are worked. You may have seen in the stamp papers of the issuing of surcharges of 25 centimes on the 2 franc and 5 franc present issue. Scarcely anyone out here knows of the existence of these stamps, as they have thus far not appeared. The truth is, there was a considerable edition printed in France, and with the exception of a very few hundred sent out here, they were all sold to stamp dealers by the Paris P. O. Those that came here were so few that the Governor refused to allow their sale, not wishing to legitimize the deal, and I understand is trying to make a big fuss about the matter. Pending his efforts to straighten out the speculation of the Paris P. O., at the expense of the colony, not a stamp is allowed to get out. I am told through a friend of the Big Boss of the chief P. O. at Douala, through whom I made my inquiries, that there were not enough of the stamps sent out here to allow every white man in the colony two specimens, so none at all are allowed out. You can probably get the stamp in America, while here in the colony it is not on sale, and never has been. If it ever does get out I of course have my bid in at headquarters, but one cannot tell. Thus are some things worked."

CONFEDERATE STATES.

The "TEN CENTS", Scott's No. 208.

By EDWARD S. KNAPP.

The supposition that the "TEN" was the first line-engraved stamp produced for the Confederate States is erroneous, unless my deductions are at fault. It was really the second stamp so produced being antedated by the "10c Outer Line" (Scott's No. 209). The "Outer Line" appeared in April, 1863, while I have never heard of a copy of the "TEN" cancelled prior to May, 1863. As I have examined probably more than half the existing copies of both of these stamps and noted the dates on the cancelled copies, I would consider it almost a certainty that the "Outer Line" plate was used before that of the TEN—(possibly two weeks before).

Students of Confederates realize that the 10c "Outer Line" is one of the most remarkable examples of recutting known. Comparatively few realize that the TEN is also plainly recut, and it may surprise them when I state that, up to now, I have never found even one single position that is not recut (and quite plainly recut, too). In other words, if we had sufficient pairs, strips or blocks, we could easily plate the stamp.

I have done enough work, on the 10c Outer Line, to be practically positive that the plate contained one hundred subjects. I have positively identified more than one hundred and fifty different positions of the TEN and I assume that the plate was of 200 subjects. Thus far, I have found (outside of the recutting, which is frequently "abnormal") that several positions show the curved line outside the label at the top, broken in the middle; that (2) several positions show the curved line outside the label at the bottom, broken in the middle, and that (3) there is (to date) only one position which shows the curved lines broken at both top and bottom.

There are also some fine examples of "short-transferring" where an ornament or a corner has been entirely or partly cut away.

There are numerous shifts, which generally are to be most easily seen in the letters of "Postage" at the top, or "Ten Cents" at the bottom. The "spacing and alignment" of positions in "pieces" that I either have or have seen is such that I believe there was only one relief on the transfer roll, as is the case with the "Outer Line 10c".

Until a year or so ago, one thing puzzled me, and that was why was this plate used for so short a period. The answer came one day, when I found a stamp which showed a clear example of a crack in the plate. I have since found a second crack and exact duplicates of both of these prove them quite positively. That's the answer to the short life of the plate. It cracked and could, therefore, be no longer used.

Here's a stamp showing plain varieties in recutting, short-transferring (broken scrolls and lines), spacing and alignment, and cracked plate positions, all being so noticeable that it would be easy to reconstruct the plate if one had sufficient material to work with. My readers will readily see how difficult it is to get this material with a stamp as rare as the TEN, the plate being of 200 subjects. If collectors will help by loaning me anything they may have larger than a single (or singles even when they show part of the adjacent stamp) I can finish the task, which I have been occupied with for the last two or three years. If I succeed, my results will be given to collectors. I would not keep any stamps sent me for more than a week, I would pay all registration charges, and I would take the greatest care of all items so loaned.

Will you help with that pair strip or block of yours? Address all communications to Edward S. Knapp, 158 East 64th St., New York City.

VARIETIES IN CHINESE.

By S. R. SHELDON.

During a recent visit to Peking I gained some information regarding the various dies of the more recent Chinese issues which may be of interest to your readers.

As you are aware, the first issue of the "Junk", "Reaper" and "Gateway" types came out in 1913 and were printed in London by Waterlow & Sons. This entire issue then appeared in 1918 with several new values from new dies and plates which were made by the Chinese Bureau of Engraving and Printing. Again in 1923-24 the entire set was reissued with colors changed in some instances and one or two of the values omitted.

The 1918 issue differs from the 1913 issue only in slight details in engraving and in the paper and shades of color. I have now learned on excellent authority that the 1923-24 issue is from the original dies made by the Chinese Bureau of Engraving and Printing in 1912-1913. It was at first planned to send these dies to Waterlow & Sons, London, for the manufacture of the plates but later this idea was given up for various reasons and die-proofs were sent instead. The original London issue came from new dies made in London, and copied from these die proofs. When it was decided to print the stamps in Peking it was thought best not to use the original dies but to imitate the Waterlow dies as nearly as possible, so therefore new dies were made in Peking—which represent a very fine piece of work when one considers how closely the London dies are copied—and the 1918 issue was printed from plates made from these dies.

In 1923-1924, when it was decided to reissue these stamps, the original dies made in 1912-13 were resurrected and are now in use. This information is obtained from the American head of the Bureau, who has been in continuous charge of the engraving department dur-

TRAVEL IN YOUR BASHY-CHAIR.

By M. T. DOME.

Winter evening, cold and stormy,—
 Kind of night you'd best stay home,— Papers read, the thought comes o'er me
 I'm cooped up when I would roam
 Through some warm and sunny southland
 Free of cold and storm and ice, Anywhere, for I've no route planned,
 —Mexico they say is nice.

South America or Central,
 Argentine, Brazil, Peru,
 "Sunny It" so sentimental,
 Even southern France would do.
 Wanderlust, "If I had money,—"
 "Where's an atlas, where's a map?"
 But my album (ain't it funny?)
 Finds its way up on my lap.

Good old friend, you've solved the puzzle.
 Guess I'll take a trip through you.
 Lots of stuff here in a wuzzle.
 Say, you'll give me lots to do!

NEWS GLEANINGS.

Under this heading we desire to publish all the news from the various philatelic centers. Correspondents' names will be given unless prohibited, as we desire to give full credit for services rendered.

—From the Regina Daily Post we learn that the Regina Philatelic Club has been organized with Mr. Joseph B. Parker as president and that all those who join up to December 25, will be entitled to charter membership. Other officers are: Vice President, J. C. Malck; Secretary-Treasurer, B. McDermott; Executive Committee, J. M. Brunner, J. N. de Stein and E. B. Stamp. Mr. Parker is known to many in this country as a philatelic enthusiast, and he has attended several of the stamp conventions in this country.

—In an old book or guide for stamp collectors published in 1889 we find forty-three American philatelic societies listed and forty-eight current American philatelic publications, ranging in subscription price from ten cents to fifty cents a year.

—In the fourth edition of the "Album-catalogue" published by Maury, Paris, about 1871, we find some interesting prices on the early United States issues. The 1869 set for instance has the one, two and three cent all priced at ten cents each, while the fifteen cents is offered for fifteen centimes; the twenty-four cents is fifty centimes, the thirty cents is priced at twenty-five centimes and the ninety cent at seventy-five centimes. Until about 1890, the 1869 set was available in Paris for about $2.50. The "Post Office" Mauritius are both priced at fifty francs each, while the thirteen cent Missionary Hawaii is listed at twenty francs, the price at which the shilling New Brunswick is placed. It is interesting to find the shilling of Nova Scotia of which were many more issued than the shilling of New Brunswick, attains the eminence of thirty francs.

—George H. Jaeger, Box 25, Libau, Latvia, would like Whole Numbers 1625, 1628 and 1631 of the 1922 volume of our paper. Mr. Jaeger is so anxious to procure these papers that he will be glad to send some copies of his paper, the Baltic Philatelist, to anyone accommodating him. In order that he may not be flooded with back numbers we are going to limit the request to subscribers in New York State.

—Albert V. Johnston of Belmont, Mass., sends in a subscription for the Junior High School of that town. Concerning this club he writes us as follows:—"They have a very live club at the above school numbering about 35 members of the 7th and 8th grade, holding meetings each Friday under the supervision of one of the teachers (Miss Holbrook). D. O. Johnston, one of your subscribers, is President. The club is known as The Stamp and Travel Club and have some very interesting talks on stamp collecting given by the pupils."

—A. F. Gamber, 606 11th St., S. Fargo, N. D., will be very glad to send some old stamp papers accumulated during the past few years to any stamp club which will pay the cost of transportation. N. W. Runions, Sentinel Butte, N. D., will send the last seven years of the WEEKLY similarly.

—Anyone who would like a Christmas seal for 1923 can obtain one by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to A. M. Lozier, 30 Euclid Ave., Jamestown, N. Y. Mr. Lozier thinks that a page of these seals is a worthy addition to any collection.

—I note in your issue of Nov. 24th, page 612, you state in the second column headed:—"Dates of issue of Early Emisions" that the earliest date known of the 5c brown type I was August 20, 1859." I would like to advise that I have a copy cancelled with year date on stamp and same is dated "November 8, 1858."—T. R. DUNLAP.

—Funny how much a force of habit collecting can become. I know a man who collects stamped envelopes and covers almost exclusively, except for a few post-cards now and then. In the past year he tells me he has collected, he figures, close to one million envelopes and covers mostly bearing the present issue 2c carmine, to say nothing of the other denominations. He specializes in U. S. exclusively, the only stamps he has ever been at all interested in, he states. He tells me further that his collecting has become more or less a matter of habit, although he admits making a fair living out of it. Who is he? Perhaps you know some others much like him. Who is he? Why, a U. S. P. O. mail-collector!—M. T. DOME.

and central accounting post-offices to report to him the quantities in full packages of seven thousand or more of the two and five cent of the Pilgrim Stamps and of the two dollar stamps of the 1920 issue printed in carmine and black in full or broken packages.

—Add to Rip Van Postzegel-Winkel's discoveries of 1986. "Here it is the Marquette Sectional Album, Section, 1952. For the stamps of Zuland" (According to Mekeel's Daily Stamp News).—HARRY A. SWANSON.

—I notice your Zeppelin Postcard in the WEEKLY. However, to me it seems that it is one of those cards that came over by steamer as it does not have the special oval cancellation which other Zeppelin mail received. Mr. Bach also has a photo on the cover of The Stamp Collector showing a similar card is supposed to have come on the ZR-3. I just wonder whether some other collectors will notice that. Quite a lot of Zeppelin mail came over by boat as there were only limited accommodation for same.—ERWIN STRASSER

KING GEORGE "SWAPS" STAMPS.

It is not every day that a stamp collector bent on "swapping" can find a king to make exchanges with, but F. W. J. Winter a crippled ex-service man, has enjoyed such an experience. When Winter, was on a visit to Windsor Park recently King George, on getting out of his motor car, saw the permanently disabled soldier in a hand propelled chair. He immediately went over to speak to the ex-soldier.

Winter, a stamp collector, knew that King George was also greatly interested in stamps, so he asked the King if he would accept a half-penny stamp with the watermark placed sideways. The King wanted to know if Winter had a duplicate before he would take the proffered stamp, and when the soldier said he did have one the British sovereign quickly accepted it. King George has one of the finest stamp collections in the world. It is said to be worth at least $750,000.

Within a few days a letter was received by the sergeant from King George, enclosing eight stamps, including one of ten shillings, two pairs of two shillings, one five shilling and a "tuppenny" one of the King Edward VII. issue, as well as one stamp of the present issue. The letter to the sergeant read:—

"Dear Sir:—The King wishes me to say that he was pleased to see you and that he has placed the used half-penny stamp with the watermark sideways in his collection with an unused pair of this variety which he already has. As you are a philatelist his Majesty hopes that you may find the enclosed stamps of some use for your own collection."

Stamp collecting is one of the King's favorite hobbies.—N. Y. Sun.

THIS LETTER

Was dropped in the office WITHOUT BEING PREPAID, and would have been sent to the Dead Letter Office, but realizing the frequent importance of such letters, we have paid the postage and forwarded it.

Please return what may seem to you an equivalent for its value and importance, to be used for a like purpose. Address

This cut shows the text of one of the labels used by shrewd "philanthropists" fifty years ago, who probably were close to the postmasters of the several cities. In time, Washington prohibited the practice.

OUR HONOR CLUB.

H. Clay Reed, Newark, Delaware.
Wm. C. Kennett, Jr., Hazelwood, O.
D. C. Hammatt, Topeka, Kansas.

Our first applicant for membership in the Honor Club this week is H. Clay Reed, University of Delaware, Newark, Del., and in remitting his $5 he writes:—"You certainly have the psychology on your side in this five-year business. It's a five-year guarantee against loss of interest in stamp collecting." Mr. Reed is very much interested in U. S. envelopes and expresses the hope that by the time this subscription expires his line will be the most popular branch of stamp collecting. Mr. Reed's activities outside of philately are indicated in the inscription found upon his letterhead, "Department of History and Political Science."

Wm. C. Kennett, Jr., of Hazelwood, Ohio, in making his application for membership in the Honor Club writes:—"I don't know as I shall live that long, but here's hoping." The WEEKLY joins in well wishes and is bound to believe in stamp collecting as conducive to a long life.

Through our Chicago office we have received a subscription renewal from D. C. Hammatt of Topeka, Kansas. Mr. Hammatt has been a popular convention attendant for some years past and is a specialist in the covers and early issues of U. S. He has many pieces of historical interest in his album and is especially at home with the imperforate issues of our country. Mr. Hammatt writes:—"I am enclosing check to extend my subscription $5 worth, not $5 worth of value for that would be for only about a month, but for $5 worth of calendar time."

EDITORIAL.

The following inquiry has been received and it is submitted to readers in the hope that the latest information on the subject will be forthcoming. From our inquiries we have learned that there is a difference of opinion, that bears out the contention of our correspondent, as to the liability, if any, on collections entering this country from Canada: "I have been endeavoring to ascertain what the United States customs regulations are on foreign postage stamps entering the United States. To date I have received the following information from different dealers: first, that stamps enter the United States duty free; and secondly that stamps mounted in albums are liable to a duty of thirty per cent, but if they are dismounted and sent by registered mail, they enter duty free; thirdly, that if stamps are forwarded by registered mail they enter duty free, only provided the contents of each letter do not exceed the value of $100." A definite ruling on this question will be of interest to our readers, as it is necessary to know exactly how one stands in the interchange of collections between our country and Canada.

ferent sources. For instance, a correspondent of Mr. Diamant submits a plan that shows an enthusiasm for far-flung philatelic advertising. Mr. T. V. Binmore, 575 Fifth Avenue, Long Island City, New York, is planning a philatelic publicity bureau that will be a headquarters, in effect, for news distribution. While we judge the plan is now being fortified, it is evident that there is a force behind the movement already, because five local societies have given Mr. Binmore carte blanche in carrying out his plan. No doubt there will be more to be heard on this subject, but it would seem that any national campaign would have to be instituted on the broadest scale and with the full support of dealers and societies generally.

From Mr. R. S. Rynning, La Crosse, Wisconsin, we have received a copy of the La Crosse Tribune and Leader Press of some weeks ago, wherein "The Walrus", a clever commentator on local and other affairs of La Crosse says that Mr. G. C. Rheinfrank of Chicago, who in our issue of October 20th was pictured with a sketch of his career as a dealer, was former pastor of the Salzer Memorial Church of that city. In a most readable way the writer proceeds to say that Mr. Rockwell C. Osborne, whose father still has a home in La Crosse, served as one of the judges at the recent Winnipeg Exhibition where his twelve pence black, Canada, was one of the attractive stamps in the display. Mr. Osborne, who now lives in Winnipeg, began to collect as a boy in La Crosse, perhaps forty years ago. We quote: "It was an epidemic in the Gate-way City at that time, and the kid who didn't possess a stamp album was not in the running." We trust that the observing Walrus is merely misled as to the present-day interest in stamps in his city by reason of the fact that he is out of the youthful orbit, so to say, as we should judge that if at any time there was a decided interest on the part of boys in stamps, it is the present.

Our old pal, one of the stars of the Detroit Free Press, comes to bat and wallops the ball over the fence with an article in the Detroit Free Press of November 16, 1924, that has about as much gimp and go in it as one can find anywhere. As an example of expert reporting, we submit excerpts from it, as well as for the valuable philatelic moral that it conveys. The article is headed, "Rich Man Wins Back Health With Stamps", and then Mr. Richards proceeds to tell how that sterling philatelist, Alfred Lichtenstein of New York City gave an exhibition recently in Detroit. Ten years ago Mr. Lichtenstein weighed one hundred forty-six pounds; today the scales reward him with two hundred ten pounds, and the claim is made that the most fattening food in the world to him is a postage stamp. In order to do justice to the manner in which the theme is developed we make the following quotations: One day ten years ago, nerve specialists scrutinized the cadaverous Lichtenstein of those days and wrote out a prescription for him. "Play golf," ordered the doctor. "You don't catch me chasing a ball miles over the fields," said Lichtenstein. "Then collect beetles," amended the doctor. "I'm not a child." "Well, postage stamps," said the doctor. Lichtenstein looked disgustedly at the specialist. "You're crazy, and if I collected postage stamps my friends would think I was," he rejoined. "You don't think Colonel Green is crazy do you?" asked the doctor. Colonel Green is Hetty Green's son. Lichtenstein said he didn't think the colonel demented. "Well, he saves postage stamps," said the doctor. "That's funny, I don't believe you," said Lichtenstein. "All right, you go see him." Lichtenstein did. He found Green fingering some stamps on his Wall Street desk. The upshot was that braving the looks of astonished friends and family, Mr. Lichtenstein proceeded at once to his mutton, and from that time on he found that he had discovered the panacea for all the ills of the nerves, and he was for stamps from that time on. Mr. Lichtenstein had been in Detroit as the guest of John Kay and he exhibited, at a meeting of the Wayne County Medical Society, three volumes of his collection, including his twelve pence Canadas, not to mention other rarities. The article is illustrated by his rejoined strip of four of the twelve pence. It is understood that the three volumes that were shown are insured for one million dollars. All in all, it was quite an occasion at Detroit, and one that was fittingly represented in the Detroit Free Press.

The news of the death of Henry B. Phillips of Berkeley, California, one of the directors at large of the American Philatelic Society, comes as a distinct shock, notwithstanding the fact that some of us were aware that the health of Mr. Phillips has been precarious for some time past. Mr. Phillips for many years has been one of the bulwarks of philately in the west, and when one recounts his activities extending over many decades, a realization of the loss that we have sustained comes with saddening force. While a man of affairs, he has never relegated philately to the rear, and he is to be credited with having done many a good deed in a collecting sense. Perhaps Mr. Phillips will be best remembered for his compilation published nearly thirty years ago on the Western Franks. His list was the most exhaustive that had appeared, and it was based in many instances upon individual research. Mr. Phillips leaves a collection of these Franks that is one of the greatest in existence. The historical appeals of various postal emissions found a response in him, and he delighted in presenting the wider aspect of things of the kind. As a society worker, Mr. Phillips has long been recognized as one who upheld the best in philatelic organization and in one of his recent letters to us he rather humorously referred to the mistake made in the WEEKLY in which it was said that Mr. C. J. Phillips had been elected as a director in the A. P. S. at the August convention. While he did not attend conventions with frequency, we do remember his presence at the convention in Denver, in 1907, where his fine personality made a decidedly favorable impression on those in attendance. Mr. Phillips was inclined at times to be somewhat light in his conclusions as applying to philatelic developments, and one of his quiet jokes was based on his suggestion that the name, philately, was taken from the "Philalethes," an old organization whose members were banded together in a worthy cause. His article in the WEEKLY on this subject attracted attention, and created a bit of controversy. The name of Mr. Phillips will be remembered as one of the glories of philately, and even though he attained a mature age, his passing brings a feeling of deepest sorrow. Philately has sustained a loss that will be felt for a long time to come. His letters to us were always a great satisfaction, as they were filled with much quaint philatelic philosophy and he had a penetrating eye which allowed him to understand impulses and motives that may not have appeared on the surface. We wish to record our sense of personal loss and to say that one of the truest philatelists that we have ever known has gone beyond mortal ken.

The Annual Report of the Postmaster General for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1924, is a book of one hundred forty pages wherein the postal year is reviewed by the postmaster-general. The report contains references to stamps that are of interest, and while the figures and explanation that are marshalled at length are the essence of practicality, yet the philatelist may find here and there something for his eye. We have the following comment in connection with the reference to the Walloon set: "The demand for this special issue has indicated the widespread interest throughout the country in this part of early colonial history." We suspect that the support of the philatelist's purse had something to do with the returns from the sale of the special stamps. The precanceling of postage stamps is dwelt upon with favor in the interest of economy and despatch, and the number of stamps in sheets and coil treated during the year is given as 1,043,623,100. The Philatelic Agency's sales for the last fiscal year reached $29,646.51, a gain of nearly 25 per cent over the year preceding. The sales of stamps, stamp envelopes, newspaper wrappers and postal cards amounted to $483,372,003.79. Verily, the postal business of our government is one of the ten commercial wonders of the world.

We have received an interesting letter from one of the veterans of philately who says he was carried back many years by our remarks on some of the old time philatelists, and he discourses on several of those named in our list, especially Robert S. Hatcher. He says that he remembers having read in our own paper of an item to the effect that Mr. Hatcher committed suicide in St. Louis many years ago through an excess of grief, due to the death of his wife. The authority quoted for this melancholy bit of news, we remember now, was our friend, Gustave de La Chasse, now of Avignon, France, who by the way, attended the Detroit convention last August and has only recently returned to his home in France. Our correspondent says that he remembers Mr. Hatcher for his industry in rescuing philatelic news that appeared in print in this country from the earliest stamp times, and that, curiously enough, he remembers that he quoted an old newspaper to say that the introduction of the three cent stamp in 1851 "was the direct cause for the minting of the old three cent silver piece and also the three dollar gold piece!" We thank our informant and find his remarks of interest.

WILLIS HOLMES KERR.

EMPORIA, KANSAS.

We take pleasure in offering our readers a portrait of an active worker in the philatelic cause. At different times in the past, the name of Mr. Kerr has been associated in our columns with various deeds of philatelic kindness, and there is so much that is to be said of him that we shall dispense with ceremony and aim at the heart of our subject. Mr. Kerr was born at Jamestown, Pennsylvania, early enough to remember when the domestic postage rate was reduced from three to two cents or when the two cent red brown displaced the old three cent green—and also to receive a postal from his Democrat uncle showing Blaine going up Salt Creek! He lived in Pennsylvania until 1877 when he went to Nebraska, where he remained until 1904. He attended Bellevue College, getting an A. B. in 1900 and his A. M. from Columbia University, New York, in 1902. Later he studied a year at Edinboro University, Scotland, with Mrs. Kerr, who was a college classmate at Bellevue, which incidentally was the first settlement in Nebraska. At Bellevue he took great interest in the college library and had charge of much of the managerial work of the institution. From 1904 to 1911, Mr. Kerr was librarian and professor of English at Westminster College, Fulton, Mo., and since 1911, he has been librarian of Kellogg Library, Kansas State Teachers' College, Emporia. He has a staff of eight full-time and thirty student assistants, and he attends to faculty and institutional committee duties as well as library extension work, not alone in Kansas but elsewhere. He wrote the Kansas County Library Law and was instrumental in obtaining its passage by the Kansas State legislature in 1921. He was chairman of the American Library Association publicity committee from 1915 to 1922 and has succeeded himself as president of the National Education Association library department, an office now held by him. Also, he prepared the "Measuring stick for libraries of teacher-training institutions". Merely to show that Mr. Kerr is not prone to inertia, it may be said that he is a member of the Kansas School Masters' Club, the Emporia Rotary Club, The National Education Association, The American Philatelic Society and a life member of the American Library Association. Mr. Kerr does not weary in well-doing in a stamp sense, and his missionary endeavors have been alluded to in the WEEKLY at different times in the past. He is eager to voice his philatelic affiliation at every favorable opportunity, and he has loaned point to the latent stamp interest that smoulders in many to whom the subject has not been definitely introduced. While Mr. Kerr is liberal in his collecting range he has certain pet countries, and in the issues of the United States he has a penchant for the earlier issues when in what may be called a patriotic setting. In other words, a stamp on an envelope bearing the name of a discontinued post-office in Kansas gives him an added thrill. May the philatelic enthusiasm of Mr. Kerr wave for many years to come.

OLD CLASSIC UNITED STATES

So far, I have visited London, Paris, Brussels, Amsterdam, Berlin and Prague and by the time this advertisement appears in print I expect to be home. Have been quite fortunate in picking up some unusually attractive items which are offered at this time subject to prior sale.

In the way of 1847, I have a nice unused horizontal block of six of the 5c, a fine unused single and several magnificent used singles and pairs, including a red "STEAM". The 10c seems elusive here, but have secured a dozen or so including a fine pair on cover and a single on cover with red St. Louis and "10" on same. In the 1851 series—quite a few singles and strips of the 1c but no rare types, block of eight 3c, a few 5c singles including an unused copy, several 10c singles as well as a pair with one recut at top, some single 12c and fine strip of three. Of the 1857 there is an unused block of the 1c, type II, several 5c brick reds, strips of three of the brown type I and II, a magnificent used block of the 10c type I, strips of the type II, four 12c on one cover, a 24c on cover, 30c, 90c unused.

Some few 1861 including fine copies of the 3c pink, 5c buff and 24c steel blue; as for the grilled issues, a number of singles including fine mint and used copies of the 90c as well as a perfection used block of four 90c grilled, a rare bird indeed.

Some fine 1869 with odd cancellations, among them a 30c used in Japan, the first I have seen or heard about, singles of all denominations including several 90c and a used block of the rare type of the 15c, possibly the scarcest of the entire series. A complete sheet of the Eagle carriers, something not seen often nowadays.

In the later issues, other items equally as attractive. I have by no means overlooked the 20th Century issues in blocks and singles, but these stamps are not to be had over here.

Want lists solicited, for at this writing my holdings of fine United States, both early and late, is better than ever before. If DENMARK.—A historically interesting sextet of stamps is about to be issued to commemorate the three hundredth anniversary of the introduction of a postal service in Denmark. It will comprise denominations of 5, 10 and 20 ore; there being two designs—one with a portrait of King Christian X and the other portraying King Charles IV, during whose reign the post-office commenced to operate. Each stamp will have the years "1624-1924" inscribed on it, the colours being green for the 5 ore, violet for the 10 ore, and brown for the 20 ore.

For these advance particulars we are indebted to our Aalborg correspondent, Mr. H. Gronborg.—Stamp Collecting.

GREAT BRITAIN.—We have received from Mr. R. Roberts the 4d, 5d and 6d values printed on the new watermark paper.

MALTA.—We have to thank Mrs. A. Olive for further news regarding the projected new series referred to in our issue for July 5th and previously. A meeting of the Stamp Committee took place on the 4th inst, when it was decided to have new 4½d, 1s 6d and 3s adhesives; specimens of these have not yet been approved, and some months must certainly elapse before they can be placed on sale.—Stamp Collecting.

MARTINIQUE.—The 30c pictorial of 1908-9, originally in Venetian red and purple-brown, is now to hand from Messrs. Whitfield King & Co. with the picture and inscriptions in red and the frame in carmine.—Stamp Collecting.

MEXICO.—Mr. Paul C. Standley advises as follows: Recently I have received several letters from Mexico with a somewhat unusual slogan cancellation, reading as follows: "Procure el engrandecimiento de la patria, enseñando a leer y escribir gratuitamente." Freely translated this is: "Aid in the progress of our country by giving free lessons in reading and writing." This is one phase of a campaign now being carried on in Mexico for the reduction of the illiteracy rate.

PORTUGAL.—The Metropolitan Stamp Co. send us the new set of Camoens commemoratives which were issued on the 11th of November and were on sale that day and the day following. The values, types and colors are the 2c cobalt blue, 3c orange, 4c deep slate and 5c light green, 6c crimson-lake, all picturing "Camoens at the battle of Ceuta"; 8c chestnut, 10c violet, 15c olive green, 16c maroon, 20c deep orange, showing Camoens saving the M.S. of his "Lusiads" during shipwreck. With the portrait of Camoens are the 25c pale violet, 30c brown, 32c blue green, 40c ultramarine, 48c red-brown. Title page of first edition of the "Lusiads" are 50c orange, 64c deep green, 75c violet, 80c light brown, 96c crimson. The last moments of Camoens are pictured on the 1c blue green; $1.20 brown, $1.50 scarlet, $1.60 indigo, 2c pale olive. The tomb of Camoens type $2.40 green on pale green, 3c deep blue on pale blue, $3.20 black on green, $4.50 black on buff, 10c brown on pink. Camoens statue at Lisbon is shown on the 20c deep mauve on pale mauve.

STAMPS CHECK RADIO "FIBBING."

CHICAGO, December 15.—Radio has made more liars than fishing, it is said, and no conversation is complete without the ravings of the "DX" fan who hears the coast on one tube almost every night. From now on the fan who lays claim to having received a distant station will be forced to support his claim by presenting a "verification stamp," which will undoubtedly be sufficient proof to remove all doubt from the skeptic's mind. Secretary Hoover has expressed his approval of the plan.

The principal broadcasting stations in the country have launched a plan that promises to furnish a new hobby to the radio public and the "DX" fan. Each station has a supply of beautiful steel engraved stamps, printed in different colors for the stations on different wave lengths.

Will Verify Numbers—To receive one of the stamps you must write in to the station giving the time you heard them broadcast and the numbers you heard. The station staff will then check back on their records to verify the numbers you reported hearing. If your report was correct they will then mail you a stamp with call letters of the station on it.

The idea originated from a combination of two well-known hobbies, that of stamp collecting and the applause card used in writing to a station in expression of thanks for their programs. It is estimated that there are over 3,000,000 stamp collectors in the country today and the letters of appreciation that pour into the various broadcasting stations indicate that there must be several million radio fans who write to their favorite broadcasting stations. The popularity of the radio stamp collections promises to increase this number even further.

Albums for Stamps—An album has been arranged for the radio stamp collector. It contains ninety-six pages, with spaces for the stamps of all of the recognized stations in the United States and Canada, arranged alphabetically by States and call letters. It also contains a complete list of stations arranged alphabetically according to call letters, geographically according to stations and town, and numerically according to wave lengths with ample dial reading blanks for logging stations. In addition, there is a large map of the United States drawn to scale and a radio log sufficient to accommodate 240 stations.

The stamps are printed on bond paper, in different colors for the various wave lengths, thus making a very artistic arrangement of the page of the album. The stamps show a huge American eagle, "the king of the air," standing between two radio towers. The call letters of the station are in a different color from the background so as to stand out prominently. Below the call letters is printed "verification of reception." The letters "e k k o" appear in the corners.

Special Stamps Planned—A uniform charge of 10 cents is being made by all of the stations and this must accompany letters requesting verification of the program. This charge is barely sufficient to cover the cost of engraving the stamps and the clerical expense in connection with verifying the reception of signals or programs.

In addition to the regular station stamps it is planned to issue special stamps for eventual occasions, such as the inaugural address of a President of the broadcasting of a national convention.—Los Angeles Examiner.

FIRST CLASS MAIL PERMITS.

By A. H. PIKE, Binghamton, N. Y.

With this letter I am enclosing the first installment of corrections and additions to the check list of "First Class Mail Permits of the World." The main delay in getting this to you was my anxiety to locate every possible variety. You will notice that I made a number of mistakes in the original list, but I think most of these have been corrected.

New Sheets.—I am enclosing eleven (11) new pages for the Postage Meter list numbering from 69 to 79 inclusive. Please remove from your binder pages from 69 and replace them with the new sheets. I am also enclosing eight (8) new pages for the Mail-o-meter list numbering from 95 to 102 inclusive. Please see that these are properly placed.

Additions and Corrections.—There are eight pages (four sheets), showing corrections and additions to the meter lists. This material can be added to your original sheets either in pen or pencil, or with the typewriter if you prefer. These sheets are not intended to become a part of the book. There are also three pages (two sheets), of additions to the ordinary permit list. These can be inserted in your book just previous to page 150 or put back of your list of ordinary permits.

Metered Mail.—On August 11th, 1924, the Postage Meter Co. of Stamford, Conn., purchased from the Mail-o-meter Co. of Detroit their permit printing machines, including the patents. From that date on there will be no more Mail-o-meter metered machines placed on the market. In other words the Postage Meter Co. of Stamford now own and control the only machine that can be used for metered mail in this or any country. It is possible that at some future date some other machine might be placed on the market but it is doubtful considering the wide scope of the patents now controlled by the Postage Meter Co. The metered machines manufactured and sold by the Mail-o-meter Co. will continue to be used until replaced or disposed of and the Postage Meter Co. have informed these users that they (The Postage Meter Co.), will give them service through their many branch offices.

Blank Spaces in Meter List.—There has been keen competition in selling permit printing machines and it has been very difficult for us to obtain as complete information as we would desire. When the Postage Meter Co. have had sufficient time to catch up with their great volume of additional work in connection with their purchase, I feel sure that they will be able to give me more complete data. I also feel sure that I can eventually obtain dates of the installation of the MOM-meters. I think both companies have purposely skipped many of their meters. It does not seem as though we could have overlooked so many.

Condensed Check List of Meters.—I am also enclosing with these sheets a complete check list of meters. This is 16 pages and cover with the illustrations of all types on the last page. This was designed especially for active collectors so that they could check their collection and mail it out to those that they wish to exchange with or buy from or sell to. The price of 25c will also appeal to a great many that were not willing to pay the dollar price for the book. I realize that quite a few that ordered the loose leaf list did it to help me out and not because they were active in collecting permits. Still, I am sending one copy to each of the 200 that purchased one of the complete lists. I can't afford to make you a present of this so if you do not feel as though it is worth the 25c would you kindly return it. If you are really anxious to build up your collection, you can use several of these lists. If you want more than the one I am sending you please order them at once sending remittance to cover. I have already sold quite a number, one party ordered ten to give to his friends, besides several orders for from three to five.

Association of Collectors.—We have given cheerfully of time and money for more than ten years to develop the hobby and encourage in every way the collection of postal markings in every form. The check lists that we have supplied to collectors represents a loss that any man in my circumstances could not afford to do. I am going to continue to donate time and money but I am asking your assistance and urge you to join an organization that I believe will be worth far more to you than the dollar dues. Please let me have your remittance at once so that a fund can be created. I want to give you another surprise early next year. Please offer all the suggestions you can think of and be willing to be of some assistance.

Slogans.—I am planning a pocket edition of a check list of slogans that will bring U. S. and Canada up to date. Quite a few want a pocket edition, a size that will mail in a No. 6 envelope. They want just the name of the slogans and a list of the cities using it, leaving out types and dies numbers. This will save a great deal of space. If this will meet the wishes of the majority, I will take immediate steps to solicit advertisements at $5.00 per page, an advertisement on every other page opposite a page of the check list. I will work to get sufficient advertisements to enable me to have printed an edition of 5,000 copies. The philatelic press will assist me in distributing them.

Reporters.—I need the assistance of every meter collector in reporting to me promptly every new variety they find. Please send entire cover when possible, and tell me if you want it returned. Be careful to read meter numbers correctly. Note that a 3 and 8, 6 and 5 and other numbers look alike, and be sure and distinguish between the postage meter indicia and the Mail-o-meters.

HB "SAVES STAMPS."

By M. T. DOME.

This saving stamps may be all right. And some folks get a keen delight collecting them. But hark and hist! There's one, a non-philatelist, who sends me 4 cents weight of truck and on the covers only stuck a 2c stamp, the stingy tramp! If ever I my hands can clamp upon that chap he'll surely rue the days I pay that 2c due! No matter what your pleasures are, some hobbies you can ride too far.

I Wish You a Very Merry Christmas

AN ADULT QUESTIONNAIRE.

The Margate College News in its October and November numbers published a philatelic competition in the form of a Questionnaire based upon the one recently published in the WEEKLY. A. Leon Adutt J. P., is responsible for it and we quote from a letter just at hand from Mr. Adutt:—

"There are over three hundred and fifty resident pupils at Margate College, Kent, and I am sending you several issues of the college paper giving all the details. I have heard from the principals, Messrs. A. F. and William L. Lewis (ex-mayor of Margate), that the competition has caused a great deal of interest and the awards will shortly be made."

Mr. Adutt believes that such a competition must prove a fine incentive to budding philatelists and he will no doubt introduce the stamp collecting hobby to many new collectors.

STAMPS, CAPTAIN'S HOBBY.

The first sea captain on record at Los Angeles Harbor as having stamp collecting for a hobby was discovered yesterday on the Toyo Kisen Kaisha liner Anyo Maru.

He is Capt. M. Takaumizawa, master of the vessel, and one of the foremost stamp collectors of Japan.

In the captain's possession on ship-board are many thousands of stamps from all parts of the world.—Los Angeles Examiner.

WASHINGTON AGENCY SALES.

We published recently the amount of the sales of the Philatelic Agency at Washington, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1924, but we now have at hand a letter from Hon. Ernest R. Ackerman giving some comparative figures which will be of interest. Mr. Ackerman wrote Hon. Warren I. Glover, 3rd Asst. Postmaster-General and received the following information in response:—

"Would say that the sales figures, since the establishment of the Philatelic Bureau, are as follows:

For the first seven months of its establishment in 1922, the sales amounted to, $20,906.50.

For the fiscal year 1923, $105,317.03.

For the fiscal year 1924, $129,646.51.

And this year we are hoping for an even larger figure."

Mr. Ackerman very kindly sends us this in the belief that it will be of value to the "ten thousand or more subscribers to your admirable WEEKLY".

SQUEAKS FROM A STAMP HINGE.

With fingers weary and worn,
With eyelids heavy and red,
I've looked today through a thousand U. S.
Because some philatelist's said,
"Stitch, stitch, stitch,"
"On nearly each issue of stamps,"
"That watermark trebles the price that they're worth."
(But, Lord, the pain in my "lamps"!)

"Stitch, stitch, stitch."
Those words whiz around in my head
While I hunt that elusive and rare watermark.
(I'll find one soon,—or drop dead!)
(Apologies to Thomas Hood and his "Song of the Shirt".)

"A stitch in time," I learned, "saves nine",
And a "stitch" in my side's quite bad.
But a "stitch" for a watermark in a U. S. I
When I find such a "stitch," am I mad?
"M. T." DOME.

CANADIAN CANCELLATIONS.

By H. S. SEAMAN.

What is the meaning of the ominous silence that is abroad in regard to this branch of philatelic research? It is true the silence is now and then broken by the rustle of a breeze which dies down almost as unobserved and as barren of outward results as if the silence had remained undisturbed. But the occasional flutter in the air, to the man (as the old time backwoodsman used to do) who puts his ear to the ground occasionally and takes the sense out of what is or is not going on, indicates that matters are developing along safe lines and that reasonable progress is being made.

On the other hand, many collectors, doubtless, are passing up—to more adventurous, or, shall we say better informed or more progressive—specimens, which some time later they will be buying back at prices greatly enhanced by simply being transferred from the common specimen of rather heavily cancelled class to that of a nicely "cancelled" specimen of one of the rarer types.

PAID

The further wonder is, why do we not have a priced "Cancellation" Catalogue. It is a fact, we believe, that edition after edition of British "Cancellation" Catalogues are exhausted, so that you can hardly buy one today—from publisher, collector or second-hand dealer—they are not only out of print but out of the market, while Stanley Gibbons' general catalogue gives some information on this line, it is only enough to whet the appetite of the real collector.

The United States specialist's priced catalogue, of which, I believe, only two editions have appeared, gives a place to and sets prices for the cancellations on the stamps of that country that makes the prices of the ordinary "collection specimen," be it ever so fine, look pale at the mouth—so to speak.

To cite a few instances—here is a stamp priced at 3 cents as a normal collection specimen with ordinary block obliteration without any particular significance attached to it. This stamp with the same ordinary insignificant cancellation, or the town postmark in blue is priced here at three times the price of the black, viz. 10 cents. Other postal markings make this ordinary 3 cent stamp worth 50 cents if cancelled in purple or magenta, 75 cents if the word "paid" happened to land upon it from the postal clerk's gavel or hammer. If this same stamp had been fortunate enough to have been hit after the cancelling weapon had come in contact with a pad of red or brown ink, its price by this catalogue is $1. If the letter bearing this particular stamp had been, by any mishap, delayed in posting until the mail was closed at the Post Office for the city to which it was addressed, and the writer had the energy to take time by the forelock and hie himself to the railway station, where after being posted on the train, it was hit by the railway representative of the postal department the value of that stamp is advanced to the price—note carefully—$2.50. But this is not the limit, if the gale his cancelling device the price of this same stamp so hit is $3, according to the decision of the compilers of this catalogue—and they are given credit by those who deal with them for knowing values in stamp cancellations. Not to repeat, but to add a few details, a stamp priced in ordinary condition at 6 cents jumps to $9 if mailed on a train, or $12.50 if mailed at sea and cancelled "Packet" or equivalent in any other language.

One other instance—here is a stamp priced at 60 cents—kinsman of No. 14 Canada, 1 cent rose, 1859, priced as follows: if cancelled in black 60 cents, blue $1, red $1.50, brown $2, ultramarine $3, green $7.50, Paid $1, Way Letter $2.50, Railway $4 Packet $12.50.

If these prices indicate the stage that has been arrived at on the other side of that imaginary line—that we who live close to it hear so much about—then it is surely time that Canadian Postal Cancellations received some adequate recognition.

One gentleman, a collector and dealer of repute, has indicated by various magazine articles, and otherwise, his faith in this phase of philately. Another, a man holding a conspicuous position in the premier Canadian Philatelic Society has published one edition, embracing—in addition to many pages of valuable general information, such as die varieties, papers, shades and printings—illustrations of over 160 designs of cancellations; and it is not betraying any secret, we believe, that considerable progress has already been made, by way of MSS. for a very much enlarged (especially in the Cancellation feature) edition, which will likely be on the market this fall. This catalogue has been the compass by which has been arranged generally alphabetically and in more or less conformity thereto, a collection, among the pages of which we invite you to take a stroll. Here are:

Bull's Eye (Jarret's No. 31) two, three or four ring in various sizes of central ball as well as various thicknesses and sizes of the surrounding rings, at least 20 distinct dies represented in black. Those in color will come in under "Colors."

Canada. The word in full in at least fifteen different sizes of type and supporting framework embellishing it.

C.E., C.W., U.C., L.C., Alta., Assa., Sask., are all here, the latter three when these abbreviations represented "Territories" not "Provinces" and in addition "N.W.T.," which only about four towns ever used. Here is an interesting postmark (not on a stamp) Bytown Oct. 10, 1854, U.C. in Jarret's No. 21. Jarret's No. 133 and 151 as well as various similar cancellations include Halifax, Kingston, Montreal, Ottawa, Prescott, Quebec, St. Catherines and Toronto.

Colors are represented by blue, brown, crimson, green, magenta, purple (in brownish, reddish and purple black), red, scarlet and violet. These, of course, illustrate bull's eyes, targets, crosses, grids, stars, diamonds, triangles and pheons; four, six and eight fan windmills and town, city, railway, railway station and city sub-stations.

Metal Grids in great diversity by way of the number of and width of the lines. Metal crowns, four distinct varieties.

Hand made Cork cancellations with positively no end to the objects that have been attempted by the imaginative postmaster or his perhaps more adventurous clerk. Here are windmills, crosses, stars wheels, initial letters, tudor crown (well executed), lily, shamrock, leaves, at least eight representatives of natural history from the animal kingdom.

Postmarks of cities, towns, villages (what is the relative scarcity of a "Toronto" postmark 1869 on No. 34 and a postmark at the same date say of Johnstown or Markham?), mail cars, (over 275 railway sub-divisions were in operation in 1903), railway stations, city and rural stations, postmen's individual mallets, railway car numbers and direction of train travel.

Year Dates whether in full as 1869, 1882, or only 72, 79 or 97 as the case may be.

Shades, Papers and Perforations—the former two have their place in all catalogues already, and when Scott's (they will eventually, why not now?) lists perforation 11½x12 there will be ample opportunity for the poor man in Canada to exercise his craving to his entire satisfaction in place of reaching his limit with 150 or so stamps which the ordinary catalogue lists, for at about this number the poor man has to pass up and at the same time limit his number of specimens on account of the price.

Indications are not wanting already that Postal Cancellations will be in evidence at the Second Canadian National Exhibition in considerable numbers. Perhaps that will be the occasion which will stimulate some more adventurous spirit than the rest—or we would suggest as a better plan—the getting together of a little group of those who are best informed and thereby qualified to undertake to prepare and publish a priced catalogue. Should this suggestion prove to be prophetic, the Winnipeg Philatelic Exhibition will certainly mark a milestone in the history of Canadian Postal Cancellations.—Winnipeg Exhibition Prospectus.

POPULAR PROGRAMMES.

By FRED J. MELVILLE.

14 Sudbourne Rd., Brixton, London, Eng.

August is a comparatively quiet time in the philatelic world, but these quiet times are precious as periods of preparation. It is at this time of the year that the Honorary Secretaries of the Philatelic Societies are concerning themselves with the drawing up of their programmes for the meetings to be held in the new season.

There are Secretaries—and Secretaries; some take more care in the planning of their programmes than others. Some have ideas and scheme to present attractive programmes; others are content to let the programme shape itself, sending appeals broadcast to likely exhibitors or lecturers, and when they have sufficient favourable responses, dropping the items into the syllabus anyhow.

A philatelic society's programme is worthy of the Secretary's best efforts; it is likely to be all the more attractive if constructed with foresight and imagination, and particularly with broad vision. The Secretary's personal philatelic interests may be cabined and confined to some particular country or colony, but this should not narrow his sympathies in respect to the variety of interests required in a programme that is to appeal to his members. There should be a mixing of philatelic fare to suit all tastes, and the successful programme Secretary is like a chef who arranges his menu with consummate care.

In the larger centers the society secretaries have little difficulty in securing a wide choice of contributors to the papers and displays. They have a better chance of carrying out definite plans in their programmes. Our notes are, however, designed in the hope that they may be of service to the Secretaries of the smaller societies, who have less material to work upon and fewer members willing to or capable of undertaking papers and displays.

MEETING DATES.

Meetings of small societies should not be too numerous; it is better, we think, to concentrate effort on getting one successful meeting a month, rather than have a poorly attended meeting once a week. One meeting a month, instead of four, enables the Secretary to make the programme more attractive, and to "whip up" the attendances.

A regular day in each month is an advantage; members become familiarized with the day if, say, the first Monday in each month, or the third Wednesday, be the fixed meeting day. Some Secretaries may find a little difficulty in working out dates for a season which overlaps into next year, before they have got their next year diaries. Here are the Mondays for the first half of 1925 from which any other dates may be calculated easily:—

January 5th, 12th, 19th, 26th.
February 2nd, 9th, 16th, 23rd.
March 2nd, 9th, 16th, 23rd, 30th.
April 6th, 13th (Easter Monday), 20th, 27th.
May 4th, 11th, 18th, 25th.
June 1st (Whit Monday), 8th, 15th, 22nd, 29th.

HOLIDAYS AND HIGH DAYS.

One has to be careful generally to avoid holidays, e.g., Good Friday, April 10th; Easter Saturday, April 11th; or the Mondays, April 13th and June 1st, but some other special dates may be turned appropriately to the uses of the programme, for example:—

Tuesday, March 17th, St. Patrick's Day.
Thursday, April 23rd, St. George's Day.
Saturday, April 25th, Anzac Day.
Wednesday, May 6th, Penny Black Day; Accession of H.M. King George (1910).

Friday, May 1st, May Day.
Saturday, May 23rd, or Monday, May 25th, for Empire Day (Sunday, May 24th).
Wednesday, June 3rd, The King's birth-day.

We have also found good uses for February 14th, St. Valentine's Day, appropriate to a "Ladies' Day," and even April 1st, All Fool's Day, for displays or papers on "stamps" which have hoaxed collectors, and Boat Race Day for Oxford and Cambridge College stamps.

So study the calendar, and where meeting dates coincide with events or anniversaries which can be connected with philately in some reasonable way, use them; they will impart a topical interest, and will often secure some useful publicity in the local press.

SECURE THE MEMBERS' CO-OPERATION.

The chief difficulty of the Programme Secretary in the small societies is to get a sufficiency of good items. There may be one "big collector" in the town. Generally he is quite willing to show, but he does not want to show all the time, and it is much better that he should only show once or perhaps twice in a season. It is a good thing to strive to get all the members to do their share, however small. A society is a co-operative affair, and members, though they may be shy of coming forward, should be encouraged and assisted to do so, that they may feel that they are of some use in the society beyond just paying their subscriptions and looking on.

LANTERN LECTURES.

There should, wherever possible, be a lantern lecture included in the programme, and this now presents no difficulty for any society, however small, in this country, for the Extension Subcommittee of the Philatelic Congress Executive has provided a wide choice of lantern lectures, with script and slides complete. The charge for hire of slides is the very nominal one of 5s, and the borrower has to pay the return carriage. Our notion is that the society would do well to have two, one on a general subject to arouse local interest at the beginning of the season, and the other on a special subject.

As there is no handy separate list of these, we may set out the lectures available, broadly classified as "General" or "Special" subjects:—

their feet, and once having found they have something to say, will be the more easily persuaded to take further part in the meetings.

COMBINED DISPLAYS.

The five- or ten-minute display idea has worked with varying degrees of success to the same end. Collectors who have seen big specialized displays at the meetings, and realize they cannot show their equal, may be tempted to show, along with others, some interesting small displays.

COMPETITIONS.

Competitions at meetings have met with some success at the provincial societies, though not, we fancy, at the London meetings. Various novel and interesting tests of philatelic knowledge have been tried, such as the identification of a group of selected stamps, of which the competitors are allowed to see only the backs; groups of genuine and forged stamps mixed to be expertised by the members; tests for colour sense, and so on.

A RICH SOURCE OF PAPERS.

In some societies there may still be gaps to fill, after lantern lecture, local effort, discussion, &c., have been tabled on the programme. This will be the case especially in some of the smaller school societies, but the suggestion we throw out may yet be useful to others. It is that the Secretary should select, or get the members to select, subjects from the vast field of accessible philatelic literature, and depute various members to take their turns in reading such papers.

Here for example, is a programme selected in the main from the titles in Mr. F. H. Vallancey's "List of Articles on Postage Stamps, &c." (1922), and the same publisher's "Guide to Philatelic Literature" (1923). They are selected to present as much variety as possible, to be thoroughly reliable as well as interesting, and yet to stimulate discussion.

SOME MODERN TOPICS.

It may be criticized that our selection falls short of our own precepts, and fails to cater in any of the nine meetings for the modernist. This is due in the main to the lack of authoritative material. "Azerbaijan" in the Philatelic Institute papers, "Post-War Stamps of Germany," by W. Gardner, in the same, Mr. Stanley Redgrove's "Latvia" in the "Kensington Philatelist," "Postage Stamps of the New Finland," by R. E. Burton, "Aero Stamps" (various authors) are among the most suitable articles we can recall. But the idea is capable of infinite variation to suit all tastes, and some of our readers might derive quite a little amusement and edification, drawing up for themselves an imaginary ideal programme for a philatelic society's season, from the "List of Articles" together with such convenient short studies as are embodied in the growing list of "Philatelic Institute Papers." These latter now cover a wide field, including papers on such general subjects as "Postal Stationery," "Postmarks," "History from the Stamp Album," "The Philatelic Library," "Early Transmission of Letters," &c.

It need scarcely be added in conclusion that common courtesy requires that the meeting should not be left in any uncertainty as to the authorship of such papers read in this way.—Stamp Collecting.

WINS BACK HEALTH WITH STAMPS.

By W. C. RICHARDS.

(We don't know very much about the publicity plans of the A.P.S., nor do we know anything about the writer of the following article, but there are a few things we do know, among them:—

- (1) Mr. Richards knows the art of winning and holding attention.
- (2) This article syndicated to the Metropolitan press would have been of untold value from a publicity standpoint.
- (3) Real art in advertising consists in administering the pellet sugar coated.—W. O. W.)

Alfred Lichtenstein, New York millionaire, exhibited the most fattening food in the world at the Wayne County Medical Society building the other night, or what he thinks is the most fattening food. Ten years ago he weighed 146 pounds; today he carries around 210 pounds.

The most fattening food in the world to him is a postage stamp.

Ten years ago a Manhattan nerve specialist, with a dubious nod over the cadaverous Lichtenstein, wrote out a prescription for him.

"Play golf," ordered the doctor.

"You don't catch me chasing a ball miles over the fields," said Lichtenstein.

"Then collect beetles," amended the doctor.

"I'm not a child."

THIS ONE DISGUSTED.

"Well, postage stamps," said the doctor. Lichtenstein looked disgustedly at the specialist.

"You're crazy, and if I collected postage stamps my friends would think I was," he rejoined.

"You don't think Colonel Green is crazy, do you?" asked the doctor. Colonel Green is Hetty Green's son.

Lichtenstein said he didn't think the colonel demented.

"Well, he saves postage stamps," said the doctor.

"That's funny, I don't believe you," said Lichtenstein.

"All right, you go see him."

Lichtenstein did. He found Green fingering some stamps on his Wall Street desk.

FINDS IT'S TRUE.

"Then it's true. You do save postage stamps," said Lichtenstein, astonished.

"I do. I would have lost my mind from worry some time ago if I hadn't. Now, here are some I've just received from a London dealer. He wants 80 pounds for the lot and I think that's a little too stiff."

Lichtenstein turned the hobby over in his mind and decided he'd take a whack at it. He asked Green how to start.

"Go up and see your friend Stern. He runs a stamp company."

"Give me $200 worth of stamps," said Lichtenstein 10 minutes later, walking into the stamp office.

Stern laughed. "I'll give you $10 worth. That'll keep you sufficiently busy for a start."

Lichtenstein took them home, along with an album and a catalog, and hid away in his library. While he was sticking in the stamps a bit shame-facedly, his wife came in.

"Alfred, what ARE you doing? DON'T let these worries unsettle your mind. Now, you come on out and we'll play a few hands of cards."

GETS NIGHT'S SLEEP.

Two hours later Lichtenstein hardly could keep his eyes open. Without bothering to undress, he threw himself down on the bed and fell asleep. It was the first night's sound sleep he had had in months. He didn't wake until 7 a. m., when his wife, fearing him ill, shook him by the shoulder.

"Do you know, Alfred, that it's 7 o'clock in the morning?" she asked nervously.

Lichtenstein jumped to his feet, drew the shade and the morning sunlight streamed in on the table of stamps.

"Me for stamps from now on," he declared.

Lichtenstein began therewith a world-wide quest. He had plenty of money. When he wanted any stamp badly enough he paid the price without quibble. He had that advantage over the average collector. He became a familiar and energetic character at every big auction bourse in Europe. When famous collections were put on the block such as the famed Ferrari collection, Lichtenstein picked up some of the choicest pieces.

Lichtenstein, president of the Cuban Dye Company and heavily interested in the Dow Chemical Company at Midland, Michigan, came to Detroit, during the week after a few days' hunting in the upper peninsula, as the guest of John Kay, 7711 East Jefferson Avenue.

EXHIBITS THREE VOLUMES.

Wednesday evening he exhibited three volumes of his stamp collection at the Wayne County Medical Society. It embraced early Canadas and British Columbia, and represented the postal history of the two. These, with the stamps of Uruguay, Mauritius and old Swiss states, are Lichtenstein's specialties.

Scott's catalog, the American breviary of the stamp collector, lists an early 12-pence stamp of Canada at $1,500. Recently an unused pair was discovered in Northwestern Canada and Lichtenstein is said to have paid $4,000 for the two. Besides these, there is a rejoined mint strip of four in the Lichtenstein collection, several on cover, and some 25 single copies. The three books shown, it is understood, are insured for $1,000,000.

H. F. COLMAN,

509 7th Street N. W.,

Washington, D. C.

By the books one could trace the history of the postal rates through the days when the facilities of transportation never allowed of the 2-cent rate which now prevails and 5-cents was not enough for an ocean trip. There were times when the government permitted one to take a stamp and cut it in two, making two somewhat eccentric but acceptable 4-cent stamps of an eight for example.

HAS 1847 STAMPS.

Included, also, in the New Yorker's collection were some superlative rarities in 1847 envelopes. These were envelopes bearing American stamps but cancelled with Canadian postmarks. These were the outgrowth of days when it was customary for Canada to charge so much for carrying a letter from Montreal, for instance, to the border, and the United States charged a fee for delivering it the rest of the way.

No international postal union was in existence then, with attendant postal treaties. Consequently, when some writer in Montreal wanted to make sure the man to whom he was writing was not taxed for the letter, he paid the Canadian assessment to the frontier and also attached a United States stamp to cover the remainder of the trip. There is only a handful of these unusual envelopes, perhaps, in existence, six of them being in the Lichtenstein collection. — Detroit Free Press.

THE "FERRARI" SALE.

There was a very large attendance when the eleventh sale in connection with the dispersal of the celebrated collection of M. Ferrari de la Renotiere opened at the Hotel Drouot November 19, and there was a good deal of brisk bidding for selected specimens on the part of dealers and collectors or their representatives, who were present from the principal countries of the globe. The total of the first day's receipts was 923,465 frs., the product of 235 lots. All the stamps sold today were French.

The best price of the day was 200,500 frs., which was paid, on behalf of the well-known American collector, Mr. Hind, for a block of four unused French stamps of the 1849 issue One Franc vermillion, the lower right-hand corner stamp being tête-bêche. Mr. Th. Champion, the noted French dealer, who figured prominently in most of the bidding for the more important specimens, secured for 62,000 frs., another fine entire of the same issue bearing two vertical tête-bêche pairs of the 15c green, together with a pair of the One Franc carmine, all on the same envelope. This is the only known specimen of the inverted 15c. Two very fine examples of the One Franc carmine of the 1849 issue, one inverted, were sold after brisk bidding to Mr. Hind for 35,000 frs.

Another lot for which there was considerable competition was a sheet of 150 of the unissued 20c blue of 1849, three of the stamps being inverted. These eventually fell to Mr. Friedl of Vienna for 31,000 frs. Mr. Champion, after a sharp fight, secured for 30,000 frs., a magnificent block of thirty unused 20c blue of the 1849 issue in three rows of ten, the third stamp in the middle row inverted.

A strip of five unused 40c orange, two showing the variety "4" elongated, went to Mr. Hind for 25,000 frs.

Mr. Champion was again successful in the bidding for a pair of 25c blue of the same issue, one inverted, but slightly defective, for which he paid 22,000 frs., and he was also the highest bidder for a fine unused pair of 1 fr. carmine of the 1849 issue, one inverted, which went ultimately for 20,500 frs.

Among the other best prices of the day were:—

15c green, 1849, unused, a block of four, 18,000 frs. (Mr. Hind).

10c bistre, 1849, unused, a row of three, the first inverted, 16,500 frs. (Mr. Champion).

20c blue, 1849, unused, a pair, one inverted, slightly defective, 15,000 frs.

1fr vermillion, 1849, unused, 14,500 frs.

1fr carmine, 1849, unused, a fine pair, one inverted, 15,000 fr.

Only 197 lots were offered at the second day's sale, and there were no sensational prices. The total reached today was 344,285 frs., the highest individual bid being 6,500 frs., which was given by Mr. Stern, an American collector, for an unused Ceylon 4d pink of the 1855-58 issue, slightly cut on the right edge.

A good deal of interest was aroused by the Bushire "Under British Occupation" stamps of the 1915 issue, surcharged on Persian of the same date, for which Mr. Th. Champion was a strong bidder. Mr. Champion secured for 3,900 frs., a fine used specimen of the 2ch blue and carmine; while for a used 5ch red he had to pay 5,400 frs., and for a used 6ch green and carmine 4,200 frs.

The fine collection of French stamps of the 1870 issue led to keen competition for certain of the specimens. Mr. Friedl (Austria) paid 5,000 frs. for an unused set of 25 of the 80c pink printed as "88" instead of "80"—a particularly fine block. The same buyer secured for 4,800 frs. a set of fifteen 40c of the same issue printed in varying shades, four of them blood-red in colour and one used.

Mr. Stanley (England) paid 4,800 frs. for a very fine used specimen of the Togo issue of 1914, a 50pf carmine and black on buff, surcharged "Togo Anglo-French Occupation."

The only other lots which produced any spirited bidding during today's sale were:—

Ceylon, 1885, surcharged 5c on 16c lilac, unused, 4,000 frs. (Mr. Burns).

France, 1876-77, a fine unissued specimen of the 20c blue, 3,100 frs. (Mr. de la Fontaine).

France, a similar specimen to the above, 2,700 frs. (Mr. Champion).

Marshall Islands, 1915, Five Shillings on 5m black and carmine, unused, 2,400 frs. (Mr. Champion). — Philatelic Magazine.

Some Men Cry

and we have known others to swear when they found they had arranged to stop here only for an hour or one day to see if they could find an item or two to add to their already large collections. They had been told no such thing as a really comprehensive stock of early U. S. stamps existed, and when they faced a bank vault packed and realized it would take a week to look the stuff over, they were naturally just annoyed to find their appointments forced them to leave it.

We really don't hoard stamps, but if a customer asks us for a selection of 5c '47s we don't like to say, "Sorry, we have no '47s, but a nice lot of 3c '61s!"

Imagine asking your grocer for a jar of mayonnaise and being offered a very excellent shoe polish as a substitute!

We try to have what the collector wants, at the time he wants it. If you doubt it, just ask us for a selection of any regular issue of 19th century U. S. or foreign stamps. We prefer dealer references. Always rather buy than sell nice things.

THE FORUM.

By H. P. ATHERTON,
318 Main St., Springfield, Mass.

Devoted to 19th century United States postage stamps; Cancellations, Minor Varieties, Rates, and all interesting Material and Data welcomed. Your accompanying letters are subject to entry in this Column in whole or in part. Return postage and registration requested with all sendings.

In answer to the Query of Nov. 24th—What is the highest amount of "Postage used for Revenue" that you may have? many replies came to the Forum, showing that some interest is being taken in such items. You maybe say, "Oh, I give those to the children" when pen cancelled 3c 1861's are mentioned. Probably you do; but why? Oh, because no friend collector takes any interest in them, so why should you. Pen cancels always interest me, not the common scratches but the odd appearing ones. They come nearer showing the trend of the times—War times—than the manufactured obliterations. If you will take a hundred pen cancelled 3c 1861's, and study them, I venture to say you will find more of interest, than if you take 100 of those cancelled with the regular run of "Targets," "Gridirons," and cut cork smudges, that graced these stamps from many of the larger cities at that time. Try a hundred and see what you get.

Here is an analogous situation. For some years I have studied the cancellations of the Confederate stamps, a large majority of which are pen cancelled, the smaller town usually coming this way. Have you ever thought of why so many are pen cancelled? Think that one over, and you'll probably find the answer right enough.

In a little mess of Confederate covers were two covers each bearing a pair of the common 5c London printings, they had been so badly treated in the days since their mailing that I am hazarding a guess that they were "Londons", tho they might be local printings. Across the face of each stamp in manuscript is the lone word "Jeff", and the two covers were from different small towns. Rather interesting cancellations, and of the times, surely.

In U. S. postage stamps used for revenue we find cancellations entirely different from those postally pen cancelled. They have as a rule two or three initials at the top, and then a month abbreviation of three letters, with the day, then the year in full, or abbreviated. When found on the document (and they are not commonly found) we note that these initials correspond with the name of the man who made out the check or document. They have more of the personal element than mere postal cancellations. A man brought in some revenues one day and said, referring to the pen cancelled initials on them, "Do you know whose initials those are", when I told him they were worth but a few cents each! I didn't know, and as I do not live in the city where they came from, my oversight was eventually pardoned.

The man who cancelled them was a mayor or some such dignitary, and the price asked for these stamps was enhanced greatly by the initialing on them, in the eyes of the owner.

Mr. Fred Green has sent in many an interesting item in the way of postage used for revenue, in fact, a whole approval book full of them as being of interest to the readers of the Forum. His cover of legal size did not get by the eagle eye of the postmaster however, for across the face of each stamp is written "not current". He treated the affixer rather badly too, for he pen cancelled the two stamps (pair of 5c Certificates) to a fare ye well, and in addition marked the envelope "Due 9 cts", it being presumably triple rate.

On Mr. Green's first page is a fine little bit of cover with a Black Jack and a 3c '61 "lying down" on their sides, so to speak, across them in three lines of mss. appears "No int. rev. stamps to be had in this place. J. F. W. 7/11.68." On the next page is a friendly gathering of a 3c green National and a 3c First Issue Proprietary Revenue stamp, the shades of green harmonizing well, they passed for 6c postage, tho that postmaster also had a "heavy hand". Page 3 would please a condition crank, for it shows a beautifully centered block of six (3x2) Taylors on hard paper, lightly pen cancelled. The dating is evenly applied on each stamp, as with revenues sometimes, and makes a fine appearing item, which is from ten to a hundred times as rare as a similar block postally used of same dimensions. He then shows later issues all pen cancelled "Used for Revenue".

Rev. A. T. Gesner has forwarded a note covered by a 10c 1861 postage stamp taking care of the "Mare, Waggon, and Harness", in a bill of sale. It is a very interesting item.

There was a bona fide 2c blue revenue permitted during the War, and used with the 1c blue '61 on covers emanating from Frankfort, Ky., for a short time, the stock of 3's being exhausted. This little provisional on the cover is a rarity.

A collection I saw had the 2c and 3c values of postage of many issues as revenues and a fine 15c orange American on a document, pen cancelled. In my collection of "Black Jacks" is a document of legal size bearing a horizontal strip of four 24c 1862 grays, with top margins, and a pair of 2c Black Jacks; thus making the dollar rate. It covers a bill of sale of "Personal Property" consisting of "Three milch cows, and a sorrel horse between seven and eight years of age." It was this use of postage for revenue that prompted me to put that query. I thought that oftentimes high values were brought into use to pay revenue; but this doesn't seem to be the case, the largest other document being the block of six of the 5c Taylors—30c. The query for this week should fetch some interesting replies as there are many answers of interest known.

Query—Have you any unusual cancellations on "Postage used for Revenues"?

Practically all of the stamps of this African colony of Belgium are beautiful in design and fine examples of the engraver's art. Always popular and fast sellers, few dealers seem to have any variety of them and we have been to considerable trouble to get this offering together. Anything you require which is not offered give us a want list of and perhaps we can supply it.

WASHINGTON EXHIBITION.

James F. Duhamel of Washington, D. C., sends us clippings from a local paper which indicate that the Washington Philatelic Society intends to do its part in promoting philatelic publicity. An exhibition is planned for the Carnegie Library to be held either in January or February. At a recent meeting of the Society, committees were appointed to select the date and make the necessary arrangements.

The officials of the Carnegie Public Library have donated the use of the hall in which painting exhibits have been held on the second floor. Those in charge of the exhibition will have a wealth of material upon which to draw for exhibition purposes. Members of the various legations, army and navy officials, and prominent local collectors will make their entries in such a manner that there will be no duplication of countries. Among local collectors may be mentioned the following:—

W. H. Boatwright, A. N. Caudell, W. A. Johnson, William Sahm and W. F. McKenney, all local collectors, will exhibit U. S. stamps.

Other local exhibitors:

Philip S. Warren, Hungarian stamps; Valdemar Weiergang, Scandinavian; Fred S. Gichner, old German states; John L. Clemens, Hawaiian and Danish West Indies; Mac H. Sanborn, Spanish American countries; Norris H. Sanborn, British Colonies; Charles H. Vaughan, Great Britain and Scandinavian countries; James F. Duhamel, Newfoundland and Queensland; Harold H. Marshall, British colonials; A. T. Coumbe, jr., E. I. Crum, Walter R. Cupp, Albert H. Gorham, T. Russell Hungerford, F. H. Parsons, W. I. Plant, and Dr. M. G. Skinner, general collections.

NEWS GLEANINGS.

—At the meeting of the Chicago Philatelic Society held December 18, 1924, Dr. C. W. Hennan was elected president, thereby displacing C. E. Severn, who has acted as president for about a decade. Mr. Fred J. De Witt was elected secretary in Dr. Hennan's stead.

—The New York Times in a review of a recent Morgenthau sale referred to some of the prices obtained at the Adler sale of early German stamps. It is remarked that the increasing demand for the old issues on the original envelopes was evident, and the market for good used copies off the envelopes was strong. The highest-priced single lot was $425 for two copies of the Saxony three pfennig on cover; and a single of the same stamp on the envelope brought $370. A Berge-dorf one and one-half schilling, 1861, on original letter brought $305. The account includes a notice of the forthcoming annual dinner of the Collectors Club which is to be held on January 4 at the Hotel Astor, an occasion that will be one of the great social affairs of the new year.

—Mr. Brewer Corcoran was scheduled to represent the Springfield Stamp Club at the meeting of the Boston Philatelic Society, of December 16, and to give a talk on an exhibition of the stamps of Nova Scotia. Mr. Corcoran is well remembered by those who attended the convention of the A. P. S., at Springfield, Massachusetts, August, 1922, for his courtesies at that time.

—The editor is away from his desk for a week or so and correspondents should be advised of the fact.

—Greetings have been received from Herman Toaspen of New York City, who was at The Hague, Holland, on November 30th.

UKRAINE ACTRESS A STAMP FAN.

KETI TKACH OUTBIDS OTHERS AT THE KLEIN AUCTION OF THE DEBBY LEWIS KIRK COLLECTION.

(Clippings from Philadelphia Public Ledger)
(Evening edition.) (Morning edition.)

A remarkable collection of rare old United States, Confederate States and foreign postage stamps, assembled from the collections of Miss Debby Lewis Kirk, of this city, and other philatelists, was sold at auction this afternoon at the office of Eugene Klein, 1318 Chestnut St.

The sale was particularly notable for the large number and splendid condition of five and ten-cent United States stamps of the issue of 1847, seventy lots of the five cent and thirty lots of the ten cent being included. Each of the 1847 ten cent stamps in the sale was "plated" by Elliott Perry, an expert on that issue, which will enable purchasers to determine the exact position in the original plate of each stamp. The prices of some of these stamps ran well over $100 each.

Notable among the foreign rarities was a copy of the Buenos Aires 3p green stamp of the 1858 issue, valued at $225; Austria 9k blue (1850 issue), on laid paper, valued at $250; Oldenburg, 1/2g black on green paper (1858), valued at $225; Russian offices in Turkey, 20k blue and red (1865), two copies, valued at $300, and Spain, 2r red (1851), valued at $500.

Well known stamp collectors and dealers were aroused last night when Ketik Tkach, a young Ukrainian film actress, made her appearance at an auction sale of rare United States, Confederate States and foreign stamps held in the office of Eugene Klein, 1318 Chestnut st., and with shrewdness and a rare knowledge of the subject, bid $60 for one rare Russian stamp and $122 for another. Her bids were high enough to purchase both stamps.

"It was the greatest surprise of my life," said Mr. Klein after the sale, "when the young woman bid such high sums for the stamps and showed very clearly that she knew very well what she was about. She is not on my mailing list, nor is she among the ranks of well-known philatelists. She must have a very fine collection, however, to have added two such stamps to it."

The sale, which contained stamps from the collections of Miss Debby Lewis Kirk, of this city, and other philatelists, contained many rare pieces. It was particularly notable for the large number and splendid condition of five and ten cent United States stamps of the issue of 1847; seventy lots of the five cent and thirty of the ten cent being included.

FILSTRUP IN CHICAGO.

The meeting of the Chicago Philatelic Society for December 4, 1924, was advertised as one that would be devoted to the stamps of a portion of the collection of Mr. A. W. Filstrup, Benton Harbor, Michigan. Such was the potency of Mr. Filstrup's early U. S. stamps as an attraction that sixty-four members and eight visitors assembled to do the stamps justice, a number which almost qualifies as a record attendance at a Chicago Society meeting. Mr. Filstrup made a special trip from Boston in order to fulfill the promise that he made to the Chicago Society some time ago, and when he saw that the "Standing Room Only" sign was displayed early in the evening, he knew that his confidence in the appreciation of the Chicago collectors for his stamps had not been misplaced. Mr. Filstrup's three volumes were shown after short remarks by Mr. Filstrup and Mr. E. R. Jacobs; and the evening was devoted to the examination of the one cent and ten cent of the '51 and '57 issues, as well as the ten cent of 1847. There were so many other interesting stamps and covers thrown in for good measure that they may only be referred to in an embrative auction sale held December 8, and some time before a similar list of sales quotations was received from Herman Toasperm of New York.

—Mr. N. B. Paulson of Chicago has returned from the Waterhouse sale in London. Mr. Paulson visited Paris and other of the continental cities before leaving for Chicago.

—We understand that Mr. Charles W. Arp has been elected a director of the American Philatelic Society to fill the unexpired term of Henry B. Phillips, whose death was announced recently.

ILLUSTRATED AUCTION CATALOGUE.

Commencing with his thirteenth sale to be held on Feb. 21, Frank Marquis is introducing an illustrated auction catalog in which rarities of all countries will be pictured. The idea although an expensive one will doubtless prove to be very useful and beneficial to auction buyers. More and more catalog makers are realizing the wisdom of appealing to the buyer through illustrations, which is an ideal way of enabling the bidder to know exactly what he is trying to purchase. The House of Marquis is prepared to illustrate all fine conditioned rarities providing they reach Mr. Marquis in time for the catalog to be issued.

way. We are glad to be able to record that it is a source of pride to know that there are collectors who have every belief in the future well being of U. S. stamps and who are willing to certify as to their faith by securing them as occasion offers. Mr. Filstrup is one of those born stamp collectors who has never outgrown the fascination that his first collection of stamps held for him, and so he measures up to our idea of the real collector.

EDITORIAL.

We have noticed in the newspapers an article on postage stamps in relation to their services as travelers on the mails on which they pay the carriage. We learn that in the century 1800-1900 the United States used fifty billion postage stamps, while in the decade 1911-1921 we employed 122,000,000 stamps. While we are regarded as somewhat backward in our business relations with foreign countries, it is said that last year 30,000,000 pounds of American merchandise were carried abroad through our parcel post service. We take the following deservedly eulogistic remarks from the article, "For the modern trader, the humble postage stamp takes the place of proud carriers who traveled by ship and put forth armed with the authority and pomp of emperors and kings in ancient and medieval times."

A correspondent gets back to one of the primary questions of stamp treatment when he asks if upon removing the paper to which a stamp is stuck, should one leave "the original mucilage on the stamp? Or, should one remove the mucilage also?" He says that his experience has shown him that when some of the gum is left, the stamp has life and is better preserved than when the gum is entirely removed. Without gum the stamp seems dead and is easily bent or creased and the corners break off more quickly, he says. On the contrary, he thinks that if the mucilage remains, it may in the course of time crack the stamp. Assuming that our correspondent refers to used stamps only, we believe that it might be claimed that a used stamp with gum is something incongruous, and yet we can believe that at times gum may be of value in identifying the print of the stamp. We suppose that the question could be argued either way, but we think that many collectors want their used stamps without any gum or other substance on the reverse side. As a rule, the stamp paper is of good quality, and a reasonable amount of soaking should not impair its vitality to any noticeable extent, and perhaps it is more fitting that the unused stamp be allowed to rest in the album without any gum on it than otherwise, although in exceptional cases it is possible that the idea is not a feasible one. As for unused stamps, while there have been occasionally in the past partisans of the idea that in the case of certain stamps the original gum was of a nature to crinkle or even crack the paper. Only rarely nowadays does one find a partisan of the plan to remove original gum from a good unused stamp. If readers have any ideas that are worth sharing with others on this or similar subjects we should be pleased to have them.

Some of the news that gets into the daily paper is not always so accurate as we wish it were, and our press bureau should be alert to correct misinformation that is offered publicly. For instance, in a San Francisco paper of several months ago we find a stick-full headed, "One Hundred Dollars for Stamps Signed by Clerk". The despatch is dated Detroit and is an aftermath of the convention of last August. It is said that every collector lives in the hope of adding "an old, old stamp dating back to 1845 when post-office clerks used to sign special initials. This particular stamp bears the initials R. M. H. and is worth $1,000. Just why this stamp is worth such an enormous amount of money was not made clear by the convention stamp collectors who met here in the Hotel Statler. It appears, however, that any old stamp issued by cities is very valuable." Thus is the good old five cent New York given some distorted publicity, and while it is dubious as an item of interest, the bad will always have to be taken with the good until philately has the flair in this country that it has, perhaps in Sweden, where we judge the newspapers are glad to disseminate philatelic news much in the way that news of other accepted avocations is distributed.

* * *

Our attention has been called to one of the arguments that Senator La Follette used in his recent campaign for the presidency. He cited the postage stamp as an example of price stability through the years and said that it sold for the same price now that it did twenty years ago. While he could have gone back a good many years further to have emphasized his point, he merely proceeded to say: "Do you realize that the postage stamp is almost the only thing that costs no more today than it did ten years, twenty years ago. While bread, coal, lumber, railroad fares shot up one hundred to two hundred per cent, the postage stamp issued by your government retains its proud distinction of being as cheap as it was years ago." Surely, this statement is not radical in a philatelic sense, and no comment is necessary, especially in view of the fact that the tendency from the beginning of stamp time has been to decrease the price in ratio to the service performed than to advance it. Furthermore, if the users of many of the stamps of by-gone days were so fortunate as to have in their possession the letters on which the stamps paid postage, they would find that in addition to having their postal service free, they would have a handsome profit on their investment!

ANNUAL CHRISTMAS MEETING.

The Annual Christmas Meeting of the Philadelphia Stamp Club this year will take place on December 30th. This meeting will be out of the ordinary because of the unusual attractions offered.

Mr. Charles J. Phillips of New York, that Prince of Philatelists and good fellows, will exhibit five volumes of his famous United States collection including many rare cancellations, etc., and give one of his unadulterated "Philatelic Talks", a treat rarely offered even in a large city. It will be worth while for every Philatelist within a radius of 100 miles to come to Philadelphia and attend this meeting. Everybody is given a hearty invitation. Don't miss it.

Also for your edification Mr. Philip L. Ward, Jr., will give us a talk about his trip abroad in attendance at the great United States Waterhouse auction sale in London and the Ferrary auction in Paris as well as his impressions of an American traveling in Europe in search of fine and rare United States stamps.

Last but not least our own Jos. (Air Mail 1st Trip) Steinmetz will give us one of his regular interesting talks and exhibitions of the latest things that fly.

Then to wind up there will be handed to every attendant at this meeting a useful souvenir of the occasion which every stamp collector will be glad to obtain. In the words of the late and frequently quoted Barnum, "Come one, come all".

The committee consisting of Mr. Applebaum and Mr. Wolsieffer will be glad to send you any further information or special invitation.

OUR REVIEW.

The Canadian Philatelic Year Book, 1925 edition, compiled by William Butler, is one of the best annual numbers of a stamp publication that we have ever had the pleasure of scanning. Mr. Butler has every reason to feel that he has accomplished the difficult task of making a year book, a compendium worthy of the name. The variety of the contents is unusual; and we find that almost every phase of Canadian stamps and philately is covered in this well-printed and rather profusely illustrated book. The Pence

Issue is listed in the light of the more interesting variations to be found among the stamps, such as transfers, shades and other varieties. Senator J. A. Calder has an authoritative list of "The Law Stamps of Manitoba." Canadian cancellations, early and late, and precancels are given due notice while there are references to the Canadian air mail flights, advertising cancellations and so on. We notice that Edward E. Goodchild is represented by several contributions, one of which on Canada's "Officially Sealed," is particularly interesting and instructive. Among the cuts we find a page showing the interior view at the first Canadian Stamp Exhibition held at Yorkton, in September, 1923. A Canadian, "Who's Who" lists forty-four names, and it is somewhat impressive that the ages of most of the philatelists honored are somewhat mature, as a rule. Published by The Stamp Herald Publishing Company, Kitchener, Ont., Canada: Price, fifty cents.

We have received a little book of about forty pages that we shall be glad to keep at our elbow, in the form of a Catalogue of China's Treaty Port Stamps and Chinese Stamps, "with net cash prices in Shanghai dollars." The publisher is Theodore Siddall, and we are willing to testify to the fact that Mr. Siddall has had an acquaintance ranging over many years with the stamps under notice. Ever since the displacing of the Chinese Treaty Ports from the catalogue there has been some demand for information as to the values of the different Treaty Port Stamps; and the question of prices has been a bothersome one. There are always collectors with us who respond to the appeals of these local stamps, and while it would be an exaggeration to say that they are generally collected, it is only fair to add that they have a good many friends. The prices of most of these issues are within reason, the issues of Weihaiwei being perhaps the most valuable. The list of the issues of China proper is a careful compilation, it is easily seen; and we judge that the prices that are appended to the stamps are a real index of value. The notes that are scattered through the pages have an instructive interest that the one consulting them will absorb to advantage. We welcome the list, particularly for its prices on the Treaty Port stamps, and we think that many an inquiring collector of the Chinese locals will regard it as a guide. Price, 25 cents: Theodore Siddall, Post office Box 1141, Shanghai, China, or Paul J. Siddall, 275 West 141st St., N. Y. City.

BACK HOME AGAIN

Now back from Europe — visited nine countries and secured some unusually attractive United States items, especially fine early pieces. These, added to my substantial stock, place me in a position to fill want lists, better than ever.

Whether it's a fine early single, block or cover, or late single or block, I am likely to have it at present. I only stock the choicest of specimens and cater to those who appreciate fine things at reasonable prices. At present I can also furnish a number of complete sheets and large blocks of the 1894 to 1902 issues. If you are a buyer of United States issues, you better drop me a line at this time.

United States.

1924, 10c Coil, Portrait of Monroe.

Back again from my European trip and will again be in a position to post our readers as to happenings in our current issues.

Have reached Washington via long distance phone and find that during my absence the 10c yellow current issue with portrait of James Monroe, the fifth President of the United States, has been issued in sideways coil form, the stamps being printed on unwatermarked paper, imperforated horizontally, and perforated 10 vertically. They have been issued in coils of five hundred and were placed on sale on December 1st at the Philatelic Agency in Washington.

5c Rotary Print Perforated 10.

Stamps of the 5c denomination printed from the rotary press, perforated 10 and precanceled, are being mailed to the New York and Chicago post-offices in time for the Christmas mail. This denomination will be precanceled and furnished to the other large offices in due order. In the meantime the variety is not available through the agency but I am informed will be put on sale towards the end of January, when collectors may then secure their supply in unused condition. The 10c from the rotary press may then be looked for.

Norwegian Commemorative Stamps.

The Department is now working upon the designs for the Norwegian Commemorative Stamps authorized by the last Congress, and it is expected that definite information as to the approved designs will be available after the first of the year. These stamps will be very handsome, and as the Superintendent of the Division of Stamps is of Norwegian descent, it is expected that the emission will be the last word in stampic art.

New Envelope Contract.

As there are still some adjustments to be made under the new envelope contract, it is expected that the old contract will carry over the first of the year and that the new contract will not go into effect until a later date. We will advise our readers fully as to any contemplated changes just as soon as the Department completes its arrangements with the manufacturers.

BELGIAN CONGO.—The Metropolitan Stamp Co. have shown us the 1923 series of stamps 5c to 10frs with the overprint "Ruanda Urundi" in two lines in black. The postage due stamps of the same date also bear the same surcharge but in lighter type and wider overprint.

DENMARK.—We have received from Mr. A. E. Pade and Mr. R. Roberts copies of the 100 jubilee stamps which were issued on December 1st last, in commemoration of the 300th anniversary of the establishment of the Royal Danish Postal Service by King Christian the 4th of December, 1624. The issue consists of four different 10 ore, green; four different 150, violet and four different 200, brown. All are in sheets of 100 arranged in 12 different designs in the set. The stamps will be sold only during the months of December and January, in which two months the regular stamps will not be sold at any office. Any remainders will be sold in February.

SWITZERLAND.—Mr. R. Roberts reports the appearance of a new color in the current series. It is a 70c purple and buff on white paper.

RUSSIA.—Mr. V. Tchertkoff states that it is officially announced that a new set of Lenin stamps has been promised for January. Charity stamps to help sufferers from the recent Leningrad floods will shortly appear. These will be obtained by surcharging the current stamps and selling them at a premium.—Stanley Gibbons Monthly Journal.

SALVADOR.—New permanent set. Of the values of the new German series, described in these columns on July 12, we have received the 6 centavos on a letter

OUR CROSS-WORD PUZZLE.

An unfortunate error occurred last week in connection with the cross-word puzzle. The fact is that two cuts of a similar character, resulted in the wrong one being selected for use when making up the forms. Mr. Stephen G. Rich is responsible for last week's picture and "ye puzzlers" are urged to turn to the diagram and find the words that are called for by the author of the puzzle. Here are Mr. Rich's dictionary brain-twisters omitted last week:—

Horizontal.

- Device for fastening stamps into albums.
- Portuguese stamp-issuing island.
- South Asian stamp-issuing empire.
- Island empire issuing stamps.
- Variety in stamps due to various makers or makings.
- Object from which stamps are printed.
- Cancelled so as to look well in a collection.
- British imitation of MEKEEL'S WEEKLY.
- Cancelled.
- Envelope with stamps on it.
- To fasten stamps to a piece of mail.
- Imitation of a stamp.
- Stamp-issuing country in the Tigris-Euphrates Valley.
- Differences in color.

Vertical.

- Materials used in making stamps.
- British colony formerly issuing stamps.
- Charge for postage on a piece of mail.
- Color of stamps for international letter-rate.
- A pattern or variety of stamps.
- Word for "two" on several 19th Century stamps from Africa.
- Initials in the most widely used watermark.
- Paper used for U. S. stamps since 1879.
- Number of types of U. S. 3-cent stamps of 1908-1921.
- Abbreviation of "facsimiles of stamps."

All the words in this puzzle are of philatelic use. Go to it, ye puzzle-lovers, and look for the solution next week.

In view of the fact that the Home of the Postage Stamp is paying for space in which to exploit a cross-word puzzle, "Will O. W." will hold over to Jan. 5 his A. P. S. venture, intended for last week.

No, the WEEKLY has no idea of degenerating into an organ of the latest fad of the hour!

HAWAIIANS AT COLLECTORS CLUB.

Reported by CHARLES J. PHILLIPS.

A large gathering of members including a number from out of town had a great treat on Wednesday, December 3rd, when Mr. Ferrers H. Tows showed and described his fine collection of the Hawaiian Islands. The collection is in five volumes and every page indicates that it is the work of a real philatelist. Where possible Mr. Tows has endeavored to secure entire sheets in all settings, and where these could not be obtained he has endeavored to reconstruct all sheets and settings of important stamps. He also shows essays, proofs, cancellations, envelopes and stamps on covers. In fact, the tout ensemble form a philatelic history of an important section of the United States. The more important varieties that I was able to note are as below:—

1851-52. So called "Missionary" Issue. 5 cents. Type 1, used; Type 2, unused and used.

13 cents. Type A2, Var. 1. One of the finest used known.

13 cents. Type A3. So-called "Dice-Box" on part cover with the heavy bars cancellation.

These rare stamps are all perfect, and advanced collectors will know how hard they are to get in this condition.

1853. Kamchamcha III.

5c Thick white paper. Eleven in all and one of these is apparently from an unknown printing.

13c Thick paper. Superb plate of the twenty varieties consisting of blocks of 12 and 8.

5c on 13c in MSS., two used copies.

1855. Thin White Paper.

5c blue. 13 copies.

Then Mr. Tows drew our attention to the fact that he has this stamp clear double printed, both unused and used, the two coming from the Ferrary collection.

1861. Thin Bluish Paper.

Here the 5c stamps are divided into two groups by the papers.

1st, thin opaque paper.

2nd, thin pelure transparent paper.

The earliest printed stamps are in a very dark blue. A cancelled copy is shown with the postmark "A 98" that of the British Consular office in the Hawaiian Islands.

Reprints of the 5c and 13c.

The 5c was shown in sheets in three distinct printings. 1st—No retouches, 2nd—Several retouches, the chief one being an added line on No. 12 on the plate. 3rd—Is in a distinct blue shade, as compared with the ultramarine-blue of the other printings, this last printing is on small paper with much less margins than the two earlier reprints.

Re-issues of the 5c and 13c.

5c with "Specimen" shown in the three printings in sheets, and the 13c two sheets, with Specimen in 2 varieties one with and one without period after Specimen.

Kamchamcha IV.

A fine lot of the horizontal and vertical laid paper were shown, including a block of ten of the vertical laid. These were printed in Boston in sheets of 20 stamps.

The re-issue of 1869 which were engraved are shown in sheet of 15.

The Government imitations of 1885 are in sheets of 50 and are shown without and with "Specimen".

The Large Numerals or Inter Island Stamps are the real philatelic portion of this fine collection as Mr. Tows has plated them in all known settings as far as he has been able to get the material.

The rare 1c pale blue is shown in 8 types and the companion 2c pale blue no less than 8 used, 7 unused and a block of 4 which Mr. Tows says goes to prove the theory started by Mr. J. N. Luff that these were printed in groups of 25 and not in 10's as is generally the case in this issue. Mr. Tows showed one variety he claimed to be unique, the 2c with dropped stop after Cents.

Of the rare second setting of these pale blue stamps, called plate 2, he showed two copies of the 1c and one 2c.

In the scarce 2c black on grayish-white he has discovered no less than five distinct varieties of the raised large 2, and this stamp plated, is shown in the 10 types used and 9 unused.

The 1c black on thin grayish, plate 2, is shown in an uncut sheet of 10 varieties, and a fine tête-bêche pair.

The rare 2c black on greenish-blue (Duckegg color) is shown in 6 unused (one superb full gum) and the full set of ten types used.

Mr. Tows also showed a number of specimens that he calls plate 3, none of which will fit in plates 1 and 2.

The very rare 2c dark blue on bluish paper, he thinks is the hardest of these stamps to find in all the types. He has the 10 types unused and one used on very thick paper.

The 1c and 2c on white wove, plates 4 and 5 both complete. The 5c Hawaiian Islands at sides, the ten types unused and five used.

One of the rarest stamps shown was the 2c black on thin grayish paper, clearly printed on both sides, and from the Ferrary collection.

The 5c blue (H. I.) is shown in a block of eleven, and also in a block of 4 printed tête-bêche and said to be the rarest of these tête-bêches.

The 1c black on laid is an interesting stamp due to the number of varieties found in it. One reads on the left side "HA E" and others "H A" only. This was then reset but in the new setting a fresh variety appears, the "a" being left out of ISLAND.

The 1c black is also shown tête-bêche. In the 2c on laid a marked variety is one with the "S" in POSTAGE omitted.

The 2c is also shown tête-bêche. The 1c dark blue on white is shown in a block of 17 and the 2c in a block of 18,

Offers of all stamps in the following lists excepting British Colonies are on the basis of 20 to 33 cents on the dollar of catalog value, some at even less prices. The REASON is that we are selling out our general stock with a view to devoting our time in the future to British Colonies and U.S. almost exclusively. EMILY KING and both 1c and 2c in reconstructed ten types.

P. O. Box 753, HALIFAX, N. S.

The 5c with INTERISLAND on left is shown in a pane of ten consisting of five tête-bêche pairs, a very rare item.

I was glad to see that Mr. Tows had paid very special attention to the interesting printings by the National Bank Note Company, of New York. He drew attention to the fact that the 2c brown were printed in sheets of 100 and all other values in sheets of 50. Also that stamps should be divided into sets on ordinary and on very thin paper, and into printings by the gum which is very distinct.

He showed blocks of four of the 2c lilac-rose and the 5c pale blue imperf. between horizontally.

Another interesting point is that some of these stamps are printed both by The National Bank Note Co. and then the plates were handed to the American Bank Note Co. In some cases the latter firm put their monogram "A. B. N. Co." on the plate and it shows in the margins as in the 2c carmine, in other cases they printed from a plate without their monogram engraved upon it, such as the 5c deep blue.

The 25c, 50c and $1.00 have not been found on the thin paper.

The Provisional Govt. stamps of 1893 have been worked out on a grand scale and have well repaid the many years of study that Mr. Tows has given to them.

On some values he showed panes showing three distinct settings of the overprint.

No. 1, no stop after Govt on stamp, No. 6.

No. 2, with stop, No. 6.

No. 3, with stop but a different setting of the relative position of the words of the overprint.

Here are a few of the more interesting varieties to which Mr. Tows called our attention:—

1c blue, double overprint.

1c green, horizontal pair, one stamp without overprint.

"CARRIED BY ZR-3 on her maiden trip.

LEFT Friedrichshafen Sunday, Oct. 12, 6.37 a. m., German time.

ARRIVED Lakehurst, N.J., U.S.A., Wednesday, Oct. 15, 9.25 a. m., Standard time.

ACTUAL FLYING TIME: 81 hours, 17 min.

COVERED DISTANCE: 5066 miles."

Cards and letters are printed tri-colored and in the finest condition and will be the pride of each collector. The letters will be a document for the development of the airpost, for it will be impossible for the Zeppelin to make another maiden-trip across the ocean from continent to continent. Don't lose the opportunity! I will send free to any buyer on application No. 1/2 of the "Airpost Stamp" (40 pages, richly illustrated), which has just left the press!—Price on demand—(Dealers special prices).

In the beautiful issue of 1894 Mr. Tows drew attention to the fact that the 2c brown has many "retouches" in the first printing, but that these were all corrected in the second and common printing.

The 12c shows many "shifts" especially in the letters of REPUBLIC.

One volume was devoted to stamps on covers, first of all U. S. stamps of 1851 used alone, then the Hawaiian 5c on thick white paper and 5c on thin blue paper used in conjunction with the U. S. 12c black and with the 5c brown of the later issue.

Many other covers of later dates were also shown.

The Collectors Club is indebted to Mr. Ferrers Tows for one of the finest philatelic treats ever shown.

MARKET IN MODERN COLONIALS.

Malta.—The collector of slogan postmarks will have noticed that Malta is now advertising by this effective means, as a health resort which fact is one of the romances of modern medicine, as before this century the Malta fever made this spot most unhealthy, until it was accidentally discovered that the native goat milk, formerly in general use, was the chief source of infection.

The amount of mail dealt with has of recent years shown a considerable increase, especially since the granting of Self-Government, and the number of stamps used during the last year would surprise many collectors, who regard it as a "small" colony. This may be partly due to the increasing number of visitors. The stamps, however, excepting the low values, chiefly leave the islands, so that Malta itself is not a good place to get the higher values used. A fair number of obsolete mint issues were obtainable from the island dealers, but these stocks except the commonest, seem to be very low, whilst the high values, probably the world's best sellers, are very difficult to acquire. It is noteworthy that the price quoted for many obsolete Malts is higher in the foreign catalogues than our own. An interesting example is the 10sh Script, St. Paul, which is priced at 1,000 francs mint in the latest Yvert, whilst even the old CA 2s6d is 300 francs in mint condition, which price is equal to about £4, as the preface of this excellent catalogue states that the values were fixed on the basis of 75 francs=£1, and are subject to fluctuation with the gold exchange.

Another good stamp is the 5sh K. George without overprint. The shade of paper varies, but doubt has been expressed as to whether the genuine lemon exists. The normal stamp itself is elusive enough, and it is probable that its relative value is not yet indicated in the catalogues, and when obtainable nearly full catalogue is asked and paid.

India.—Comment has been made on the drastic reductions made on some of the current high values of India. It was only to be expected that these reductions should be made as large supplies of the K. George issues have been coming on the market for some time, from, it is alleged, unauthorised sources. Although these are mostly telegraphically used, the average collector does not differentiate between them, as long as they are nice copies with black postmarks, and certainly will not pay 10 times the price for copies with the perhaps heavier parcel post cancellation.

A few of the Edward O.H.M.S. stamps have been used up recently in conjunction with the Georgian service, and it is stated now, on good authority, that these are to be retired from circulation, and possibly overprinted, although it is to be hoped they will be quietly burnt.

Jamaica.—It is to be noted that the Jamaica "Child Welfare" stamps are not priced in the new catalogue. These were never sold in London through the Crown Agents, and the numbers printed were limited. The 2½d will doubtless turn out the best, as the printing (10,000) was very small for a low value, in a Colony that uses so many stamps.

The Cayman 4d.—It is stated on good authority that the current 4d Cayman Is. is not to be reprinted when it becomes exhausted, not being in much demand. It is not to be assumed, however, that it is likely to become scarce, as the 1st printing is given as about 26,000. One may profitably compare this stamp with an earlier stamp of the same colony, that had a similar history. That is the 4d K. Edward of 1908 which became obsolete long before the rest of the set. In this case, however, only about 2,400 were issued and the stamp, now very scarce, is constantly rising in value.

Egypt and Sudan.—Sudan and Egypt have recently been disposing of some wholesale lots of mostly used stamps, and prices for the recent and current issues of these countries are coming down. The two highest values of the King Fuad type are still rather elusive, but one need have no fear of the £1 value becoming a rarity owing to the denomination being changed to £1E, as the first printing, for so high a value, was a very generous one.

The acid test of a New Issue service come when provisional or other stamps with a very short life come along that cannot be conveniently ordered in London. When a stamp is only on sale a week or two, the firm that has a good network of local correspondents has a big pull. In the old days Peckitts was about the best known, when there were but very few others, and it used to surprise many how that firm used to distribute the rare provisionals like that of Cayman Is. ½ on 1d, at the usual percentage over face value; but nowadays there are new issue services to suit everybody.

Rhodesian Reminders.—Echoes of the Rhodesian remainders furor continue to appear, notably in the foreign press, some journals actually impute responsibility to the British Colonial Agents or Government and are evidently in ignorance of the status of the late B.S.A. Co. It is noteworthy that the prices for mint Rhodesians are rising, notably of the ever-popular 1910 issue, and a number of increases are to be seen in the new catalogue. It is often stated that the buyer of a remainder makes it his business to raise the market price by boosting and judicious handling of the stock. This has been done before and it will be interesting to see how the prices for these used Rhodesians ultimately settle down. At present many of them seem to have gone abroad, where they are being offered as genuinely postally used stamps. This is a mistaken policy as every collector has a right to know the actual status of the stamps he is offered, and if they have never actually done service he should be told.

There is a very healthy tone in the market and good stamps appear to be steadily rising everywhere, whilst in no department is this improvement and appreciation more marked than in the Market of Modern Colonials.—Philatelic Magazine.
